THE OLD GIVES WAY TO THE NEW

The days of a South Side landmark, the J. Fred Schmidt Packing Plant, are numbered with S. G. Loewendick & Sons, Inc. moving a crane in to make way for the Schmidthof. The proposed 24 unit apartment-townhouse to be developed at the Kossuth and Jaeger site by Sam and Bob Shamansky, Earl Sisson and Seyman Stern has been planned strictly "a la German Village" with the $350,000 Schmidthof, featuring a fireplace and balcony for each of the two and three-bedroom apartments and an indoor courtyard and off-street parking included. Assuring to Stern, of Sisson-Stern & Co., which is handling all lease agreements, the facility will be ready for occupancy by Oct. 1. At the house-breaking ceremony were (left to right) E. Benson Sisson, S. G. Loewendick, Bob Shamansky, Columbus City Council President William Moormie, Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner, Sam Shamansky, George Schmidt and Stern.

IS A FRIENDLY CALL ENOUGH?

The new neighbors will be glad to meet you. And they'll want to visit with you . . . later. Right now, they need something more—a list of schools and churches, utility companies' telephone numbers . . . all the information one needs on arriving in a strange city.

So be a friend indeed. A Welcome Wagon hostess will call at your request to provide all this and gifts as well.

'We Care' Observance Part Of Hospital Day

A "We Care" observance will be conducted at the Chillicothe Veterans Hospital by the Military Order of Cootie Auxiliary during Hospital Day to be held Sunday as the hospital marks its 50th anniversary.

According to Tippie Plunkett, 286 Zimpfer-st, of MOC, the "icebreaker" in the Recreation Hall scheduled at 10 a.m. is planned to demonstrate the appreciation of members of the armed forces who are serving in Vietnam by Hospital Day visitors.

THE HOSPITAL director, Dr. Sam Beanstock, has issued a general invitation for the public to visit the grounds converted from the earthworks of Camp Sherman to a "City of Care."

Exhibits of the vintage of World War I will be on display, a first aid exhibition is scheduled at 11 a.m. by Boy Scouts and an all-star girls' softball game is slated at 5 p.m.

Mrs. Plunkett states that the entertainment planned is secondary to the main objectives of the celebration which involve assurance to the patients their sacrifices have not been in vain, and exposure of youth groups to the vocational opportunities in the health field.

VFW and MOC posts interested in active participation are asked to contact George Williams, 3920 Aster-av.

DeMolay Mothers To Meet Tuesday

The Columbus Chapter of DeMolay Mothers' Club will elect officers at their meeting Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. Rudy LeMaster, 2746 Bernardette-rd, at 8 p.m.

Plans will also be made for a card party to be held May 16 at the City National Bank, 3100 W. Broad-st, at 7:30 p.m. Committee for the card party are: Mrs. John Rankin, 109 Demorest-rd; Mrs. Jack Hager, 769 S. Harris-av and Mrs. James Nagel, 503 S. Ogden-av.

Police Try To Bridge Gap To Inner City

The Columbus Police Department will try a new approach to bridging the communications gap between police officers and inner city residents.

Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner announced that beginning immediately, city police officers will appear upon request at meetings of service centers affiliated with the Columbus Metropolitan Area Community Action Organization (CMACAO).

The program formally began last week when policemen attended the monthly meeting of the Northside Service Center.

"The goal of this program is to win the hearts, minds and confidence of the people in the inner city areas, and to ultimately create a greater harmony between them and the police," the mayor said.

Ohio Elks To Hold Confab

More than 1,000 members of the 95 Ohio Elks Association lodges will be in town Thursday through Sunday for the 69th annual Ohio Elks convention at the Neil House.

Supreme Court Judge Paul M. Herbert, past exalted ruler of the Columbus Lodge of Elks, will be the principal speaker at Friday's 1:30 p.m. Memorial Service. Eulogies will be given for past state presidents Martin W. Feigert, Arthur E. Socin and Charles J. Schmidt, and the Boys Choir of Immaculate Conception Church will perform.

Ray Hawkins, exalted ruler of Columbus Lodge 37, said open house will be held at the local Elks Home, 1045 S. High-st, during the convention.

Whitehall, E-M Host Cinder Plums

By JACK WITTENMEIER
Spectator Sports Editor

With District sectionals and finals approaching rapidly on the cinder horizon, five "specials" and two league meets clutter the weekend track program.

Whitehall, Hamilton Township and Upper Arlington roll out the "welcome mat" Friday evening for respective Relay events while Eastmoor and Canal Winchester have lined up Invitational lists for Saturday.

THE TWO league meets will become history when Buckeye Athletic Conference schools converge on Delaware's Ohio Wesleyan oval Friday and Mid-Eight squads gather at Gahanna the next day.

The City League members—East and Brookhaven — will seek their chances for glory outside Franklin County. Lee Williams' Tigers journeying to the Chillicothe Relays while Mark Whitaker's Bearcats join the field at the Miami Relays —both scheduled Friday.

WHITEHALL RELAYS

HARTLEY, DeSales, Franklin Heights, Reynoldsburg, Carroll, North and Brookhaven will join host Whitehall Friday at the fifth annual Ram Relays—void this spring of defending champion Gahanna-Lincoln.

The Lions broke four existing records and tied a fifth while racing to a safe winning margin last year.

Besides trophies for the top two squads, the first three individuals in each event will receive cups with medals going to fourth and fifth place finishers.

ACTION begins at 5:30 p.m. with all events finals. Admission will be 75 cents for everyone.

Along with the 16 high school events, three 8th grade races (100, 880 and 880 relay) will be staged at Whitehall.

Here are existing records:

MILE — Ken Schwartz (Walnut Ridge), 4:27.6, '65; 440 — Ron Doran (Gahanna), :51.3, '66; 100 — Bob Glover (Gahanna), :10.2, '65; 120 HH — Chuck McNeal (Brookhaven), '65 and Mike Bokros (Gahanna), '66 — :15.0; 880 — Dave Lehman (Westerville), 2:02.6, '66; 220 — Mike McCalla (Westerville), :22.6, '66; LJ — Bob Glover (Gahanna), 22' 4¼", '64 PV — Terry Robb (Gahanna), 13' 4¾", '65; SP — Nelson Bobb (Gahanna), 53'10", '66; DISCUS — Fred Browning (Gahanna), 153'2", '66; HJ — Dave Thomas (Hartley), 6' 3¾", '64; 180 LH — Mike Bokros (Gahanna), :20.8, '66; MILE R.—Lancaster, 3:35.1, '64; 880 R. — Westerville, 1:32.8, '63; TWO-MILE R. — Walnut Ridge, 8:17.8, '65; SHUTTLE HURDLES — Brookhaven, :58.6, '65.

E-M INVITATIONAL

HOST COACH Vince Cahill has lined up another fine list of entrants for the eighth annual running of the Warrior Invitational Saturday.

This 14-team lineup will participate in the E-M Invitational: Buckeye Valley, Central, East, Eastmoor, Elgin, Fairfield Union, Hartley, Johnstown, Linden, Marion-Franklin, Mt. Vernon, South, Walnut Ridge and Whitehall.

THE WARRIOR Invite should unfold some classy races in several events, especially the two-mile and 100-yd. dash.

Competing in the two-mile will be Elgin's Larry Jones (9:30 flat, topped all "AA" runners at Mansfield Relays this spring), Mt. Vernon's Bill Frederick (9:51:6) and Eastmoor's own Dave Lewis (9:50).

The 100 competition will find three of the City League's top sprinters—Linden's Larry Davis, South's Rich Bolden and East's Tom Watson (all sub-:10 runners) — perhaps previewing the finest at the upcoming City Meet-dash.

Bob Bateman's Bulldogs edged East, 49½ to 46, for honors last spring but face a stern task this weekend—no E-M Invitational champion ever repeating in the seven-year history.

IN FACT, South is the only team to have won the Invite title twice ('64 and '66).

Action at E-M begins at 2 p.m. with the field events. Prelims (and semi-finals) in the 100, 220 and both hurdle events kick off the running line-up at 2:30.

Track finals go under the lights at 7 p.m., the final event (mile relay) scheduled for 8:35.

Here are the existing Invite marks in the regular 15-event program:

HJ — Tim Wilson (South), 6'5¾", '65; LJ — Ralph Marinello (Brookhaven), 22' 6", '65; DISCUS — Dave Rybolt (Delaware), 152' 4½", '63; PV — Jim Clark (Eastmoor), 12' 6¾", '63; SP — Grady Bobb (East), 55' 2¾", '65; HH — Doug Rodibaugh (E-M), :14.7, '66; 100 — —George Trammell (Central), 9.7, '64; MILE — Ken Schwartz (Walnut Ridge), 4:22.9, '65; 880 R. — Central (Fenderson, Lyons, Winton, White), 1:30.9, '65; 440 — George Trammell (Central), :49.9, '64; 180 LH —Doug Rodibaugh (E-M), :19.7, '66; 880 —Darrell Myers (Fairfield Union), 1:58.8, '66; 220 — George Trammell (Central), :21.4, '64; TWO-MILE — Eric Burbage (Linden), 10:25, '66; MILE R. —Lancaster (Seifert, Nungessor, Kendrick, Upp), 3:24.4, '65.

MID-EIGHT MEET

THERE'S BEEN a definite familiarity about the Mid-Eight League's cinder champion for the past four years—Ed Rarey's Gahanna-Lincoln Lions.

And Rarey's crew looks like the prime favorite to pick up title number five-in-a-row Saturday as the hosts entertain Hilliard, Grove City, Groveport, London, Marysville, Westerville and Mifflin.

Eight new marks were set and a ninth equalled last spring as Gahanna won with a 20-point margin on runner-up Hilliard.

FIELD EVENTS and running prelims will get underway at 4 p.m. with track finals set for 7 p.m. Admission will be $1 for adults and 50 cents for students.

The winning team will receive a trophy, first, second and third place individuals will be awarded medals while fourth and fifth place winners will get ribbons.

Here are the league's existing records:

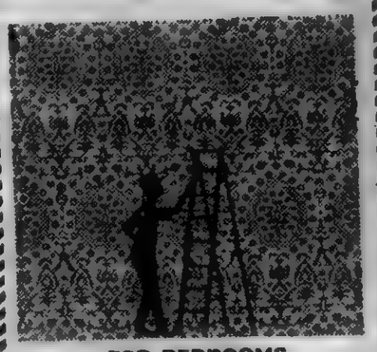
BAC MEET

ONLY EIGHT and one-half points separated the four loop squads last spring as Delaware captured the first BAC cinder crown.

Delaware's 60 markers overcame 58 for Grandview, 56½ for Bexley and 51½ for Urbana.



The defending champs will serve as hosts Friday on Ohio Wesleyan's oval but the early favorite looks like Clark Lawrence's Bobcats from Grandview.

THE BAC MEET, which will include all 15 regular track and field events, begins at 2:30 p.m. with all events finals. Admission will be 50 cents for everyone.

Here are the records the boys will be shooting for:

LJ — Phil Cotrell (U), 19' 4½"; HH —Joel McKown (G), :14.3; D — Ray Moore (U), 123' 2"; 100 — Rick Weber (B), :10.55; MILE — John McIntyre (G), 4:40; 880 R. — Bexley (Paul Shultz, Carl Friedland, Paul Davis, Randy Glick), 1:34.2; 440 — Phil Cotrell (U), :52.5; SP — Steve Tillson (D), 48'8"; LH — Joel McKown (G), :21.9; 880 — Mike Watson (G), 2:04; 220 — Rick Weber (B), :23.0; HJ — Ogg (U), 5'8", PV — Dick Evans (D), 12'0"; TWO-MILE — Andy Watson (G), 10:25; MILE R. — Bexley (Paul Shultz, A. J. Myers, Randy Glick, Paul Davis), 3:37.4.

CARRY BEXLEY'S BAC HOPES

Bexley's hopes for success at Friday's Buckeye Athletic Conference track meet will fall heavily on the shoulders of these eight Lion cindermen. Coach Russ Owen's thins should be especially strong in the hurdle events with Glenn McAllister and Bill Reynolds (standing at left) competing for the Lions. Other top efforts should come from (kneeling, from left) A. J. Myers, Carl Friedland and Matt Ungar and (back, from left) Dennis Maupin, captain Paul Shultz and Tom Erwin.

Six CCL Marks Broken As DeSales Heads Pack At Half

The Central Catholic League's decision to stage weekly cinder meets to upgrade competition has apparently paid off this spring.

DeSales (3-0) is the leader at the half-way point, followed by Hartley (2-1), Ready (1-2) and Wehrle Memorial (0-3).

BUT THE big news is the fact that six CCL cinder marks have been broken during the three double-meet competition.

Defending loop champion DeSales lays claim to five of the new records (Steve Gross — :53.3 in 440; Steve Sharrock —:22.0 in low hurdles; Dave Bonas — 10:15.7 in two mile; Jim Stafford — 20' ½" in broad jump and Jim Johnston — 132 ft. in discus).

Hartley's Mike Owens' 2:07.6 half-mile represents the fifth new standard.

LEADING CCL scorers at the half-way mark are: Steve Sharrock (DeS), 40; Steve Gross (DeS), 38; Kevin Astley (H), 28; Bob Fowle (H), 22; John Bennett (R) and Jim Zeier (R), 21 each and Craig Wingo (H), 19.

Hartley, which hosts the league competition each week has set two new school marks (Mike Owen's 2:05.5 half-mile and Dan French's 44' 5½" shot put) and tied a third (Paul Jones' :23.3 220).

Track Results

Only Bexley's 82-44 dual victory over Hartley and Gahanna's 79-48 verdict over Hilliard found area cinder squads on top during last week's oval action.

Bruce Baker (both hurdle events) and Al Strickling (mile, 880) paced the Lions in their win over Mid-Eight foe Hilliard.

BOB FOX (440), Chris Lohrman (880), Dave Shawaa (shot), Jim Schoene (disc), Bob Holderman (PV), George Klaflin (two-mile) and Academy's 880 and mile relay crews gained firsts but it wasn't quite enough as Canal Winchester edged the Vikings, 66-61.

Kevin Astley's double win (180, 220) went for naught as Walnut Ridge clipped Hartley, 76-51.

The Hawks also lost to CCL foe DeSales, 82-45, with Craig Wingo (BJ) and Hartley's 880 quartet (Mike Finks, Paul Jones, Dan Davis, Astley) picking up the lone Hartley firsts.

WHETSTONE (69½) nipped East (62½) in a triangular with Whitehall (28).

Dale McCampbell (BJ), John Jones (HH), Tom Watson (9.9—100), Eugene Hadden (880), Phil Cousins (shot) and Dave McReynold (discus) took firsts for the Bengals while Butch Sark (HJ) collected the Rams lone win.

Third was the best any area squad could finish in a heavy weekend schedule of "specials".

WALNUT RIDGE took the third (33 pts.) behind winner Hilliard (57) at the Wildcats' Invitational. Rick DeFourney (880) and the Scotties' mile relay crew (Lee Winkleman, Jack and Roy Barber and DeFourney) collected the W-R firsts.

Terry Miller (BJ) and Irv Christenson (two-mile) gained blue ribbons but Reynoldsburg had to settle for fourth place (23) at Heath's invite (won by the hosts with 45 pts.)

Fred Browning took a first in the discus and Chuck Bosse a second in the high jump as Gahanna placed tenth (10½) at the tough Bellaire Relays, won by Warren Harding (37 pts.)

EAST'S MILE relay quartet (Deryl Cochran, Tom Watson, Eugene Hadden, Trent Harris) turned in a first-place time of 3:24.6 at the Dayton Relays but Lee Williams' squad had to settle for an eighth place finish (15) behind winner Dayton Roosevelt (43½).

Surprising East Putting Up Gallant Battle For CL Flag

By BOB WHITMAN
Spectator Staff Writer

The jam up at the top of the City League is getting tighter and tighter with three teams locked—in a tie for first place (West, Linden and Marion Franklin) and four teams in second place (Whetstone, East, North and Walnut Ridge).

Those odds don't suit Paul Pennell and his battling East Tigers, who have turned mostly a sophomore and junior club into a City contender.

"That plus the fact that Eastmoor (an Eastside rival) is fast improving," Paul said.

THE BENGALS (6-2) have been getting some muscle at the bat from Erkie Byrd, Eddie Ratleff and catcher Garnett Davis. Byrd and Ratleff are pitchers.

"I expected those three to do some hitting for us this year and we are getting some offensive improvement from a few others who I didn't think would come as fast," Pennell offered.

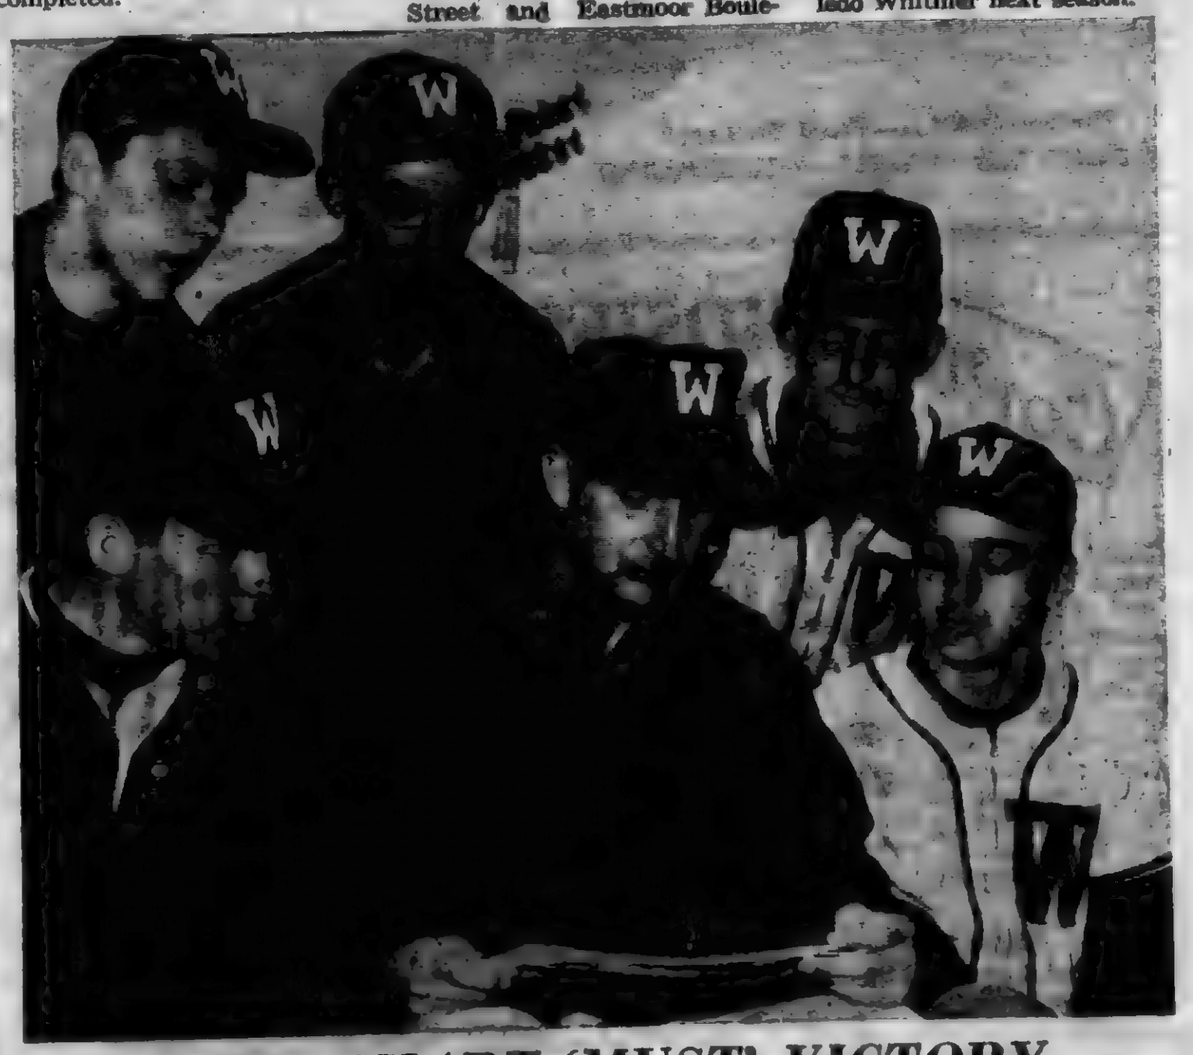
MENTIONED IN that elite group are glue-gloved second sacker Bob Humphries, Jasper Whatley and Joe Smith, one of the swift Tiger outfielders.

Paul listed his defense as the most disappointing part of his group's game thus far as errors cost East a couple of close games.

A DELIGHTFUL addition to the East infield was Roger Neighbors, a sophomore who has delivered some clutch hits lately to beef up the East High slugging average.

Backing up Byrd on the mound has been sophomore-deluxe Ed Ratleff, who spun some early wins with a strong curve and fast ball.

The City loops will begin the second half of the title race in a week after the Central District Class AA tournament is completed.



IMPROVEMENT

Seven out of ten teachers interviewed in a National Education Association survey said that teaching as a profession has improved in the last five years.

E-M Wrestlers To Wash Cars

Area Drivers with dirty autos are guaranteed plenty of elbow grease via a clean-up job Saturday, May 13, when Eastmoor High's wrestling squad will conduct a car wash at the Eastmoor Gulf Station (Main Street and Eastmoor Boulevard.)

The Warrior grapplers will be washing cars for $1 per car) from 1 till 5 p.m. Monies earned from the wash will help send the E-M matmen to a 16-team wrestling tourney at Toledo Whitmer next season.

RAMS CHART 'MUST' VICTORY

Council OK's Staff Changes

City Council Monday night approved several changes in personnel that will allow for additional holiday time, paid overtime and extended sick leave for all Worthington city employes.

Acting on recommendations of personnel director (city manager) George Shapter, Council's approval will mean time and a half pay for all authorized overtime. Prior to the change, employes were paid "straight time" or given compensatory time.

Another change okayed by Council is the addition of one half day to holiday vacations before Christmas and New Year's Day unless the holiday falls on Sunday or Monday.

A four-day limit was placed on paid sick leave. However, the change will allow for employes to take time off due to the death of a brother-in-law or sister-in-law. Prior to the move, leave was granted only for the death of immediate family or mother-in-law or father-in-law.

In other action, Council:

• approved construction of multi-family dwellings on a 3.2 acre tract of land at Proprietors Road and Pittsfield Drive. The tract is being developed by James Hoffman of Village Green Realty in Worthington. The rezoning had been approved earlier by the Municipal Development Commission.

• tabled a second request for apartment rezoning on a tract at Wilson Bridge and Galena roads. The tabling came at the request of developers. The MDC disapproved this rezoning.

Lions Plan Eye Clinic

The Worthington Lions Club will sponsor a free eye clinic for all five-year-olds in the Worthington Public and Parochial school systems May 15-18 at the Worthington branch office of Park Federal Savings and Loan, 777 High-st.

Using a modified clinical approach, residents in ophthamology from Doctors Hospital will conduct the visual acuity test to determine the exact sight ability of a child, the cover test to determine if a child's eyes are working as a pair without strain, the skiametry test to determine if a child is near-sighted or far-sighted and an inspection for organic problems.

The Lions report that thousands of children have 50 percent or less of normal vision but never complain because they don't know what good eyesight is.

Open Housing Drive Shaping Up

By ROBERT TENENBAUM
Managing Editor

A quiet but determined open-housing drive is gaining momentum in Columbus.

And while the drive is still in its formative stages, opposition is already materializing among old-line residents in at lease one all-white suburb.

PRINCIPALS IN the effort are keeping relatively quiet, hoping they can bring about integration of all-white neighborhoods in an orderly fashion, avoiding the conflict and hard feelings which have characterized similar drives in some other major cities.

But somewhat more openly leading the effort is the Columbus Civil Rights Council which has been holding discussions on the housing situation in Columbus for some time. Also taking an active role is the Housing Committee of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, which for some time has been relatively inactive.

The idea behind the campaign is to open all-white areas to Negroes and other minority groups which heretofore have been excluded despite financial ability to live nearly anywhere in the city.

"WE'RE INTERESTED in changing the climate and attitude of our area so that it will be receptive to anyone who can afford to live here," said one spokesman who is active both on the Council and in one of the area open housing groups. "We are talking about fair housing, not forced housing."

Up to now, the suburban groups have been involved in what they term a "self-education" campaign, studying open housing drives in other cities in an effort to prepare for what seems to be an inevitable conflict here.

None of the groups is believed to be ready to make any dramatic move, such as attempting to find a home for a Negro family in one of the target communities.

THE GROUP will apparently attempt to make only a token move at first, moving one or perhaps two Negro families into previously all-white residential areas.

"If we can accomplish even on a minor scale some opening, the area's realtors and others will be forced to face the reality that the entire community will be open," a spokesman said.

[illegible] if nothing is done to open housing in the community in the near future, the community will be lost for years to come.

"COLUMBUS HAS a great opportunity to be witness to a great demonstration of the fundamentals of democracy," one leader said. "I just hope it won't pass it b "

The Civil Rights Council is also considering launching another drive to strengthen the state's Fair Housing Law, passed in 1065 by the 106th General Assembly.

That law, which climaxed a three-year fight for an open housing law, banned discrimination only in larger housing units, exempting owner-occupied single-family dwellings from its provisions.

Worthington Student Named OSU 'Outstanding Senior'

Ten Ohio State University seniors — five men and five women — were honored as "outstanding seniors" at the annual President's Student Leadership Recognition Dinner on campus last week.

Among the students honored was Thomas C. Sawyer, 267 Blandford in Worthington.

OSU President Novice G. Fawbett made the presentations at the dinner in the Ohio Union to designate these students "deemed to have made the greatest contribution to the University in terms of leadership, scholarship and service."

This year's awards mark a departure from the previous six years when one man and one woman were chosen from 10 previously announced finalists.

Sawyer is a political science major. He has served as a senator on the Freshman Senate, chairman of the Student Affairs Commission of the Student Senate, president of Ohio Staters, Inc., and undergraduate representative to the Council on Student Affairs.

He was tapped for sophomore, junior and senior men's honoraries. He was a camp director for the 1965 YM-YWCA Freshman Weekend.

GARDEN NOTES

Joyce Loughman, Editor

Well, here is one amateur who is delighted with daylight savings time. If it had not stayed light so long last Friday night my family would never have been heard from again.

The grass in that yard was growing at the rate of at least 22 feet per day, and getting thicker and heavier by the minute. So I mowed it. One bad thing about starting so late, though — you have to keep going — no stopping to do all of the unplanned things. But when Saturday dawned dark and rainy and the grass was being tracked into the house I am afraid that I sighed in relief.

Sunday afternoon turned out to be rather pretty but chilly —a perfect day for picking a bouquet of lily-of-the-valley. And what a wonderful lift they do give after a rain. So sweet and dainty, but they are taking over the complete lily bed. So I am sharing them with anyone who will wait while I get the shovel. Oh, I know, I am doing it all wrong — never try to move them while they the blooming. I have never found out why this is supposed to be true because no matter when I move lily-of-the-valley pips they continue to grow.

Sunday, after church, I made the rounds of several of the garden centers in our area. It was still cold and very windy but what a marvelous sight it was. Ongaro's on Olentangy River Road had so many beautiful bedding plants — Portulaca, Sweet William, petunias, Oakland Nursery was my next stop. And that is always wrong for me. Gus can talk me into "just one more rose" without even trying. So I added John F. Kennedy to my collection. Next week I am going to get Flaming Peace and replace my Golden Masterpiece which winter killed. Straders was my last stop for the day. Ruth and Jim have such a delightful store on Route 33 at Bethel Road.

The Club Doctor

By Muriel Miles

DEAR CLUB DOCTOR: Do you think enough women want to be bothered with membership parties during the vacation time? I know some clubs DO have drives during the summer. Would you say "no soap" to this type of affair or is it worth the effort?

PLANNER

DEAR PLANNER: Yes, if it's 99 and 44/100 percent LURE — an effortless complexion to compete with the heat.

Most people can go away on vacation only two or three weeks. The rest of the summer, with school out and meetings over, they have little on their calendars.

After awhile relaxing becomes taxing.

Put yourself in your potential member's swimsuit. You receive an imaginative invitation to a pool party. Not only does it sound like fun, but someone's even offered to take you there.

You witness an entertaining program while the club gets its message across: you're wanted and needed. But you're glad they won't ask you to give up your summer pace for another month or two. So you join.

When you're after new members, there's no need to work yourself up into a lather. Just gently massage your prospective's ego.

Kirchhofer Recipient Of Scholarship

One of nine Ohio State University East Asian language students who are recipients of scholarships for further study at summer language institutes is Worthington resident James C Kirchhofer, 224 Chaucer-st.

Kirchhofer, a, senior in political science, will attend the CIC Far Eastern Language Institute at the University of Michigan with a National Defense Foreign Language Scholarship for intensive second-year Chinese.

Kirchhofer, 24, is a 1960 graduate of Walnut Hills High School in Cincinnati and plans to enter government work.

Leadership, Not Lies

Ohio has reached a critical stage in state financing and what is needed at the moment is leadership and not any more lies.

Ohio has survived four years of Governor Rhodes' phony "no new taxes" philosophy, an atmosphere he generated which was probably partially responsible for the defeat of his ill-conceived Ohio Bond Commission proposal.

Rhodes was banking heavily on a big win for his OBC, which he would have them interpreted as a mandate from the voters to levy new taxes, not only to help finance OBC projects, but to meet already existing deficits in other state programs. He tried to dupe the voters with OBC.

Now the defeat of OBC has Rhodes and his legislative leaders in a big stew over what to do. The answer is so simple that it will escape Governor Rhodes who never does anything directly that he can do by contrivance.

When this newspaper endorsed Rhodes for re-election it did so on the thesis that he got the state into its current mess and he should be the one to get it out.

The Ohio Constitution makes it quite clear that the governor is the one who submits a budget to the legislature and also recommends the means by which it will be financed. Rhodes has already submitted a budget, one which he knew and the legislature knew was only a pot boiler until OBC was expectedly approved.

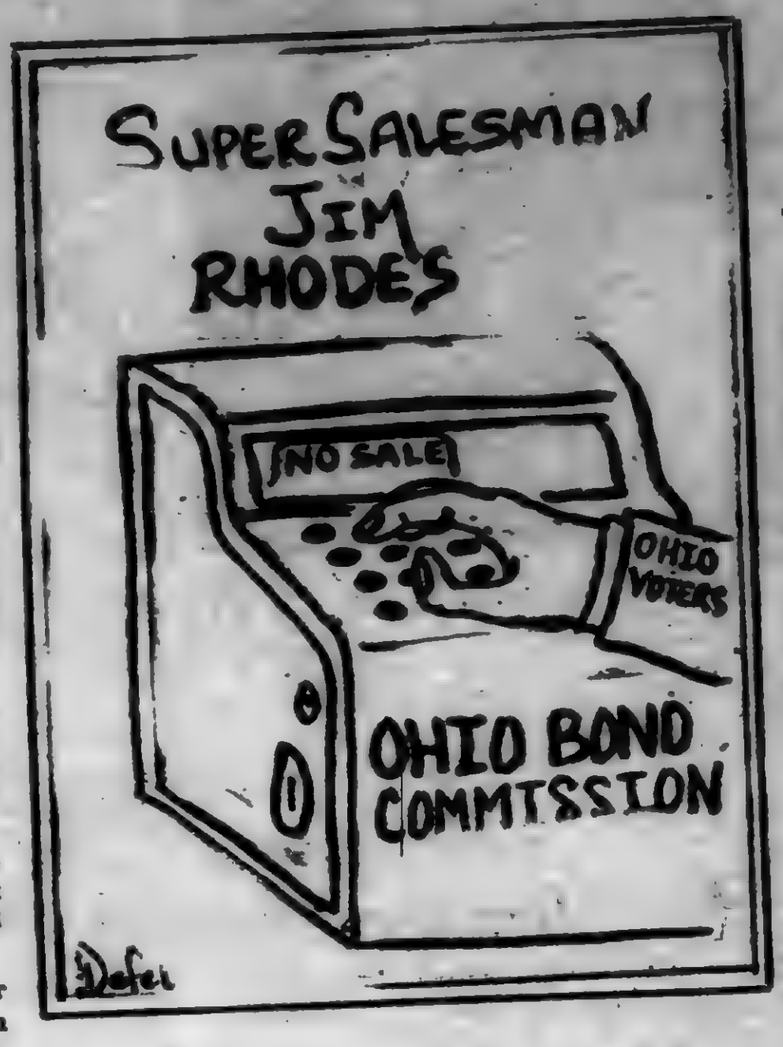
The people of this state and any responsible newspapers left in it should now demand that Rhodes abandon his huckstering approach to state government and send to the legislature a realistic budget based on needs and then have the courage to tell the public what it is going to cost.

This is the stuff of which great governors are made, not by press releases and false promises of future greatness. And not by hiding behind study committees.

It will only cost a few added pennies on a pack of cigarettes to finance a bond issue for higher education and other needed capital improvements. Ohio does not need a bridge across Lake Erie, or an airport in every county, or any state-financed major league stadiums.

What it does need is some honest government and a governor with more courage and less hot air.

More Of The Hokum



Public officials in this state have come to play so fast and loose with the truth that it would take a full-time staff just to catch all the hokum.

Latest example of same is a news story which quotes President Vernon Alden of Ohio University with blaming a proposed increase in college tuition on the failure at the polls of Governor Rhodes' Ohio Bond Commission proposal.

Alden knows full well that if an increase is needed it is because the present administration has not had the leadership or courage to provide additional funds for state supported universities. And he also knows the defeat of the OBC did not have a damn thing to do with it.

If Alden and the other state university presidents want to do something to further higher education let them speak out of their needs instead of playing puppets for the Rhodes administration. Some of that "non-tax" money they ponied up to promote the OBC would have been better spent on faculty salaries.

Alden does himself and Ohio University a disservice when he mouths such party-line lies.

OBC: Looking Back

By ROBERT BURDOCK
Editor and Publisher

BURDOCK

Now that the dust has settled over the debacle of the Ohio Bond Commission a look back is in order.

Why did it get beaten so badly? Especially when it looked like it had everything going for it?

First of all, it was a lousy proposal and there are some things you just can't shine.

Secondly, as this column predicted several weeks ago the voters were barraged with a massive overkill of high-priced, but insulting propaganda. They smelled a rat.

Third, and finally, the voters of Ohio are a lot smarter than Governor Rhodes gives them credit for being. Rhodes has done nothing but promise since the day he took office and hasn't delivered yet. A lot of people are still waiting for the things promised in the last three Rhodes bond issues.

Rhodes got his proper lumps with the OBC rout and the slavish Ohio press got set back on its editorial ear. Only two newspapers in the state opposed OBC, ultra-conservative Congressman John Ashbrook's Johnstown Independent and the somewhat more liberal Spectator Newspapers.

The opportunistic Democrats who went into the tank with Rhodes will get their eventual comeuppance. Rhodes has no use for anyone he can buy cheaply and the regular Democrats can close ranks without them.

If the defeat of Issue One was a victory for anyone it was a victory for the voters of Ohio and it is indicative of the public's mounting distrust of medicine man politics and public relations reporting.

The state legislature is foolish if it reads this Rhodes set-back as a repudiation of state needs. Given an honest statement of the needs and honest answers to the problem, the voters of Ohio have never turned their backs.

Tax Director Replies

To The Editor:

From time to time, particularly during the tax filing period, a few individuals make public statements expressing their views about Federal Income Taxes. We are most fortunate to live in a country whose constitution guarantees the privilege of freedom of speech. It is unfortunate, however, when a few individuals in exercising this right make statements which can be misleading and, if not carefully examined, might persuade people to lose confidence in the administration of public laws, including our Federal Tax laws.

Some individuals are heard to say that they neither file a return nor pay income taxes and in fact encourage others to do likewise. Others say they file an income tax return but do not include their tax payment. Actually these individuals do pay the full tax for which they are liable and the public should know they do. However, because of the strict statutory provisions which rightfully protect the tax matters of an individual from disclosure, individual cases cannot be discussed.

People making these statements generally fall into one of the following categories:

- Those who do not have sufficient income to incur a tax liability.
- Those who pay by means of taxes withheld from their wages, and
- Those who do not remit payment with their tax returns, but either pay it upon receipt of the first notice of tax due, or include a note stating where the money is on deposit for tax collection.

Ninety-seven percent of the income tax in the United States is voluntarily reported and paid. This is a tribute to the integrity and patriotism of the American citizen which is unmatched by any other country in the world. This overwhelming majority who believes in supporting a government which insures their freedom should know that those few individuals who say they feel no such obligation are dealt with firmly and in no way escape the payment of income tax when a tax liability is incurred.

Public confidence in the integrity of our tax system and in equitable enforcement of the tax laws is an invaluable asset that must be protected, preserved and maintained. In order that the hundreds of thousands of conscientious taxpayers in our Cincinnati District will not be misled by the statements of a few, I want to assure them that we in IRS are dedicated to administer and enforce the Federal Tax laws in such a manner as to merit their confidence and respect.

leo rennert ★ A Californian Looks At Rhodes—V ★

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fifth in a series of articles on the administration of Gov. James A. Rhodes written by Leo Rennert, staff writer for California's McClatchey Newspapers group).

Of all Ohio state services, mental health is widely rated as the No. 1 victim of Gov. James A. Rhodes' tight fiscal policies.

"Our mental hospitals are a stinking disgrace," said Prof. George W. Albee of Western Reserve University. "We are truly the state that does not care."

During the last five years, Albee reported, there has been a 26 percent decline in the number of psychiatrists in state hospitals, a 38 percent drop in psychologists, a 27 percent decrease in social workers and a 17 percent reduction in nurses.

Yet during this interval, he added, there has been a "sizeable" increase in admissions.

"The desperately inadequate situation in our tax-supported universities is nothing compared to the desperate situation in our Ohio state mental hospital system," Albee declared.

Mental health programs in wealthy Ohio, he remarked, are now in the same "poor quality" league as those in Arkansas, Georgia, South Carolina and West Virginia.

State Rep. Frank R. Pokorny, D-Cleveland, minority leader in the lower house, estimated Ohio's mental health services have "retrogressed 10 years" under Rhodes.

"And it will take another 10 years to get back on our feet because we haven't been able to attract competent professionals," he added.

"Our mental health program has reverted to the Dark Ages."

The Ohio Mental Health Federation reports the state's national ranking slipped from 17th to 35th in the number of physicians in state hospitals per 100 patients, from 13th to 36th in the number of general professional staff and from 45th to 50th in the level of state expenditures.

The state government's biggest investment was in 1961, when $70.4 million in state funds were earmarked for mental health.

In 1965, the comparable total was $68.8 million.

During this interval state collections from relatives of the mentally ill rose from $7.4 million to $10.6 million.

"In the area of needed mental hygiene personnel, we intend to be competitive," the governor said in his second inaugural address.

If Rhodes really means it, Thomas H. Nichols, assistant executive director of the Ohio Mental Health Federation, estimates it will take a budgetary increase of at least $30 million a year "to get just fairly good coverage."

Rhodes has given no indication that he is prepared to be that generous.

Nichols reported low salaries have created a "serious exodus problem" as professional personnel leave for better-paying positions in other states.

Longview State Hospital in Cincinnati had 42 openings last year for psychiatric aides, he said, "but they couldn't fill them because Indiana, 15 miles away, was paying $100 more a month."

Nichols noted the daily cost per patient in Ohio institutions was $5.57 in 1965.

At one facility — in Massillon — it was $3.75.

"I've visited a lot of these places and it's rather disheartening," Nichols said.

"But I'm not planning to go to Massillon. I can well imagine what it must be like.

"After all, how much help can you give for $3.75 a day?"

barry goldwater ★ Bridge Burner Brezhnev ★

GOLDWATER

Soviet Russia's Party Chief Leonid Brezhnev has done his level best to burn the bridges we have been trying to build toward friendship with his government. It is a safe bet, however, that this administration will not smell the smoke, see the flames or even catch its breath as it plunges through the bridge itself.

What Brezhnev did was, in effect:

1—Offer the hand of friendship to dissident Red China in order to get together on more direct and efficient aid to the Communists whom we are fighting in Vietnam.

2—Pledge that the Soviet Union will do its best to get the most effective weapons into the Vietnamese war.

The task of defeating the United States appears, to the leader of the Soviet Union, to be more important than the earth-shaking argument it has been having with Red China. Brezhnev has reminded Communists everywhere that no matter how much they may disagree on this or that, they all should agree on the primary task at hand; defeating the United States.

That this defeat is now aimed at the Vietnam battlefield is just tactical. The strategic concept of communism has never changed by an inch: to defeat the United States, destroy its present form of government and economy wherever and whenever possible. If Vietnam did not offer a handy battlefield, they'd find another.

The stark wording of Brezhnev's statement, delivered in an address to the East German Communist Party, is in this unmistakable paragraph:

"Help for Vietnam would be significantly more effective and the fiasco of the adventure of the imperialist aggressors would occur much earlier if a comprehensive unity of action of all socialist countries, including China, for planning and for practical aid to the fighting Vietnamese people could be achieved."

Part of Russia's concern is obvious. They are afraid that the administration cannot forever justify to the American people letting the enemy have a sanctuary in the harbor at Haipong.

I have predicted for some time that blocking that harbor is an inevitable development of the war. It is not a question of whether, but only of when.

If that happens, Russia is faced with a long overland problem in supplying the Vietnamese Communists with weapons which comprise the enemy's main means of waging war. If that happens, Red Chinese resistance to overflights from the Russian supply depots at Alma Ata and Irkutsk must be overcome. Thus, the Brezhnev plea for a unified war effort against America.

william s. white ★ Well-Wishers Difficult ★

WHITE

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, who for weeks has been trying to walk softly and so abate the overexposure which has already caused declines in his poll rating, is finding it far easier to cope with adversaries than with excessively doting well-wishers.

Repeatedly, he has disclaimed any Presidential ambition for next year for two sound reasons:

It would be just short of a total impossibility to take the nomination away from President Johnson, assuming he chooses to stand for re-election. And even could Kennedy overturn the convention by some miracle, the sure consequence would be so savage a division within the Democratic party as to make any resultant nomination the kiss of death.

All this is as appreciated by the Senator's mature associates as it is by the Senator himself.

But Kennedy's troubles lie not with his responsible backers but rather with zealots whose understanding of political reality is nil.

Undeterred by his own stated wishes, hot-eyed extremists, notably within anti-Vietnam war fringe groups, are persistently agitating for Kennedy to get in there in 1968.

They do not stop at "demanding" a Presidential ticket headed by Kennedy. They also "demand" that his running mate for Vice-President be Sen. J. William Fulbright of Arkansas.

The most severe critic of Fulbright's tireless attacks upon the bipartisan policy of resistance to the Communist invaders of South Vietnam need recant nothing to absolve him of any dreams in this direction. For however damaging his errors on Vietnam may be, he is far too sensible, as is Kennedy himself, to encourage this absurd notion of king-making. For on nearly every one of the major domestic issues, Fulbright stands poles apart from Kennedy.

This is poignantly true on civil rights. Here Kennedy is an advanced advocate; and here Fulbright has a record of total opposition to every real reform that has been enacted.

But the same people who seek to promote Kennedy are associating him in the public mind with an irresponsible extremism on Vietnam which he does not share and which in fact is unfair to him.

True enough, he has frequently been a critic of Vietnam, and sometimes he has approached the outright dove position of such Senators as Fulbright. Yet, he is no mere peacenik — though this is precisely what the zealots are presenting him to be.

They plump for Fulbright, for illustration, despite the towering fact that no Democratic convention could possibly put him on a national ticket without repudiating the party's entire record on civil rights and a good part of that record even on the welfare program of recent years. They are for Fulbright, in short, solely because he is "against the war in Vietnam."

The latest is the "St. Louis Citizens for Kennedy-Fulbright," which demands the repudiation of President Johnson's Vietnam war policy lest the Republicans "sweep the 1968 elections" as a peace party. This overlooks the demonstrable truth that the G.O.P. generally is more hawkish on Vietnam than are the Democrats.

To suggest that Kennedy could possibly accept so crude a formula for success is not only to degrade him but unjustly to indict him as a wholly self-seeking politician. And yet, this is the measure of his present problem.

Foster Parents Sought By Methodist Home

The need for foster homes for children at the Methodist Children's Home in Worthington has been announced by Dr. Harry F. Baker, superintendent.

He explained that the school age children who cannot return to their own homes at the present time need a normal family setting where there is "tender loving care."

Although $65 a month is paid to the foster parents, Dr. Baker emphasized the service is not a money-making program.

Anyone interested is asked to call Dr. Baker at 885-5020 or write him at P.O. Box 68, Worthington, 43085. A case worker will call at homes of prospective parents to explain the program.

DO YOU HAVE A DEGREE? FCWD IS LOOKING AT YOU

The Franklin County Welfare Department needs a hand.

In fact it needs 240 of them, the help of 120 more staff members that must be found during the crash recruitment program announced by Tom Brittenham, director of Franklin FCWD.

THE MOST urgent need is for caseworkers to fill vacancies in districts where 6,500 persons are rapidly becoming merely names on the roles instead of individuals with faces and personalities.

Still more caseworkers are demanded to bring down the overall case load to more nearly conform with the federal order that no social worker shall try to cope with the problems of more than 60 families. (Currently the average "intolerable" load is around 100).

Although Katherine Sullivan, chairman of the crash effort, is the first to admit salaries alone (from $4,900 to $6,600 for a college degree which is mandatory and $6,000 to $11,760 for a master's both of which are subject to upgrading) aren't going to lead to her door being stormed, she believes few jobs today are more challenging than the ones she's holding out.

OVER HALF of the 40,000 persons on welfare in Franklin County today are children. The adults that are caring for them are usually not lazy as the cynics like to believe, but uneducated, unskilled, unemployed, sometimes sick or disabled — and they need help.

Where is this help — that ordinary channels of recruitment hasn't been able to come up with going to come from?

One source of qualified workers is believed to be college women whose home responsibilities have lightened as their children have grown-up and now are free to turn part of their energies to the community instead of their homes.

ANOTHER 15 MEN, perhaps middle-aged, who feel deadlocked in their present career and want to turn to one not only more personally satisfying but where maturity is respected and age not a millstone.

Recent graduates are also being sought — young persons ready for rapid advancement and ready to accept the challenge of service.

Although the door is open to anyone under 60, Mrs. Sullivan stressed good health is a necessity.

"THIS WORK is rough," she stated, "that the worker has to be able to take it."

Explaining that although usually two days a week are spent in the field, she stated that a car is not a necessity. Assignments are available in neighborhoods available to public transportation.

Anyone with a degree (a prerequisite set by civil service) who believes he or she has the skill, imagination and dedication required is urged to write or call the personnel department of FCWD, 46 E. Fulton-st, phone 221-1211.

Scouts Launch Membership Drive

The future of Girl Scouting in Franklin County and Central Ohio will go on the line May 15-21 when the Seal of Ohio Girl Scout Council begins a membership drive to raise $25,000 to support scouting activities in a 15-county area.

The enrollment drive will seek contributions from scouting parents and friends of scouting and, when possible, sustaining memabrships to provide continuing operating funds.

Results of the drive will affect 27,000 girls in the area, 17,000 of them in Franklin County.

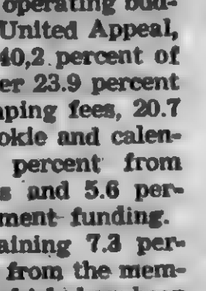
The largest part of the Scouts' $343,000 operating budget comes from United Appeal, which provides 40.2 percent of the total. Another 23.9 percent comes from camping fees, 20.7 percent from cookie and calendar sales, 2.3 percent from gifts and grants and 5.6 percent in development funding.

But the remaining 7.3 percent must come from the membership drive, which has been approved by United Appeal.

"The enrollment enables the council to balance its budget when normal income sources fail to provide enough money to support the basic Girl Scout program," said Herman Schumm, 930 Seymour-av, general enrollment chairman.

While Scouts parents pay all Scouting expenses for their girls, the Council still had to provide $60,000, for instance, over and above fees received to operate its camps in 1966. Funds are also needed to create new troops and train leaders.

An example of the new troop program was the creation last year of a scouting program in Urbancrest, the all-Negro village just outside Columbus' southwestern city limits. "Fun In The Sun" projects for underprivileged children were carried out at Sunshine Park, Goodale Park and Franklin Park last year.



The Council has jurisdictim in Adams, Delaware, Fairfield, Fayette, Franklin, Highland, Hocking, Jackson, Madison, Pickaway, Pike, Ross, Scioto, Union and Vinton counties. It operates Camp Ken-Jockety in Franklin County and six other camps in the area.

During next week's drive, more than 200 adult volunteers will contact former scouts, friends of scouting, relatives of Girl Scouts, former sustaining members and persons expressing an interest in youth work.,

Membership contributions will also be accepted at the Council office, 170 N. High-st.

Rev. Winkler Cited By Council For 'Outstanding Contributions'

By BOB WHITMAN
Spectator Staff Writer

Rev. Augustine Winkler, pastor of St. Timothy's in Columbus, received the Catholic Interracial Council's annual St. Martin DePorres award for his "outstanding contributions in the field of social justice" Sunday morning.

Guest speaker at the breakfast held at the St. James the Less Parish Hall was John Oliver Killens, author of "Black Man's Burden."

Killens' speech preceded the 11th CIC award.

Killens followed the theme of "journeying in freedom's express toward the truth" by saying that this century won't be remembered by "who reached the moon first or who built the bigger bomb but it will be recorded as freedom's century."

"No price is too great to pay for freedom, this is the meaning of the turmoil that has shaken this earth recently.

"This nation has made such a mad dash to gain riches that it has overlooked the social dignities along the way," he said.

Today some Negroes are criticized for not following the script written by the white Americans.

"If I were to write a story about Malcolm X it would be a love story for he isn't a racist and he gave his life so others could live more abundantly."

On other leaders he said: "Muhammad Ali (Cassius Clay) has to be admired because of the courage of his own convictions to give up everything for a belief.

"But something like that might be too much for white America," he added.

He predicted that leader Stokley Carmichael could be assassinated any day. But these men are accepting the challenge "to mount a crusade."

COLLEGE BOUND

Some 167 Ohio high school seniors have been given a financial boost for college on being named winners of National Merit Scholarships. Students were chosen on the basis of test scores, high school achievement and leadership qualities. Grants ranged from $100 to $1,500 a year.

RILEY HEADS C OF C

J. Ralph Riley, center, of Suburban Motor Freight, Inc., will serve as chairman of board of directors of the Columbus Area Chamber of Commerce this year. Looking over the coming year's projects with him are vice-chairman W. H. Yahn of North American Aviation (left) and Chamber President Elmo L. Roberts.

Evangelist At Coliseum And Central

JOHN HAGGAI

John Edmund Haggai, who is leading the Greater Columbus Evangelistic Crusade nightly at the Coliseum through May 28, is presenting his famous lectures "How to Win Over Worry" daily at 12:10 p.m. services at the Central Presbyterian Church, State and Third.

Haggai who had a nervous breakdown as a young minister, believes his formula for tranquility is important in the world today where one of every six people suffer from psychological stress. (His theories are widely known through his book "How to Win Over Worry.")

Although his speaking is more in the style of a stand-up comedian than a preacher, and his appearance has been compared to that of a wrestler or a Hollywood personality, he states, "I would be miserable dong anything other than preaching the gospel."

Before coming to Columbus at the invitation of local churches and Christian leaders of most denominations, Haggai and his team of evangelists were heard most recently at their crusade in San Jose, Cal.

District, Loop Meets Attract Thins

By [illegible]
Spectato Sports Editor

[illegible] have postponed attendance at the myriad of "cinder specials" on the local scene this spring are practically down to their last opportunities.

Outstanding track performances have come by the bucketfuls this season and seem likely to reach a zenith when this week's card (three league and District meets) become history.

"A" AND "AA" Sectionals kick off this week's offerings this afternoon — the general result paring the fields for Saturday's District shows at Worthington ("AA") and Gahanna ("A").

The final three league meets of the spring — City, Central Catholic and Metropolitan—are crowded into a busy afternoon and evening Wednesday.

DISTRICT MEETS

DICK LARKIN'S Arlington Golden Bears and Harold Miller's Carroll Bulldogs will fill defending District champion slots at Saturday's AA and A meets respectively.

Arlington, which outdistanced runnerup Hilliard (54-28) last spring, will be gunning for its third straight District cinder cup.

The Bears still have a long way to catch up with the dominance of all-time (since 1926) District champion Columbus Central, however—Pirate thins gaining District honors 18 times in the past 40 years (last time in 1964).

EAST HAS won the District title seven times and North six times. In fact, the latter trio shared the District laurels between them a rousing 30 times twixt 1926 and 1959.

UA looms as a heavy favorite to pick up that third title, however, on the basis of a long line of sparkling efforts this spring.

Four standing District records have been bettered this season to date with Arlington's Tom Trainer (14' 5") in pole vault), Hilliard's Pete Miller (186' 11" in discus), UA's Glenn Kohl (6' 5" in high jump) and Whetstone's 880 relay foursome of Bill Ismon, Jim Huber, Randy Pfeiffer and Bruce Kaplan (1:29.8) showing the way.

"AA" DISTRICT competition will get under way at 1:30 p.m. (field events, straight through finals) at Worthington's Nelson Field. Running prelims (all events but half mile, mile and two-mile) start 30 minutes later.

Running finals are slated under the lights at 7:45 beginning with the high hurdles and continuing with the mile relay.

Admission for the prelims will be 50 cents (everybody) and $1 for the finals (everycody.

QUALIFIERS for the "AA" Regional Meet (scheduled following weekend at Worthington) will be determined by dividing six into the number of five-man teams entered in all sectional and District Meets.

Both Southeast and North Canton District will join the Central District for Regional Competition.

The Central District field for Saturday's meet will include the top four finishers in each event from "AA" Sectionals conducted at Arlington, Brookhaven, Whetstone and Walnut Ridge this afternoon (16 contenders).

HERE are the existing "AA" District records:

PV — King (Hilliard), 13' 8½", '63; LJ — Hairston (Central), 23' 9½", '51; DISCUS — Miller (Hilliard), 177' 10", '66; SP — Johnson (Marysville), 58' 3", '63; HJ — Kohl (Arlington), 6'4", '66; HH — Fields (Worthington), :14.4, '65; 100 — Trammell (Central), :9.7, '64; MILE — Myers (Fairfield Union), 4:19.4, '66; 880 R. — East, 1:30.1, '63; 440 — Trammell (Central), :48.8, '64; LH — Wood (Circleville), :19.3, '65; 880 — Myers (Fairfield Union), 1:54.9, '66; 220 — Smith (Central), :21.5, '49; TWO-MILE — McIntyre (Grandview), 9:37.1, '66; MILE R. — Whetstone, 3:21.6, '65.

HERE'S THE lineup for the "AA" Sectionals today (3:30 p.m.):

AT BROOKHAVEN — DeSales, East, Linden, Mifflin, Gahanna, Mt. Vernon, Newark, Northland, Utica, Westerville and Brookhaven.

AT ARLINGTON — Delaware, Buckeye Valley, Grandview, North, Hilliard, Marysville, Central, South, London and Upper Arlington.

AT WALNUT RIDGE — Bexley Eastmoor, Hartley, Marion-Franklin, Hamilton Township, Whitehall, Fairfield Union, Groveport, Lakewood, Reynoldsburg and Walnut Ridge.

AT WHETSTONE — Worthington, Franklin Heights, Ready, West, Grove City, Pleasant View, Teays Valley, Washington Court House, Circleville and Whetstone.

THE "A" District Meet opens at Gahanna-Lincoln with prelims (2 p.m.) Saturday. Finals are slated for 7 p.m.

Three contestants from the hurdle events and four each from the remaining 12 events will compete in the "A" District

"A" Sectionals were held yesterday afternoon at four sites.

HERE ARE THE EXISTING RECORDS:

HH — Midiam (Pleasant), :14.6, '65; DISCUS — Summeriot (Richwood), 166' 10", '65; HJ — Hershberger (Arlington), 22'13¼", '37; 100 — Davis (New Holland), :10.0, '59; MILE — Bob Daniels (Big Walnut), 4:31, '66; SP — Kelly (Bremen), 52'4", '62; PV — Shelton (Pleasant Local), 12'1", '61; HJ — Love (Cols. CITY MEET LEAGUE FANS who thought last spring's edition was a thriller just might be in line for more of the same Wednesday when the 12-team CL lineup steps off at Marion-Franklin.

The Red Devils, who hosted last year's CL show, are subbing for Central, whose all-weather track is still under construction.

City prelims will open the three-day meet Tuesday (field events begin at 4 p.m., running events 30 minutes later), giving way to varsity finals Wednesday (field events at 5:45 p.m., running finals at 6:30) and Reserve finals (4 and 4:30 p.m.) the next afternoon.

LEE WILLIAMS' East squad is defending champion after nosing out South (44 to 38¼) last spring—the Bulldogs losing out in the final (mile relay) event when a Reb runner suffered a pulled leg muscle during one leg of the race.

Both Tigers and Bulldogs are strong contenders again this season, along with West, Central and Whetstone.

The latter Braves, who finished fifth last spring, could well be the team to topple, based on their showing so far this season.

PERHAPS most interesting of all 15 CL events could be the 100-yd, dash where no less than six contenders figure to make the winners' circle a tossup in pre-meet tabulation.

Larry Davis (Linden), Tom Watson (East), Rich Bolden (South), Tim Biggers (West) and Whetstone's Bill Ismon and Bruce Kaplan all are capable of finishing under :10 clocking which promises to make that event a dandy.

Best bets in the record-breaking department look like the two-mile (West's Chuck Starkey has been better than 30 seconds under the existing time this spring) and both 880 and mile relay events.

WHETSTONE'S talented 880 quartet of Ismon, Kaplan, Jim Huber and Randy Pfeiffer clicked off a breezy 1:29.8 the recent Bearcat Relays (better than full second under existing time.

East's crew of Deryl Cochran, Tom Watson, Trent Harris and Eugene Hadden have bettered the mile relay record by spinning off a 3:24.6 at the recent Dayton Relays but should have plenty of competition from foursomes representing both South and West.

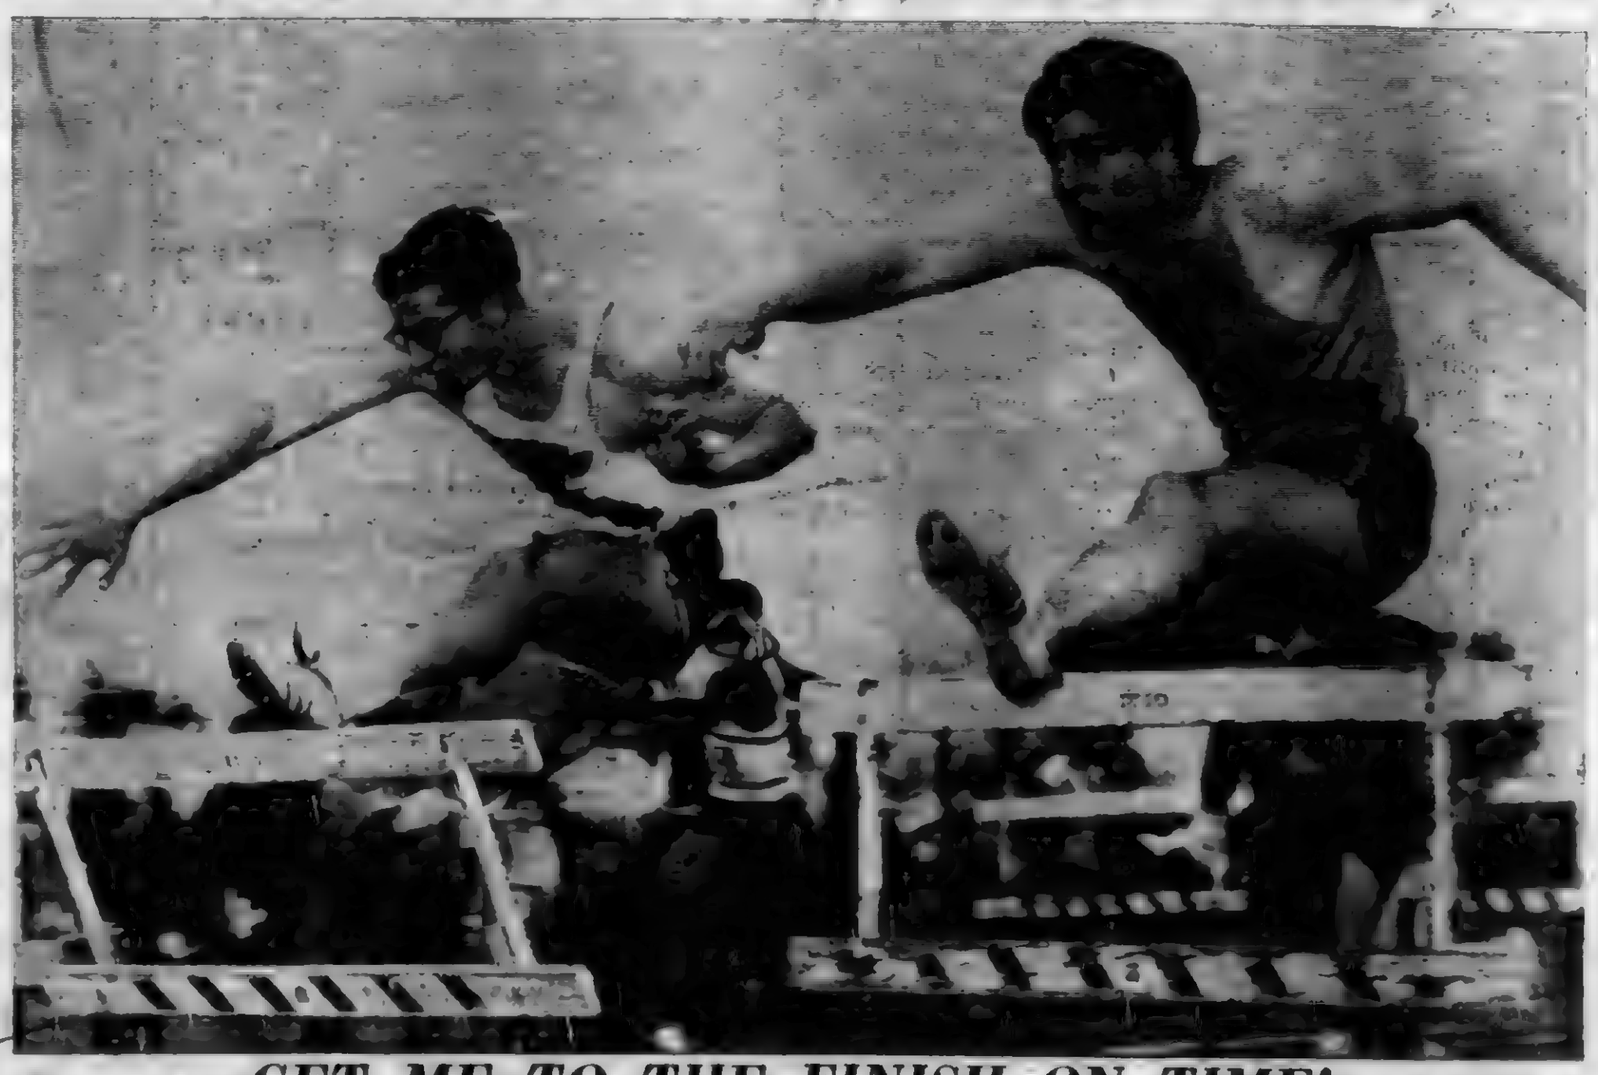
Attending the City League Meet will be: South, East, West, North, Central, Brookhaven, Whetstone, Walnut Ridge, Eastmoor, Marion-Franklin, Linden and Northland.

CL MEET awards will consist of a medal on plaque for all first-place finishers and medals for second through fifth places. Team trophies will go to the first and second-place finishers.

Here are the existing City Meet records:

100 — Espie (East), :9.8, '66; 220 — Smith (Central), :21.4, '49; 440 — Trammell (Central), :48.6, '64; 880 — Willis (Eastmoor), 1:57.7, '65; MILE — K. Schwartz (Walnut Ridge), 4:23.8, '65; HH — Rodibaugh (E-M), :14.5, '66; LH (CURVE)—Weinrich (North), :20.0, '52; LH (STRAIGHT) — Marinello (Brookhaven), :19.7, '65; 880 R. — South (McCall, McDonald, Latham, McQueen), '66 and North, '45 — 1:30.9; MILE R.—East (Moore, Gordon, Mathews, Bailey), 3:25.7, '64; SP — J. Furry (West), 6' 3½", '58; LJ — Washington (East), 23' 7", '65; 2M — P. Meyer (Whetstone), 10:18.2, '64.

CCL MEET



DEFENDING champion DeSales which outdistanced runner-up Ready (81 to 39½) last spring, looks like a heavy favorite to rack up a repeat Wednesday on the Hartley oval.

Forrest Sharrock's Stallions, who currently lead the regular CCL dual league, figure to top Ready, Hartley and first-year entry Wehrle Memorial when action (4 p.m. for field events, 4:30 for running) gets under way.

DeSales also seems likely to lead an assault on several existing CCL records if the weatherman cooperates and provides a fast track.

HERE ARE the existing CCL marks: LJ—Dave Thomas (Hartley), 19' 1½", '65*; HH — John O'Neill (Ready), :16.0, '65; 100 — Mike Santy (Hartley), :10.4, '65; MILE — Rick Lannon (DeSales), 4:47.3, '65; TWO-MILE — Dave Bonas (DeS), 10:35.3, '66; 880 R. — St. Charles, 1:38.0, '64; 440—Steve Greene (DeS), :53.6, '65 LH — Dick Hoffman (St. Charles), :22.4, '64*; 880—Rick Lannon (DeS), 2:10.1, '65; 220—Jack Lothamer (St. C.), :23.1, '64; MILE R. — Hartley, 3:44.2, '65; SP — Bill Kearns (DeS), 129' 4", '65; DISCUS—Bill Kearns (DeS), 129'4", '65; PV — Kevin O'Brien (DeS, '66) and Vic Martenson (Ready, '65) — 12'; HJ — Dave Thomas (Hartley), 6'2", '65.

GET ME TO THE FINISH ON TIME!

THE SPECTATOR SPORTS

CINDER SUMMARY

Powerful Upper Arlington continued to boost its stock as District favorite last week, capturing both the Golden Bear Relays and the Central Ohio League Meet — each title impressively.

Dick Larkin's crew accomplished the feats in usual fashion, winning eight events at the Relays and nine at the loop meet.

QUARTER-MILER Denny Dicke (:48.9) and pole vaulter Tom Trainer (14'3") established best state efforts of the spring in their events at the UA Relays.

Glenn Kodi won the high jump while Chuck Palmer (180), Jerry Cameron (2:16), Bruce Curtis (1:56.6 half-mile, new record) and UA's mile relay foursome (Bryan Blackwell, Curtis, Jon Dodrill and Dicke) supplied other Bear firsts.

Arlington won the event with 84 points, easily outdistancing runnerup Whetstone (39). Worthington, with 16½ markers, took seventh place.

WHETSTONE'S 880 relay quartet (Bill Ismon, Gary Kepp, Jim Huber, Bruce Kaufman) turned in a record-breaking 1:29.9 effort while Huber added a low hurdle win and Randy Pfeiffer chipped in with a 220 first.

Worthington's brightest spot was two-miler Ralph Lowery, whose 9:33.1 effort also snapped an existing record at UA. In all, seven relay records were shattered.

Kodi (HJ), Trainer (PV), Curtis (880), Dick Hall (two-mile), Steve McLean (mile), Dicke (440), Cameron (LH) and both mile and 880 relay crews earned firsts at the COL. Meet, providing UA's 91-69 badge on runnerup Zanesville.

RECORDS fell or were tied in all events except the low hurdles, 220 and pole vault as Grandview replaced Delaware as Buckeye Athletic Conference champion, 70 to 45½.

The Bobcats won eight events, including a two-victory effort by sprinter Bob Fain (100, 220).

Dick Miller (LJ), John McIntyre (mile), Andy Watson (two-mile), Bob Schorr (PV), Steve Hicks (SP) and Grandview's mile relay unit earned other BAC victories.

BROOKHAVEN outdistanced seven other schools to capture the Whitehall Relay title, gaining eight firsts enroute to victory.

Scott Armstrong (LJ), Darrell Chevalier (shot, discus), Scott Wallick (HH) and Gene Erwin (440) got the Bearcats' individual firsts while 4-H two-mile, mile and shuttle-hurdle relay teams also won.

The mile relay unit of Bill McCurdy, Tom Rumora, Erwin and Tom Shoaf snapped the existing mark with a 3:34.9 effort.

STEVE SHARROCK (HJ) and Tom Beshara (mile) picked up Dobbins' firsts at the Relays.

Brookhaven also took a JVIH (39 pts.) at the Hilltop Relays earlier, won by East (71), Chevalier (SP) and Larry Hughes (PV) earned Bearcat wins.

In dual action, Whitehall topped Worthington, 72-52. Ralph Lowery (mile), Dave Ricks (880), Rob Carter (HJ) and the Cards' mile relay crew (Ronnie Beathem, Ricks, John Titus, Dave Bennett) took the firsts for Worthington.

WILDCAT discus-flinger par excellence Pete Miller set a new Nelsen Field mark with a throw of 180'9".

Pat Meyer (mile), Al Clifford (two-miler), Randy Pfeiffer (440) and Barry Kopp (880) gained individual firsts but Whetstone (64) finished behind Gahanna (74) in a quadrangular with South (47½) and North (9½).

Northland dropped a pair of dual tests — to Walnut Ridge (97-38) and Pleasant View (75½ to 59½).

CHRIS WEMS (LJ and HJ) was the Viking standout vs. W-R while John Pearcy (shot, discus) was a two-event winner vs. P-V.

Elsewhere, Walnut Ridge downed North, 76-53, with Clifton Harris (100, 220), Adam Dailey (LJ), Rodger Vest (LH) and Skip Dunn (HJ) picking up the Polar Bear firsts.

TRIO ACHIEVES STATE 'BESTS'

These three record-breakers at last week's Upper Arlington Relays carved a special niche for themselves in state-wide cinder competition by claiming the best Ohio efforts of the year in their respective event's. UA's Denny Dicke (left) sped to a swift :48.9 quarter-mile victory while West's Chuck Starkey (center) lowered the state-wide mile time to 4:21.2 and Arlington pole vaulter Tom Trainer cleared the crossbar at a lofty 14' 3". RICHARD L. PAUGH

The day dawned bright and brisk with powder-puff clouds scudding across the sky. Crowds started to gather at 9 a.m. and by 11, you had to turn sideways to get through the unhurried masses.

PAUGH

Through the scene, harried workers were doing their best to lay sod, fix lights, set tables, water shrubs and bring in supplies.

THE occasion was the Grand Opening of Burr Oak Lodge on the crest of a hill overlooking an awakening lake full of fish and people looking for them.

This was a doubly exciting day for visiting outdoorsmen. The second feature was a Beat-The-Pro fishing contest put on by Dick Kotis, president of Arbogast Baits in Akron and Dan Armbruster, Chief of Ohio's Division of Wildlife. They were on hand to fish Burr Oak Lake and put their catch up against all comers.

As it turned out, neither Dick or Dan—after casting almost 12 hours — came up with a keeper. It stands to reason there will be many live bait dunkers who beat them.

They stuck strictly to artificial lures.

My hat's off to them for their sore wrists and dogged determination.

MEANWHILE, back at the Lodge, Governor James A. Rhodes was presiding at the ribbon-cutting ceremonies which officially opened the glamorous yet rustic hostelry overlooking some of Ohio's most beautiful country.

Guest rooms (starting at ten bucks), dining rooms and verandas all look out over the watery vistas interlaced by native hardwoods and banks of blooming dogwoods.

On surrounding hills are 20 two-bedroom housekeeping cabins, each with complete facilities and screened porches. The main lodge has 60 units, indoor pool, coffee shop and main dining room.

HERE, surrounded by 2,158 acres of playland and 644 acres of water, is a facility that rivals a Miami Beach hotel within whistling distance of home and at a small percent of any comparable commercial watering place.

The new drive from the main highway into the lodge was dedicated in the name of the late Gordon K. Bush — publisher of the Athens Messenger.

A PORTEND of things to come could be found in the Governor's speech. He only mentioned the Ohio Bond Commission seven times—as though he himself were tiring of the subject and running down.

Don't feel bad Governor Kotis and Armbruster got skunked.

New Men Lend Watterson Early Helping Hand

By BOB WEITMAN
Spectator Staff Writer

Watterson's Ron Shay is keeping busy improving the 1967 Eagle diamond lots and the youthful Shay's troopers have reeled off three in a row including a pair of tourney wins.

Shay, however, wasn't ready to claim the win over Worthington as one of strong baseball playing. "We lucked this one out," Ron said of his Eagles' 6-5 come-from-behind win last week.

Watterson's improvement since the lid-lifter is classed by Shay as the ability of his unexpected material to come around earlier than he thought.

In the hitting category, Mike Igoe has posted a pair of triples that has meant the difference between victory and defeat in the last two outings.

Igoe boomed a three-bigger to unseat CCL leader Hartley and dropped Worthington with the same type of blow.

In the pitching division, it has been John Biddle. Said Ron: "We figured that he would come but he has advanced more than we thought."

Bill Hauck is the leading Watterson slugger thus far this season. Hauck handled first base for the north-side schools.

"Bill is hitting pretty well and has been most consistent," Ron said.

TOURNEY NOTES: The Central District Class AA baseball tournament gets into the final round Friday with the two district winners battling in the Regional at Gomer May 19 and 20.

Teays Valley exited the tourney warfare with a 12-0 defeat at the hands of Grove City last week. Canal Winchester dropped a 12-4 decision to always-rugged Liberty Union . . . Mark Wylie's Liberty Union crew has amassed 63 wins against six defeats in his four years at the L-U helm. Former Liberty Union star Jim Reed, who pitched the Baltimore team to back-to-back state crowns is now assistant coach.

Pleasant View ousted South for the tourney firing with a 2-0 verdict. Thus hard-luck Bob Nolan dropped his eighth game, six of which were by two runs or less.

Jets Continue Home Stand Vs. Chiefs, Wings

The Columbus Jets looking more each day like a strong International League pennant contender this spring, continue their second home stand of the new season tonight with Syracuse at 7:30 p.m.

The Jet-Chief battle will mark the season's first "Family Night" which finds gate prices reduced to $1 for men. 75 cents for the ladies and no admission price for chidren accompanying parents.

Rochester's Red Wings arrive Friday evening (7:30) for a four-game series which continues Saturday (7:30) and concludes with a big Sunday (1:30 p.m.) doubleheader.

The Jets hit the road Monday for Richmond and Jacksonville, returning home Monday, May 22, to open a three-game set with the former nine.

Internationals Top Pro-Wrestling Card

The "Internationals," a tag team of Australian Al Costello and German Kurt von Brauner will oppose "Flying" Fred Curry and Red Lyons in the pro-wrestling feature tonight at Cooper Arena.

Other bouts on the card (begins at 8:30 p.m.) include: Big Bill Miller vs. Tokyo Joe, Igor vs. Art Thomas and Chief White Owl vs. Ivan Kalmikoff.

Johnson Paces LAFB Judoists To Victory

Highlighted by Tony Johnson's seventh tournament victory in a row, the Lockbourne AFB Youth Judo team snapped up nine places in a recent tourney sponsored by the Springfield YMCA.

Johnson, a consistent winner in the 100-lb. class, was joined in the victory circle by Ross Freeman, Jerry Housand, Tom Cannon, Melvin Jackson, Willie Durham, Mike Burdat, Jaime Guerno and Robin Guerno.

Corbett, Kearney Added To 'No-Hit' Club Roll Call

Call is some mysterious magnetic force, or the weather or a dozen other things but—for the second time this spring—back-to-back no-hit efforts have been recorded.

Latest entrants to The Spectator's exclusive "No-Hit Club" came last Friday when St. Mary's Phil Corbett turned in a 4-0 whitewash job on New Albany and Central's Dick Kearney set down Northland (3-0) without a safety.

Corbett and Kearney thus became members 20 and 21 in the growing Spectator Club.

Corbett will receive his second "No-Hit Club" certificate (sent by The Spectator via pitcher's coach), the Ram southpaw also, no-hitting Rosary (2-2) on Apr. 21, 1966.

Only other club repeater is ex-Franklin Heights pitcher Mickey Pless who hurled three no-hitters last spring.

THREE ACT DRAMA AT UA RELAYS

There was more drama than might have met the eye in this thrilling conclusion to the mile relay event at Friday's Arlington Relays. The Golden Bears (via Dennq Dicke, center) won the event in 3:24.6 while Whetstone (via Randy Pfeiffer, at right) placed a very close second (3:25.0). A little bit of extra curricular drama was provided by the young man at the left of the picture who's frantically attempting to provide a limp finish tape for the pair after the string broke as the duo headed into the stretch.

A 'QUEEN' IN OUR BOOK

Nancy Pleasants got no escort to her royal position at Saturday's Mid-Eight Meet but the Gahanna-Lincoln junior was a "queen" in her own right, braving the elements to act as Meet coordinator for the running finals. Despite such unregal garb as a wet parka and a trusty umbrella, Nancy managed a smile which only proves it is indeed "a brave, new world."

Help Us Find New Checker Insignia!

The Spectator Newspapers set out today to solve a problem for the Columbus Hockey Checkers. But we need your help!

The Checkers, already laying plans for their second IHL season here, need a new insignia for their uniforms. That's where you come in.

THE CONTEST is open to all elementary and secondary (high school) students in Ohio. The requirements are only two: (1) submit your design and/or sketch on 8½" by 11" standard paper—or a reasonable facsimile and (2) have your entry postmarked by June 15, 1967.

Entries which will be judged by "The Hockey Hounds" (the Checkers' special promotion squad), Spectator Sports Editor Jack Wittenmeier and WLW-C TV Sports Director Jimmy Crum, must be mailed to: Columbus Hockey Hounds, P.O. Box 91, Columbus, Ohio 43216.

The best thing about this search for a new Checker insignia is that every contestant is a winner. Each entrant will receive a free ticket to a Checker home game.

THE WINNING design and/or sketch, which will be worn by the Checkers, will provide the designer with a pair of season tickets for all Checker home games next season and a red blazer jacket similar to that worn by the Hockey Hounds—with the insignia on the jacket!

The judges' decision will be final and all entries become the property of the Columbus Checker Hockey Club.

Letters, further outlining the contest, will be sent to all school principals and art teachers in Franklin County.

That's all there is to it! Start work on your design today and when it's completed, mail it with the entry blank you see below.

KEEP THE Checkers the best-dressed team in the International Hockey League!

'Golden Leisure' Not Out For Chit-Chat

By JANE ROBINSON
Spectator Staff Writer

An audience, gathered to celebrate the 80th birthday of Somerset Maugham, listened attentively when he hesitated after saying there are many virtues in growing old.

But they became uneasy as his "pause for effect" lengthened.

JUST AS they became certain he was ready to collapse, he looked up and said, slyly, "I'm just — trying — to think what hey are."

Even from an aging literary lion, there was a tinge of bitternoon in his humor.

But for millions born before 1902 (statisticians in their mysterious ways have set 65 as the time when one graduates from middle-age) the lack of virtues in their later years leave room for not even a tinge of humor in their bitterness.

They have found themselves out of the "mainstream of life" and know traffic isn't about to stop and let them back in.

ADMITTEDLY, they aren't floated out to sea on a cake of ice.

But within a society where compulsory retirement is standard at 65, social security dollars have little in common with a two-way stretch and a "spare bedroom" in a son's or daughter's house is scarcer than a whooping crane, the words "don't pass me by" carry a very particular meaning for those past their fifties.

Recently a couple of dozen persons in Urbancrest banded together, calling their group the Golden Leisure Club.

"ANOTHER CLUB for senior citizens?" some might say. "So what! Such chit-chat clubs are a dime-a-dozen these days."

A decade ago such a brush-off may have been justfied.

But no longer.

When President Johnson asked Congress in January for further aid for the 19 million American citizens over 60 he stated, "Our goal is not merely to prolong our citizens' lives, but to enrich them."

CLAIMING THAT OLD age is too often a time of "lonely sadness" when it should be a time for "service and continued development," he urged appropriations toward these goals.

And it is to these ends that the Golden Leisure Club has been formed.

Miss Maryellen Meredith, director of the Columbus Metropolitan Area Community Action Organization's County Service Center which is sponsoring the club, states its aims are educational, spiritual, cultural and recreational.

SHE IS NOW preparing an application for a $5,000 federal grant to help the group under her wing, in President Johnson's words "develop new interests, acquire new knowledge, find new ways to use leisure hours."

(Although the County Centr director admits she is an incurable idealist, she is also a practical one and halver the government's suggestion that she apply for $10,000 She well realizes that matching local funds—20 percent—are hard to come by where bake sales and quilt raffles are stand-by money-making projects).

With this $5,000 she sees entire new horizons opening for people who have lived 60 and 70 years hemmed in by the rural ghetto life of Urbancrest.

ONE OF THE projects which has excited the imagination of Golden Leisure members is the prospect of a trip to Washington D. C.

To those whom Lincoln's Memorial is only a picture in a history book, the proposed jaunt is the realization of a faded childhood dream.

Miss Meredith also sees the opportunity to attend interchurch conferences one that will be especially meaningful to men and women whose faith is strong but whose ecumenical concepts are weak. She pointed out that it will take little more than bus fare and initiative to introduce these people to the cultural experiences available in Columbus as a university seat.

WITHIN THE Center itself, she hopes to establish a reading room and a craft center.

Acknowledging that ceramics with its novelty and money-making potential will be a glamor class, she believes that some of the older skills such as tatting and quilting revived will prove equally rewarding.

And although Miss Meredith (always a realist) isn't planning any basketball teams, she feels that moderate exercise programs put a spring in the gait of her "Older Americans."

NO, THE GOLDEN Leisure Club is not designed to be a chit-chat club.

Rather it is designed to make our constantly lengthening life expentancy a source of pleasure, not a sentence.

Officers of the Golden Leisure Club of Urbancrest are (l to r) Mrs. Fannie Toliver, secretary; Mrs. Florence Curtis, president; Frank Young, treasurer; Mrs. Grace Harriston, vice-president and Mrs. Annie Riley, chaplain.

As in most senior citizen groups where culinary skills accumulated over the years are abundant, refreshment time is a real treat at the Golden Leisure Club. Shown pouring coffee for Mrs. Lillian Robinson (left) is Mrs. Ruth Penn, a member of the County Service Center staff.

THE JONES REPORT

Assembly Facing Heavy Agenda

More than 1,000 bills have been introduced in the Legislature during the 65 days of sessions. Much of this legislature is deleting and amending present laws that are outdated.

In the House, favorable action was taken on House Bill 345 sponsored by Rep. Mark C. Schinnerer, R - Lakewood, and George V. Voinovich, R-Cleveland. The bill would empower the director of liquor control, when ordered by the Governor, to suspend retail sales of beer or liquor whenever civil disorder, looting or rioting exists or is imminent in any area of the state. The proposal is designed to assist in reducing the possibility of serious riots such as in parts of Cleveland last summer. Passed as an emergency measure in the House, the bill now goes to the Senate.

House Bill 457, outlawing discrimination on public works projects, received favorable passage after unanimous recommendation by the industry and labor committee. Testimony for the bill indicated that the existing civil rights complaint system was too slow. Under present law, contractors on state projects are now forbidden to discriminate in hiring but they argue they are bound by hiring hall agreements. The measure, sponsored by Rep. Keith McNamara, R-Columbus, and Allen J. Bartunek, R-Cleveland, voids exclusive hiring hall agreements between contractors and unions, unless the labor unions have Negro apprentices or journeymen or have Negros available for job referral. Since contracts are now being negotiated between labor unions and contractors, the bill was passed as an emergency measure in the House and was sent to the Senate for consideration.

Senate Bill 154, sponsored by Sen. Michael J. Maloney, R-Cincinnati, was passed by the Senate last week and has been sent to the House for its consideration. The bill clarifies powers of the county commissioners under laws providing for alternative forms of county government. If approved by the voters of a county, the number of county commissioners can be increased from three to five, seven or nine members.

The bill also defines powers of a county executive if this alternative form is adopted by any county.

In further efforts to reduce the problem of water pollution, the Senate adopted Senate Bill 20 sponsored by Senator Howard C. Cook, R-Toledo. The bill would extend tax exemptions to industries for installation of industrial water pollution control facilities which reduce or eliminate pollution. It would also include those facilities installed to pretreat waste before discharge into a sewage system. Federal Internal Revenue regulations permit reduction in corporate taxes for installation of water pollution controls if certified by state government. In this area, I sponsored House Bill 625 to extend the powers of the Water Commission of Ohio to investigate and control water pollution in this state.

I would like to remind you of the town meetings that I am conducting. This Saturday, May 13, we will discuss compulsory auto inspection at the Grandview Library at 10 a.m. and at Indianola Methodist Church at 1 p.m, and the Godman Guild at 3 p.m.

In the weeks ahead, your comments and suggestions on the many issues and problems of the state facing the General Assembly will become increasingly important to your elected state representative. Your letters should be sent to the State House, Columbus, Ohio 43215.

A GLASS OF MILK

It seems so simple — just a glass of milk!

Yet the nutritional contributions of milk are so important and so varied that nutritionists generally recommend up to four glasses a day for children and five to three for adults, as a part of a varied diet. Unless otherwise specified, a glass of milk means whole, pasteurized milk; the capacity of the ordinary table-service glass is eight ounces, one-half pint. If you multiply the various nutrient values given below by the number of glasses of milk consumed, you will arrive at the day's contribution from this source.

Rich In Nutrients

Most people think first of calories, which represent the heat and energy value of the foodstuff, and are significant in weight control. Fluid milk's calorie contribution is comparatively low in relation to its appetite appeasement and nutritional values.

A glass of milk supplies 159 calories. This is seven percent of the 2100 calories recommended daily for a normally active woman between 18 and 35 years of age. Men of comparable age are allowed 2900 calories.

But a glass of milk also provides nutrients in the percentages of the recommended daily allowances as shown in the table below.

Thus, it is apparent that milk, taken in from two to three glasses a day by adults and up to four for children, will supply a significant percentage of the recommended nutrients.

Milk Vs Other Foods

In a previous column, we mentioned eating milk, for those who do not wish to drink it. In cereals, sauces, soups, gravies, custards, and scalloped dishes, this is an excellent way to use milk.

Your Congressman Reports

This Week In Washington

By Chalmers P. Wylie

Member of Congress, 15th District

Most important action in the House of Representatives last week was to extend the "cooling off period" in the railroad labor controversy for an additional 47 days. Two weeks ago, we extended the "cooling off period" by 20 days. My correspondence indicates that all sides are eager for a peaceful solution to this labor dispute of such nation-wide consequences—but there's no agreement on how to do it.

For me, organization of the House Anti-Crime Task Force is a subject of continuing and increasing concern. First meetings with fellow-members give me confidence that an important contribution will be forthcoming.

Many constituents write to express the opinion that work against crime, like charity, "starts at home." This demonstrates knowledgeableness of the problem. They may be assured that our task force will be concerned with crime in Washington, as elsewhere throughout the nation, and ways to encourage local participation in an anti-crime campaign.

Without attempting to minimize the lawlessness that does exist in Washington, I suspect that criminal occurrences here do get bigger headlines because they happen in the nation's capital.

My Washington office has been pleasantly swamped with bags full of mail the past week —return of questionnaires and requests from constituents to be placed on the mailing list for future issues of "Washington Memo." We are delighted with present prospects that the total will be near 20,000. That speaks well for the quality of citizenship in the 15th Ohio district, men and women eager to know more about their government.

Handling of the returns has brought some amusement, along with the chore of breaking through staples, scotch tape, mending tape, decorator's tape, even trading stamps, to open the pages.

Inside, in addition to our own replies, we have found envelopes with payments to Columbus utilities and stores. All have been forwarded promptly.

One respondent adds this note: "Please send two copies of future questionnaires, but mail both in the same envelope to save cost. My wife and I like to discuss your notes and questions, but we sometimes fight about them!"

Republicans on the Banking and Currency Committee proposed to amend a bill which would increase the Export-Import Bank's lending authority from $9 billion to $13.5 billion. This amendment would have prohibited the bank from making financial commitments with any nation furnishing goods or supplies to North Vietnam or any other nation aiding North Vietnam. I voted for the amendment, but it failed by an almost straight party line vote. Two Democrats voted for the amendment and one Republican voted against it.

The Republicans then sponsored an amendment to table the bill until further study and discussions could be had about some of the lending practices of the Export-Import Bank, including the so-called Fiatt arrangement with the Soviet Union. This motion failed, and the bill was reported out of committee recommended for passage by voice vote.

A Columbus man phoned last week in concern for the safety of his daughter-in-law in Greece, scheduled to fly home July 2. His question was whether the recent political upheaval in that country made an earlier departure advisable. Our inquiry, while bringing no guarantee, indicated no present cause for alarm. We find government and other agencies most cooperative in helping us to get answers such as this.

A bill which has now passed the House would allow present Congressional districts to remain as they are until the 1970 census becomes available. This action, which still must have Senate and presidential approval, forestalls a court-threatened redistricting on the basis of 1960 census figures. Present lines for the 12th and 15th districts in Franklin County are based on estimated present population, up more than 100,000 from 1960.

And So It Grows

Lawn grasses that developed brown spots after freezing temperatures recently won't show damage for long, say Ohio State University turf specialists. Only the tips of the grass blades were injured, and the patches will green up again soon. They were especially noticeable on grass that had produced new growth and had been mown.

You'll prevent disease and insect problems on new strawberry plantings by buying good planting stock from reputable dealers. Also, get "virus-free" plants, if possible. The only way to be sure you get virus-free plants is to buy those with "registered" stamped on the label. Those have been known to yield some 50 to 75 percent more plants than ordinary stock.

Browned needles on taxus plants this time of year could mean one of several problems such as:

• Twig-blight — This disease occurs during rainy periods and can be caused by several fungi. To identify it, you'll notice small pinpoint black dots on the twigs. Control with fixed copper fungicide (50 percent copper) according to directions.

• Twig-browning — Identify this by the browning of small twigs at the branch ends in late winter and early spring. The cause is usually a combination of heavy snow and low temperatures. Control by keeping snow from accumulating in the winter and prune out brown branches in late spring.

• Root problems — These show up as poor growth followed by yellowing, wilting, and finally dying of the growing tips. By examining the roots and trunk closely, you'll see white tufts of fungus beneath the bark at the base of the plant that indicate root-rot disease. Control by removing these plants and replace by narrow-leaved evergreens other than taxus. Or, you could either fumigate the soil or replace with clean soil.

Boxelder bugs are coming out of hibernation now and will be getting ready to feed on boxelder, ash, hackberry, linden and other trees. When you find these brownish-black and red bugs in the cracks and crevices of buildings, simply use a vacuum cleaner to pick them up and then burn the contents. Outside, you can get temporary relief from them by using a chlordane spray. Apply the material to the run-off point to cracks around outside doors, windows and foundations. Also treat a soil area about three feet wide around the entire house.

By controlling the grub worms in your lawn now, you'll get rid of another pest, the mole, which feeds on grubs.

To check for grubs, take a knife and cut a flap in the soil so you can lift back a section of the turf. Do this in two or three places in the lawn. If you find one or two grubs per square feet, plan to treat your lawn. The grubs are usually in a C-shaped position in the soil and around the roots. Their bodies are whitish and their heads are brown.

Treat with such materials as aldrin, dieldrin, heptachlor or chlordane. Always follow recommendations and package precautions for these and all pesticides.

CALLS COLUMNIST'S CHARGE BASELESS

Haytcher Defends Control Board

By ROBERT TENENBAUM
Managing Editor

Mayor Paul Haytcher defended Whitehall's Board of Control this week against charges it was "phony" and set up "to deceive the people."

The charges were leveled against the Board, set-up in the new City Charter, by a local newspaper columnist who claimed the makeup of the board gives the mayor "control over all the money spent."

HAYTCHER ANGRILY denied that he attempted to control city spending single-handedly and said the Board of Control system gives the city "more safeguards than we had under the old state laws."

The Board of Control consists of the mayor, his appointed service director and the elected city auditor. The column claimed that since the service director owed his job to the mayor, he would never vote against the mayor on a purchasing question.

"I have never put pressure on any of the board members myself," Haytcher said. "There is no 'rubber stamp' atmosphere during our board meetings."

THE CHARTER and state law permit a board of control to approve city spending without competitive bidding on items up to $1,000. A bill now pending in the House of Representatives would raise the limit to $2,000.

"I wonder if that columnist bothered to check the procedures involving the school boards," Haytcher asked. "School superintendents can approve spending up to $7,000 without taking bids."

Haytcher said that if council were required to approve every city expenditure, "they would never be able to do anything else. We'd be going to them every time we wanted to buy a pencil."

HE SAID that on numerous occasions, the board has recessed at the request of one of the members for further study on requested expenditures. One contract was vetoed and awarded at a higher price because the recommended contractor had not completed his last city job to the satisfaction of the service director.

"Our records are open for inspection at any time," Haytcher said, "but I'll bet that columnist never bothered to look at them. I don't appreciate people making charges without first obtaining the facts."

He said an inspector for the state auditor's office was currently conducting a routine audit of the city books and "is certain to examine the records of the Board of Control." His report will be made public upon completion of the audit.

Crozier Talks Turkey To CSSO

The Council of South Side Organizations found their guest speaker last week not only frank and informative but entertaining.

He was Jim Crozier, Columbus' director of Development, and along with his explanation of the functions of his division of government, he served a fast-moving commentary on several matters of concern close to the hearts of CSSO members.

AMONG THESE were federal housing for the elderly, Code Enforcement and the problem of junk cars.

Relevant to the first concern, he reported that Metropolitan Housing Authority has asked him to study and make a site recommendation for a high rise apartment building to accommodate the senior citizens of the South Side.

Expressing a firm conviction that the elderly should be able to live out their lives with dignity, he scoffs at the idea public housing of this type is in competition with private capital.

"IF ANY INVESTOR can provide decent and comfortable housing for rents as low as $35 a month, he is more than welcome to it," he stated. "The government would be happy to step out if there's anyone to take over."

Speaking of the possibility of initiating a code enforcement program on the South Side, Crozier pointed to the success of a like program on the West Side.

Stressing that this program is not urban renewal (in fact, by putting the brakes on a declining neighborhood before it is too late, it precludes the eventual need for the slum clearance associated with urban renewal) the Development director described how it works.

CITY HOUSING inspectors survey an area and inform property owners just what repairs are needed to bring their home up to the housing code set in the interests of health and safety by the city.

And help doesn't stop, according to Crozier, when the needs are spelled out.

Property holders with annual incomes of less than $3,000 a year (and there are plenty of retired persons who own their homes but are short on income) are eligible for $1,500 government grants. And while Crozier admits there's some red tape involved; he assured the CSSO there's no strings attached.

FOR THE MORE prosperous taxpayer whose residence needs a facelifting, there are loans available (direct from the government with no bankers to deal with) at the bargain basement interest rate of three percent.

Crozier also spoke of the South Side's perennial problem of junk yards which the CSSO fears may be aggravated as the city tries central refuge for the junkers scattered throughout Columbus. Crozier looks to State legislation as likely medicine to a bad situation.

With the statute which requires the city to hold on to abandoned cars for 60 to 90 days changed to allow their disposal within 30 days, existing pounding capacity would be multiplied.

HE STATED that Mike Dorrian, assistant safety director, is going to Detroit to look over a shredding machine in operation there. (However, with the price tags of such machinery around $5,000,000, Crozier sees the operation of such a facility a matter up to private enterprize serving a large area of Central Ohio rather than for the municipality.)

Touching upon the city's application for a federal grant through for "model City Planning" which has assumed tome-like proportions, Crozier stated he had the feeling Cleveland would get more consideration if it dropped off a post card to HUD (Housing and Urban Development) which allocates such funds.

"Maybe we need to rent a riot to get a little attention," he remarked.

11,050 Are Vaccinated

A total of 11,050 children were immunized against measles at the county's first "End Measles" clinic program.

Starling Junior High School led the 10 area clinics with 1,909 children receiving the free measles vaccine.

The breakdown at other sites:

Barrett Junior High School, 1655; Everett Junior High, 1462; Windsor Elementary School, 1315; Beechwood School, 1245; Franklin Junior High, 956; Mohawk Junior High, 903; Champion Junior High, 639; Grove City High, 497 and Bolivar Arms, 469.

The program was sponsored by the Columbus Jaycees and several professional medical groups.

DON'T BELIEVE IT

An old adage tells us that heaven protects drunks and fools. Don't you believe it! The Highway Safety Department has the statistics to prove otherwise. It's simple. Don't drink and drive and always be alert.

The Americans presented the Canadians with a flag which once flew over the Capitol. The event marked the 150 anniversary of the Rush-Bagot Agreement which demilitarized the U.S.-Canadian border.

Cause Of Death

The recent collapse of The World Journal Tribune in New York has set off the traditional sad laments and pious regrets and The Spectator Newspapers, too, join sympathetically in tolling the loss of a fine newspaper.

There has been much said of the reasons such great newspapers fail, but it seems the blame is always thrust upon the newspaper's union demands.

To some extent this is true. The ever increasing cost of newspaper production is a factor in such failures. But all newspapers in a given city share the same union wage scales, pay the same newsprint costs, and in general compete for personnel in the same economic market.

Why then, does one fail and the other succeed?

It goes deeper than union demands and touches a sore point with newspapers, and therefore goes without mention in most newspapers.

Advertisers, many of whom are absentees, and national advertising agencies, tend to play a numbers game in buying their advertising. If several media serve a city, they buy the biggest one. An awful lot of people read newspapers solely for the advertisements. Thus the big ones tend to get bigger and the smaller ones tend to get smaller

Inevitably the smaller one fall below the red line and then it becomes simply a matter of time before they quit. This leaves only one big newspaper serving one big city and since no one has ever figured out how to run a newspaper to please everyone, it leaves an awful lot of dissatisfied readers with nothing to read.

Open Channel D

The Spectator Newspapers hope that all that self-righteous editorial indignation concerning refusal of officials to release the names of contributors to the "mayor's club" will continue when expense accounts are filed on the Ohio Bond Commission.

Scouts Need Help

Girl Scouting in Franklin County needs help.

The Seal of Ohio Girl Scout Council, which serves 17,000 girls in Franklin County and 27,000 in a 15-county area, has launched a membership campaign in an effort to raise $25,000.

That $25,000 is needed to make up the difference between the Council's $343,0000 budget and the funds it receives from United Appeal, camping fees and other gifts and grants.

Girl Scouting has gained respect with each passing year. It stresses community service and strives to aid those less fortunate youngsters who ordinarily would have no recreational or educational facilities.

The Girl Scouts deserve your help during this all-important membership campaign.

Dramatic Victory

No candidate can have anything more going for him when his name comes up before voters than a record of solid accomplishment in office.

This was dramatically demonstrated last week when primary election results showed Mayor Jack Sensenbrenner with a towering lead over his opponents, Jerry Spears and Ronald DeVore.

DeVore was properly retired to the showers in the run-off. He hung his hopes on a somewhat hackneyed slogan and a lot of unsupported charges.

Spears, who will face Sensenbrenner in November, mounted a poorly planned primary attack against the incumbent mayor, and will have to reevaluate his campaign plans and advisors for this Fall.

Voters will be wise to watch from whence the mud is flung and to beware of charges and manufactured scandals which seem to erupt only just before elections.

New Power Grab

By ROBERT BURDOCK
Editor and Publisher

BURDOCK

Governor Rhodes' latest power grab is a bill before the legislature to eliminate the presently elected state board of education and replace it with one named by him.

Rhodes has already grabbed nearly complete control over higher education in the state. During previous sessions of the legislature he created the state board of regents, named by Rhodes, and expanded boards of trustees of state universities and then unabashedly stacked them with political appointments.

Now he wants to get his long fingers onto control of elementary and secondary education.

True, the present state board of education has not been very effective. But in Ohio, for the time being anyway, the mose control over elementary and secondary education has been at the local level.

However, Rhodes has reasons for wanting to control it at the state level. The state board has authority to approve local tax levies and bond issues before they go to the voters. It also approves annexations of school districts.

These two powers alone could be used by Rhodes to influence local school districts. Heaven only knows what other powers will be written into the legislation before he is through.

Such power would enable Rhodes to blackjack local school boards into submission of still another upcoming Rhodes' pet scheme — the previously announced plan to allow school districts to propose local income taxes.

Rhodes has been yo-yoing the Ohio Education Association for so long it doesn't know whether it's up or down or spinning in circles. The OEA has been able in the past on matters of money (promised money, mostly) to rise above principle.

It will be interesting to see whether Rhodes has managed to spike the OEA's guns again. By its silence you shall know.

On Open Housing

To The Editor:

Food for thought can be a delicious dish. I feel your article on open housing in The Spectator of Thursday, May 11, was just that.

At the present time, there is such a group on open housing operating in Bexley. Being a life-long resident of Bexley, your article put into print what we hoped was idle talk.

For some time, we have had a couple of Negro families in our community without protest. We can't understand why this far out group wants to stir up unnecessary trouble by placing additional families here.

Yes, protest groups will start! They have and more will come. We don't like a certain few to decide what we should or will do.

Most of us feel the really intelligent Negro does not want to be placed and made an example of. He is able, in our democracy, to get ahead if he really wants to work and educate himself.

Your paper should be proud of your article. Please continue to keep the public informed.

Appreciate Support

To The Editor:

The South-Western City Schools wish to express their appreciation to the Spectator newspaper and the publishers and editors, for the support given to renewal of our school levy at last week's election.

We, particularly, appreciate the editorial which you carried concerning the importance of this issue and the support which you gave.

Paul C. Hayes, Ph. D.
Superintendent

Thanks From Mayor

To The Editor:

Thank you via the Spectator Newspapers to all of your Columbus readers for participating in the May 2nd Primary Election. A special word of gratitude to your readers who honored me with a vote of confidence and the nomination for the office of Mayor.

The fine turn-out in numbers for the Primary Election shows the importance with which citizens of this community view their citizenship responsibilities. Thank you again to all of your readers.

leo rennert ★ A Californian Looks At Rhodes—VI ★

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the sixth in a series of articles on the administration of Gov. James A. Rhodes, written by Leo Rennert, staff writer for California's McClatchy Newspapers.)

The notion that state government should play an active role in attracting new industries met strong opposition from California GOP legislators during the administration of Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

But in Ohio, under Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes, that idea has been translated into a dynamic program to promote economic growth and expand job opportunities.

Shortly after his election in 1962, Rhodes established a State Economic Development Agency—which now has a budget of $800,000 a year—and set out to lure industrialists to Ohio.

"Ohio was drifting," the governor recalled during an interview. "We did not have an industrial department.

"Other states were raiding us."

Now, all this has changed. "Rhodes' Raiders" are making "blitz trips" far and near on the slightest hint that a company may be looking for a new site.

Rhodes is at his best when he delivers speeches to Ohio business leaders encouraging them to increase capital investments and join in the crusade for more jobs.

"I believe it is one of my duties as governor of Ohio to be its busiest salesman," he declared.

As part of the task he has set out to make Ohio a major tourist center by publicizing its historical and cultural attractions.

The governor's inexhaustible zest for promotion has elicited bipartisan admiration.

Democrats, who fault him for "neglecting" educational and social services, admit that Rhodes apparently has had some success in attracting new industries.

However, they do not necessarily endorse all his claims nor his contention that economic growth is the "only" issue in Ohio.

Many of Ohio's new industries they maintain, picked their plant locations because of the state's strategic position between Eastern and Midwestern markets and its transportation facilities.

They are somewhat skeptical that Rhodes' ballyhoo played as big a part as the governor would like Ohioans to believe.

There is also a sizable body of opinion which disputes Rhodes' feeling that industries will flock to Ohio only if they can be assured of finding a cozy tax shelter, where state spending is held to a minimum and, in Rhodes' words, "Profit is not a dirty word."

Critics of this view contend that the new breed of industrial tycoons considers a healthy community life, good schools and other basic government services an integral part of "sound business climate."

"You can't have a healthy industrial climate in a state that is austere in the public sector," remarked Marvin Rosenberg, director of social welfare planning for the Cleveland Council of Churches.

"Profits are based on people who have the means to buy goods and services and have developed the high skills necessary for the changing jobs in today's labor market."

There are signs that Rhodes is beginning to agree, at least in part, with this view. He says he is prepared to recommend a major state investment in vocational training and university programs which can spur industrial growth.

Some Ohio economists consider this a good beginning but still warn that the state must improve education in all sectors to reduce its heavy dependence on blue-collar jobs—the most vulnerable in an age of automation.

marquis childs ★ The War Thermometer ★

CHILDS

No American President has ever been defeated for re-election in the middle of a war. The intensely loyal group around President Johnson count heavily on this when they look to 1968.

Walt Rostow, the loyalist of loyalists, cites 1864 and Abraham Lincoln. As the Civil War went on with its hideous losses Lincoln feared he would be defeated by Gen. George McClellan who had been removed two years before as commander-in-chief of the Army of the Potomac. Running as a Democrat, McClellan took the patriotic line, repudiating the Democratic platform which denounced the war as a failure and called for peace negotiations with the South.

Lincoln discussed with his closest associates what his conduct should be in defeat. As it turned out he won re-election by an Electoral College landslide of 212 to 21. The popular vote was, however, much closer 2,216,067, to 1,808,725.

Far from being a uniting force, the war was intensely unpopular in many parts of the country. But along with the disaffection went a deep undercurrent of patriotism and loyalty, both North and South. Men believed they were fighting for what was just and right, for the principles that were part of the national heritage no matter how much those principles differed in interpretation, North and South.

That may be more than anything else what sets the Vietnam war apart—lack of popular patriotic support for the objectives of the war. The feeling of loyalty and compassion for the men fighting the war and their ordeal as it is seen nightly on television is one thing. But there is no sign that this carries with it belief in the purposes of the rapidly escalating conflict.

It may be that the absence of conviction sets the Vietnam conflict apart and it is, therefore, no precedent when it comes to appraising the political consequences for the Chief Executive. Yet, in a variety of steps Johnson is seeking to enlarge support for the war.

The President has already in almost as many words said that the choice is between Ho Chi Minh and your country — in short, Lyndon Johnson. This theme will be underscored as 1968 draws nearer. Courageous dissenters such as Sen. George McGovern will be singled out for castigation and, if possible, defeat. After all, the test is still 18 months away and the patriotic thermometer is beginning to register a rise.

The cynical case can be made that since no settlement now foreseeable with the exception of capitulation by North Vietnam, will meet with broad popular acceptance, it might almost be advantageous for the Johnson Administration if the war were still going on. This is a harsh thing to say. But it is evident that Richard M. Nixon and the Republican hawks are prepared to pounce on Johnson for anything short of "victory." The President himself now seems set on that course regardless of the cost in a greatly enlarged war and the end of any hope for relaxation of tensions with the Soviet Union.

The flag is a powerful weapon in the political armory. And Johnson has shown that he means to use it.

william s. white ★ New Labor Probe Needed ★

WHITE

The need for a grand inquest into labor-management relationships in this country, the first of real depth and scope and raw courage since the late Sen. Robert A. Taft forced another Congress to face up to a similar problem two decades ago, can no longer be honestly in doubt.

In those days just after the Second World War the power of organized labor had clearly become too great and too unrestrained. True enough, in the '30's the seesaw had been weighted toward management. But by the time Taft went into action the balance had long since turned too far the other way, through the Wagner Act of the Franklin D. Roosevelt era.

Now it is time again to move to right a new imbalance. The present Congress knows this. The very air in the Capitol is full of a reluctant recognition that once again labor has become too privileged and too irresponsible.

Nobody, and neither party, really wants to take on this nasty job, but taken on it must be, either by this or the Congress to be elected next year, if plain national interest is to be protected and preserved.

Twice within recent weeks arrogant labor bosses have gone far beyond the limits of tolerance.

First, they have caused a totally unjustified partial blackout of television service. And now they have assassinated yet another newspaper in New York, again by demonstrably extreme, demonstrably unfair demands that are also demonstrably destructive even to the interests of the workers themselves.

For a journalist to write in this way is, of course, to raise some suspicion of personal interest. It is, therefore, necessary to enter a personal explanation.

What has happened in New York is nothing less than a disaster to the people's right to knowledge. A vast city that once offered a choice of 16 newspapers now has a choice of three. And the same crude and insatiable labor union demands that have now destroyed the World Journal Tribune had not long before also sunk the New York Herald Tribune and the New York Mirror.

When a newspaper dies, the victims are not merely its employees and its owners. The victims are all sorts of people, rich, poor and middling, who lose subtle things that are irreplacable parts of American life above and beyond the mere bread and butter. Certain lights and shadows go out of living, never to come back again. And grayness comes in.

If this is special pleading, then let it be so. But is it really quite that?

If is a safe prediction that a public and a Congress too long harrassed by little men like Bertram Powers, a New York local president of the International Typographical Union, are going to do something at last about what these Bertrams have been doing so long.

Powers has called for "a Congressional investigation" into the demise of the New York World Journal Tribune. He is very likely to get it—and it is very likely, too, that its results will not be pleasing to Bertram Powers.

ACHIEVEMENTS ARE plentiful in all phases of the film. Realism was certainly the main feature yet I would like to know if I missed refueling and renewing the food supplies aboard ship . . .

Many afterthoughts will come to mind and isn't this what we seek — fine entertainment that gives a performeance that is everlasting.

This showing is a Columbus exclusive and thus should be treated as such — don't miss it. Tickets are on reserved-seat basis. It is realistic, harsh and often cruiel, but the beauty of life and the story are overpowering.

Players Club Production Called 'Bell Ringer'

To close the "66-67" season at Players Club, this organization opened May 12 with the comedy favorite of many theater goes, "Never Too Late."

Well it's never too late to be astonished at what pace, timing, acting and most certainly direction can contribute to an evening of sheer laughter with no hitches.

A ROYAL TREAT is in store for members and guests of Players Club this weekend.

How refreshing to view a family-situation comedy which could start out on the red side, as excellent slick comedy is hard to accomplish, end up on the black side of the ledger from word one.

The set has created the warmth of the family living there. As a matter of record this set is so detailed and exact it is of professional standards. Credit is due Dick Frank.

DELIGHTFULLY brilliant in delivery of character is Bud Lane as the middle-aged-father-to-be.

Frances Kearns as the expectant wife is truly a surprise to this visitor having viewed many of her past performances. She is excellent and will no doubt be remembered by many for this portrayal.

Tom Haycock as the son-in law fares quite well with a difficult role. His wife is portrayed by Judy Wendt is right on key.

The remainder of the cast has detailed characterizations and contribute to make "Never Too Late" a real bell-ringer for manager-director, Gerald Ness and Players Club.

AROUND TOWN

With the community theater season about to end as far as actual productions are concerned, the summer unit of Stadium Theater reports that auditions for "Carnival" will be held by Director Charles Ritter on Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Besides the leading and chorus roles, there is a need for those who can perform circus or carnival routines — such as jugglers, acrobats, tightrope walkers, aerialists, sword swallowers, trained animals, thin men, fat women, bearded ladies, etc.

Times for the auditions are 7:30 p.m. on Friday, 10 a.m. on Saturday and 1 p.m. on Sunday. Auditions will be in Hughes Hall on the OSU Campus.

TV-4, WLW-C News Director Hugh DeMoss and Producer Tom Roper are taking to the stage when Gallery Players present Thornton Wilder's "Skin of Our Teeth" at the Jewish Center starting Saturday.

"Gaslite Review," the annual concert and variety show of the Gas Company Chorus is Friday at 8:15 p.m. at Veterans Memorial Auditorium.

The theme for this 26th annual concert will be "Light" with the program divided into four segments. The first is "God is the Light of the World" (Religious), followed by "Over the Footlights" (Show Tunes), then a patio party session entitled "Light for Outdoor Living," with patriotic selections "The Light of Liberty" to climax the evening.

Chet Long, Central Ohio newscaster, will be master of ceremonies.

CAR CHECKS

During May and June, voluntary vehicle safety check lanes will be operated in many communities throughout Ohio. Take your car in for a check-up. Brakes, windshield washers and wipers, lights, exhaust system and steering will be checked. If any parts are found defective have them repaired at once. You can't afford to take chances . . . especially when your family's safety is at stake. Your Highway Safety Department urges you to take the short time required to participate in this voluntary vehicle safety check. Don't have your car laid up with a brake-down.

Jack H. Montgomery, manager of the Sherwin-Williams branch at 1015 W. Fifth-av, is getting ready to "paint the town white" with S-W's new guaranteed one-coat house paint.

New S-W House Paint Introduced By Area Dealers

"A real break for homeowners" is the description Jack H. Montgomery, manager of the Sherwin-Williams branch at 1015 W. Fifth-av, gives to a new white house paint now being introduced by paint dealers in Columbus.

Montgomery said the new Sherwin-Williams product is "guaranteed to cover any previously painted exterior wood surface in one coat—no matter what color is already on the house. This means homeowners are saved the extra cost and labor of two coat applications."

He said the paint also has a longer life span, resists discoloration by fumes and mildew and is far whiter than ordinary white house paint.

AND SO IT GROWS

You'll get lots of strawberries by growing your June bearing varieties in the matted row system, or by letting most of the runners root and produce new plants. But if you'd rather have fewer but bigger berries, then space the runners so they'll root and form new plants six or seven inches apart.

Rows of strawberry plants are kept best between 18 and 24 inches wide. Once enough spaced runner plants have rooted to fill this width of row area, all other runners should be cut off as they form. The early formed runner plants will make the most big berries and should be given the best care, say extension fruit specialists.

MOST NEWLY planted fruit trees could benefit from an application of fertilizer about a month after planting. You'll have less chance of damage from soluble fertilizers. Use any good garden fertilizer such as 10-6-4, 12-12-12-12 or 8-16-6 at the rate of a fourth of a pound of fertilizer spread in a circle (two to three feet across) around the base of the tree, but keep the fertilizer 8 to 10 inches away from the tree trunk.

If you are wondering if a leftover insecticide is still good here is one way to tell. Shake the liquid thoroughly and pour a small sample into a transparent container, preferably one you can throw away after rinsing out. If you find sediment or different layers, this may mean that it was frozen or is of poor quality and you'd better not use it.

Add two tablespoonsful of concentration to a pint of water. Cover the container tightly and turn it over several times. The mixture should be uniformly milky. After it has set for about an hour, there should be no layering, that is, no clear liquid at the top and other colors at the bottom. A clear liquid at the top probably is the solvent and putting that on a living plant will cause it to die. The formation of an opaque cream-like material at the top of the mixture is called creaming, and too much of it is not good.

WETTABLE POWDERS should be all right if they are not caked and have been kept tightly closed in a dry place.

For early maturing sweet corn hybrids, plant such ones as North Star, Earl King, Spring Gold, Gold Crest, Golden Beauty, Honey Gold, Carmelcross, Northern Belle and Sugar King. These will mature in 66-72 days, depending on temperature, rainfall and soil conditions.

Some hybrids that mature in 74 to 84 days include Duet, F-M Cross, Gold Cup, Golden Cross Bantam, Wonderful and Seneca Chief. Hybrids maturing still later include Midway, Iochief, Aristogold Bantam Evergreen, Honeycross and Victory Golden.

'OLD TIGE'

'Old Tige' Looking For Purr-fect Life

"Out of the tank and into the cockpit."

That's the capsule history of the tawny-tailed terror known as "Old Tige."

An integral part of the 87th Fighter Interceptor Squadron at Lockbourne Air Force Base, the fang-fitted feline has flitted afar frequently to further the fight for freedom.

Born of a toymaker's imagination, this peerless pussy is properly proud of its powerful punch provided by its pilot's planes.

"Old Tige" was first introduced to the 87th last month shortly after he turned two. Since then, he has taken his rightful place among the squadron's two-legged tigers. At the time of this writing, he had logged eight flying hours and two supersonic flights in the rear seat of the 87th 1200 miles-an-hour F-101B Voodoo interceptors.

Never one to mess around with a ball of yarn, "Old Tige" packs as big a wallop as any of his mates. His log indicates that he is credited with the "firing" of a AIR-2A missile. That came during weapons fire testing at Tyndall Air Force Base, Fla.

Unfortunately, due to his wandering instincts and the fact that veiled threats of "catnapping" have been received, "Tige" must live in a cage in the Voodoo lounge when he's off duty. He doesn't complain too much though since he's heard that a promotion to lieutenant colonel is in the offing.

"I don't mind the living quarters," he said in a recent interview, "and the flying is great. Still, a promotion WOULD make life purrfect."

Maverick

with muddy shoes

RICHARD L. PAUGH

I firmly believe I live in the best country and state in the world. If I didn't, I would move to where it seemed better.

But on the other hand, our system of government seems to be like a beautiful oil painting. From a distance, it has color, form and harmony to the beholder but up close it has great excesses in some places and pure ous scarcity in others.

PAUGH

SO IT SEEMS with Ohio's Division of Wildlife. Many of the men I have known for 15 to 20 years. They are hard working and sincere. It is only when you get into the power structure of the upper echelon that treachery is the theme of the day.

Take the Wildlife Council for example. It was originally designed to guide the Division of Wildlife both in method and money. Four years ago, when House Bill No. 573 was passed, the Council was stripped of both powers.

The Chief of Wildlife has only the Director of Natural Resources and the Governor to answer to for his actions. If both of these men are out of town on a given day, the Chief is truly on the throne.

WILDLIFE Councilmen are not paid (it is the old theory that only dedicated men would go for the job if no pay is involved). The flaw in the ointment is that such positions also carry prestige and a certain amount of snob value.

For this reason, the Council winds up as a status symbol. The monthly meetings are a sham. Not once since the reorganization of the Department of Natural Resources, has the Wildlife Council settled anything contrary to the wishes of the Chief and only a few times has the vote been anything but unanimous.

If these councilmen really felt a desire to aid wildlife, they would all stay home and save the Division the cost of feeding and housing them once a month.

I APPEARED before the Council on May 4, knowing full well I was going down to defeat because my cause had already been denied by the Chief, Dan Armbruster.

I wanted to get a little action going to get a sampling of deer out of Ravenna each year and to use for seed on State lands where deer are sparse.

The Chairman of the Council, Lloyd Calhoun, an attorney from Akron, set the pace by asking me if I was there for the publicity value or column material. According to Parliamentary Procedure, he —of all people — should have made an effort to conceal his pre-formed ideas.

AN HOUR and a half later, I had explained (1) the inexpensive means to take the deer, (2) the use of the Arsenal grounds as a country club for state officials, (3) read first person accounts of the carnage that goes on (I myself had been invited to hunt there courtesy of a Highway official until he found out who I was) — the vote was five against me and none for me.

I was not disappointed nor surprised. I had expected my appearance to be discussed in advance and the matter all settled. I was, however, very much disgusted that Gov. Rhodes has allowed such a useless body to exist where there is room for so much good to be done.

With a very few changes in Good Ole House Bill No. 573, dedicated outdoorsmen could be paid a decent wage for the time necessary to properly control the future of Ohio's wildlife.

All Roads Lead To Lockbourne As Base Plays Host To Mid-Ohio

All gates at Lockbourne will open at noon Sunday as Lockbourne Air Force Base plays host to Central Ohio at the annual Armed Forces Day Open House.

With an action-filled program scheduled before the official welcome and introductions at 2 p.m. the annual 1967 Armed Forces Day Air Show will begin at 2:30 p.m. with the Hercules airlifters, Voodoo fighter/interceptors and the Supersabre tactical fighters performing.

OHIO STATE University drill team to go through their split second stints are the Air Force ROTC's Civil War Drill Team attired in authentic "Yankee" uniforms and the Coed team.

Military concerts will include that of the OSU Navy ROTC Choir and two performances of the Fort Hayes 338th Army Band.

There will also be a demonstration of hand-to-hand combat by the OSU Army ROTC, and the Lockbourne AFB sentry dogs will be put through their paces.

THROUGHOUT THE day, there will be continuous Army films and a static display of equipment and aircraft.

The Air Force suggests that visitors from North, West, South and Central Columbus go south on U.S. 23, Lockbourne Road or Alum Creek Drive to hit Rt. 665 which goes directly past both Gate Two and Main Gate.

The easiest route from East Columbus, Whitehall, Bexley and Reynoldsburg is south on Hamilton Road through Groveport to Rohr Road which also crosses Rt. 665.

RESIDENTS of the Lithopolis and the Lancaster areas are urged to use Hayes Road which will take them to Gate Five while the most direct route from Circleville is the Ashville-Circleville Road which passes Gate Four.

Motorists coming up 23 from Chillicothe are asked to turn east on Rowe Road go through the village of Lockbourne and enter the Base through Gate Three.

Sharing the spotlight with the jet craft of a 20th century Air Force at Lockbourne's Open House Sunday will be the representatives of a species that has fought alongside man since history began. A performance will be given demonstrating the ferocity —and the gentleness—of the dogs trained as sentries. The U.S. Air Force combat veteran shown above was photographed in Saigon, apparently on a three-day pass.

CMACAO Office To Open In Obetz

The benefits of the federal program against poverty will be put at the doorstep of residents of Hamilton Township next week.

According to Miss Maryelle Meredith, director of the County Service Center, a branch Center will be opened next Tuesday in the Obetz Methodist Church. Such centers are operated by the Columbus Metropolitan Area Community Action Organization (CMACAO), which is federally funded under the Office of Economic Opportunity.

TO BE STAFFED every Tuesday from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. the new office will bring the multiple services used to combat poverty to persons living in and around Obetz, Reese, Lockbourne and Shadeville. (The parent Center at Urbancrest is recognized as inconveniently located for those living in the Southeast.)

Simultaneously with the opening of the local office, a census will begin to aid the staff in evaluating how it can best serve the community.

Stating that the form is both brief and confidential (telephone number, number of children and place of employment if interviewee is working) the director urges local residents to open their doors to the census takers. Mrs. Betty O'Dell and Miss Jean Quinichegte who have been assigned as interviewer and neighborhood organizer for the area will, as all staff members, carry full identification.

AMONG THE SERVICES that CMACAO offers through its Centers are counseling in the areas of employment, welfare, health, legal aid and planned parenthood.

Youth is served through tutoring, the establishment of youth clubs and medical services, groups to meet the spiritual, mental, cultural and recreational needs of the older citizens are planned and classes for the homemaker started.

In addition, professional guidance will be offered in the study of community wide needs including problems of adequate water and sewer service.

MISS MEREDITH expressed her sincere appreciation to the congregation of the Obetz Church whose generosity paved the way for the opening of the Center. (The donation of such facilities by a community is considered an "in-kind" contribution which makes it eligible for federal dollars.)

Rev. Charles Titko explained that the church board welcomes the opportunity for the ministry offered through the War on Poverty and regrets only it did not come when CMACAO was first set up in Franklin County two years ago.

"For many years the church has realized its failure to reach the very segment of the community needing its influence the most," he said, expressing the hope that not only his congregation but the community as a whole will be aroused to effective action.

UNDERLINING the readiness of the Church to work with CMACAO (pronounced Ca-ma-co) Titko reported that members with home extension training have already volunteered their time to various phases of the program.

South Side 'Y' Dinner Honors 'Goal Busters'

At the Goal Busters Dinner held at the Hoover "Y" Park this week, recognition was made to 45 organizations and individuals whose efforts had taken the 1967 membership drive of the South Side Branch YMCA "over the top."

According to Jim Woodyard, president of the board, the contributions of the Century Club (each organization or individual was credited with at least $100 in memberships during the $13,800 drive) is especially important in the nation-wide trend of the "Y" becoming an "increasingly relevant part of the community."

ROBERT DAVIS of the staff presented a meaningful interpretation of the "Y" emblem which is too ofen thought of only as a triangle representing the spirit, mind and body.

With slides be delineated the double circles behind the triangles standing not only for cosmic order, but the community and the "Y" family.

Attention was also drawn to the Greek letters which are second only to the Cross as a symbol of Christianity and the Bible laid open to the unifying message of John 17:21.

ROBERT STROWSER, chairman of the next year's drive who made the Country Club awards told of the pride with which he had reported its members' efforts at a recent leadership conference.

He quoted one leader as saying, "If we only had five such men backing us.—"

The certificates of appreciation and membership cards went to the following:

WALLER & LUND, J. L. Tapp, Council of South Side Organizations, Federal Glass Company, Fred Erfurt, Emmanuel Lutheran Church, Erfurts Market, Carpenter Local No. 200, Michael Lower and Mrs. Pat Caston.

John Atkinson, Don Tate, Mrs. Phyllis Donovan, Cap Hoover, Herbert Fischer, Edward Becker, Robert Madden, Ken Olbert, Rita Balcom, Mrs. Flo Kenney, Mrs. Margaret Steffens and Mrs. Vera Rice.

Mrs. Ray Speakmon, Richard Waller, Robert Lund, Henry Held, Herb Poenisch, Pat Phillips, William Plank, David Wilson, Edward Findley, Herman Kuehn, Robert Olson, Leo Gaffin and Ruth Wagner.

Robert Hahn, C. C. Brown, Bill Edwards, R. W. Herriott, Art Starrett, Scottwood outreach committee, Scottwood Community Church, Howard Henry, Mrs. Sandra Thompson, Patrick Canini and F. W. Sloter, Inc.

PTA Scholarship Awards Made By Columbus Council

Forty-six students graduating from the Columbus public Schools received PTA scholarships at the annual meeting of the Columbus Council of Parent - Teacher Associations held at the Lausche Building, last week.

All but two of these (one-year music scholarships) were for $200 with the recipients who achieve at least a "C" average eligible for a renewal grant next year. Twenty-seven such renewals were made this year.

IN ACCEPTING the grants, the students assume the responsibility of completing their training within the normal period and teaching in Ohio schools for at least two years. Anyone failing to meet these requirements must make immediate repayment to the Ohio Congress of PTA.

The program which has provided more than 4,000 scholarships was initiated in 1948 with a $10,000 grant by the Ohio Congress and has since been principally supported by local councils.

Units contributing full scholarships are given the privilege of designating the high school from which recipients will be selected.

This year, honorary state life memberships in the Ohio Congress by the Columbus Council were awarded to Miss Helen E. Sandfort, director of the Department of Fine Arts, CPS; Mrs. Katherine McGill, assistant director of the Department of Music Education, CPS; L. W. Huber, assistant superintendent of instruction, CPS, and Dr. Andrew Hendrickson, director, Center of Adult Education, Ohio State University.

Purchase of these memberships help make the scholarships possible.

The Memorial Scholarship Program was founded as a tribute to the youth who served in World War II and to those who had rendered outstanding service to children and youth in Ohio.

RRI Hears 'Go' On Teen Center

Reynoldsburg Recreation, Inc. received the signal for "go" from many interested citizens, school authorities, various organizations and city officials to erect and program a teen center in Reynoldsburg.

Dwight Keller, president of the non-profit cooperation, appointed Mrs. C. Puls, 7007 Retton-rd, as chairman of the fund drive. At the May 4 meeting of the fund-raising committee, plans were formulated for a door-to-door campaign June 3. Teenagers will solicit membership to the Reynoldsburg Recreation, Inc.

Membership cards and a car or house sticker depicting the official emblem of the RRI will be presented to the members. Those becoming a member will have voting rights at future meetings of the organization.

Keller said the teen center program is being well accepted, but the biggest obstacle the organization faces is acquainting the Reynoldsburg residents with the benefits a teen center will bring to the city, schools and parents themselves.

He said if Reynoldsburg Recreation, Inc. can overcome the apathy of residents towards this worthwhile youth program, Reynoldsburg will be proud of its accomplishments.

WATCH GAUGE

Allowing the gas gauge to get near "empty" before refueling can be costly, says the Columbus Automobile Club. The best time to refill your tank is before it reaches the one-quarter mark. This reduces chances of moisture condensation in the tank, pumping sediment through the fuel line and running out of gasoline.

Reynoldsburg Civic Club Discusses Field Service

By ISA BARRETT

The Reynoldsburg Civic Club met Tuesday afternoon, May 9 at Don's Restaurant to hear their guests speak on the American Field Service.

Mrs. Ashley Molk spoke at length on the Field Service. The club donated $100 to help send Miss Beverly Shade to Europe for a year as an AFS student. Beverly spoke to the club of the briefing she was given prior to being chosen. The standards are very high physically, academically and morally. Whether Beverly gets to go depends on whether a family overseas will sponsor her.

MISS OLLA KROLL, an AFS student from Vienna, Austria, was sponsored this year by Mr. and Mrs. Mallen and has lived in their home. She spoke in a very charming manner of her experience in America, and it seemed the thing which impressed her most was our "hamburgers."

The club decided to go to see "Hawaii" in a body June 14, using the money left to the club in the will of the late Mrs. Paul Weiberg which she designated as "fun money." Following the program a "made-it-yourself" sale was held with Mrs. Arlie Smith, auctioneer. Products were numerous and varied.

THE JUNE MEETING will be held June 6 at the home of Mrs. Lee Lockhart, 1995 Freeman-rd, Delaware, Ohio. The following officers will be installed at that meeting: president, Rosalee Whittington; vice-president, Evelyn Williams; recording secretary, Louise Platter; treasurer, Freda Feucht and corresponding secretary, Carolyn Sabin.

Hostess for the June meeting is Mrs. Jack Lawson assisted by Mrs. Richard Manning, Mrs. Loren Windom, Mrs. Emmery Bender and Mrs. W. K. Bingham.

Mrs. Charles Parker was hostess to the Reynoldsburg branch of the YWCA with breakfast at her home on E. Main-st Saturday morning, May 13.

FUNERAL SERVICES for Mrs. Norma Weber Nessley were held Monday, May 8, at 1:30 in the Evans Funeral Home on E. Livingston-av. She passed away Friday, May 5, in Grant Hospital. Surviving are her husband, David Nessley, son David Marty, daughter Jan Allison, two sisters, Mrs. Evelyn Stapleton and Mrs. Maybelle Miller and two brothers, Elbert Weber and Ben Weber. Burial was in Glen Rest Cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Johnston of Amanda spent the weekend of May 7 with their daughter, Mrs. F. W. Spencer and family. The Johnstons were on their way home after spending the winter in their Florida home at Orangewood Village, Tarpon Springs.

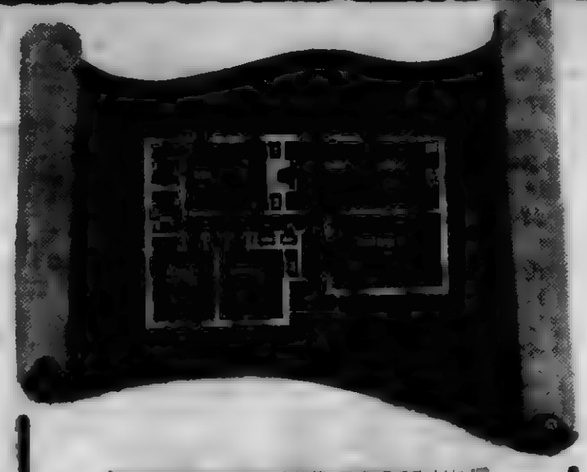
Joe Butts, son of Don Butts, has been chosen to represent Reynoldsburg at Boys' State.

MRS. CHARLES Emswiler and Mrs. Bernice Walz are both in Grant Hospital.

The condition of Russell Ebright of Pataskala, who was seriously injured in an automobile accident recently, is somewhat improved. He suffered neck and leg injuries. Ebright is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Eckells, formerly of Reynoldsburg but lately of Michigan.

Miss Ethel Berry has sold her home on Graham Road to Mr. and Mrs. Stu Savage and will leave about the middle of June to enter a retirement apartment in St. Louis, Mo.

MISS HANNAH ASHTON was hostess to the Goodwill Club with breakfast at her home Saturday morning, May 6.



Mrs. Robert Smith was hostess to the Electa Club Thursday afternoon, May 11, at her home on N. Lancaster Avenue.

By JACK WITTENMEIER
Spectator Sports Editor

Two final "specials" and the Regional meet Saturday lay the groundwork for the '67 cinder finale — the State Meet, scheduled May 26-27 in Ohio Stadium.

Once again this spring Worthington's Nelson Field will be the site of both "A" and "AA" Regionals with prelims beginning Saturday at 1 p.m.

CENTRAL DISTRICT hopefuls, paced by repeat champion Upper Arlington, will join with Southeastern and North Canton representatives to vie for State berths.

Here's the Regional schedule: 1 p.m.—"A" pole vault, high and long jump, shot put, "AA" discus, semi-finals (both divisions) high hurdles; 1:30—100-yd. dash semi-finals (both divisions); 2 p.m. — 880 relay semi-finals (both divisions); 2:30 — 440 semi-finals (both divisions); 3 p.m. — "AA" pole vault, high and long jump, shot put, "A" discus, low hurdle semi-finals (both divisions) 3:30 — 220 semi-finals (both divisions); 4 p.m. mile relay semi-finals (both divisions).

Running finals in both divisions begin at 7:15 with the high hurdles and follow in this order: 7:30 — 100-yd. dash; 7:45—mile run; 8 p.m.—880 relay; 8:15 — 440; 8:30 — low hurdles; 8:45 — 880; 9 p.m. — 220; 9:15 — two-mile; 9:30 — mile relay.

FOUR CONTESTANTS from each event advance to the state Meet (except for 880 and both hurdles where three advance).

Admission Saturday will be $1 (everyone) for each session.

Here are the "AA" Regional records:

DIOCESAN MEET

THE 12TH annual Diocesan Meet is scheduled Sunday at Bishop Hartley's oval — beginning at 9:30 a.m.

For the first time high and grade school divisions will be combined (seven teams competing in the former division, 12 in the latter).

High schools competing will be: DeSales, host Hartley, St. Mary, Ready, Wehrle (and possibly Watterson), Marion Catholic and Mt. Vernon St. Vincent.

ALL 15 regular track and field events will be conducted in the high division with the mile, two-mile and high hurdles excluded from the grade school section.

Running finals are scheduled for 1 p.m. (grade school, low hurdles), the meet concluding with the high school mile relay at 4 p.m.

Awards include trophies for team championship and runnerup in each division and high point man in each division. The first five finishers in each event (each division) will also receive awards.

W-R Banquet May 24

Glenn "Tiger" Ellison, OSU frosh football coach, will be the guest speaker as the Walnut Ridge Booster Club honors Scottie athletes with an All-Sports Banquet, Wednesday, May 24, (6:30 p.m.) at the high school cafeteria.

LIONS SET DISTRICT MARK

This Gahanna-Lincoln mile relay crew accomplished two things by its victory at Saturday's District Meet. The Lion quartet's 3:21.4 clocking established a new record and the final event victory cemented a repeat second-place finish for Gahanna behind repeat champ Upper Arlington. The record-setting foursome includes (from left): Clark Coleman, Ron Doran, Bruce Baker and Tony Leek.

Another 'Almost' For Lion Thins

For the second straight year, it was a ces of "almost" for Ed Rarey's Gahanna-Lincoln Lions at the District track meet.

Rarey's crew nabbed its second District runnerup spot in as many tries, placing second to repeat champion Arlington (47-33) at Saturday's running.

THE LIONS picked off two firsts—Bruce Baker in the high hurdles (:15.0) and a record-breaking (3:21.4) mile relay effort by Baker, Clark Coleman, Ron Doran and Tony Leek.

East (which picked up two firsts) and Eastmoor placed in the top finishers, the Tigers tied with West for sixth (18 pts.) and the Warriors (seven pts.) taking ninth.

Lee Williams' Bengals were paced by 440 winner Eugene Hadden (:49.3) and low hurdler John Jones (:20.4).

OTHER "AA" Regional qualifiers were: HH—Jack Parry (E-M), Glenn McAliister (Bexley) and Tony Coleman (E-M); 880 R.—East; 440—Ron Doran and Tony Leek (both of Gahanna); LH—Bruce Baker (Gah) and Tony Coleman (E-M); 880—Rick Defourney (Walnut Ridge); TWO-MILE—Dave Lewis (E-M) and Irv Christenson (Reynoldsburg); MILE R — East; PV — Pete Maxfield (Whitehall); LJ — Larry Barth (Gah) and Dave Harmon (E); DISCUS — Fred Browning (Gah) and Jack Parry (E-M); SP—Fred Browning (Gah); HJ—Chuck Bosse (Gah).

Academy qualified long jumper Hank Snowden and its mile relay unit for the "A" Regionals.

In two area dual meets last week, East toppled Linden 79½ to 47½) and Bexley nipped Walnut Ridge, 64-63.

MATT UNGAR (100, 220), A. J. Myers (mile, 880) and Dennis Maupin (LH, discus) paced the Lions' victory.

Dave Stahr (HH), Rick Defourney (440), Ion Sancho (two-mile), Jeff Brandt (SP), Ken Hoff (PV) and Danny Baxter (HJ) gained the Scottie firsts.

Golf, Tennis District Meets Open Friday

District competition for area high school golfers and netters is scheduled this weekend (Friday and Saturday) at OSU.

Schoolboy linksters tee off Friday at 9 a.m. on OSU's 18-hole Gray spread with final rounds scheduled the next morning.

AMONG EARLY local favorites are Upper Arlington, Worthington and Walnut Ridge — all of whom have piled up impressive records this spring.

A light golf schedule completes the weekly schedule with only Teays Valley and City League golf matches dotting the tees.

CL golfers wrap up their '67 season Monday at Bridgeview (North vs. Eastmoor and East vs. Walnut Ridge) and Sunbury (Linden vs. Whetstone, West vs. Northland and Brookhaven vs. Central).

THE VIKINGS travel to London (4:45 p.m.) Tuesday and Chillicothe (Veterans' Hospital links vs. Unioto) a week from today.

Only other match finds Reynoldsburg hosting Dublin Monday at Walnut Hills.

FANCY MEETING YOU HERE!

The faces on the winners' platform when District track trophies were passed out looked strangely familiar Saturday night at Worthington. They should have since Arlington coach Dick Larkin (left) and Gahanna's Ed Raroy accepted identical first and second place awards respectively at the '66 Meet.

Phil Tinsky and Robert E. Young are co-chairmen and announce that entry forms are available at local tennis clubs. Deadline for entries is June 3.

This tournament is a qualifier for the State Jaycee Tournament and the Ohio Valley Tournaments in Cincinnati and Springfield.

Tournaments will be held in the 16-18 and 14 and under classifications.

CMS To Open Sunday

While the weatherman hasn't cooperated fully, Columbus Motor Speedway officials still plan to lift-the-lid on their 1967 season Sunday night.

A good turnout of both late-model and sportsman cars and drivers is anticipated for the opening night when they'll combine for an eight-event program highlighted with a feature race in each division.

FANS WILL be able to enjoy a brand new grandstand section, just south of the judges stand, as well as additional bleachers on the northwest turn that now gives the Williams Road raceway a seating capacity of 7500.

There is also free parking for over 2000 cars.

From all indications, the fast third-mile blacktop oval withstood the winter weather and should be in great shape for the torrid action the late-models and sportsman cars give it.

FOR THE sixth straight year, the Southside track will have the free game of "Total" for the fans, in which they can win cash by selecting the first five finishers (in order) in one of the night's features.

Sunday's time-trials begin at 7 p.m. and the first race is set to get moving promptly at 8 o'clock.

For the present, Sunday-night-only races will be run.

SCOTS NEAR CL GOLF TITLE

This Walnut Ridge fivesome all but wrapped up the City League golf title last week by raising its loop record to 7-0 (9-1-1 overall). Coach Ted Wolfe's Scottie linksters include (from left): number one man Dave Stiner, Larry Stone, Bill Burget, Dan Nash and Scott Albin.

Four Area Baseballers Named To All-Ohio Team

By BOB WHITMAN
Spectator Staff Writer

Reynoldsburg's Gary Shade, Grove City's Larry Kerschner, Hartley's Charles Masterson and Worthington's Greg Nesser walk off area high school diamonds June 3 and onto the neatly-trimmed Jet Stadium infield wearing all-Ohio jerseys.

At the meeting of the Central Ohio Baseball Coaches Association last week, those four were elected from the Central District to participate in the annual Columbus Jaycees sponsored All-Star series, held June 3 and 4.

REYNOLDSBURG'S Shade received the most votes of the coaches as an infielder, but the Raider dandy has put his team in first place of the Metro League thus far this spring with an 8-0 pitching log.

"This boy can beat you in so many ways," said Dan Brown, Reynoldsburg's first-year coach, "he keeps right at you and hustles all the way."

That appraisal was consistent with the other coaches' feelings. Said Franklin Heights' Ed Lewis: "He is definitely one of the best in the area, if not the best."

Shade, a righty, has fanned 73 in 55 innings and owns a .382 earned run average. The Reynoldsburg senior is a switch-hitting .462 slugger with 15 RBI's.

G-C'S KERSCHNER is team leader with a .531 batting average to go along with his 5-1 pitching record. The right-handed senior was selected by the area coaches for his outfield ability and was hailed by veteran coach Elmer Houdashalt as "one of the best boys that I have had."

"He is fast, has a good arm and is a real competitor," Elmer continued.

FRANKLIN HEIGHTS' DAN LANDIS
. . . serves up 'K diet' for enemy batsmen

LANDIS STARTS FILLING PLESS' OVERSIZED SPIKES

By BOB WHITMAN
Spectator Staff Writer

Franklin Heights' Danny Landis has some big shoes to fill but if he keeps on his dedicated pace he should be poking through the toes sometime next spring.

The shoes belonged to all-Ohioan Mickey Pless, who Landis backed-up throughout the 1966 diamond season as Franklin Heights under the able direction of Ed Lewis moved to the Regional tournament in Gomer.

LANDIS HAS six shutouts to his credit so far this season with Heights still in the thick of the Metro League pennant race. Currently Lewis' mostly-underclassman team is in second place with a 5-2 loop log.

Pless is now pitching pro baseball in the Class A Florida State League for Tampa and owns a 1-0 record. He was spiked covering first last week and required 15 stitches to mend his foot.

Landis, a 5-10, 175 pound junior, has appeared in 70 innings during the 1967 campaign for the 11-10 F-H crew and has felled 132 on whiffs, permitting only 21 hits.

FALCON COACH Lewis figures that both the no-hitter (2-0 win over Central) and his 5-1 two hit win over twice-beaten Cincinnati Western Hills were his best performances of the year.

In making the expected comparison between Landis and the 6-5 Pless, Lewis said: "He throws as hard as Mickey but his curve doesn't have the control that Pless' did. He isn't as big as Pless, but he is stronger and has a lot of poise."

LANDIS, WHO picked up the nickname "Frog" from his teammates, is a conditioned pitcher who takes baseball seriously. "He wants to be good, real bad," added Lewis.

Ed also makes the point that Landis is every bit as good a pitcher as there is in the city now because he does so many things right on the mound.

"This kid is letter perfect as far as technique goes," Ed said, "handles himself real well on the hill and plays defense."

In the statistical account Landis has given up three earned runs and walked only 28. He currently has an 8-4 record, coming off a 5-2 year as a sophomore.

THROUGHOUT ALL of this experience, Dan has remained "the ideal kid to coach, he doesn't get mad all the time and knows how to take criticism."

Dan is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Landis of Big Run Road South in Franklin Township.

District 'AA' Regional Foes Own Combined 25-4 Record

By BOB WHITMAN

Two Central Ohio diamond dandies, both making their maiden trips in Regional warfare, open Friday in Gomer, Ohio, against a pair of Toledo gems who have a combined record of 25-4.

Paul Eckelberry's junior-dominated Whetstone Braves meet Toledo Rogers (11-4) in the 4 p.m. tilt.

THE OPENING regional round match at 1:30 p.m. will find unbeaten Toledo St. Francis (14-0), with a pair of deluxe pitchers, going against the winner of yesterday's Buckeye Valley-Bishop Hartley much-postponed battle.

Eckelberry, who hasn't decided on his starting winger (either George Rutan or Bruce Powell) will have his Braves at full go for the first time during the tournament.

Back into action at second base is veteran John Davies, who was discharged from the hospital Monday. Davies was relieved by sophomore Jim Mirise.

ROGERS' RAMS are set on pitching ace Rick Gill, who fashioned a two-hitter against tough Defiance to bring Jerry Lyke's scrappers into the Regionals.

Whetstone will have two seniors in the lineup against Rogers with centerfielder Scott Overturf and rightfielder Bud Jenkins, a .473 hitter and All-Ohio alternate.

Whetstone owns a 15-2 record with both defeats coming in the City League. Those two losses marked the only times in the last 33 games that the Scenic Drive battlers have been beaten.

IT WILL BE either the silver-haired marvel, Jack Ryan, or slick Dick Meyer matching brains against St. Francis' pitching star Dan Harbaugh (7-0). Harbaugh has already sewn up a full scholarship to the University of Florida.

Ryan also has a sparkler to counter in Hartley's All-Ohio sophomore, Chuck Masterson, who has a 7-2 record and the lowest number of walks (four in 66 innings) of any pitcher in the district.

Meyer owns quite a number in righty Larry Orahood, who has ruled the Mid-Ohio League so far this spring.

Keglers' Korner

By NORMA KIRKENDALL

Well, the WIBC in Rochester, N. Y., runs until May 28 but (to all practical purposes) is all over but the shouting.

Only Columbusite to hit the boards was Nancy Tatum who partnered with Betty Miveloz of Tujungo, Calif., to shoot 1179 and place fourth in Division I Doubles (unofficially).

THE FIELDS of 288 men and 144 women, who will be after the BPAA All-Star Tournament bowling title now held by four-time winner Dick Weber of Florissant, Mo., and Joy Abel of Lansing, Ill., in the 26th renewal of bowling's 'National Open' scheduled for May 20-28, have been announced.

This outstanding array of bowling stars represents 264 cities in 43 states, plus Australia and Japan. Except for 99 seeded stars, who earned their spots by past performances in the All-Star or in one of the other national championships (conducted by the Bowling Proprietors' Association of America, ABC, WIBC, Professional Bowlers Association and Professional Women Bowlers Association Events), all of the contestants are survivors of local, district or state qualifying events.

Nearly 20,000 men and women competed in the trials for a try at a share of the rich $70,000 prize fund.

ANNUALLY, about half of each year's field is making his or her first appearance. This year, 116 of the men are "rookies" and 172 have been in from two to 20 All-Stars.

Buzz Fazio of Detroit will establish a new record by bowling in his 21st All-Star, followed by Tom Hennessey (St. Louis), Don Carter (Tarzana, Calif.), and Bill Lillard (Dallas), each for the 18th time.

Ray Bluth (St. Louis), Ed Lubanski (Detroit), and Dick Hoover (Akron) are in the field for the 17th year.

THE VETERANS among the ladies are LaVerne Carter (St. Louis), Shirley Garms (Chicago), and Merle Matthews (Long Bech, Calif.) who will be appearing in their 15th All-Star.

A total of 68 of the 144 women will be competing for the first time. Anita Cantaline of Detroit is back for the 14th year. Phyllis Notaro of Brant, N. Y., is next with 12 appearances.

Nine past All-Star Champions are included among the men and six among the women. The men are four times winners Dick Weber of St. Louis, Mo. and Don Carter of Tarzana, Calif.; two-time winner Connie Schwoegler of Madison, Wis.; Dick Hoover, Akron, Ohio; Bill Lillard, Dallas, Tex.; Billy Welu, St. Louis, Mo.; Harry Smith, Belmont, Calif.; Bill Tucker, Burbank, Calif, and Bob Stampe, Detroit, Mich.

PAST CHAMPIONS in the women's field are Anita Cantaline, Detroit, Mich.; Merle Matthews, Long Beach, Calif.; Phyllis Notaro, Brant, N. Y.; Shirley Garms, Chicago, Ill.; La Verne Carter, St. Louis, bles and 15 RBI's hasn't errored this season. Grove City is 8-4.

HARTLEY'S MASTERSON was the pitcher selected from the area for his 7-2 record and .001 earned run average for 62 innings work. Chuck has four shutouts (Watterson, South, North and Walnut Ridge) and both of his defeats were by one run.

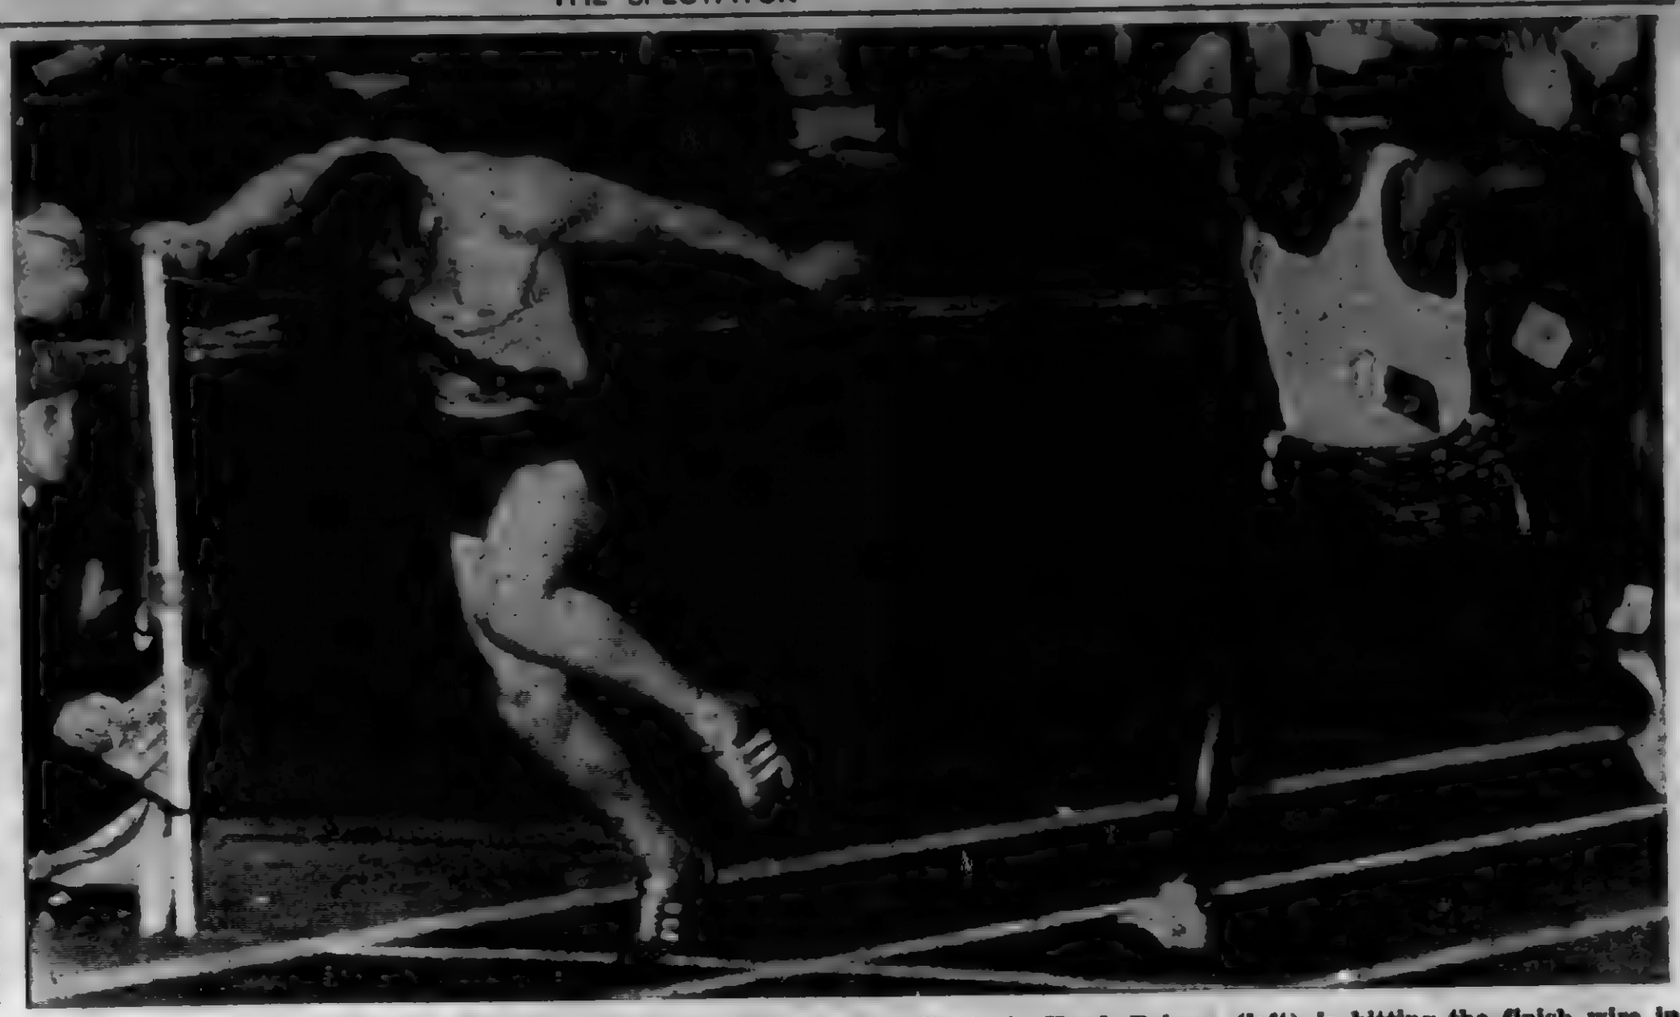
Hartley veteran Jack Ryan feels that Masterson's excellent control (only four walks and 101 whiffs,) and his mound poise are his greatest assets.

"He works hard and has the poise of a pro," Jack said. Masterson is a southpaw and has been instrumental in Hartley's 14-4 record this season.

WORTHINGTON'S Nesser, a righthander shortstop with a .350 average and eight RBI's capped a four year varsity career with what Cardinal coach Dick Termeer said is his "best season."

"He does so much for us," Dick said, "that it is hard to say when he isn't helping. He is always hustling."

Besides Nesser's batting talent, the spunky Worthington shortstop has eight stolen bases to his credit.



The 1967 Central District baseball team was also named by the coaches at the meeting:

Charles Masterson (Hartley), Tom Jackson (Ready), Bill Betz (Watterson), Chuck Drake (Hartley), Denny Dotson (Mifflin), Dana Zartman (Marion Franklin), Gary Shade (Reynoldsburg), Greg Nesser (Worthington), Charles Hess (Pleasant View), Tim Wolfe (Reynoldsburg), Larry Kerschner (Grove City), Bill Kale (Brookhaven), Doug Sickmeier (West) and Bud Jenkins (Whetstone).

Paul Eckelberry (Whetstone) and Paul Pennell (East) were selected All-Star coaches.

COULDN'T BE CLOSER—Any finish you might see closer than this one is called a "dead heat." This was the exciting climax to the 100-yd. dash at Saturday's "AA" District Meet. Arlington's Chuck Palmer (left) is hitting the finish wire in :10.3—a fraction of a step ahead of South's Rich Bolden who finished second.

'Twas Dark Week For Raider Baseball Crew

By JACK WITTENMEIER
Spectator Sports Editor

About the only thing bleaker than last week's weather was Reynoldsburg's baseball camp.

For, not only were Dan Brown's Raiders bounced unceremoniously from the District baseball tourney (10-3 by champion Whetstone), but—quite suddenly—two Metro League foes appeared breathing heavily down the leaders' neck (Franklin Hgts. and P-V).

THAT LATTER problem came as the result of Pleasant View's extra-inning 2-1 defeat of Reynoldsburg—the Raiders' initial Metro loss this spring.

A busy loop schedule which saw a journey to Hamilton Township (Tuesday), hosting of Whitehall yesterday and a visit by Teays Valley tomorrow further complicate the situation.

Rain and cold weather which has plagued the Raiders (and everyone else) all spring, has forced cancellation of tilts with Groveport and Worthington.

GAHANNA (home, next Monday) and Westerville (home, week from today) will complete Reynoldsburg's '67 diamond schedule.

Coach Brown admitted both errors (Raiders had four) and Whetstone's potent hitting attack spelled defeat in the tourney tilt.

The Braves opened with four first-frame runs (only two were earned) and didn't let up, collecting 10 safeties off Raider ace Gary Shade.

SHADE (double and single) and Phil Nolan, Tim Wolfe and Denny Spires (each had a single and RBI) paced Reynoldsburg hitting vs. Whetstone.

The Raiders matched P-V's early run in the second inning when Kenny Buck singled, stole second, went to third on an error and romped home on a passed ball.

But the Panthers cashed in with an eight-inning tally as Bruce Bostick reached base on a fielder's choice, stole second, went to third on an error and rode home on Jim Schwegart's double.

BUCK (single and double), Shade, Randy Wolfe and Dave Meredith (each had double) paced the Raider hitting.

"We had our scoring opportunities but just couldn't get them across," Brown related.

Shade continues to pace Raider slugging with a .459 average, followed by Tim Wolfe (.370), Phil Nolan (.350) and Denny Spires (.310).

THE REAL ESTATE SCENE

Now Is Time To List House

By DON FREEMAN
Real Estate Editor

The spring surge in real estate sales has left many brokers with record low listings.

One broker reported he was carrying six listings per salesman. Another said the average time from listing to sale is three weeks.

With mortgage rates between six and six and one-half per cent, Freeman it spells one clear message to sellers: NOW is the time to put properties on the market.

This build-up in sales of both new and used homes is shaping a good season for the housing industry in contrast to the doldrums of last year.

Most realtors are expressing optimism about the housing season overall with the early scarcity of listings and a forecast of even lower interest rates. Some predict that 1967 will be a record sales year.

STABILIZER PROPOSED

A move is under way in Washington to better stabilize the housing industry by requiring greater liquidity among savings and loan associations. These financial institutions have been blamed largely for last year's squeeze in mortgage money. And this resulted in the collapse in the housing market.

John E. Horne, the Home Loan Bank Board chairman, has put forth a plan for greater reserves among savings and loan associations to stabilize the flow of mortgage funds. He said that more money invested in mortgages when yields are high rather than low would offset much, and perhaps all, of the cost of extra liquidity.

He hinted that Congress might be asked to raise the liquidity ratios currently between four and eight per cent of savings.

He said: "Suppose, for example, association liquidity (last year) had been only two per cent higher — nine per cent instead of seven per cent. Then suppose that four percentage points of that liquidity had been in cash or securities maturing in less than a year. What would have been the outcome?

"By letting the securities mature or selling them off at perhaps a very minor loss, the institutions could have put $4 billion more into the mortgage market than they did . . . Overall, the impact on the mortgage market would have been a reduction in lending of only about one-fifth of what was experienced.

Across the country, apartment housing is leading the recovery. This is the preliminary finding of Advance Mortgage Corp. from data assembled for its quarterly survey of the nation's housing market. The survey, covering the first quarter of 1967, will be published the last week of this month.

Hazel Medors, now located at 2469 E. Main in Bexley, is clearing the way for three more salesmen she plans to add in the near future. She recently purchased the two-story building and this gives her ample room for expansion. Later on, she plans to sell her home on Cassady and move to the upstairs apartment. The knit shop, next door, is part of the purchase. She is in the midst of remodeling but it's business as usual (and on the upswing) despite the changes. Harry Kirkpatrick, Shirley McElhatton and Norma Starbuck currently are on her staff. Mrs. Medors has been in business in Bexley for the past 15 years.

Maira Realtors, 4299 E. Main, Whitehall, also is in new quarters. Mildred Maira has been a broker for two years and in the business the past four years. She plans to add two new sales persons in June. Helping her currently is Theresa Ritzman.

Anyone, I hope everyone, who sees "The Sand Pebbles" now showing at Cinema East will undoubtedly be completely entertained but will obtain a knowledge of startling factors dealing with Navy life, the Chinese, love and the protocols of war that will leave an everlasting impression.

The film takes the audience back to 1926 when China was at war within and without. An American sailor who loves his work as an engineer—drawn to the engine room and its machinery as a refugee from society—becomes involved as he serves duty aboard "San Pablo," a U. S. gunboat, with China's inward strife and cruelties affecting him.

Eastmoor Senior Gets 'First-Ever' Honor

A special award was given to an Eastmoor High School senior for his outstanding service to the school during Eastmoor's Awards Day which was held May 18.

Gary Hitzeman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hitzeman, 3755 Dehner-dr, was presented an engraved plaque for dedicated service to the projects and programs of Eastmoor High School.

Hitzeman, who has been working with audio and visual aids since junior high school days, has been helpful to teachers in all departments by operating projectors, lights and sound equipment for the school programs and plays.

"This is the first year that an individual award such as this has been given. But, Gary has been so helpful to the school in such a variety of ways, we felt that something had to be done to show our appreciation," Eastmoor's Principal Gordon Harris said.

"We have a lot of helpful kids but a Gary comes along just once in a while," Harris said.

Hitzeman plans to enter the Columbus Technical Institute to study data processing following graduation.

EVERYONE'S FINGERS ARE CROSSED UNTIL BIDS ARE OPENED

Can the Eastland Joint Vocational School, as represented in the architect's conception pictured above, be built and equipped for $3,000,000? That is a moot question just now. However, when bids are opened (probably the middle of July for equipment and several weeks later for the building) this question which has the proposed school's board and administrators' collective fingers crossed will be answered. As now planned, Eastland will put under roof about 187,000 square feet and will include five academic class rooms, four Occupation Work Experience areas and 12 vocationally related classrooms in addition to the usual administrative and housekeeping space. Superintendent David B. Martin will appear on Open Classroom at 8:30 a.m. Saturday on Channel 4 describe in considerable detail the floor plan and functions of the facility which will serve students of the Canal Winchester, Madison, Whitehall, Reynoldsburg and Jefferson districts.

THE WEATHERMAN FINALLY COOPERATED . . .

So these East Side youngsters took to the Great Outdoors Sunday for some springtime fun. Eastmoor Student Appears In Ingenue's June Issue

An Eastmoor High School student is spotlighted in the current issue of a national teenagers magazine for her work in tidying up the city.

Christine Shields, 3022 Templeton-rd, is the 17-year-old student who organized Columbus' Operation C.R.U.D.—Campaign to Remove Unsightly Debris. She is cited as a "Teen in Action" in the June issue of Ingenue Magazine.

Miss Shields began her campaign after last June's National Youth Conference on Natural Beauty and Conservation by rounding up 40 local Y-Teen members to do something about the "filthy streets" in the downtown area.

Last November 26, the Eastmoor High School senior and her C.R.U.D. team converged on Columbus' shopping district with picket signs and litter sacks and within two hours collected "enough litter to keep the Sanitation Department busy for weeks."

The girls then marched to city hall and deposited the rubbish on the lawn, right under the statue of Christopher Columbus. "It was a strategic place," Miss Shields said, "and we made our point effectively."

Miss Shields is a member of the Girl Scouts, YWCA, Future Teachers of America, Methodist Youth Fellowship and the Inter-club Council of Y-Teens. She also is a member of Eastmoor's student council, the senior choir and is chairman of the senior class dinner.

IT'S ALL FOR M-F

Those Marion - Franklin Boosters are at it again.

The spring festival at Zayre's parking lot, 3651 E. Main-st, this week is just another project of the Boosters' perennial efforts to support the athletic and music departments of the school.

The fruitfulness of their efforts were stressed only last month when Mike Mileusnich, Booster president, headed for the school loaded down by three slips of paper.

They really didn't tip any scales, but they carried a lot of weight.

One was a check for $1,500 made out to the athletic department and the other two, each for $750, were for the vocal and instrumental music departments.

Those interested in either having a good time at the festival which features rides by Gooding Amusement Co. or in backing the Boosters, are urged to get tickets from the Marion-Franklin athletic or music departments.

Apple For The Teacher

The Spectator Newspapers warmly applaud recent action of the Columbus Public Schools in adopting guidelines for teachers in sex education.

These newspapers have urged an enlightened program of sex education in all schools and the action in Columbus is a steady step in the right direction and should be firmly supported by parents.

There is no way to measure how much heartbreak has been spared by adequate sex education. It is all too easy to find evidence of how much has been caused by the lack of it.

'The Other Guy'

By this time, the phrase "Drive Safely" is becoming just another hackneyed cliche.

Highway safety officials, the newspapers, radio and television stations and safety-minded civic groups try to pound it into the heads of American drivers every holiday weekend.

It never works.

This Memorial Day, the highway slaughter will start all over again.

So perhaps an original thought may help bring home the message.

Who says it always happens to the other guy?

One of these days, the "other guy" might well be you.

Juveniles' Rights

The United States Supreme Court has recently affirmed that children are not exempted under the federal constitution from the same legal rights as adult citizens.

In an 8 to 1 ruling, the high court held that juveniles accused of crimes have the right to know the charges, the right to counsel, protection from self-incrimination, a transcript of proceedings and the right to appeal.

Under the current national hodge-podge of juvenile justice, children are often subjected to totally arbitrary orders of juvenile judges, most of whom are motivated by the loftiest purposes.

Justice Abe Fortas, in the controlling opinion, wrote "Under our constitution the condition of being a boy does not justify a kangaroo court."

The U.S. Supreme Court has once more demonstrated that in this nation, as in no other, the dignity of man, and boy, is protected by the majesty of the law.

Talk Is Cheap

By ROBERT BURDOCK
Editor and Publisher

BURDOCK

Talk is cheap in this town.

The chief talker is Governor Rhodes.

In his last inaugural address Rhodes said he was going to make Ohio first in education. Students at Ohio State University might be a bit confused concerning what he meant. If paying the highest tuition fee among Big Ten schools is "first," then Ohio might make it.

A state employes' pay boost to sooner got through the legislature than Ohio State announced an upcoming increase in dormitory fees, blamed in part on "rising employe pay scales."

Before the last election the state vowed it would not yield to distillers' demands for higher liquor prices. Shortly after the election, the state announced higher liquor prices.

Rhodes piously makes a big thing of having appointed Negroes to various high state jobs. Then a federal judge puts the rap squarely on the state of Ohio for failing to end job discrimination.

"Austerity," Rhodes shouted when he first took office. Then he went out and bought an expensive executive aircraft to jaunt around the state.

"No new taxes," he bellowed. The legislature is currently trying to figure out how to come up with a minimum additional $250 million a year in taxes.

"Ohio leads the nation in water pollution control efforts," Rhodes bragged. Other than publishing a booklet about water pollution he has done nothing else.

"The Wonderful World of Ohio" has its praises sung monthly in an expensively printed state magazine which loses hundreds of thousands of dollars a year. Meanwhile, Ohio's welfare recipients live on 72 cents a day. The least Rhodes could do is give them a copy of the magazine along with their checks.

Then there were the promised Golden Age Villages for 11,000 aged mental hospital inmates, completion of I-71 into downtown Cleveland, a bridge over Lake Erie, more jobs, more progress, more bond issues and more talk, talk, talk.

Keep talking, Governor. You'd be surprised how many people are really beginning to listen.

Let's Help Farmers

To The Editor:

This is a copy of a letter sent to Daniel Armbruster, chief of the Ohio Division of Wildlife.

"Dear Sir:

On April 15, 1967 The Southeast Conservation Club was host to over 100 farmers that participate in our Controlled Hunting program.

A general forum was held and many topics were discussed — quail hunting, the dove bill, stream pollution, and law enforcement by the Division of Wildlife.

One subject "stuck out like a sore thumb." The farmers agreed unanimously that Saturdays of the upland game season caused them more headaches than any other day in the week; more hunters in the field and hence trespassers more numerous on their property. They pointed out that calls to the Division of Wildlife brought no response because your radio is not in operation on Saturdays.

The feeling was that if you must shut down two days a week, Monday should be the week day as the hunting pressure is lightest on this day.

Please let's help the farmers that provide sportsmen with a place to hunt, fish, and relax."

Dana M. Williams, Secretary

What's Wrong With Law?

To The Editor:

Several months ago, women on the far east side of Columbus were terrorized by a masked man who attacked at least four women (one of which was raped, two were teenagers and another threatened with a knife in her own apartment). Other women in the same area received threatening telephone calls during this time.

Under fire by the public to find and arrest the man responsible police spent many hours investigating and accumulating evidence for this case. Finally, a man was arrested and charged with breaking and entering an occupied dwelling after dark and assault with a deadly weapon.

This man was tried on April 10. Two of the women attacked testified against him. My sympathy is with these two brave women. Their courage was in vain for the man was found not guilty and set free by an 80-year-old judge. The judge made the decision after the jury was waivered by the defendant after one hour and one-half deliberation.

What is wrong with our laws? Are they either too weak or too strong? Why was a person with 14 traffic violations still operating a motor vehicle which killed two people in April of this year? In the case of the molester, was the prosecutor's office unable to present its case well enough? Was the judge too old to make a sound judgment in this case? Is justice impaired by wrong decisions because of political reasons? Is it fair that women must fear to answer their doors or telephones because offenders of this type are permited to roam our streets?

leo rennert ★ A Californian Looks At Rhodes—VII ★

Editor's Note: This is the seventh in a series of articles on the Rhodes administration written by Leo Rennert, staff writer for California's McClatchy Newspapers group.

In Ohio, whether you own a 1967 luxury car or an old jalopy, you pay the same annual automobile license fee—$10.

The owner of the luxury model likes that arrangement. He also is happy with most other features of Ohio's tax system.

Right now, aides of Gov. James A. Rhodes are discussing the possibility of extending the three percent sales tax to such services as haircuts.

The owner of the expensive car likes that idea, too.

Statistics show that his hair is not likely to grow faster than that of the guy driving the jalopy.

In each case, the tipoff is clear. Ohio believes in getting virtually all of its state revenue from sales taxes and user fees. There is no state income tax.

Ability to pay is a foreign concept. In fact, the reverse—inability to pay—is a more accurate description of the Ohio system of taxation.

One of the most blatant examples of this regressive approach is in higher education, where the poor actually subsidize the rich.

"But that, after all, is the Republican system of taxation," said Edward J. Wagner II, special assistant to the president of Cleveland State University. "You take from those who can least afford it."

Rhodes inherited much of the present system. But he gives every indication he likes it and is not about to tinker with it too much.

If additional state taxes are needed, they probably will be in the form of the sales tax and increases in user fees.

Rhodes also is expected to continue to shift as much of the tax load as possible to local governments. There are reports he may propose legislation giving cities, counties and school districts more authority to boost local levies.

"We are aware of and have a deep understanding of the problems of local government," the governor declared during his second inaugural address. "Local government needs greater opportunity to help itself and a broader base to finance its needs."

Finance Director Richard Krabach opposes a state income tax on the ground it would "penalize the industrious" and give the "inefficient an advantage."

When reminded many Ohio cities levy income taxes, Krabuch replies this is more acceptable because there is the protection of tight "local control."

Use of a state income tax, however, is not against Republican doctrine, in all parts of the nation. For example, Spiro Agnew, Maryland's new GOP governor, is moving in the direction of a state income tax graduated from two to six percent.

Rhodes, however, is in no hurry to follow Agnew.

"Whatever tax proposal Rhodes finally comes up with," predicted a professor at Ohio State University, "you can be sure of two things: It will be regressive and it will be inadequate."

Next: Reagan and Rhodes—A study in contrasts.

marquis childs ★ King: The Balance Of Power ★

CHILDS

As man and as symbol Martin Luther King Jr. is the center of a power struggle extending far beyond the deep divisions in the civil rights movement. At stake is no less than the shape of the anti-Vietnam protest movement—riot and blood in the streets or orderly dissent.

The decision King finally makes can shift the balance in the Presidential politics of 1968. The intense debate that went on not long ago throws a revealing light on how much turns on the outcome of this struggle.

At the end of the debate King announced that he would not be a peace candidate for President next year as had been widely reported.

It was a momentary victory for the moderates in the civil rights movement, Joseph L. Rauh Jr., Roy Wilkins and others opposing the all-out defiance of the black power leaders.

If you run on a third-party peace ticket you will elect Richard Nixon President of the United States, Rauh told King. That will be the end result of your crusade for equal justice for the Negro. This was, needless to say, a sobering thought.

No one close to the debate believes, however, that King's decision was final. He is under strong continuing pressure to head a third-party ticket on a peace platform with Dr. Benjamin Spock as the Vice-Presidential candidate. Black power leaders Stokely Carmichael, Floyd McKissick and their followers tell him at every opportunity that it is his duty to give the American people a choice and not an echo.

This is heady wine. Adulators insist that he and he alone can show the way to peace in Vietnam. At the very least, they argue, he can bring about the defeat of Lyndon Johnson for a second full term.

In the complex struggle is an element often discussed in private but never mentioned in public. This is a rumored FBI report on King's private life derived from an electronic device placed in a hotel room. The FBI has denied the existence of any such report. Asked several times by reporters, King says he has never heard of it.

In December, 1964, J. Edgar Hoover, the FBI chief, denounced King as "the most notorious liar in the country." Shortly afterward King called at FBI headquarters to meet Hoover. He had little to say when he came out and the report circulated that he had been confronted with the hotel-room recording. King denied that anything like this had happened.

Yet, like an uneasy ghost, the report will not die. On the day that King and Spock were to lead the massive anti-war demonstration in New York last month the President let it be known at his Texas ranch that he was reading an FBI report on "anti-war activity." Among King's friends and followers were those convinced this was aimed at the head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

In recent weeks King has been following a moderate line. At Louisville a demonstration promising to disrupt the Kentucky Derby was called off after one of King's followers announced that an "urgent telephone call" necessitated cancelling the planned march. Although it was denied that the call was threatening, again the rumor of pressure from Washington circulated.

That the Budda-like figure of this once-obscure Negro minister with the voice that is a curious monotone should be cast up in the crucible of the civil rights movement to a balance of power role is a strange vagary of a strange time. Whichever road he takes the history books will have a lot to say about Martin Luther King.

barry goldwater ★ Happy Birthday, Mr. President ★

GOLDWATER

Belated happy birthday, Harry.

Harry Truman's 83rd birthday anniversary last week served as a reminder to me of the many times I disagreed with the former President—and the major times when I thought he was 100% right.

On balance, I think that Harry Truman is going to cut a fine figure in our history with a lot of solid credits on his ledger, particularly in the field of foreign affairs.

I always had the impression that when Mr. Truman was faced with a tough foreign policy question he put his partisan political credentials into the bottom drawer and went to work purely and simply as an American, proud of his country, jealous of her freedom, fully aware of her power and responsibility in the world.

There has never been any doubt in my mind that if Harry Truman felt the price of a proper decision would be the loss of an election he would take the right course—and accept a licking at the polls without a whimper.

I know he has a temper, and he displayed it in the White House more than once. But somehow it never seemed mean or vindictive, just high spirited. Particularly, it never seemed to be the result of a pompous view of his own importance.

But it was in crucial moments of international peril that Harry Truman stood as tall as any President we've had. The so-called Truman Doctrine in 1947 was one of the most important roadblocks ever thrown in the way of Communist aggression.

Technically, it involved the appropriation of $400 million for military and economic aid to Greece and Turkey. Psychologically, politically and diplomatically, it involved a lot more.

It told the Communists flatly that their attempts to conquer Greece by guerrilla warfare and to turn Turkey into a satellite by threats and pressure would bring them into a head-on confrontation with the United States. In short, it told the Communists that they could expect no bargain basement conquests.

In Greece, the issue was decided on the battlefield where American military advisers and arms helped Greek soldiers turn the tide and finally rout the Red enemy. In Turkey, the issue was decided in a more political manner, with the Soviets backing off under the gun of Mr. Truman's determination.

Had the Truman Doctrine been applied firmly to Vietnam, so that at the beginning of aggression the Communists would have known full well that the United States would come down on them with both feet, there is every likelihood that the aggression would have dried up or at worse been confined to hit-and-run raids and the inevitable subversion.

In Korea, as another example, the war was brought about by a violation of the Truman Doctrine, even though in the Truman administration. The Communist invasion was sprung only after some administration officials had made the serious error of saying that Korea was "outside" our area of immediate interest.

On balance, though, Harry Truman gave this nation some of its proudest movements. We could do far worse than heed the advice of the Truman Doctrine today.

I am one American who really wishes Harry Truman, in his golden years, all the best.

Newness Of Welsh Hills Doesn't Hurt 'Fantastics'

Not quite a year old, but making lots of noise on the community theater scene in the Columbus area is Welsh Hills Players of Newark.

Last weekend and this weekend WHP is producing its third production, the musical "Fantastiks."

Being as the noise is so loud a trip was necessary if only for curiosity. Yes, they do a fantastic job with the play—a hard one to produce considering the realm of writing—fantasy, love, parable.

The tunes will astound the audience in performance . . . professional. But here the credit is due to two performers, John Price and Mary Kay Booher.

Acting-wise, the star appeared from one who had no lines, D. F. Partington as the mute. He really knew and felt his part and the show. Hope to see more acting whether with lines or without.

The show was well put together but, for this viewer, left one feeling as if there must be an easier way to enjoy plays — or do plays — armories, schools and now the basement of a church. What these magnificent people subject themselves to for entertainment is beyond comprehension.

The basement is the main factor which I found distracting to the play. Sound, vision and comfort made for one of those reasons I feel any community theater, as previous reviews have stated, should leave musicals to the big boys.

Too many important factors are needed and usually are not available to community theater.

If you like "Fantastiks" then you will enjoy this production. Great staging is apparent with little space.

Give Welsh Hills Players a few more plays — and who knows, maybe I won't be the only theater lover traveling the 35 miles to fet to Plymouth Congregational Church Performances are Thursday through Saturday 8:30 p.m.

Curtain Players Sparkle In 'Bus Stop' Production

"Bus Stop," the season finale for Curtain Players was a clincher this past weekend in Westerville.

This well known and often produced play about a rowdy cowboy's advances towards a pretty nightclub entertainer was not only well directed by Barbara Boylan but was well charcterized by the eight roles in the play.

Top honors go to Bev Davis as the abducted "Cherie," Mrs. Davis certainly carried off her accent to the hilt . . . with her husband Tom Davis as "Bo" setting the remarkable pace for the sthow.

Much business took place in all areas of the stage and kept the audience on its toes.

The highlight of the evening occurred during the second act when actors Ed King, Dick Near, Tom Davis and Linda Nuzum put on a variety show. Enthusiasm ran wild as each character tried to escape realism for a few minutes with each succumbing to the facts.

Eris King as "Gracie," the owner of the diner "where the action was," gave forth with such deliberate delivery of lines and self assurance that her portrayal was captivating.

William Inge, author, gives each character several lines that are penetrating either because of a situation on stage or to relate a character. Each cast member including Tony Simoski and Harry Nuzum caught and delivered these with true characterizations delighting the audiences.

There were a few instances of weak characterizations or lack of interpretation.

Tough Time In Fathoming Gallery's 'Skin Of Teeth'

Gallery Players is currently winding up its 1966-1967 theater season— and really "wound" up with Thornton Wilder's "Skin of Our Teeth."

As should be for a play dealing with symbolism rather than facts director Harold Eisenstein has molded together a really delight if not for interpretation at least for presentation. Do not become disturbed if little is understood for this is the name of the game—allegory.

Each viewer will have to decide for himself if this is his "cup of tea" for entertainment. This play is an uncontrollable deluge into the past, present and future through use of fantasy.

Acting in many instances is superb. Jean Smith as the lead definitely carries this provocative role as "Sabina," announcer and beauty contest winner with the desired pace, character changes, voice changes and general polish.

Others making impressions are Rhea Kaplan, Phillip Wilson, Julian Barnett, Joe Colucci and Bea Roth.

Makeup, which this reviewer has felt in past productions was not up to standards for this group, came through quite well. Audibility in many instances left one pondering over more than actually hearing the lines, especially in the third act.

Go, see, enjoy but don't think too hard for a couple of days. Call the Jewish Center at 231-2731 for specifics. Performances are May 24, 25, 27 and 28.

OSU Jazz Band To Present Concert

Ladd McIntosh's prize-winning Ohio State University School of Music Jazz Workshop Band will present a concert in Mershon Auditorium at 3 p.m. on Sunday, June 4. McIntosh himself received the Stan Kenton Award for the best original jazz competition.

. Tickets are now on sale at Mershon Auditorium Ticket Office.

Ed Ames Opening Set At Maramor

Ed Ames, versatile entertainer who has the unusual distinction of achieving star status as a recording and night club artist, as a TV and legitimate actor and as a musical comedy performer, will begin a three-night performance at the Maramor, Thursday.

As a recording artist in 1964, he came out with an album entitled "Opening Night With Ed Ames." A few months later one of these tunes "Try to Remember," skyrocketed to one of the hit recordings of 1965.

In December of 1966, RCA Victor released Ames' recording "My Cup Runneth Over" which became one of the five best sellers in the nation.

On television, Ames portrays "Mingo," the Oxford-educated son of a Cherokee Indian mother and an English father on the Daniel Boone setasticks."

On Broadway and in other theaters, he has won critics' raves as John Proctor in Arthur Miller's "Crucible," as Sky Masterson in "Guys and Dolls" and as the star on "Fantasia."

Versatility is the correct descriptive word as he is not only an outstanding athlete but an accomplished linguist.

Ames' future plans include a directorial debut and a venture into both opera and Shakespearean drama.

There will be two performances nightly at 8:30 and 11:30 p.m.

Zhivago Back In Town For Showing At Three Theaters

For the second time around Columbus area residents are being given the opportunity to view Doctor Zhivago at Town and Country and Great Western Cinemas and Loew's Morse Road.

This is a golden opportunity to be movingly entertained through a beautiful story of a Russian poet's life and those he comes in contact with during the Russian Revolution.

There is nothing to criticize. This film won six academy awards, is based on the Nobel Prize winning novel by Boris Pasternak, directed by David Lean and is a Carlo Ponti production. What more is needer. Actors . . . Omar Shariff as "Zhivago," Julie Christie as "Lara," the mistress and subject of a poem which is written during "seclusion" from the perils of the revolution; Tom Courtenay, Alec Guiness, Rod Steiger and Geraldine Chaplin all sparkle.

There may not be a third opportunity for many months. Go and shed a few tears for the lives involved with "Doctor Zhivago."

Gay 90's Back In Style At New 'Bottoms Up' Club

"Bottoms Up" brings on a new concept at 2894 E. Main. At various interludes enthusiastic bartenders and waiters, polished off with straw hats and mustaches reminiscent of the 1890's, pull out cap pistols and open fire while patrons take a "sip" of cheer—that's "Bottoms Up."

Owner Mort Love has followed in the footsteps of the Mickey Finn entertainment in bringing to Columbus entertainment seekers lots of enjoyment with a period long gone, but cherished by all.

It's pleasant to listen to Bill Morehead playing the banjo, Charlie Dawling on tuba with Rex O'Neil strummin' on the banjo and "Uncle Harry" on a twenty-year old piano.

Such favorites a "Up a Lazy River," Yankee Doodle Dandy" and "Rock-a-Bye Your Baby" are not only pleasing, but a change of pace long overdue.

Quite a few "atmosphere" touches are clever and entertaining. There is the menu which is a souvenir for sure, draft beer, whistles, a screen or shade announcing intermission, sing - a - long numbers, beer kegs and the stamping of feet and the clapping of hands.

As advertised, it's different, but a delightful evening out. On Mondays and Tuesdays the "Bill of Fare" states that ladies are served beer at less than half price.

A gimmick, yes, but what an inexpensive way to enjoy entertainment.

Vietnamese Refugee Village Named For 'All-American City'

One hundred fifty kids are the particular responsibility of a Columbus man and these children need clothes desperately.

Can you help these children evacuated with their mothers last month from their Vietnamese homes and herded into a refugee village known as "Camp Columbus"?

WHEN 2ND LT. Thomas Gillette who lived in Columbus while a student at Ohio State University, and later as a newsman at TV stations 6 and 34, was named civic affairs officer in charge of the camp he took two steps.

First he named it "Camp Columbus" in honor of the city he calls home, and secondly he wrote here to his wife Nancy calling "Help!"

Nancy in turn, made aware of the plight of the children torn from their homes to protect them from bombing in the area believed she knew where she could get her husband — and the children—the help they needed.

AND THIS is where Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner stepped in.

Asking the community that they "bring the heart of Columbus" to its tiny Vietnamese namesake the Mayor declared that every fire station in the city will act as a collection station for clothing during the eight-day campaign, beginning Friday, May 26.

He has secured the cooperation of Fort Hayes to ship the donated clothing to Camp Columbus and to distribute any excess to other children of the country in like circumstances.

BADLY NEEDED are underwear, shirts, boxer shorts, dresses and tennis and shower clogs. Reminding the community that Vietnam is very hot and the Vietnamese smaller than the average American, Lt. Gillette asks that clothing be light weight and not too large. He also mentioned that tooth paste and brushes are sadly lacking for the almost possessionless children.

Anyone with useful children's attire that can be spared is asked to take the clothing to the nearest of the 25 fire stations scattered throughout the city.

Expressing confidence Columbus will help these kids, Sensenbrenner stated, "We realize we can't bring the gospel of freedom to these children when they are hungry, sick or naked."

HE WAS repeating in different words those of Lt. Gillett when he wrote, "The future of Vietnam lies with the children."

While Nancy Gillette counts off the 391 days until her husband returns from Vietnam she gets the red carpet treatment from Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner who even gave her his very favorite seat for a few minutes—that reserved for "His Honor." At the left is Fire Chief Glenn Barr who also thoroughly approves of the work with which Nancy is helping her husband, although he is half-a-globe away.

Post Office Closed On Memorial Day

Stamps will be available from vending machines located at the main post office and at self-service postal units located at Great Western, Great Southern and Graceland shopping centers and on the Ohio State University campus.

Parade To Highlight Memorial Day

Franklin County will honor its thousands of war dead this weekend in Memorial Day services in cemeteries, churches and cities throughout the county.

The Memorial Day observance will be climaxed on Tuesday with a county-wide parade in downtown Columbus and memorial observances at Veterans Memorial Auditorium.

Local veterans organizations will prepare for the observance beginning Saturday by placing flags on the graves of the more than 15,000 war dead buried in the county.

On Memorial Day itself, the General Memorial Day Committee's county-wide parade will begin at 9 a.m. at the corner of Cleveland Avenue and East Broad Street.

The parade will proceed west on Broad Street across the Broad Street Bridge, disbanding at Washington Avenue. On the reveiwing stand at City Hall will be military and civic leaders and honored guests of the Gold Star and Blue Star Mothers, Widows of World War I Veterans and widows of Spanish-American War victims.

Ralph Hedrick will serve as grand marshal of the parade, with Ernest Obert as chief of staff and Frank C. Kunz as adjutant. Marshals of the four parade divisions are Col. Rieder P. Schell, Henry J. Schutte, Paul Queen and Lt. Col. E. A. Nutt.

Featured parade units include the Fort Hayes color guard, the 37th Infantry Division band, marching units from the Army, Navy, Air Force and Marines, the Capital City Pipe Band, all local veterans groups and the Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts.

Immediately following the parade, at approximately 10 a.m., the Navy-Marine Post of the American Legion will hold naval memorial services on the bridge, lowering a floral anchor into the Scioto River.

The 11th annual memorial service sponsored by the American Legion will follow the naval ceremony in Veterans Memorial Auditorium. Judge William C. Bryant will be master of ceremonies and Col. Robert Chiaramonte, superintendent of the Ohio Highway Patrol will be guest speaker. Also participating will be the 37th Division Band, a mixed choir under the direction of E. C. Schick of Marion-Franklin High School and the flower girls.

Eight neighborhoods have also scheduled special Memorial Day services. They are:

Bexley — 11 a.m. at the Bexley Pylon, East Broad at Drexel, sponsored by the Bexley Post, American Legion.

Dublin — Naval services at noon on the Dublin Bridge sponsored by Dublin VFW Post and the Dublin Legion Post. A parade will proceed from the Old Township Building to the cemetery at 1:30 p.m.

Gahanna — 11 a.m. on the Gahanna Bridge, sponsored by Tri-Community Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Groveport — A parade will be held at 1:15 p.m., beginning at the Township Hall and proceeding to the cemetery with the Groveport-Madison High School band leading the line of march. The parade is sponsored by Robert Dutro Post of the American Legion.

Grove City — The American Legion Post will hold a parade at 1 p.m. to the cemetery for 1:30 p.m. carnation services. Dr. Michael Chakeres, state commander, will speak.

Linden Area — The Legion, VFW, DAV and AMVET posts will sponsor a prade at 10 a.m., moving from Duxberry and Cleveland Avenues to Scott's Point at Cleveland and Westerville Road, led by the Linden-McKinley High School Band.

Realtors Mark 59th Birthday

By DON FREEMAN
Real Estate Editor

Columbus Realtors have a birthday this week — their 59th.

Chartered in 1908, there are three remaining founders: William P. Zinn, 118 E. Long, Charles F. Johnson, 8 E. Long and the board's first president, Frank N. Hammond of El Paso, Tex.

When the organization began, there were 37 charter members. Today there are 2,000 brokers and salesmen who are members — 510 brokers, all told.

FREEMAN

IN ITS new facilities at 200 E. Town since February, the Columbus Board of Realtors occupies the third floor of the half million dollar building, over 5,000 sq. ft.

The board provides multiple listing services, a photo guide to buying homes, counsels Realtors and defends the trademark Realtor.

Since the time of founding, the board has earned a proud record of service to the community.

70 At Style Show

About 70 women associated with the real estate industry attended a style show Friday at the Walnut Hills Country Club. Jane Core, local designer, offered summer casual wear, afternoon styles and formal wear. Five models posed. TV and radio personality, Joyce Jeffrey moderated the program.

The outing was the annual meeting for new members of the Columbus Chapter of Women's Council for the NARE. Its president is Mrs. Helen Tedrow of Ken Realty.

Tickets were offered during the show for the June 22nd benefit card party scheduled at 8 p.m. at the Jewish Center on College Avenue. Money will benefit "Project Concern" — a medical aid program in South Vietnam. Also on tap then is a demonstration of wigs and hairpieces by DeLuca Salons.

Roadblock: Older Home

The problem of disposing of an older home before buying a new one is one of the biggest roadblocks in the industry.

A national authority on the subject, Dave Stone of San Francisco, recommends an equity insurance guarantee program. Like an insurance policy, the program underwrites the risk of a delayed sale.

Under the plan, the homeowner selects a new home, asking his dealer to reserve the home, subject to a satisfactory trade-in or sale of the old one. He has his home appraised and is guaranteed net price on the basis of the appraisal. A selling price is recommended.

THE HOME IS PLACED on the market at the recommended price. Any yield from the sale above the guaranteed net is paid to the owner when the home is sold. If the home isn't sold in the guaranteed period, the owner is paid the guaranteed equity and the dealer completes the transfer.

Stone says the home trade-in guarantee policy is becoming more popular. "It permits the prospective buyer to buy without delay and always to know the least he will receive for his equity in the older property. He will be in a position of a cash buyer when looking for another property and this often saves financing and other costs."

Another tool, says Stone, is the equity loan. The builder grants a six-month loan to be repaid after the 90-day period. The loan period provides sufficient time for sale of the old house and the buyer gets his new property at today's prices.

FIRST PLAY OF ITS KIND

P-V, Prarie Players Combine

By KEN HAMMOND
Spectator Staff Writer

An unusual but pleasing combination of theater talent is planning what should be a very interesting high school play for Pleasant View High School.

"Ten Little Indians" will be offered by the Pleasant View High School Thespians May 26, at 8 p.m. in the school auditorium. The presentation promises to be different in at least two ways.

First, the play will be directed by Mrs. Phyliss Cooper. Contrary to tradition, she is not a drama major, but a girl who has learned theater from the ground up in various community little theater activities.

The second and most unusual aspect of this play is that the Prairie Players, a semi-professional theater group, is actively sponsoring and working in its production.

With expert instruction, this tender scene is rehearsed over and over again.

According to local sources, this is the first time in this area that a high school production has used the experienced personnel of such a theater group, and the valuable assistance of a total resource library and equipment bank.

The Prairie Players are not performing in the play, however. They offer instruction, materials, equipment, and financing assistance only. With these, students in the stagecraft division of the production will have the opportunity of working with semi-professionals.

According to Prairie Players immediate past president, Joe Hietter, and current president, Carl Walker, the purpose of the participation is to "introduce young people interested in the dramatic arts to the real opportunities for creativity and self expression which are inherent in such activity, to contribute whatever we can to the improvement of high school drama, and as a partial fulfillment of our responsibilities to the community from which we draw our support."

Director Phyliss Cooper directed last season's children's play, "Snow White and Rose Red." It was successfully presented by Prairie Players in both the South-Western City and Columbus Public Schools. It is booked for road presentations this summer.

Students in the cast include Bonita Smith, Bill Clark, Steve Adams, Don Wolfe, Mike Wallace, Bill Newton, Pam Williams, Stephanie Martin, Jan Jughes, Cele Wright and Kevin Hayden.

Student crew members include: Debbie DeVoss, assistant director; Eddie Vandeiftbyleveld, stage manager; Debbie Barber, business manager; Gita Lochte, make up; Mike Dick and Phil Maupin, lighting; Joe Fletcher, sound and Mychael Sue Thompson, properties.

Prairie Players actively involved include Joe Hietter, Don Goodrich, Joe Martin, Donna Walker, Carl Walker, Dee Fletcher, Wayne Krepps, Iris Carter and Paul Noblitt.

Theater sales and publicity have been carried out by teacher Robert Yates, distributive education class of the school. The public is invited to see this unusual and promising production.

New Service Organization Chartered In Reynoldsburg

A local chapter of the international service organization Service To Mankind — better known as SERTOMA — was recently chartered in Reynoldsburg. The group began organizing in February and received its charter from the parent organization on May 11.

On that date, membership numbered 38 business and professional men. Officers are Russell Baldwin, president and chairman of the board of directors; Dr. James Richlin and and Glenn Massey, vice-president; George Balbaugh, secretary; Leroy Falck, treasurer, and Al Haft, sergeant-at-arms.

The Board of Directors includes Dr. Morgan Heflin, Dr. Edmund Komraus, William Harrison and Paul Jones.

SERTOMA is different from most service organizations in that it chooses one general project. The Reynoldsburg group has chosen to deal exclusively with the youth of the community. President Russell Baldwin said the announcement to support youth services helped organize the chapter in only eight weeks rather than the usual six months.

According to Baldwin, SERTOMA has two prospective projects. They are giving serious consideration to supporting the teen center activities in Reynoldsburg. A Youth Employment Service, called "YES," is planned to provide professional employment counseling and job placement for youth.

SERTOMA meets every Thursday at 6 p.m. at Haft's Restaurant.

Sixteen-Year-Old Wins Drive Rodeo

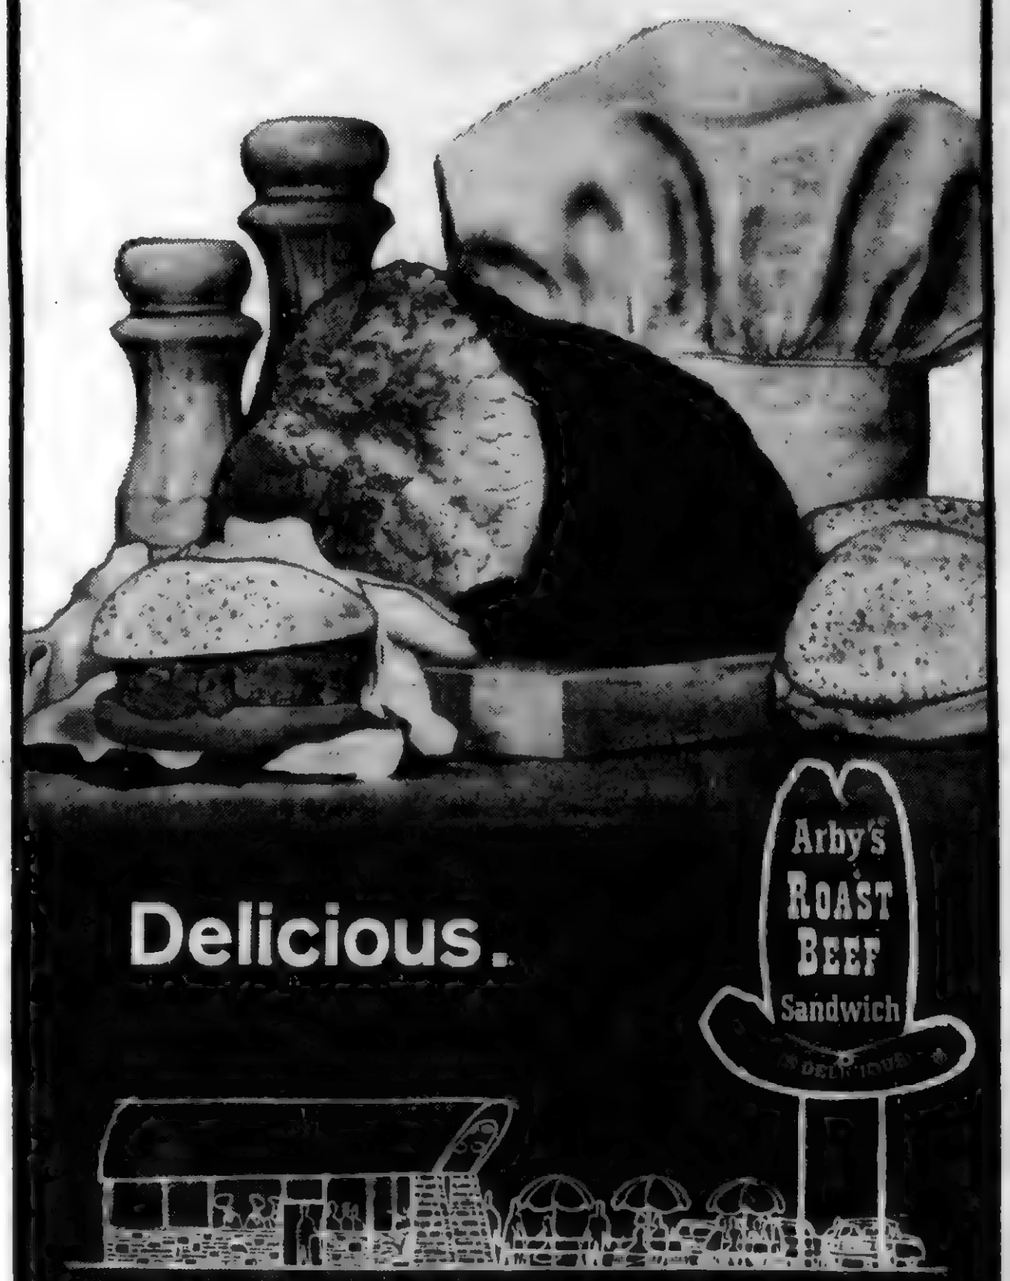
First place in the Reynoldsburg Jaycees' annual Safe Driving Rodeo went to Dan Moore, 16, of 1255 Jackson-st. Dan received the winner's trophy after chalking up the most points in an intricate test of driving skill.

Second place went to Arnold LeVine, 16, of Manfeldt Drive, Columbus, a student at Walnut Ridge High School.

Contestants were required to drive through a row of balls consisting of five sets of balls, 10 in each set, placed 11 inches apart. They competed also in parallel parking and negotiating an intersection with streets only 12 feet, six inches wide.

Cars driven in the contest were provided by the Germain Lincoln-Mercury, Inc., 2935 E. Main-st.

Other entrants were Linda Brown, 17, 3000 High-st, Brice, Ohio, and Clyde Compton, 18, of 2986 Brice-rd, also in Brice.



Moore will go to the finals in the Ohio Jaycees Driving Rodeo June 10 in Warren, Ohio.

HAWKS WING TO DISTRICT BASEBALL TITLE

The celebration started a little prematurely in Hartley's 5-2 District tourney winning victory over Buckeye Valley last week. Joe Eichenlaub's base-circling seventh-inning blast apparently had broken a 2-2 tie but the Hawk slugger's (picture at left, arrow) welcoming committee had to return the object of their affection to third base when the umpire ruled the hit was a ground-rule triple. Eichenlaub tallied what proved to be the winning run moments later on an overthrow at first. That, plus two more runs in the same frame, was all that Hawk hurler Chuck Masterson (mobbed by teammates — upper left — in picture at right) needed to subdue B-V. The three-run frame preempted an anticipated battle of diamond wits between two of Central Ohio's top coaching strategists (below, at left) — Buckeye Valley's Dick Meyer and Hartley's Jack Ryan. Whetstone Aims For '67 State Title 'Club'

By BOB WHITMAN
Spectator Sports Writer

Columbus' hopes for a clean sweep of the major sports state crowns this year rides with Whetstone in the "AA" State Baseball Tourney finals, starting tomorrow.

If Paul Eckelberry's 18-3 sparklers can put a pair of diamond wins together they will join mythical football champion Watterson and cage king Linden McKinley in the triangle of champions.

FIRST TEST for the daring Braves, who earned the state finals trip with a 3-1 Regional conquest of Bishop Hartley last Saturday at Gomer, will be Boardman, a swanky school of 1800 in suburban Youngstown on OSU's freshman diamond at 2 p.m.

The winner will come back Saturday (OSU varsity field, 2 p.m.) to match the winner of the Lancaster (17-2)-Cincinnati Western Hills - Cincinnati Sycamore game. (The two Cincy schools battled after Spectator deadline Tuesday).

Not only does Whetstone stand to join kings Watterson and Linden on Columbus' rising sports plateau but the Braves can also end a 27-year famine by bringing home the diamond crown.

A COLUMBUS school hasn't won the state baseball title since 1940 when North performed the honors.

"The entire school is ready," said the veteran Eckelberry, "we will be ready even if I have to pitch."

No offense to the former Polar Bear star but Boardman won't get off that easy. They will face either George Rutan (8-0) or Bruce Powell (6-2), the later coming into his own last Saturday — no-hitting Hartley for 6⅓ innings en route to a 3-1 win.

RUTAN, a righthanded speed-baller put down Toledo Rogers in the Regional opener, 9-1.

"It doesn't make any difference," Paul said of his veteran hurlers. "One is as good as the other."

Unless information on Boardman causes Eckelberry to switch, he will go with the same rotation as last weekend with Rutan on Friday and Powell on Saturday.

WHETSTONE will go with about the same lineup that has clicked for the Braves over the past two seasons as they have rolled up a 47-8 record.

Likely starters will be: John Davies (2b), Larry Davis (1b), Bud Jenkins (rf), Scott Overturf (cf), Ken Peltier (lf), Rick Clouse (ss), Jim Shields (c), By Hart (3b) and Rutan (p).

Dave Eller and Terry Frisby also also slated for outfield action.

Whetstone Nips Hawks For Regional Crown

By BOB WHITMAN
Spectator Staff Writer

GOMER, O. — Much-experienced Whetstone rode a three-run second inning uprising and a brilliant pitching job by Bruce Powell into the State Final field last Saturday afternoon over well-trained Columbus Hartley, 3-1.

More than the town population of this peaceful Ohio community (300) watched the Hawks battle back gamely in a tense, dramatic seventh inning, breaking Powell's no-hitter and scoring one run, before the dandy Whetstone junior fanned two of the last three men he faced to put Paul Eckelberry's Braves into the blue ribbon show held on the Ohio

Spectator To Honor Top High Athletes

In keeping with its efforts to honor the Columbus area's outstanding high school athletes, The Spectator Newspapers will initiate this spring its first annual "Athletes of the Year" awards.

The awards, in the form of plaques, will be presented by The Spectator to the four area schoolboy athletes who are deemed most outstanding in football, basketball, baseball and track during the 1966-67 school year.

Coaches of the winners will be contacted shortly and names of the four top athlets will be announced in the June 8 edition of The Spectator.

State University diamonds next weekend.

Hartley, under the brilliant direction of 29 year veteran Jack Ryan and Whetstone, under the respected Eckelberry, were both in the Regional waters for the first time.

Hartley earned the Gomer trip with a 5-2 victory over Buckeye Valley while Whetstone garnered the other share of the Central District title with a 2-1 win over London.

It was Ryan's sixth time in the Regionals, five while head of the St. Charles Cardinals before coming to Hartley.

It was Eckelberry's first.

Whetstone's second inning opened up with Joe Whitlatch fanning, Ken Peltier. Then Jim Shields, junior Brave catcher, belted his first delivery over the 345 foot fence, almost a carbon copy of his shot the day before to unnerve Rogers in the Regional semi-final round.

Whitlatch walked By Hart and Rick Clouse and Powell's ground out advanced them to third. Lead-off hitter John Davies grounded deep to short and Dan Moore was charged with a bad throw to first scoring two more runs.

That lead stood for four innings while Powell weaved a no-hit net around the Hawks until Moore broke it in the seventh with a lead-off single. Tim Griffin busted up Powell's shutout bid with a single. But the Hawks could get no closer.

Both took different but successful paths into the final "all-Columbcs" setting.

Jack Ryan's Hawks used an almost air-tight defense in the 1:30 opener Friday with Chuck Drake's 280 foot home run producing two runs being the margin of victory.

Defense sealed the verdict after a fourth inning Toledo St. Francis, previously unbeaten (15-0), rally. The heroics belong to sophomore leftfielder Joe Eichenlaub, who backed up an overthrow at third and raced Knight third baseman Mike Maile down putting the tag on him in front of home plate.

Senior Mike Shaffer worked 5⅓ strong innings before Ryan lifted him in favor of all-Ohioan Chuck Masterson, who held St. Francis at bay the rest of the afternoon.

The Knights from this all-boy school of 800 in the westside of Toledo picked Shaffer for five hits while Hartley was finding St. Francis pitching star Dan Harbaugh for eight safeties.

It was not the day to be from Toledo.

Whetstone used the long ball to erase Toledo Rogers from the Regional round.

After three scoreless innings the Braves broke the game wide open with nine runs and 12 hits in the fourth and fifth innings.

Catcher Jim Shields bombed a Rick Gill fast ball over the 345 mark with one on to start the power cycle turning.

By Hart supplied muscle next with a 300 shot to close out fourth inning hitting.

Scott Overturn, George Rutan and John Davies were responsible for the six run-fifth with long drives.

CK Winger Tough Despite 4-3 Loss

Christ the King righthander Steve Leslie suffered his first setback Sunday afternoon at Holy Spirit 4-3, but before the letdown the eighth grade winger pitched the Cougars to some important league wins on a pair of no-hitters including a perfect game.

Leslie (6-1) put St. Leo's down in order with eight fans and with a two for three day at bat last week to put Christ the King in the first place showdown against Holy Spirit.

Leslie got batting help from Rick Passero, Mikc Roesch and Jim Wile en route to an 18-0 win.

Jim Wile is current Christ the King batting leader with a .521 mark.

New Boys' League Starts In East End

The newest Little League baseball league has been formed on the far east side of the city.

The Milo Roc Mendal League has seven teams and will begin action during the second week of June.

The team and coaches are as follows:

Haviland Hawks coached by Thomas Reider, Raviland Reds piloted by Julius Curry, Cochran Drugs coached by Dick Arnold, Zettler-rd Shopping Center coached by Harry Sharpless, Livmoor Lions skippered by Dan and Jack Paxton, Berwick Kings coached by Bob Whitman and Milo Roc Mendal coached by Bernard Hamill and Bob Harrington.

CK Winger Tough Despite 4-3 Loss

Christ the King righthander Steve Leslie suffered his first setback Sunday afternoon at Holy Spirit 4-3, but before the letdown the eighth grade winger pitched the Cougars to some important league wins on a pair of no-hitters including a perfect game.

Leslie (6-1) put St. Leo's down in order with eight fans and with a two for three day at bat last week to put Christ the King in the first place showdown against Holy Spirit.

Leslie got batting help from Rick Passero, Mikc Roesch and Jim Wile en route to an 18-0 win.

Jim Wile is current Christ the King batting leader with a .521 mark.

State Meet Closes '67 Cinder Show

By JACK WITTENMEIER
Spectator Sports Editor

The final showdown and the culmination of the 1967 track season highlights the weekend show at OSU with state titles also awaiting the "best of the best" in baseball, golf and tennis.

And leading the pack of area qualifiers from last weekend's Regional is husky Hilliard High School discus whirler Pete Miller.

MILLER TOPPLED the existing state (and possibly national) record at Worthington's Nelson Field Saturday by flinging the discus an amazing 199' 10½" or one and one-half inches shy of the goal the Wildcat senior established for himself several years ago.

Pete gets his chance to realize that goal along with the 25 other Central District qualifiers (plus four relay crews) who will vie for number one honors tomorrow and Saturday in "AA" competition.

State prelims will begin tomorrow evening at 6 o'clock with action resuming (field events) at 9 a.m. Saturday. Running finals are scheduled for 2 p.m. on the Stadium oval.

HERE ARE the area qualifiers for the State Meet:

(Carroll's Regional winning mile relay unit — Thane Hecox, Jim and John Rayburn and Chuck Conkle — battered existing state "A" mile relay mark with a 3:29.6).

'BEST (RECORD) BETS' AT STATE MEET

The three cindermen you might keep your eyes on at Saturdays State Track Meet are (from left) Hilliard's Pete Miller, West's Chuck Starkey and Upper Arlington's Bruce Curtis. The trio qualified at last weekend's Regional in outstanding form—Miller tossing the discus 199' 10½" (state record is 185' 7½"), Starkey whisked through the two-mile in 9:27.3 (record is 9:29.9) and Curtis finished the 880 in 1:54.6 (equals state record). Also, tune in on East's mile relay quartet (Eugene Hadden, Tom Watson, Deryl Cochran, Trent Harris) who bettered the state mark by turning in a 3:19 flat at the Regional.

E-M Banquet May 31

Eastmoor High School's annual All-Sports Banquet will be held in the school cafeteria May 31, at 6:30 p.m.

Ram Banquet May 29

Whitehall's annual Spring Sports Banquet is scheduled for Monday, May 29, at the Coventry Inn on Hamilton Road.

Nichols Paces Rams To Repeat Metro Win

With relative ease (six first places), Whitehall breezed to its second straight Metropolitan League cinder title last week at Worthington, outdistancing runnerup Franklin Heights, 72-46.

Randy Nichols, the meet's lone double winner, set the Rams' win pace with firsts in both hurdle events—setting a record-breaking :20.6 pace in the lows.

THAT WAS one of seven new standards, Ram pole vaulter Pete Maxfield supplying another with a winning 12 ft. 4¾ inch effort.

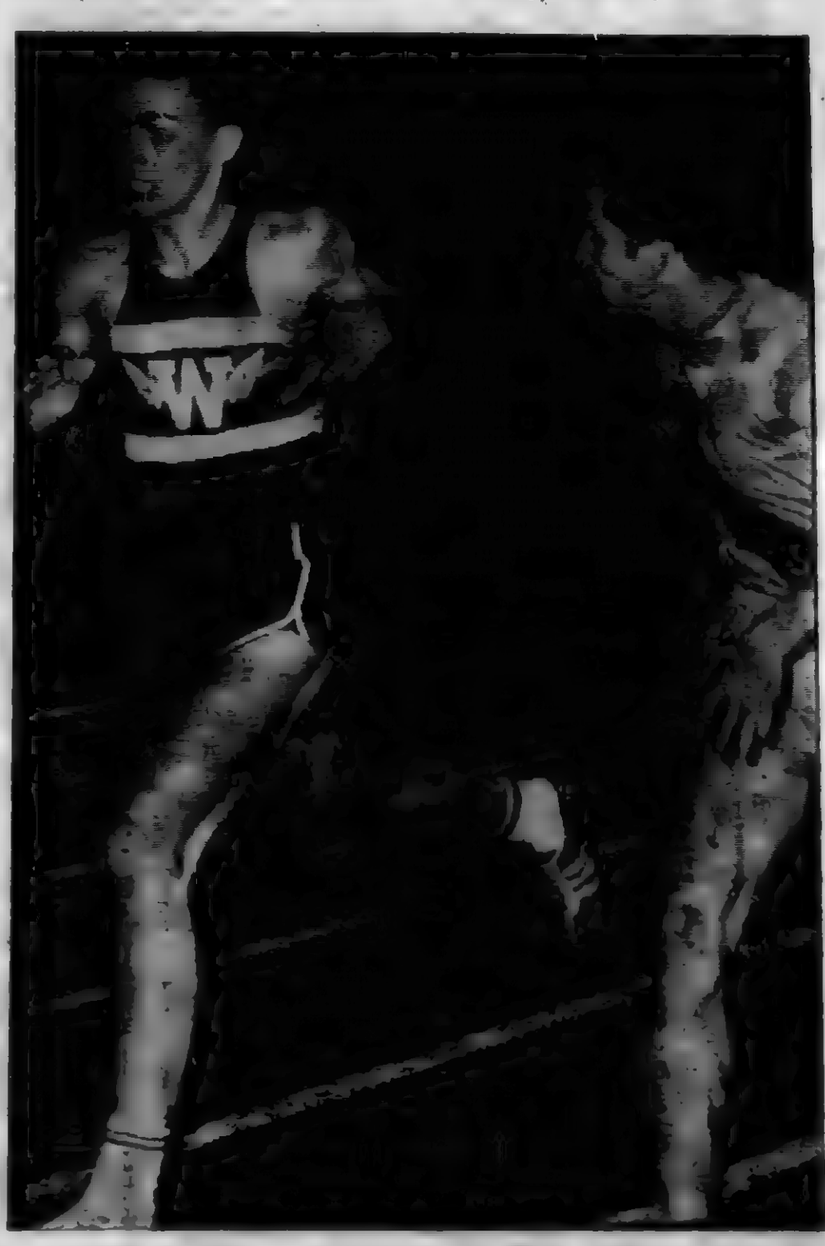
Other Whitehall firsts came from Gary Turner (:52.8 in 440), Dan Reid (2:04.1 in 880) and the Rams' mile relay crew (Gary Turner, Count Fuller, Randy Nichols, Lewis Anderson in 3:36.7).

Reynoldsburg took fourth place (39 pts.) as Terry Miller gained the lone Raider first with 5 ft. 10 in. high jump.

EASTMOOR and East deadlocked for the third place (32 pts. each) behind champion Whetstone at the City Meet. Walnut Ridge (8 pts.) was seventh.

E-M's Dave Lewis (9:58.9 in two-mile) and East's mile relay crew of Eugene Hadden, Trent Harris, Deryl Cochran and Tom Watson (3:23.7) supplied new records.

Hadden (:49.3 in 440) and the Warriors' Jack Parry (:14.7 in high hurdles) took other area firsts.



HARTLEY took second and third place respectively at both Central Catholic and Diocesan Meets last week—both won by repeat champion DeSales.

Hawk distance man Jim Trapp got Hartley's lone firsts at the CCL, picking up wins in both the mile and 880. The Stallions margin over the Hawks was 115-59.

Trapp, also accounted for Hartley's only Diocesan victory with the mile in a record-breaking 4:33.

HARTLEY polled 34½ pts. as compared to DeSales' 92½. Marion Catholic was second with 42 markers and St. Augustine downed New Lexing-

C-W's Bob Griffith Earns Club Status--The Hard Way

Canal Winchester's Bob Griffith pitched his way into The Spectator's No-Hit Club last week—the hard way!..

Griffith, the Club's 22nd member and sixth entrant this spring, allowed only one runner to reach base (via walk) but suffered from poor support afield, losing 2-0 to New Albany.

It was the second time in the No-Hit Club's three-year history that a new inductee lost his hitless effort.

Rosary's Chuck Masterson and Mike Shaffer (recently helped pace Hartley to District tourney title) lost a combined no-hitter in West Jefferson (2-1) on April 9, 1965.

Griffith will receive a certificate from The Spectator (via C-W coach Bob Miller) as a memento of his no-hit game.

Cermelj Quits W-R

Rick Cermelj, Walnut Ridge's varsity wrestling coach for the past three seasons, has resigned his position.

RICK CERMELJ

The Scottie mat skipper, who placed high in polling for The Spectator's annual "Coach of the Year" honors this year, has accepted a job with the Shade-Link Insurance Co.

Cermelj tutored three District champions in his stay at W-R — Dave Walter and Steve Roberts in '65 and Dave Safko this past season.

The Scotties' best City League finish during Cermelj's three-season stay was a fourth gained in the '67 meet.

Cermelj, who announced that the Scotties' annual invitational would be shifted to Eastmoor next season, hinted he might aid the W-R grapplers in an assistant capacity during the '67-68 campaign.

Hunt, Mettle Receive Top Cap Awards

A pair of area collegians received "outstanding athlete" awards at last week's Capital U. All-Sports Banquet.

Former South High cage standout Paul Hunt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hunt, Sr., of 966 E. Livingston-av,. was named as the Crusaders' top basketball player.

Ex-Walnut Ridge cinder star Rick Mettle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mettle of 1075 Beechwood-rd, received the outstanding track award.

Defensive grid halfback and track pole vaulter Tim Rink received the Beren Boots award as Cap's outstanding junior athlete.

Murphy Moultry received the "Jerry Click Award" (standout in Crusaders' Homecoming football game) and Mike Shoemaker was named as the outstanding Senior Athlete.

There seems to be a never ending supply of beginning fishermen.

No matter where I go, I get the same questions to answer: "I'd like to start out and fish this year but I don't even know where to go." "Should I bank fish or get a boat?" "If I go to a certain lake, can I use a motor?"

PAUGH

As a matter of fact, when you buy a fishing license, all you get is the permit and a list of things you aren't allowed to do.

This is certainly a negative attitude to take with the people who pay the wages of the Wildlife people.

I WROTE in my columns five years ago that a man who buys a fishing or hunting license should be furnished with maps and details pertinent to the sport in Ohio — at the time he buys the license!

Under Ohio laws, no person may be a direct license agent for the State of Ohio. He must be a sub-agent under the total control of a local conservation club.

He is lucky if he gets anything of the writer's fee that you supposed he received. Instead, the controlling conservation or sportsmans club gets the lion's share.

NEXT YEAR, that share will go up from 25 cents to 35 cents and it is doubtful that the writer who takes his time and counter space to do the work will get any more.

I know for a fact that there are reams of printed matter just waiting to be handed out but the license buyer will never see it unless he goes to a special event like a sports show.

If you are real lucky you get a digest of the laws along with the license — even though it's the law that you must receive one.

AS A MATTER of fact, if you only have to stop at one agency to get a license, you're batting .500. The par for the course is to find the sub-agent sold out because the club didn't re-supply him.

Never have I found maps or descriptive literature on a li-

Memorial Day 'Special' Set Sunday At CMS

With the weatherman cooperating 100 percent, some 6000 fans turned out at Columbus Motor Speedway last Sunday night for the season's lid-lifter.

A 20-lap sportsman and a 25-lap late-model feature climaxed the night's activity and —in a spectacularly close feature—Sonny Pencil nosed out Chuck Denney, with Dick Dunlevy in close pursuit in the sportsman division.

LARRY PENDLETON gave the crowd plenty of thrills as he moved into the lead on the first-lap of the late-model headliner, then breezed to victory ahead of Don Gregory, Cliff Chandler, Jim Cushman and Charles Perry.

While $1500 had been guaranteed, speedway officials paid $2500 for Sunday's program.

This Sunday night, the Williams Road raceway will hold the Memorial Day Championship races.

THE LATE-MODEL and sportsman drivers will be guaranteed $2500, but if 40 percent of the gate is greater, they'll get the bonus.

It will be an eight-event program with a 35-lap late-model championship feature and a 25-lap sportsman championship main-event. Time trials will get going at 7 p.m. and the first race will start promptly at 8 p.m.

No one won last week's free game of "Total so there will be $200 in cash for the fan or fans who can correctly pick the first five finishers (in order) in Sunday's 35-lap late-model headline event.

A-HURDLING WE WILL GO — There wasn't much clue as to likely winner when these five hurdlers headed over the first lows barrier at last week's City League Meet. Whetstone's Jim Huber (second, right) picked up the first in a record-breaking :19.4. From left are Linden's Bill Saunders, Eastmoor's Tony Coleman (second), West's Joe Dobos (third), Huber and East's John Jones (fourth).

POLICE PATROL

To prevent trouble between students and outsiders, Dayton police will be stationed at high schools at certain times during the day. Police supervision became necessary when outsiders began disrupting classes.

AND SO IT GROWS

Perennial weeds growing around the garden can be serious sources of certain virus diseases. Some weeds that you should remove include milkweed, cocklebur, nightshade, catnip, horse nettle, ground cherry, poke weed, plantain and chickweed.

To get smooth, straight carrots, you need deep and loose soil. Sandy loam and muck soils are ideal for this crop. Heavy clay soils will cause crooked and branched carrot roots.

Apples, pears, Japanese plums, and sweet cherries require cross-pollination, so more than one variety of each must be planted nearby before they will bear a good fruit crop. In some cases three varieties may be necessary for good cross-pollination.

An example is the Stayman variety of apple, which does not pollinate other apple varieties. With Stayman, at least two other varieties should be grown together. The Seckel and Bartlett pear varieties will not pollinate each other, so a third variety is necessary.

Most other fruit crops, such as sour cherry, strawberry, raspberry, grape and peach are self-fruitful and do not require other varieties for cross pollination. A single tree or plant will produce a full crop of fruit.

When you're planting sweet corn, plant several shorter rows instead of one long row. Planting in blocks aids pollination, say Ohio State University Extension horticulturists.

Don't cultivate if the soil is wet. Cultivating may damage the physical structure of the soil for the remainder of the season, especially on clay, clay loam, on silty-clay loam soils.

Wilting and slow dying of the leaves of Pachysandra, a common ground cover, may be traced to a stem and root rot. This disease, known as Rhizoctonia stem rot, can cause considerable damage and may be in an advanced stage before symptons are noticed. The lower stems and roots will show dead areas.

Best control measures are to remove infected plant material and dead plants and leaves. Thin out overcrowded plant beds. Drench the soil with a Terraclor 75 per cent wettable powder solution, using one tablespoon per gallon of water. Two applications at three-week intervals often will be enough, but more may be necessary. Soak the soil thoroughly.

Cutworms probably are the culprits if you find your newly planted tomatoes cut off at the soil surface. To control cutworms, remove the top and bottom from a two-quart milk carton and then cut the carton in half. Place this cardboard over the plants. It'll keep the worms away from the stems.

Buying Chemical killers for weeds, insects, and diseases may seem puzzling to you. But Extension specialists say you'll find most of the answers to your questions on the pesticide containers. Read carefully and follow instructions.

GARDEN NOTES

Joyce Loughman, Editor

Before you start to dig, remember the proverb advising that' 'He that diggeth a pit shall fall into it." Know that long after, in your unconscious, you may be sorry that ever started digging.

Still interested? Well, then, you know that when you start digging you are going to spend money. You can save labor costs by doing the digging yourself or putting your family to work, but there's no way to avoid the unhappy money problem . . . money will be needed to buy the plants or the gravel or whatever to fill in where you should never have started digging in the first place. (Or it will be needed for your convalescence).

What I am trying to tell you is that I have just completed a patio (?). As you came down the back steps the most gross miscarrage of nature stood there in front of you: A spirea bush that must have been planted in the year One, deadwood all around and as skraggly as you could possibly find, sparse bloom and with spirea across the front of the house (what in the world do you need with this one) and besides that you have always wanted a patio.

You should see me use a saw — you should see me use a mattock — and you would never believe how I swing an axe. (Oh, I forgot to tell you that everyone who has any connection with this household at all suddenly was called away). The spirea bush is gone and in its place is a big hole! But what a big, wide expanse of nothing. Plenty of room for a picnic table and a delightful place to display all of the bromelaids that are reaching out their spiny arms to snag anything that comes within reach.

Sound great? That is it sounds great until you come to the next step — and that is who is going to unload that trailer full or limestone? Oh yes, you guessed it. Urgent business for the family! Two days and a bottle of liniment later (plus being drenched by rain) the "patio" resembles slightly what my mind's eye pictured. Minus the picnic table with its colorful tablecloth and the bromelaids in their big containers.

Rain-drenched and weary, with a rather large cup of steaming coffee in my hand, my late-to-arrive family came driving in screaming the news that a friend was moving and had decided not to take his picnic table and did I know of anyone who would be able to use it?

At this writing the table with its brightly colored cloth is firmly entrenched in my limestone. The rain is making little silver sparkles on the scene. The birds are wondering why their birdbath was moved. The cat is stomping around by way of the wet grass. My family is wondering why I wanted a picnic table without any branches. And, I am wondering if it will ever warm up enough that the "patio" can be used.

The answer to "where did you spend any money?" Limestone, of course, plus a flat tire on the trailer, a flat tire on the car when we got the table, an extra bottle of liniment and a new top for the birdbath. (The shovel fell over and broke the other one).

Metro BB Champs Took The Hint

By JACK WITTENMEIER
Spectator Sports Editor

Reynoldsburg basketball coach Bill Borland just might have picked up the biggest baseball "assist" of the spring when he put Raider diamond mentor Dan Brown "on the spot" at the cage banquet earlier this year.

Borland, whose quintet had just captured the Metro roundball title, handed the challenge to Brown and his [illegible] by saying, "Mr. Endres (Reynoldsburg principal) has never known a losing season at Reynoldsburg."

DAN MUST have gotten the message because—win, lose or draw tonight (Raiders final game vs. Westerville)—Reynoldsburg baseballers will finish with a won-lost record weighted heavily down on the plus side.

In fact, the Raiders' 15-3 '67 mark is already overtaken a superlative 13-5 record turned in by a fine '66 Reynoldsburg baseball contingent.

Sitting at his seat in the banquet crowd, the task seemed a tough assignment for the soft-spoken Brown. Only three starters remained from that excellent '66 club and untested talent was the order of the day.

THE THREE veterans supplied the "glue" but, 18 games later, there existed a superb "supporting cast."

"We thought our three returnees would hit and they did," Brown commented, looking back over the '67 campaign.

All-District pick Gary Shade showed the way with a .452 average, followed by Denny Spires (.357) and Tim Wolfe (.356).

WOLFE'S BA represented an 100 point climb from '66 and that was a big factor, according to the Raider mentor.

"I had though we'd be down some points in batting," Brown said, "and we'd have to rely on speed and defense.

"Well, the speed and defense was there, but so was the hitting."

THE MOST pleasant surprise was the advancement of Phil Nolan, who zoomed from an .000 '66 BA to .328 this spring.

And those hits provided some mighty big RBIs, including a grand-slam homer and in an early game with Whitehall which got Reynoldsburg off and running.

Brown also listed the improvement of catcher Ronnie Walters and a tighter inner defense, especially Randy Wolfe at second base, as other key factors.

"THEIR OVERALL desire and that ability to come from behind and win it were probably the biggest elements in our season," Brown reminisced.

"It (the season) was just beyond my greatest expectations."

Also of prime importance was the heady mound aid Raider stopper Gary Shade received during the second half of the season from Steve Pinnick and Dave Meredith.

Meredith compiled a spotless 4-0 record and 1.65 ERA and Pinnick broke even at 2-2 and a stingy 1.75 average.

BUT SHADE was the main hurling cog as evidenced by his 9-1 mark, 0.71 ERA, 96 strikeouts (only 25 walks) in 69 innings pitched. And included in those impressive statistics was an early season no-hitter vs. Bexley.

The Raiders sewed up their first Metro pennant with three wins last week—2-1 over Hamilton Township, 9-3, over Whitehall and 1-0 over Teays Valley.

A pair of safeties each by Nolan and Spires paced Raider hitting vs. H-T, Reynoldsburg tallying its winning marker in the sixth as Ken Buck reached on an error, was sacrificed to second, stole third and ran home on Walters' hit.

PINNICK picked up the win on a three-hitter.

Shade (two hits, two RBIs), Nolan (triple, two RBIs) and Spires (single, triple, RBI) were the batting standards vs. Whitehall as Meredith nabbed the mound victory.

Glen Gulick spoiled Shade's bid for a second '67 no-hitter as the T-V first baseman got the Viking only safety in Gary's 12-K, no-walk effort.

T-V's JOHN Beavers allowed the Raiders one hit also, but it produced the win. In the fifth, Walters walked, was sacrificed to second by Jeff Curtis and scored on Tim Wolfe's single.

Reynoldsburg ripped out 12 hits (three each by Shade, Pinnick, Spires, two by John Vanover) as the Raiders edged Gahanna, 7-6 Monday.

Meredith nabbed the win in relief via a Gary Shade trademark—seventh inning winning hit (this time, a home run).

WBBA Plans Parade, Carnival For Saturday

The annual Whitehall Boys Baseball Association (WBBA) Parade and Carnival is scheduled to begin Saturday (10 a.m.) at Whitehall-Yearling High School.

The parade, which includes the high school band and Ramettes, will travel south on Yearling Road to E. Main Street, east on Main to Hamilton Road, north on Hamilton to Kae Avenue and east into the Kae Avenue School parking lot.

IMMEDIATELY following the parade (about noon), the Carnival and exhibition baseball games will begin.

The Carnival will include 18 game booths and numerous concession sands. Also included in the Carnival lineup are: bazaar, white elephant sale, jewelry (new and used) sale, cake walk and an old fashioned auction at 4 p. m.

A total of 17 exhibition baseball games—featuring all members of Peewee, Little (Major and Minor) and Babe Ruth leagues—will be played during the course of the afternoon.

PROCEEDS from the Carnival will be used to supply the needs of the community baseball program.

Scioto Downs Kicks Off Season Tomorrow Night

The stage is set for the opening of the 1967 night harness racing season at Scioto Downs tomorrow evening.

The 100-night season — which will extend through Sept. 19 — will feature the rich Challenge Stakes series.

THE DIVISION and dates of the coveted event are four-year-old pace (June 17), four-year-old trot (June 24), three-year-old pace (June 30), three-year-old trot (July 7), two-year-old pace (July 13) and the two-year-old trot (July 20).

Exactly 729 two, three and four year old trotters and pacers are eligible for the six-event series.

Scioto Downs president, Charles D. Hill, has announced that a $3,500 Invitational Trot will be featured for opening night and a special $5,000 purse will be contested in the Invitational Pace on Saturday.

STARTING tomorrow and continuing through June 3, the flashy trotters and pacers will be swinging postward to the musical Tijuana sound. The popular Americana Brass organization will entertain in the newly enlarged club house dining room the first eight nights of the season (6:30-8 p.m. and between races).

Scioto's genial business manager, Bob Steele, has his crews putting the finishing touches on the completed new section of the club house, which has been doubled in size and featuring a dining room capacity of 700.

The reservations offices for both the grandstand and club house are open daily now from 8:30 a.m. until 5 p.m. Post time is 8:20 p.m.

Hamilton Road Putt-Putt Hosts Tourney May 28

Putt-putt Golf's Hamilton Road site will host a $1000 tourney Sunday, May 28, at 2 p.m.

The 54-hole putting tourney, part of the Professional Putters Association's (PPA) $85,000 tournament tour this year, is expected to attract some 50 to 75 professionals and amateurs from six states.

HOST TOURNEY director Bob Liebold expects some of the PPA's top putters to be on hand, including such notables as successful local pro John Peck, last year's top PPA money winner Ricky Smith from Indianapolis, Ind., and Columbusite Bob Bulen, the country's top amateur in '66 (since turned pro).

Also competing for the top prize will be Walt Asbury and Dick Carr, another pair of local pros.

Liebold announced that money-winning positions will extend for the first ten places and any qualified putter is eligible to compete since there will be a special division open to amateurs.

AMATEURS may win $100 (to cover travel expenses).

The Hamilton Road course last played host to a major PPA tourney in 1963 when it welcomed the National Championships.

The public is invited to attend the May 28 tourney free of charge.

cense counter. It just isn't part of anyone's promise. I firmly believe that it should be the duty of the clubs to make sure all possible information is kept in fresh supply.

After all, they're getting 35 cents without turning their hand and are protected by the laws of the land. Is this too much to ask?

I HAVE procured a small supply of public land and water lists printed by the State of Ohio. They are called Publication W-77. They list nearly 200 places you are welcome to tramp around and dunk a worm.

If you would like the list, drop me a line and enclose a stamped, self-addressed long envelope. I'll mail them until I run out.

Once you have the list, try a different place each weekend. You'll find many that you will go back to time and again. Also on the list is the way to get there, maximum horsepower limit, camping facilities and boating facilities.

THESE LISTS have been printed with money you have already paid in for license. You have a right to a copy.

WITH PRIDE THEY ESCORTED HIM

When a visiting "fireman" comes to visit, it is only fitting and proper that the red carpet be rolled out. This was exactly what was done last week as Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner came to St. Ladislas to speak when the PTA planned a program in appreciation of the help given to them by the Southeast Lions Club last week. On hand to march the mayor grandly up to the speakers platform were the 14 members of Cub Scout Den 1, Pack 242. On deck, though not pictured, were a very proud den mother and father, Mrs. Edward Marshall, 481 Morrill, and Charles Horvath, 1754 S. 20th.

OUTPOURING OF ART — Officials of EXPO '67 designed an art gallery for display of 150 art masterpieces from throughout the world. They asked for 250 paintings on loan, hoping to get the needed 150. Instead, the AAA-Columbus Auto Club reports, they received offers of 215. The plan now is to rotate the displays.

Teenage Jobs Seen Weapon Against Summer Discontent

Facing the threat of a "long hot summer" the Mayor's "Jobs for Youth" Commission is concentrating its efforts to obtain summer employment for teenagers within the "Inner City."

Although the program is expected to meet obvious economic need and hopefuly develop skills leading to meaningful employment Bert Korte, area coordinator for CMACAO, stressed the urgency of the situation in saying, "It is a known fact that idle minds breed discontent and that much of the tension which exists in the inner city can be directly related to restless youth."

KORTE IS the area coordinator for the Columbus Metropolitan Area Community Action Organization, one of the agencies whose youth employment efforts are being umbrellaed by the Mayor's Commission, chaired by Jack Harris of the Youth Opportunity Center.

YOC has already mailed 10,000 brochures to local employers urging them to open their doors to youth and list all available jobs. Government agencies have been directed by Washington to make available at least one summer job for every 100 employees.

With time running out before school is out and an estimated 25,000 teenagers will be on the prowl for jobs, employment listings are needed immediately.

STUDENTS between 14 and 18 may make initial application at YOC, 239 S. Fourth-st, 469-2622 from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, at the Urban League, 107 N. Monroe-st, 258-9529, during the same hours and at the seven CMACAO Service Centers from 9 a.m. until 9 p.m. Monday through Friday.

These centers and their directors are: Northside, 1189 Dennison-av, 294-1693, William Lewis; Northeast, 683 New York-av, 299-1159, Claude Willis; Westside, 415 W. Rich-st, Olan Belton; Eastside, 771½ E. Long-st, 228-5508, Leonard Napper; Area Six, 1256 Oak-st, 253-7966, William Belcher; Southend, 327 E. Barthman, 443-4614, Mrs. Virginia Baker and County, 3452 First-av, Urbancrest, 875-7426, Miss Maryellen Meredith.

These men are all looking for the same thing — summer jobs for Columbus youth. All members of the commission appointed to this end they are, from the left, Henderson Grigsby, director of Economic Development and Employment, Urban League; Jack Harris, chairman, and manager of the Youth Opportunity Center; Olan Belton, director of the Westside Service Center and Richard Boyd, assistant director, Neighborhood Youth Corps.

The Club Doctor

By Muriel Miles

DEAR CLUB DOCTOR: Do you have any suggestions as to how we can get our members to voice their opinions at a meeting instead of on the street after the meeting is over?

BAFFLED

DEAR BAFFLED: Let's not thwart 'em from giving a post mortem.

Tell your members that you are glad that they're so interested in the meeting they talk about it after it's over, and wouldn't it be enlightening to eavesdrop? But since you can't bring the meeting to the street, you're bringing "the street" to the meeting.

Invite a local announcer or reporter or one of your more personable members to walk around the room with a mike for man-in-the-street interviews.

DEAR CLUB DOCTOR: Our club is in great need of advice. We have the taxation system which is part of our bylaws. Each club member is to sell or pay for so many tickets.

We have two members who refuse to pay up or resign. They are very undependable and, at times, downright rude to other members.

Some of the members are becoming disinterested in the club on their account. How should we handle a situation like this?

DISTRESSED

DEAR DISTRESSED: It's bye, bye, bylaws if these two won't buy now or pay later.

For if two want to flaunt the law, every other member should have the same right. The result would be no more law, no more order — just chaos.

Your rebels are not without recourse. If they think the bylaw is bad, they can offer a motion to amend it. But if that's defeated they'd have to pay if they want to stay. Rules protect the majority as well as the minority.

As a deliberative assembly, you have the INHERENT right to enforce your own rules and punish an offender. If they still refuse to either abide or step aside, you've little choice but to use the bill collector's tactics and threaten:

"The law must be upheld. Pay up or be expelled."

DEAR CLUB DOCTOR: Our main problem is poor attendance which is probably brought about by too many organizations for the size of our population and also distances between points.

This can create a bad situation, particularly when women are active in two or more clubs as so many of the real good workers are. Perhaps we can develop some ideas with the help of your suggestions.

CLUBBED WITH CLUBS

DEAR CLUBBED: Don't scream until you hear me out. I think your city needs ONE MORE club. And I mean an association, not a weapon?

Some sort of conference or federation to act as a coordinating body. Your immediate need is a system of date-clearance. But why stop here? This could be a many-blended thing.

Aren't there other problems shared by all the clubs? Times some of you would want to pool your resources when working on similar projects? Or tackling a program too broad or expensive to handle independently? Or being united to take some necessary local action?

And wouldn't the community benefit by having a channel through which to reach all the organizations at once? A ready and effective force for such needs as United Fund?

When you sit down face-to-face, you'll find the clubs next door as friendly as your backyard fence. And as anxious as yours to seek a solution.

OEA BURSTS BILL BUBBLE

Simple Math Dispels Salary Fable

By JANE ROBINSON
Spectator Staff Writer

Any teacher who read last week that the twin bills now in the Ohio legislative committee can mean an automatic raise of $1,500 better wait awhile before spending those extra dollars.

In fact, according to William E. Henry, spokesman for the Ohio Education Association, they had better wait a long while.

THE WAY the bill now stands, no school district meeting the written-in minimum salary schedule (adopted from OEA recommendations) would be obligated to raise salaries a dime.

Furthermore, elementary arithmetic shows a $1,500 forecast is pure "pie-in-the-sky," Henry claims.

The identical bills call for the state to appropriate an additional $220 million to local school districts over the next two years — or $110 million each fiscal year.

WITH APPROXIMATELY 100,000 teachers employed in the state of Ohio, a $1,500 raise would cost the state at least $300 million and Henry states that it is conservative to estimate that related costs would bring the figure to $350 million.

The OEA has computerized the actual dollars that will be made available to districts throughout the state per teaching unit. Most schools have fewer teaching units — for all practical purposes figured as one of 30 students — than teachers.

IN FRANKLIN County, this dollar-per-unit figure ranges from a low of $120 for Jefferson District (Gahanna) to a high of $1,534, for Hamilton Local. Although the formula is a complicated one, the tax duplicate behind each child of the district is a major factor.

Figures for each district follow this story.

The assurance that every teacher in Ohio will receive a pay hike based percentage-wise on his present salary—regardless of whether his district is now meeting the minimum schedule — is one of the safeguards OEA wants added to the bill before it leaves committee.

THIS SCALE starts at $5,000 for beginning teachers with a bachelor's degree and goes to $7,100 in seven steps. It also includes a $5,500 minimum for a master's degree with a $8,500 ceiling after 10 years.

A second guarantee demanded is that the minimum salary schedule be made effective by Sept. 1 of this year and that the $200 annual salary appropriation made by the state two years ago be written into the local schedules.

Henry stated that through misunderstanding, some boards have failed to allocate this money to salary after the current year, although the state grant is a continuing one.

OEA IS also asking that it be spelled out in the bill from what source or sources the additional school appropriations are coming.

Tips To Save Your Vision

Keep soiled fingers away from your eyes. If dust, grit, or slivers of metal lodge on the eye or inside the lid, go to a doctor, a clinic, or a first aid station to have it removed. Don't dab at it with the corner of a handkerchief, and don't let an inexperienced person dab at it either!

Save your eyes from unnecessary strain. When you read, hold the printed page about a foot and a half from your eyes, with a good light coming over your shoulder to avoid your own shadow. Indirect lighting is said to be easier on the eyes than a bright beam concentrated on what you are reading.

THE ONLY CLUE IS TELL-TALE GOLD PAINT

Mrs. Charles Johnson who was the driver of the Cadillac when it crashed in a wheat field on Lockbourne Road has never regained consciousness. Therefore it is now only a matter of speculation just what happened last Tuesday morning as she approached Rathmell Road from the north. However, two sets of skid marks on the pavement at the point where the Johnson car left the road and traces of gold paint on the gray sedan has led investigators to believe another car was involved in the accident. The extent of her head injuries, according to a member of the family, are extensive and the prognosis is very poor. The Johnson residence is on Rohr Road.

Community Bible Study Scheduled At YMCA

A former Southsider, Mrs. Ray Kuehner, 2615 Burnaby-dr, will come "home" once again to direct the Community Daily Vacation Bible School scheduled at the South Side YMCA June 9-22. As in past years her assistant will be Mrs. Leland Mountjoy, 217 E. Markison.

Open to children from four through 5, the school is sponsored by the Gates Fourth Methodist Church, the South Congregational Church and the South "Y."

VARIOUS phases of the theme "Bible" will be studied with the kindergarten session entitled "The Bible Is for Me;" primary, "Our Bible Helps Us;" juniors, "Light From My Bible for Today;" and junior high, "The Bible in Today's World."

The daily schedule begins with worship from 9 to 9:30 a.m. followed by class until 10:20. After a 30-minute recreation period, craft classes are held from 10:50 until 11:25 and the program concludes daily with a friendship circle.

The two-week school will end Friday, June 23, with a picnic at Hoover Y-Park.

Further information may be obtained at the YMCA office, 190 Southwood, phone 444-2151.

Sonar T2-c Stephen M. Skobrak, son of Mrs. Helen M. Bidlack, 1780 Lockbourne-rd, has returned to Newport, R. I., from duty in the Gulf of Tonkin aboard the destroyer Warrington.

While in Southeast Asia, his ship escorted aircraft carriers and conducted patrols off the North Vietnamese coast. The ship, credited with sinking several enemy supply craft, was praised for outstanding shooting accuracy and positive support for the men ashore.

At one time the Warrington became an afloat supermarket supplying patrol craft and South Vietnamese Patrol Junks with everything from water and fuel to ice cream and shaving cream.

During the ship's round the world deployment it stopped at such ports as Panama City, Hawaii, Japan, Hong Kong, Philippines, Singapore, Malta, Naples, Italy and Palma.

The Mayor's Club

Some 200 civic-minded citizens have joined the Mayor's Club at $100 apiece, to work in behalf of the re-election of Mayor Sensenbrenner.

Efforts have been made to make the club appear something other than what it is—a sincere and honest effort to support an administration which has already amply demonstrated that it should be returned to office.

The members of the Mayor's Club should be congratulated for their active participation in local government, be they Republicans or Democrats. They should not be maligned because of their civic interest.

The only lament is that there are not more men like them, men who put their money where their mouths are.

Patience, Not Pickets

Columbus police and fire departments are seeking a salary increase and are justly entitled to one.

These men are handicapped in their efforts, because their uniforms set them apart from other city employes and workers in private industry. Their services are so vital that a strike is unthinkable.

In their frustration, there is some agitation for some sort of a demonstration to focus attention on their demands.

It is the considered opinion of The Spectator Newspapers that such a demonstration, no matter how orderly, would neither be in the best interests of the department nor the public.

The public has grown weary of demonstrations, even those in a good cause. The prestige of the departments and their constantly improving image would be damaged by any sort of a demonstration. It could very easily harm their efforts for a deserved increase in pay.

Patience, not pickets, is the answer.

At It Again

If the state administration, just once, would play it straight with the public there's a chance it might get some support for the things it attempts to do.

Here's another example of hokum.

A bill before the legislature seeks to add another $110 million a year towards state support of public education. Instead of attempting to explain just what it is trying to accomplish, the administration immediately mounted the soap box to announce the bill would mean an additional $1,500 a year to every school teacher in Ohio, all 100,000 of them.

Simple arithmetic gives the lie to the propaganda. Such a salary increase alone would cost $150 million, without any of the other costs of the bill.

Teachers who are looking forward to the raise are invited to read an analysis of the bill by Spectator Staff Writer Jane Robinson which appears in this week's edition.

"I Have To Maintain Two Homes, And —— Uh——Various Offices"

The Full Penalty

By ROBERT BURDOCK
Editor and Publisher

BURDOCK

On Tuesday, June 6, at 8 p.m. there will be played out in semi-secrecy a tableau so humanly disgusting that the public tries to forget that it can still happen in a supposedly civilized age.

On that night, two men will drag another man from a small cell where he has languished for more than two years.

The victim, his senses so filled with terror that he will barely be aware of what is happening, will have had his head shaved, his trousers slit, and have eaten without appetite his last meal.

These two men will hurriedly thrust him into a bizarre contrivance which has been idle for more than four years —the electric chair at Ohio penitentiary.

His legs and arms will be secured with straps and electrodes and a hideous black leather mask placed over his head. The mask serves him no purpose. It protects the small group of self-conscious spectators from what they will soon witness.

The small room, a former prison chapel, will seem crowded; for imminent calculated death looms very large and all of society is theoretically there.

The victim won't notice them, but on one wall are the photographs of all those who have gone before him. The pictures give the fiendish chamber the macabre look of a trophy room.

A man of God will mumble something the victim in his horror will not hear and then on a given signal from the warden a switch will be thrown.

The massive voltage will slam into the victim like a speeding locomotive. He will crash back into the chair, his limbs will stiffen and there will be a barely audible gasp as his lungs grasp a last breath.

The room will be filled with the ghastly stench of seared flesh and scorched urine as a burst bladder sizzles its spillage on the leg irons. A doctor will pronounce him dead—the diagnosis is swift and sure.

The state of Ohio and society, in the name of justice will have exacted a life for a life.

Eugene Wylie Duling will have paid the full penalty for taking the life of Columbus Police Lt. Allen Fraley.

Unless, in the name of mercy, Governor Rhodes spares his life.

Invisible Barriers

To The Editor:

A letter from a "Bexley Resident" which appear in The Spectator on May 18 objected to an open housing group trying to place Negro families in Bexley. The letter seemed to be an emotional outburst based on unfounded fears and I regret that The Spectator prints letters such as this without requiring that the name of the writer be printed along with it.

Aside from emotionalism, there are inaccuracies. In particular, it is stated that a Negro "is able, in our democracy, to get ahead if he really wants to work and educate himself."

The fact is that if this "Bexley Resident," whoever he is, were suddenly to become a Negro, he would be unable to buy many and probably most houses for sale in Bexley, where he has been a lifelong resident. It is not education or lack of funds that bar many Negro families from Bexley and other parts of Columbus but simply the color of their skin. This almost seems too obvious to need saying but apparently there are still those in this city who are unaware of this fact.

On Electoral College

To the Editor:

The attempts to reform the Electoral College System, vital to the Republic, have failed for many years. Now on the verge of success the past failures should be appraised.

Plans well intentioned and of substance have been enough different to divide the forces for freedom and prevent the development of a crusade. The Reform activities were confined to Members of Congress, with insufficient activities throughout the nation.

Now Senate SJR 86 and House HR 584 are the joint resolution for a Constitutional Amendment, well supported by Members of Congress with diverse philosophies except that they are staunchly for the Congressional District Plan of two Electors from each State and one Elector from each Congressional District.

Many committees of volunteers requiring little expenditure are being organized to support this District Plan Resolution. If it is wrong we should want it to fail, if right to succeed.

leo rennert ★ A Californian Looks At Rhodes—VIII ★

(Editor's Note: This is the eighth in a series of articles on Gov. James A. Rhodes written by Leo Rennert, staff writer for California's McClatchy Newspapers group).

In 1965, the Ohio legislature was debating passage of an open housing bill.

The measure was similar to California's 1963 Rumford Fair Housing Act, which Gov. Ronald Reagan has criticized as an infringement on basic property rights.

Ohio Gov. James A Rhodes, however, smoothed the way for enactment when the measure threatened to get stuck in committee and went on to sign it into law.

When real estate interests began preparations to take their case to the people by putting the issue on the ballot — as their counterparts in California had done successfully a year earlier with Proposition 14 — Rhodes helped stave off a bitter statewide clash.

"The governor passed the word to real estate brokers to leave the law alone," recalled John McElroy, Rhodes' top politician strategist.

"We discussed it in terms of politican realities. We didn't get involved in moral arguments about who has what rights. We're pragmatists."

Today, Ohio's fair housing law stands unchallenged.

Real estate interests are mildly satisfied because they think Rhodes will go slow on enforcement. Civil rights groups are mildly satisfied because they consider the measure a good start in attacking housing discrimination.

Rhodes is very satisfied because he has survived what easily could have proved a politically fatal storm without incurring the wrath of any major group.

The governor's sense of political realism is similarly evident in his approach to federal aid, which Reagan has often singled out for biting criticism.

When Washington starts a new federal grant-in-aid program, says Rhodes, "We're the first state in." Although known nationally as a conservative, Rhodes has no ideological qualms about accepting federal handouts.

"Inside a pocketbook you don't kick a hole in it," he remarks.

Some observers in Columbus think Reagan — judging perhaps only by outward appearances—may have pictured Rhodes as an uncompromising conservative crusader and decided to use him as a model for his new state administration.

When Reagan was hung in effigy at Fresco State College for suggesting tuition payments he noted with evident satisfaction that Rhodes has suffered a similar fate when he became governor of Ohio and started slashing the state budget.

But Rhodes knew perfectly well in 1963, that his opponents, though vocal, had no political muscle.

McElroy emphasizes that his boss shies away from heroics, does not particularly like to be hung in effigy and has not run into such public condemnation for quite a while.

"We don't take on enemies we don't need," said McElroy. "If by operating quietly and behind the scenes we can save someone's ego, we'll avoid a frontal attack."

"Before we make a move of any proportion," Rhodes explained, "we check it out in depth. We want to know if it's going to be successful. Or else, it's no good."

"We even try it out on reporters to get their reactions."

barry goldwater ★ Percy Opening Old Wounds ★

GOLDWATER

Sen. Charles Percy has taken an unfortunate first step toward the sort of intraparty warfare that tore the GOP apart prior to the 1964 election.

In such in-fighting the target always is a fellow Republican rather than the opposing political party and philosophy. To a large extent it has become a characteristic of the left wing of the Republican Party.

During the 1964 Republican primaries, for instance, the candidates of that wing centered all of their fire on me, rather than on Democrats. Most observers now agree that their attacks set the pace for the subsequent Democrat campaign.

Since then we have had encouraging evidence that the party had learned its lesson and that cutting up fellow Republicans would be avoided. By and large it has been — until now.

Sen. Percy's assault against party unity came on the Berkeley campus of the University of California. He took a series of broad swipes against California's Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan and his firm stand against campus anarchy or, worse, a campus take-over by militant and purely political student groups.

Sen. Percy slapped Gov. Reagan as one who "forever would talk of the mess at Berkeley" rather than take constructive action. He also reassured the students that, unlike the governor, "Some of us do hear you, and we do not dismiss the questions you ask."

Some of those questions, of course, include supporting the Viet Cong, suppressing conservative or liberarian views on the campus and a grab for raw power to take over the affairs of the university.

It is not the issue of Berkeley, however, that is most significant in this incident. Sen. Percy, apparently in order to score popularity points with his student audience, took out after a fellow Republican rather than concentrate his fire on the administration which is even less popular with the students than is Gov. Reagan.

Ironically, Sen. Percy's ungracious remarks about the governor came in the state that has led the nation in patching Republican wounds, ending Republican feuds and getting on with the business of electing Republican candidates. With the exception of the noisy handful at Berkeley, California is giving growing popular support to Gov. Reagan.

Commentators across the nation were moved to point out that Sen. Percy appears to be jockeying for a position in which, should the front runners fall by the wayside, he could run for the Republican Presidential nomination. It is obvious, too, that in such a circumstance Gov. Reagan would also be in the running.

Thus, this attack against Gov. Reagan so early in the game shows up as purely political, tragically divisive, absolutely not needed and unwise in every sense — even in terms of Sen. Percy's political ambitions.

It is to be hoped that Sen. Percy, in the future, will address himself to partisan matters rather than escalate his attacks on fellow Republicans.

william s. white ★ Demands Getting Dangerous ★

WHITE

Something very big and very deep—and very dangerous—is moving just below the surface across the country.

A controlling and ordinarily a moderate-minded majority is becoming grimly angry at the insatiable "demands" alike of extremist civil rights activists and of a left-wing urban political lobby that insists upon wholly unreasonable subsidies from the rest of the people as the price for allowing the maintenance even of elementary civil order.

Too many political and interest-bloc leaders who ought to know better are employing unjustifiable and indefensible tactics. They are beginning to use forms of pressure that are alien to a free and orderly society. They are abandoning the techniques of lawful and national persuasion for tactics that come close to sheer blackmail.

In a word, they are endlessly threating that unless this thing or that thing is done for civil rights, or for urban renewal, or for more public housing, or more swimming pools, or whatnot, this nation will confront "a long, hot summer."

Long since, the phrase "long, hot summer" has come to mean mob violence in the streets, in the ghettos, in the universities or wherever. It is a threat-term, an ugly slogan that has no place in civilized political discussion.

So common has this cliche become that it is now unhappily being used even by men who are basically quite responsible and who do not pause to consider all the implications of what they are saying.

No man in his right mind, for illustration, could regard Secretary of Labor Willard Wirtz as in any way unsympathetic to civil rights or to the genuine needs of the poor—whether urban or rural, though to many politicians "poor" has become a synonym only for those who live in the big cities. It is as though nobody outside megalopolis has any problems.

Wirtz, that is to say, is incontestably both liberal — and social-minded. But even he now has had to point out to so ordinarily solid a politician as Sen. Abram Ribicoff of Connecticut that incessant predictions of some "long, hot summer" are unintentionally contributing to potential violence.

What Wirtz and others in high positions are saying is that they fully recognize the existence of some remaining social and racial injustice but that it is no good pretending that "nothing" is being done, whereas in simple truth a great deal is being done at vast expense — too much, too fast, indeed, to some observers, including this one.

The great point is that this sort of melodramatic fear-rhetoric is not only unjustified on the plain realities of current American life—which in demonstrable fact is constantly being made less and less harsh even to the poor — but is gravely self-defeating. For this is a nation that has been notably generous rather than ungenerous to its poor and its dispossessed, and it is a nation becoming very tired of having it said that it lacks compassion and understanding.

Already, this form of pressure has gone much too far. Already, it has created a climate of resentment and resistance among perfectly fair-minded men. They do not like to be told that they have been penny-pinching where they have been the reverse. And they are approaching the boiling point of an unjustifiable emotionalism of their own — a point where they are about to say to the devil with all social reform, not simply to the unwise and unattainable but also to the sensible and necessary.

Curtain Call

Edited By Claudia Elkins

'BORN YESTERDAY' TO OPEN

Three of the 13 cast members of "Born Yesterday," are shown rehearsing a scene from this three-act comedy, which will be presented by Little Theater Off Broadway on June 9-10 and 16-17 at Broadpark Junior High School, Grove City, at 8:30 p.m. Left to right are Shirlee Randall, Gene Walsh and Beverley Baker, who play a maid, a millionaire and an ex-chorus girl in the long-running Broadway hit.

New Television Station To Be Established Here

The Federal Communications Commission has granted approval of a Nationwide Communication, Inc., application to establish an ultra high frequency television station on channel 47 in Columbus.

NCI's permit to construct UHF facilities will become final on June 19 and NCI vice president and general manager George H. Campbell said the company was "prepared to go ahead immediately to firm up our plans for the location and construction of station facilities once the grant becomes final."

NCI, formerly known as People's Broadcasting Corp., was first awarded the franchise in March, 1966. However, the FCC review board reversed the examiner's decision and granted the permit to Farragut Television Corp. of Washington, D.C.

NCI appealed to the full FCC and received the franchise. The FCC decision is final.

In granting the permit to NCI, the FCC said the "award was made on the basis of the Commission's policy statement . . . calling for determination of best practicable service to the public combined with maximum diffusion of control of mass communications media."

Campbell said NCI intends "to provide top quality programs that will appeal to the public's diverse tastes."

NCI, a subsidiary of the Nationwide Mutual Insurance Co., operates radio stations WRFD-AM and WNCI-FM in Columbus and Worthington, WGAR-AM and FM in Cleveland and WATE-AM and WATE-TV in Knoxville, Tenn.

CPTA Plans New Season

Columbus Junior Theater of The Arts is offering school age children a summer session to include art, puppetry, creative dramatics and music.

Sessions will be held three days a week at CTJA, 115 W. Main-st, with the dramatic sessions meeting at Capital University.

Well over 100 children, many of whom have appeared on Channel 10's "Lucy Go Round" and "Juvenile Court," Stadium Theater and Independent Players, attended the fall classes at CJTA this past season.

For a season finale the television, puppetry, stage craft and dramatic classes presented a program of excerpts from plays, monologues, skits and set design models.

All were performed, directed and produced by the children Saturday for parents and guests.

During the day it was obvious that CJTA had accomplished the purposes of the school. These are not only to prepare the students for theater participation, but to give them a guiding light for living a daily life with others of all walks of life, to establish a background for the business world through responsibility, manners and reasoning.

For information phone Mrs. Ortha Stambaugh at 224-6672 or 885-4967.

'Educational Park' Radical Change From CPS Neighborhood Concept

By JANE ROBINSON
.. Spectator Staff Writer ..

Three of the six recommendations made to the Columbus Board of Education and its administrators by the Columbus Urban League this month are in direct opposition with the "neighborhood concept" now a standby in city school districting.

The proposal, included in the report "Quality - Integrated Schools for Columbus, Ohio," prepared by the Urban League Education Committee, involving the most revolutionary change is that of an "educational park plan."

ALTHOUGH THOMAS L. Kaplin, Jr., League president, told The Spectator the League is seeking only study of such a plan, the report states that it "strongly recommends" the formula which it claims will bring "quality-integrated education to each and every child in Columbus."

Based largely on a Philadelphia study, the program divides the city into service areas. From 15,000 to 20,000 children from pre-school age through seniors in high school are soon assigned to each park, approximately 100 acres. (All figures are flexible, and quoted as adaptable to needs of an individual city and individual areas within it.)

The local report states that each park would be sited according to racial composition of the area to achieve integration of the entire system. (The League classifies only Columbus schools with between 15 and 35 percent non-whites enrollment as integrated. This figure was reached by adding a 10 percent leeway to the ratio of three to one white to Negro students extant in the City District.)

SUCH PARKS are laid out with elementary "clusters" feeding the junior highs and ultimately the senior highs. All attendant facilities are included and the advantages claimed are many.

These include improved curriculum, centralized testing, evaluation and guidance and "a constructive force for equality and a positive barrier to the inculcation of racist and supremacist ideas."

The condensed Philadelphia report, which is included as an appendix to "Quality Integrated Schools" states that the admitted parental inconvenience (problems of transportation, teacher conferences, etc.) of a park system versus that of the neighborhood concept cannot be seriously argued against "educational necessity."

IT IS STRESSED that in large cities a park cannot be allowed to draw only from its own neighborhood, as this would result only in segregated parks rather than segregated schools.

In the Philadelphia report, 1980 is spoken of presumably as a target date. It can be presumed that the local Educational Committee would seek no earlier date.

A much more immediate goal presented by League is the phasing out of five inner-city elementary schools, identified only as A, B, C, D and E in the appendix. (The report which uses "four" as an arbitrary number with no limit set, conflicts with the appendix on this point.)

THE PERCENTAGE of Negro to white children in these schools ranges from 87 to 99.9 percent.

The problem involves, over a six-year period, transferring students from these schools to where enrollment is now approximately 4,700 to 25 outer city schools that are 99.9-100 percent exclusively white.

The precis, which demands an acceleration of the Head-Start program, begins with sending all kindergarten and first grade pupils to outer-city schools the first year.

EACH SUCCESSIVE year, until the transfer is complete, an additional grade level would be bused to outer schools.

Although it is stated that no busing from outer-city schools to inner-city schools is recommended, the proposal for conversion to special use of these vacated facilities is contrary to the first statement.

The five uses suggested for the former elementaries are a combination adult education and small high school for drop outs, etc.; a school for "under-achievers" from throughout the city; a laboratory school for grades K-six, also open to all CPS pupils; a school for the city's neurogically handicapped, and a single facility for all Head-Start programs offered inner-city children.

MAINTAINING that racial imbalance is a critical factor in equal education, the League recommends redistricting on a continuing basic, with yearly adjustments made for changes in Negro residency.

NAACP and other organizations fighting de facto segregation (defined by the report as segregation arising from circumstances rather than by law) have long taken this stand.

However, until this report, equal emphasis has not been placed on a change in the feeder patterns for junior and senior high schools.

IT STATES that only by directing non-white students to predominantly white secondary schools can the pattern of perpetuation of segregation begun at the pre-school level be broken and racial balance achieved.

The league also asks immediate establishment of a cabinet level department in the Columbus Public Schools to "develop, administer and evaluate programs which will contribute to the well-being of the total community."

The assistant superintendent in charge of the new department would direct districting, participate in policy and operational decisions, promote reduction of racial imbalance, plan for, develop and assist in establishment of educational parks, promote positive inter-group relations, and assume a number of related responsibilities.

KAPLIN, when asked if this department would not overlap the area covered by the Intercultural Committee on Education appointed as an advisory group to the Board of Education last year, replied negatively.

He contends that ICE is primarily a lay group without the professional know-how to make the necessary recommendations through which integration can be achieved.

statistics in the 154-page document (3,000 man-hours are invested in it) are those dealing with the effectiveness of "compensatory" programs now offered in Columbus schools with a high percentage of socially deprived children.

The report contends such programs which include cultural enrichment, remedial reading, summer schools and other instruction improvements have failed to raise attainment levels effectively for children in segregated schools.

CONVERSELY, the figures quoted indicate that achievement of Negro children rises proportionately with the earlier they are admitted to integrated schools.

Also, it is pointed out that integration led to a higher performance level by the white students in the schools involved. This rise was much less than that noted in the Negro students.

The report makes the conclusion that the Columbus Board of Education cannot be legally compelled to end de facto segregation, but states that it is a matter of justice.

IT ALSO points out that through the Equal Educational Opportunity Program the U.S. Office of Education federal funds are available to local districts planning or experiencing desegregation.

And So It Grows

Prepared By The Ohio Extension Service

Damage to fruit trees from fluctuating temperatures this spring has been spotty, according to Extension fruit specialists at the Ohio State University. The greatest amount of injury has been in the low spots.

The southern part of the state has had more damage than the northern because trees bloomed earlier and were in full bloom when freezing temperatures of April occurred.

Shallow cultivation every week or 10 days during the early part of the gardening season will prevent serious weed problems later in the season. Also, weeds are easiest to kill when they are small. Do not cultivate more than one inch deep. A half inch deep usually is sufficient.

Usually if you mow your lawn frequently, you won't need to remove clippings. Clippings left on thin stands of grass conserve moisture, keep the soil cool, and permit re-use of the fertilizing materials in the grass. But on dense lawns, clippings may increase disease problems, contribute to thatch build-up, and mar the appearance. Remove clippings if the lawn has gone unmowed for long periods.

Three plantings of corn and snap beans between the date of the last killing frost in spring and early July will help assure you of a continuous supply of these crops. Planting varieties of corn that mature at different times also spreads the harvest season.

For example, an early variety such as Gold Crest, Earliking, or Spring Gold, and a mid-season variety such as Gold Cup, F-M Cross, or Seneca Chief, and a late-maturing variety such as Victory Golden, Iochief, or Midway can be planted on the same date.

On small plants you can pick the carrot-shaped bags of bagworms from the branches and burn them. By destroying them immediately and before they hatch, you'll cut down the number that may pester your plants this summer.

Wilting of tomato plants often is caused by diseases. If your plants continue to show wilt damage, it may be well to buy the disease resistant varieties. The two main diseases on tomato plants are fusarium and verticillium wilts.

Mid-season varieties resistant to fusarium wilt are Heinz 1350 and Heinz 1439. Heinz 1439 is resistant to both wilt diseases. Late varieties with fusarium resistance include Heinz 1370, Campbell 146 and Rutgers Hybrid. Rutgers Hybrid also has verticillium resistance. Campbell 1327, an early variety, has resistance to both diseases. Sunray and Golden Jubilee, yellow varieties, and Pinkdipper, a pink variety, are fusarium resistant.

WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT FOOD

At the 1966 meeting of the American Public Health Association, a report was presented of a study of nutrition education, detailing what you and I should know about food. Here are the conclusions:

Nutrition is the food you eat to live, grow, keep healthy and get energy for work and play.

All nutrients needed by the body are available through FOOD!

Many kinds and combinations of foods lead to a well-balanced diet. No food, by itself, has all the nutrients required for good health and normal growth. Each nutrient has specific uses in the body. (This has been overemphasized, and an equally important concept has been overshadowed, namely that most nutrients do best when "teamed" with other nutrients.) In short, the body requires a complete, balanced, varied diet, not a mere conglomeration of chemical substances.

All Need Same Nutrients

All persons, throughout life, need the same nutrient substances, that is, the same kinds of foods. Too much emphasis has been placed on children's diets, teen-age diets, old age diets, reducing diets, and so on and on. The differences at various ages are in amounts, not qualities, of foods required. These are influenced by age, sex, size, activity, state of health, and in women by pregnancy and the nursing of infants. Suggestions for these variations have been made by trained scientists—and that means nutritionists, physicians, and physiologists, not self-styled purveyors of the "latest" in crash diets to produce miraculous results overnight.

A phase of nutrition often overlooked is: the way food is handled influences the amount of available nutrients, the appearance of the food, its safety and its taste. All these are factors which appeal to the appetite. The nutrients of food are of no service if they remain on the plate and end up in the garbage. Handling includes whatever happens to food while it is being grown, harvested, processed, stored and prepared for serving.

A Simple Concept

This simple concept of good eating differs radically from the complicated and confusing ideas about diet which have gained all too great currency. Indeed, as was emphasized in the presentation at the public health meeting, this is simple enough so that children should be able, upon finishing the primary grades, to identify and report the foods they have eaten, to eat a variety of foods and enjoy them, to know what food is for, and to make good selections in the school lunchroom. A little later they should understand most of the ideas set forth at the head of this column.

GVS Re-Elects Frank Fetch

Frank Fetch, who has been president of the German Village Society since it was formed in the late 50's, will head the organization for another year.

The unanimous re-election by the newly-seated trustees of other officers who served last year was also announced at the annual membership meeting of the Society Sunday afternoon.

THESE INCLUDE Dorrell Griggs, vice-president; Miss Marie Warren, secretary; Mrs. Dorothy Fischer, treasurer and Phil Kientz, sergeant-at-arms.

Bernie Hodapp is the only new face on the board of trustees elected by absentee ballot recently and reported at Sunday's meeting. The president of Peerless Saw, he replaces Michael Mileusnich of Regional Planning who has served since he helped found the Society.

Five incumbents ran against five new candidates for the vacant seats on the 15-man board. With the exception of Mileusnich who has had the reputation of being a tireless worker for the Society, the seats went to the incumbents. These include Fred Kaiser, Carl Magnuson, Dorrel Griggs and Henry Schmitt.

OTHER BUSINESS discussed included plans for the annual Haus Und Garten Tour slated for Sunday, June 25 and the Welcome Party to be held at the German Village Office Sunday with the Board of Trustees and their spouses joining the welcoming committee, chaired by Mrs. Fischer, as hosts and hostesses.

Seventy invitations have been sent to persons who have moved to the area of historical restoration during the past year.

State representative John McDonald from Newark is my kind of politician.

He is in all sincerity, trying to do something about pollution. He had promised me that if he was re-elected, he would submit a bill to make Ohio's pollution something other than a sorry joke.

PAUGH

HE HAS done just that. It is House Bill No. 642 and it limits the number of times a single source of pollution can be excused. In the past, villages, towns and cities have been issued a license to continue polluting with their horse and buggy sewage treatment plants.

Should McDonald's bill become law, these local officials —who are afraid to rock the boat by admitting the people they serve are violating their own drinking water — will be forced to earn their pay by thinking.

Rubber stamp continuances will be a think of the past. Ohio cannot find a single clean stream as this column goes to press.

THE FEDERAL Government has given all states an ultimatum — clean up your water or we'll do it with your money.

McDonald's bill would be a giant step in that direction. The bill would have the same effect on industries which have enjoyed total immunity in the past through a strong lobbying system.

Some of the worst offenders are: abandoned mines, gravel tipples, metal processing plants, chemical manufacturers and the fast growing oil and gas business.

THE IMPROPERLY closed mines leak sulphur, the gravel operations wash their products and run the washings out in the stream, the oil and gas wells are poorly drained and the residue always runs down hill, the metal and chemical plants run their highly volatile fluids into the bordering waters.

All of them, of course, hold their seemingly harmless conventions complete with big name politicians but in the smoke filled rooms they are carefully planning how best to avoid the bad publicity that goes with being a pollutant.

MY APOLOGIES go out to Alex Alexander of Club de Pesca de Panama. Last month, I mentioned his exotic fishing club. I stated that when I get a thousand dollars saved up I will go there and boat a few of those monster sailfish he is bragging about.

I mistakenly mentioned the thousand dollars as the price of the stay. He somehow got hold of a copy of the Maverick's column and let me know that the club does not cost a grand but only four hundred — if 10 men go along together.

This puts a different light on the subject. If there are nine of you serious fishermen out there in readership land, get a note to me.

FOUR HUNDRED bucks is much less than many of the northern trips I hear about. Drop me a line if it's big fish you want.

After 15 years of constant work, buying, trading and propagating, the Ohio Division of Wildlife proudly announces 18 turkeys were killed this spring.

Coupled with the 12 last year, I figure those 30 gobblers cost the hunting license buying public about ten thousand dollars each and the 30 lucky hunters spent a total of $60 on licenses. No wonder they had to raise the price of the permits.

THE BEAUTY of their thinking does not become ap-

THE PRICE OF THE RECORD

Stiff competition and temperatures in the high 80's took their toll at Saturday's State track meet at OSU. And those who chose to challenge both and chalk up new records paid the price. At left, meet officials assist an exhausted John Jones of Elgin off the track after the youth gave it all he had in rolling a 9:21.7 "A" two-mile standout. Equally drained of energy is Sunbury-Big Walnut's Bob Daniels (picture at right), crossing the finish after splashing off a record-breaking 4:19.3 in the "A" mile event. (Staff photos by Jack Wintermeyer)

Starkey, Dicke And Trainer Capture State Track Titles

Three first place finishes in "AA" competition highlighted area competition at Saturday's high school State Track Meet at OSU.

West's Chuck Starkey (won two-mile in 9:36.8. Arlington's Tom Trainer (won pole vault with 14' effort) and UA's Denny Dicke (won 440 in :48.4) were the area standouts.

DICK LASKIN'S Arlington contingent placed third in the final totals with 19½ points as Cleveland Glenville (26 pts.) won the "AA" title for the third straight year.

Other area finishers were: Hilliard's Pete Miller (second in discus, 152' 6"), Hilliard's Bruce Adams (fifth in shot put, 58' 8"), South's Rich Boldon (fifth in 100, :9.8 and third in 220, 21.4), UA's Steve McLean (third in mile, 4:23), East's Eugene Hudden (fourth in 440, :48.8), UA's Jim Wattle (fourth in pole vault, 13' 6") and UA's Glenn Kohl (third in high jump, 5' 5").

In the two relay events, Whetstone placed fourth (1:28.4) and South fifth (1:28.7) in the 880 while Whetstone was third (3:19.5) in the mile.

TEAM-WISE, West tied for seventh place (six pts.) while Hilliard, South and East tied for 13th (five pts.). Whetstone scored three points.

Nine new records (most since 1933 when 10 marks fell) were set on the sun-baked OSU oval —five in the "AA" and four in "A".

Kirkland nudged Cuyahoga Heights (30-29) for the "A" title.

HERE ARE the new records: Ken Koch (Cuyahoga Heights, 13' 6¼", "A" pole vault), Bob Daniels (Big Walnut, 4:19.3, "A" mile), Charles Wolfe (Chesapeake, 1:58.7 in "A" 880), John Jones (Elgin, 9:21.7 in "A" two-mile), Mark Debevc (Geneva, 169' 11", "AA" discus), Wes Brock (Toledo Libbey, 4:17.9 "AA" mile), Glenville's 880 relay crew (1:27 flat), Jack Tobik (Cleveland Brush, 6' 6", "AA" high jump) and Jim Epps (Cleveland John Kennedy, 1:54.4 in "AA" 880).

E-M Netters Finish At 15-3

Coach Bill Burt's Eastmore netters closed a close second (10-2) to City League tennis champion Whetstone (11-1) recently.

Here's how the Warrior netmen finished in the individual match department for the season: Mike Silberstein (8-7), Leonard Cousens (16-2), Steve Hunter (13-2), Rod Ishida (13-3), Brian Friedman (15-3), Phil Miller (10-2), Jeff Schneider (16-2), Bob Goddof (5-0), Rick Levy (5-0), Mike Levy (2-0), Steve Hameroff (1-0) and Tom Starch (1-0).

Eastmore's overall '67 mark was 15-3, the three losses all by narrow 3-2 margins to Bexley and Whetstone (twice).

Jets Battle Hens Tonight

The Columbus Jets conclude their fourth home stand of the '67 season with single night games (7:30 p.m.) with Toledo's Mud Hens today and tomorrow.

Tonight is Franklinton Area Council Night and tomorrow is designated as Catholic Youth Night.

The Jets open a road trip Saturday in Toronto and journey on to Buffalo before returning home Friday, June 9, to open a seven-day home stand.

Repeater Landis, Ratleff Latest No-Hit Entries

Area high school pitchers closed the season with a flurry last week with The Spectator's "No-Hit Club" membership zooming up two notches to 24.

Franklin Heights' Dan Landis joined an elite trio which has notched more than one no-hitter by whitewashing Pleasant View, 5-0, while Hoot's Eddie Ratleff earned his club status by blanking South in a perfect effort, 5-0.

LANDIS, who fired his first hitless effort in early April vs. Central, joins ex-teammate Mickey Pless (three no-hitters) and St. Mary's Phil Corbett (two no-hitters) as a repeat club member.

Landis, with one more year of schoolboy pitching in front of him, could equal or surpass Pless' effort next spring. Ratleff, incidentally, is just a sophomore this season.

The two no-hitters last week raised the No-hit Club membership to eight this season, one less than the nine recorded during the '66 campaign.

LANDIS (via coach Ed Lewis) and Ratleff (via coach Paul Pennell) will receive certificates from The Spectator in recognition of their no-hit efforts.

High All-Star Series Opens Here Saturday

The "cream of Ohio's baseball crop" will give fans their money's worth at the 12th annual East-West High School All-Star Baseball Series, Saturday and Sunday at Jet Stadium.

The series is co-sponsored by the Columbus Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Ohio High School Baseball Coaches Association.

IN THE past, several major league players have been discovered in the series, players such as Claude Osteen, Mike Hershberger, Joe Sparma, Chet Trail, Lyn Fitzer, and Dave Roberts.

The night game will provide baseball fans an opportunity to see the state's most promising young high school baseball players, and it will also give the All-Stars an opportunity to play under the lights.

Intense rivalry exists between the two teams. The series standing shows the East teams have won 18, while the Westerners have managed to come out on top 15 times. The East took all three games in 1963 and 1965, and the West grabbed three straight in 1962, 1964 and 1966.

THE 56 players from both squads arrived at the Ohio State Fairgrounds, this morning at 10 a.m. where they checked in at the Youth Center Building.

The West squad will work

Whetstone Bows In State Field To Boardman 3-1

By BOB WHITMAN,
Spectator Staff Writer

After a couple games of real potent pitching the Class AA State High School baseball Championship went to Cincinnati Western Hills, an 8-6 slugfest winner over Youngstown Boardman.

It was title number three for the polished Mustangs, who rode into the championship showdown with a glossy one-hit performance by Bruce Raible. Western Hills captured the State championship in 1948 and 1951 prior to Saturday's conquest.

Boardman, a Youngstown suburban high, had a little more difficult time climbing into the final bracket. The Spartans of Tom Ferrara, nixed Columbus Whetstone's chances with a 3-1 verdict on the Ohio State University Varsity diamond Friday at 3:15.

Eager Boardman used a titanic home run shot in the sixth to ice the issue even though Paul Eckelberry's Braves always made it known that they were very much alive.

Whetstone stroked the ball hard during the warm afternoon they just wasn't the Scenic-dr battlers day. Each well tagged shot was driven right at a glue-gloved Spartan.

Throughout the frustrating experience of not being able to get started, Whetstone mustered only one hit. A dribbler through infield by By Hart in the second inning producing the lone Brave tally.

Hart's rbi was set up with two down and shortstop Ric Clouse on second and pitcher George Rutan on first. Clouse was nipped with the ball by Spartan hurler Guy Topsick and Rutan moved to first on one of Topsick's four walks.

Hart bounced his hit down the first base line scoring Clouse to give Whetstone a 1-0 early lead.

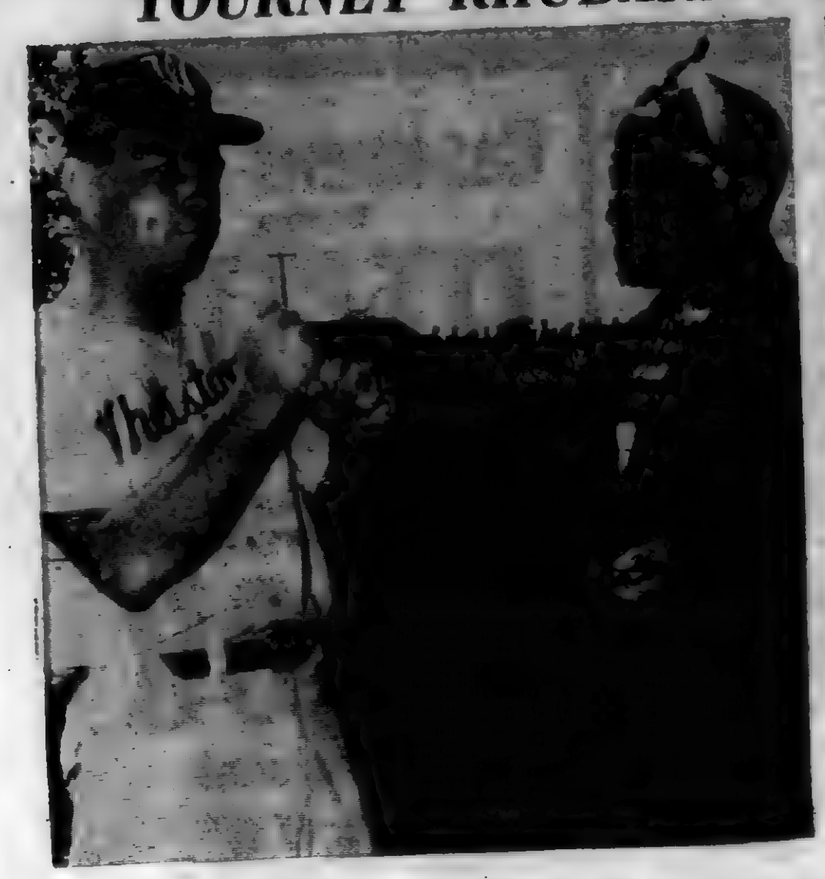
Boardman didn't wait long to even the score with a couple of doubles in the top of the third. Topsick and Spartan hitter ace Ron Ellis charted back-to-back two baggers. Ellis rapped a 345 home run later in the day.

There was much question about the second Boardman run.

Plate umpire shuttled catcher Jim Copacino to first following a questionable hits batsmen call. But a ten minute confab ensued between coaches and umpires and Copacino was awarded the base in the final outcome.

Copacino then scored from second on a fly out to right. Some observers didn't feel that Copacino tagged up on the play as Bud Jenkins' rifle-like arm just missed the throw to the plate. Jenkins, leading Whetstone hitter, was named as alternate to the all-Star series in Columbus this weekend.

"Let's face it," said a dejected Paul Eckelberry, "this just wasn't out best day. It takes a little luck in this crazy game and they had it."



Eckelberry praised the defensive play of Jenkins and Clouse but conceded that no one had a good day at bat.

Whetstone did hold the Mahoning Countians to the fewest runs of any one this season.

Whetstone will have a solid force returning next season with only three—Jenkins, Rutan and Scott Overturf departing via graduation. Boardman loses eight of its strong boys.

Nelsonville copped the Class A crown with a 3-1 win over Edon on the Freshman diamond.

TOURNEY RHUBARB—WAS HE AND DID HE?

The most uncomfortable position on the field at Friday's "AA" State baseball tourney semi-finals belonged to the man in blue—the umpire. The biggest of several rhubarbs began in the fifth inning when Youngstown Boardman catcher Jim Copacino (top right picture) trotted to first base after the ump ruled he was hit on the hand by one of Whetstone pitcher George Rutan's offerings. Brave coach Paul Eckelberry (top left picture) isn't really urging the umpire to "put 'em up" but insisting that Copacino (at right, pointing out his ball-struck hand to Boardman coach Tom Ferrara) fouled off the pitch. The rhubarb took on larger proportions moments later when Copacino (scoring go-ahead run in bottom picture as ball bounds away from Whetstone catcher Jim Shields) romped home after Bud Jenkins' tumbling catch in right field. Braves insisted that Copacino failed to tag up at second base but umps ruled otherwise as Whetstone lost argument and game, 3-1. (Staff photos by Jack Wittenmeier.)

High All-Star

out at Bishop Watterson High School and the East will practice at Whetstone High School (9:30 a.m. and 2 p.m.).

Additional practice sessions will be scheduled tomorrow at the discretion of the coaching staffs.

THE WEST All-Stars coach is Paul Eckelberry of Whetstone.

The Columbus Jaycees will be host to many major league scouts and high school coaches attending the two-day series.

Saturday's night game (8 p.m.) will kick-off the annual series with two seven-inning games scheduled for Sunday, starting at 1 p.m.

AS A special feature of the Sunday program, an All-Star aggregation from radio and television will play an exhibition with an all-girls team. This contest will be played between games.

Included on the 27-man West squad are Reynoldsburg's Gary Shade (2b), Grove City's Larry Kerschner (outfield), Hartley's Chuck Masterson (pitcher), Worthington's Greg Nesser (shortstop) and Carroll's Bill Frye (outfielder).

The quintet will be vying for a "most valuable player" award which will be made after Sunday's twin-bill.

THE ALL-STAR squads will also be honored at a banquet tomorrow evening (6:30) at the Youth Center.

REYNOLDSBURG'S METRO BB CHAMPS

Memorial Day Races Reset Sunday At CMS

It looked like a record-breaking crowd would be on hand last Sunday night at the Columbus Motor Speedway for the Memorial Day Championship races—but the weatherman put the "whammy" on the activity and washed-out the entire program even before the time-trials could be run.

Before the rains came, there were some 4500 in the stands, with traffic lined up for more than a mile in all directions. These fans will get their chance this Sunday evening, when the South Side raceway will attempt to run the Memorial Day Championship events with a guarantee of $2500 in cash awards (or 40 percent of the gate, if greater).

The eight-event program of late-model and sportsman cars will be climaxed with a 35-lap late-model and a 25-lap sportsman main-event.

Sunday's time trials begin at 7 p.m. and the first race will get underway at 8 o'clock.

The Williams-rd track will also have $200 in cash for the fan or fans who can correctly pick the first five finishers (in order) in Sunday's late-model feature in the raceway's free game of "Total."

Porterfield Cap's 'MVP'

Ex-Worthington High pitcher Ira Porterfield was named as Capital University's "most valuable" baseball player last week.

The junior righthander helped pace the Crusaders to their best diamond finish in five years (8-5) by turning in a 5-2 (seven complete games) record and a nifty 1.04 ERA.

Porterfield allowed only seven earned runs in 60 1/3 innings, gave up 46 hits, walked only eight and fanned 42.

EARLY COFFEE

Sleepyheads who want a cup of coffee the minute they open their eyes will welcome this timesaver. Make extra coffee at dinnertime and pour it into a vacuum bottle for early morning enjoyment.

Checkers Will Host 'AHA This Weekend

The Columbus Checkers will play host to more than 1000 representatives of amateur hockey, ranging from Anchorage, Alaska, to Charlotte, N. C., Friday through Sunday.

The Amateur Hockey Association, which will conduct meetings at the Sheraton-Columbus Hotel, controls and regulates all amateur hockey in the U. S. from Pee-Wee tournaments through Olympic and international competition.

The conference will be particularly significant for Columbus youngsters and hockey enthusiasts since the Checkers will be instituting a children's hockey program here next fall.

The Checkers already have been promised the support of the Jaycees, City Recreation Dept. and the Ohio Exposition Commission.

Last winter, the Checkers held three hockey clinics which attracted more than 200 boys between the ages of seven and 17.

ABOUT VITAMINS!

Did you know that you could be over-vitamined? One of the symptoms of too much vitamin A, for instance, is the loss of hair. It is easy to secure enough vitamin A as long as you keep your diet varied. An occasional fish dish and the regular eating of yellow fruits and vegetables easily supply the daily requirements. There is a vitamin in the B complex group called Pantothenic acid, which is believed to be essential for maintaining hair color. The same association of gray hair and deficiency has been made with respect to parasaminibenzoic acid which is also in the B complex. In studies with rats it was found that hair could be turned white by withholding parasaminobenzoic, and turned back again by restoring it. However, black and gray attempts to duplicate this finding in human beings is so far unsuccessful.

DIET ADVICE . . .

In the absence of any spefific problems . . . 1. Eat small portions of correctly balanced foods. 2. If you are overweight let your doctor help you change your eating habits permanently. 3. Don't fret about vitamins. If your diet is intelligently selected you'll get all you need. 3. Of course, taking an approved diet pill each day can provide you the insurance you may want.

Bexley Planning All-Night Party

Safety-minded parents are picking up the pace as the deadline nears for the Bexley High School all-night graduation party to be held June 15, at Jeffrey Mansion.

The theme of the event will be "Ye Olde Jeffrey Castle" and will be carried out by some rather "mod" decorations at knights on horseback and on motorscooters.

The party will begin at 10 p.m. following the school's graduation ceremonies and will end with a sunrise breakfast.

Some of the highlights for this year's affair will be a midnight supper, dancing to the music of "The Grayps" and "The Fifth Order," a performance guaranteed to mystify by Merlin the Magician, horoscope telling, ballads by Leslie and Gary, "The troubadours," and a swimming session in the Bexley pool.

The decorating committee, headed by Dr. and Mrs. D. J. Alspaugh, planned an atmosphere reminiscent of King Arthur's Court (complete with a 30-foot dragon) with a mod twist. State Aid To Schools Will Have Wide Range

The Ohio Education Association has used computer service to arrive at the figures quoted below which estimate the amount of additional state support that will be made available to local districts through the Ohio Senate Bill 350 introduced recently.

Although its extensive sponsorship virtually guarantees its passage, the bill is still in committee.

According to OEA, the following amounts can be granted to Franklin County districts per teaching unit from the proposed $220,000,000 appropriation:

Bexley, $351; Columbus, $877; Grandview, $350; South-Western, $878; Arlington, $357; Westerville, $1,065; Whitehall, $791; Worthington, $623; Canal Winchester, $748; Hamilton Local, $1,534; Jefferson Local, $120; Madison Local, $820; Mifflin, $1,348; Plain, $699; Reynoldsburg, $1,161; Scioto-Darby, $1,041, and Washington Local, $633. Neighboring Teays Valley in Pickaway County is eligible, according to OEA, for $382.

Salary—

This will result in the taxpayers knowing which of their tax dollars are supporting schools, and the schools knowing where their bread and butter is coming from.

It is hoped that legislators will also amend the bill to increase improvement in the local financing of schools.

ONE SPECIAL target is the existing laws that make it necessary to renew operating levies every few years, making it appear the boards of education have its collective hand out when approval is merely sought for the present levels of operation.

A second target is the law which limits a board from holding more than one special election a year. This provision in the past has resulted in expensive delays in securing voter go-ahead on necessary construction.

The sixth change asked, one involving minimum increases for schools receiving funds over and above the foundation formula because of consolidation agreements, does not apply to any school district in Franklin County.

ALTHOUGH there is evidently a lot of work to be done on the proposed bill, Sen. Oakley Collins, R-Ironton, who is chairman of the Senate Education Committee, has stated he is hopeful it can be passed within two and one-half months.

Both he and Sen. Mike Maloney, R-Cincinnati, who as chairman of the Ways and Means Committee exerts considerable influence on the passage of any bill, are among the 33 sponsors of Senate Bill 350. Similar strength is indicated for House Bill 766 with 44 sponsors, led by Rep. Kenneth Creasy, R-Delaware, education chairman; Walter White, R-Lima, taxation chairman and Ralph Fisler, R-Wooster, finance chairman.

Guard Will Remain At Home

By JANE WOLLERMAN
Spectator Staff Writer

Major General Irwin J. Hostetler, Ohio's Adjutant General, said this week that recent events in the Middle East have not changed the status of the Ohio National Guard.

The general said he had no word "officially or unofficially" that indicates the Pentagon has changed its mind about calling up Guard units.

At a press briefing last week at which the extended active duty training plans for the 37th Division's SRF 3rd Brigade were announced, Guard officials said that all indications are that the Guard and Reserve units will remain on an inactive status and be held as a home guard for the continental United States.

The general did say that it appeared from recent articles in military publications and other sources of information that the Department of Defense plans to press for the elimination of 15 additional combat divisions from the Guard including the 37th.

He said that he has been given to understand that the troop lists which will be given to the nation's adjutants general at a meeting at the end of this week will contain those cutbacks.

"It doesn't make any sense to me to cut back 15 trained divisions at a time when the country is in the middle of so many crises. But I am not in Washington. That is just my opinion," Hostetler said.

At the press briefing the general had said that the 37th "won't go down without a fight."

The 3rd Brigade, as an SRF unit, is scheduled to undergo three weeks of training this summer in the swamps of South Carolina. The Guardsmen will train with regular Army, Air Force and Marine units as part of the SRF 28th Division. It will be the largest exercise the Guard has participated in since 1951.

Officials have been particularly concerned to have the public and employers understand that attendance at these maneuvers is mandatory for every man in the unit and that the trainee has no choice in the matter. He must fulfill his military obligation in this manner or be drafted.

Applicants must be between 17 and 27 years old. Competition will be in bathing suit and evening gown categories.

For applications, contact the Regional Directors, the Noni School of Charm and Modeling, 308 S. High-st.

National Finals will be held in Baltimore, Md.

'Barefoot' Opens POG Season

"Barefoot In The Park," the long-run Broadway comedy hit, opens the Playhouse-on-the-Green season with a two-week engagement beginning Monday, June 12.

"Barefoot In The Park" tells of the hilarious disorders of a pair of newlyweds who are trying to establish a love nest in a drafty walk-up apartment, whose broken skylight admits snowdrifts into the living room.

The bride, an adorable kook, has to employ all her loving wiles to convince her serious-minded lawyer-husband that their flat, despite the six-flight climb to reach it and its February winds, is a bit of Paradise The nuewlyweds will be played by Sharon Vaughn and Ian Sullivan.

Completing the cast will be Bruce Blaine, Deidre Owen and Peter Harris.

U.S., 16 Other Nations Issue Lions Stamps

Seventeen nations have announced plans to recognize the Golden Anniversary of Lionism through the issuance of commemorative stamps.

Latest of the countries to make the announcement is the United States, which will issue the stamp to coincide with the Lions International Convention in Chicago in early July. The stamp's design will include a reference to the theme of the Search for Peace program.

In reporting the stamp, the U.S. Post Office Department said: "Lions International was born during the war year of 1917, and from then until now has watched wars flare in many parts of the world. Looking to the future, and in the belief that peace is attainable, Lions is sponsoring a peace essay contest for youths throughout the free world . . ."

Other countries issuing stamps include Brazil, Senegal, Colombia, Morocco, Paraguay, Bolivia, Luxembourg, Australia, Chad, Korea and Monaco.

26 Rezonings Passed By Whitehall Council

By NANCY LOGUE
Spectator Staff Writer

Whitehall City Council members were just a group of yes men at Tuesday night's meeting where they passed 36 ordinances and five resolutions.

Twenty-six of the ordinances that brought about the numerous "yeas" pertained to a new zoning classification which places schools, city property and churches in quasi-public zones.

One ordinance, involving the reclassification of the E. Broad Street School property was tabled until a later date when a clause will be inserted to insure council's say in the further rezoning of the area.

Council members also gave the nod to an emergency ordinance that appropriates $200 to the City Planning Commission. The money was taken from previously unappropriated funds.

Another ordinance, which authorizes the auditor and treasurer to transfer $483 from the Capital Improvements Fund to the Urban Planning Assistance Program Fund, was passed by Council. This fund will be paid to Ohio's Department of Development as an additional share of the city's portion of the Urban Planning Assistance Program.

Council adopted a resolution that authorizes the installation of a mercury vapor street light on Rickenbacker Avenue between Bernhard and Ross Roads.

Council had made an earlier agreement with the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Company to provide the street lights for the city.

Council also upheld Mayor Paul Haytcher's veto of an ordinance and resolution pertaining to improvements of Westphal Road by a 5-2 and a 6-1 vote against reconsideration of the ordinance and resolution respectively.

Council had previously passed the legislation by a 5-2 vote at its last meeting.

Whitehall Seniors Hit Scholarship Jackpot

Whitehall-Yearling High School seniors hit the scholarship jackpot this year by receiving more than $75,000 in scholarship grants from the nation's universities.

The following students have received scholarships and grants from these universities and colleges: Louis Bardi, Concord College, Athens, West Virginia; Kenneth Flowers, McMurray College, Jacksonville, Ill.; Cheryl Crawford, Capital University; Jeanne Smith, Ohio State; Jane Wingo, Miami University; Joy Gribble, St. Mary of the Springs; Sally Shadwick, Ohio State; William Peck, Ohio State, and James Heaton, Muskingum College.

Scott Graeler, Muskingum College; Larry Newman, Columbus Technical Institute; David Replogle, UCLA; Stephanie Manack, Ohio State; Linda Blayney, Ohio State; Beverly Lucas, Riverside School of Nursing; Sharon Nicholson, University of Chicago; Stan Finkelstein, Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Larry Murray, Rose Polytechnical Institute; Beckie Ramsey, Nationwide Beauty Academy; Edward DiPesa, St. Mary of the Springs; Robert Kuhns, Ohio State; Timothy Lavendar, David Lipscomb College and Patricia Ebert, Miami University.

These students have received $75,395 in grants. Several other members of the graduating class have scholarships pending.

Bexley Recreation Program Set To Open On June 19th

Bexley will open its annual summer recreation program Monday, June 19, with supervised playground activity at three schools.

Children four years old and older will be offered "planned and spontaneous play" at Maryland, Cassingham and Montrose school playgrounds from 9 a.m.-9 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Highlights of the schedule include inter-playground softball and baseball leagues, Junior Olympic competition, tennis tournaments and Fourth of July contests.

The adult recreation program opens next week with slo pitch softball on Tuesdays at 6:30 p.m. and a fast pitch league on Wednesdays at the same time.

The Recreation Department staff will also operate the tennis courts at the rear of Jeffrey Mansion from 7:30 a.m. until dark daily. Qualified instructors will be available from 9 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Lessons may be arranged at the tennis courts beginning June 19 and the department will also sponsor an adult tennis tournament.

All-day programs at the playgrounds will include group games and individual activities plus "quiet activities" such as checkers, chess and handicrafts. Picnics, nature hikes and swimming parties will be planned at the Jeffrey Mansion grounds.

Adult supervisors for the program are Linda Howe and Tim Greiner at Montrose, Marilyn Ruhling and Bob Kaderly at Maryland and Shyla Jones and Bob Birkhimer at Cassingham.

Going Too Far

Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner is to be commended for his "fly the flag" Americanism program, but it seems to us the mayor went too far in his condemnation of dissenters.

While he was never specific on exactly what he meant by dissent, the mayor said, in effect, that anyone who didn't like the United States could bloody well get on a boat and go elsewhere.

This nation was founded on dissent. It was a group of dissenters against the policies of Great Britain that started the Revolutionary War and dissent has been a keystone of our democracy ever since.

Mayor Sensenbrenner's desire to further the cause of patriotism is admirable. However, his stated attitude toward dissent is unfortunate in that it cuts at the very heart of the American democracy.

The Spectator newspapers would hope that the mayor will reconsider his words and recognize the fact that without dissent, our democracy would soon cease to exist. Government by consensus is fine, but government in which the majority overruns the minority is a terrifying thought.

Strange Situation

It seems almost strange that under a democratic system of government it would be necessary to pass a law to make meetings of public officials open to the public.

But many local, state and national officials continue to treat the public's business as if it were their own private domain.

Now pending before the Ohio legislature is a bill to make it more difficult to hold private meetings on the public's business. The bill is weak in that it carries no penalty clause, but as an expression of the public's desire that the public's business be conducted in public it deserves passage.

Another Step Forward

Columbus Police Chief Robert Baus is to be commended for his efforts to improve police-community relations.

Latest phase of the continuing program to be announced is use of a mobile police station which can be used at various locations in the city.

Persons with complaints about police problems will be invited to come to the mobile station and air their views rather than to allow situations to fester because of inability or disinclination to take the matter "downtown."

The public's full cooperation with Chief Baus in his efforts should be forthcoming for it is the public's needs which will best be served.

Blame Misplaced

The executive board of the Columbus chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has passed a resolution demanding that the board of education notify parents and civic organizations (presumably including the NAACP) of the results of the standardized tests given all Columbus children.

It is further stated, in a press release, that the school board has received school by school comparisons which show "in the inner city at least, miserly spending has led to a grossly inferior education."

That charge is a bit vague. Spending is generally on a per pupil basis.

It might best serve the interests of education generally if the NAACP would direct its energies to encouraging the state legislature and administration to provide more funds for such areas rather than seek general distribution of information which might be used more for propaganda than in furthering a child's interests.

"By The Way, What Are We In Line For?"

The Ball Game

By ROBERT BURDOCK
Editor and Publisher

BURDOCK

A previous governor who felt rather strongly about honesty in government once suggested that the legislature adopt a strong conflict of interests bill which would preclude legislators from monetarily benefitting from the offices they hold.

A somewhat shocked but street savvy state senator, contemplating the havoc in such a law, was moved to remark, "The ball game is over!"

Now there is a bill before the state legislature which would permit almost any conceivable conflict of interest, if the official makes a prior declaration of it.

This would mean the chairman of the Senate Insurance Committee (it's not called that anymore) could, in good conscience, draw a legal retainer from an insurance company and everything would be all right provided the rest of the Senate knew it.

There are always going to be conflicts of interests among members of any elected body, particularly state legislators who are essentially part-time employes. Lawyers are going to draw retainers from firms whose industries legislation will affect. And there will always be legislators who will be serving on boards of banks and savings and loan firms.

Even if legislators were put on higher salaries and through annual sessions were considered full-time employes there still would be conflicts of interests. Personal funds invested in utilities, insurance firms, even real estate ownership can present a conflict of interest on the floor of the legislature.

The "full disclosure" proposal before the legislature would probably do more harm than good. It would only provide protection for those who chose to abuse their office. For the honest legislator, his own good conscience is his best guide.

Honesty, like morality, is difficult to legislate.

How About Victim?

To The Editor:

Your editorial of June 1, "The Full Penalty," was a masterfully written, vividly drawn portrait of an unnecessary death.

Now, I wonder, could you describe with equal graphics the death of the murderer's victim?

Retributive Justice

To The Editor:

In regards to your editorial in your June 1 publication entitled, "The Full Penalty," I would like to request that, in the interests of unbiased journalism, you write an editorial outlining the circumstances of Police Lt. Allen Fraley's death and the agony he suffered along with all the clinical details designed to appeal to the emotions.

Justice must be retributive.

More On Duling

To the Editor:

How do you suppose Police Lt. Allen Fraley felt when he was shot?

Why mercy for Duling?

You people puzzle me.

Your truly,
Gladys Marsh
Columbus

(Editor's Note: After these letters were received, Eugene Wylie Duling was granted another hearing by Common Pleas Court. His attorneys indicated they would again appeal on the grounds that Duling was not given a fair trial. No new date was set for his execution. Duling was convicted of the 1964 slaying of Columbus Police Lt. Allen Fraley in a near North Side apartment where Fraley had gone to investigate an assault complaint.

On Tuesday, Gov. James A. Rhodes granted a 10-day stay of execution to John Carter McClellan, who had been scheduled to die Wednesday night for the 1964 slaying of 17-year-old Raymond Espinosa of Toledo. The appeal was granted to allow McClellan's attorneys to seek new avenues of appeal).

leo rennert ★ A Californian Looks At Rhodes—IX ★

(Editor's Note: This is the last in a series on the administration of Gov. James A. Rhodes by Leo Rennert, staff writer for California's McClatchy Newspapers Group.)

Both friends and foe acknowledge that Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes is a master at building consensus and minimizing opposition.

"I'm the only governor who'n never said an unkind word about LBJ," Rhodes likes to point out.

State Sen. Frank Pokarny, D-Cleveland, minority leader in the lower house, credits Rhodes with being a "very good public relations man."

Harold Strickland, field director of the Ohio NAACP, describes him as a political genius.

"Rhodes has a great deal of voter sensitivity," he remarked. "He's a politician's politician. He's not at all rigid."

Being realists, Rhodes and his aides are the first to caution that their policies are geared to Ohio's political climate and may not necessarily be a smashing success in another state.

Politicians in California and Washington predict that holding back on state services would invite serious politican repercussions in a state like California, where people are used to a fairly high level of state programs.

But in Ohio, where state government has never been noted for its dynamism, they think cutbacks and hold-the-line policies can be counted on to generate considerably less opposition.

Rhodes' solid re-election last November is believed to owe much to this difference in Ohio's political outlook.

In addition, his triumph also is attributed to generous and uncritical press treatment by virtually all Ohio newspapers and perennially strong GOP organization in all sections of the state.

Ohio, after all, has given the nation seven presidents since the Civil War—all Republican.

Still, despite the state's basic conservatism, there is growing talk—some of it encouraged by Rhodes—that the governor is about to change his image and perhaps his course during his second term.

"Rhodes thrives on doing things necessary to sustain his image," remarked Strickland at state NAACP headquarters. He pointed to Rhodes' creation of an urban affairs office shortly after he was told about Cleveland's failure to head off riots and that crowded slums and inequalities were the governor's responsibility.

Under Ohio law, Rhodes is barred from seeking a third term. As a result, observers here predict he may run for the U.S. Senate and certainly will want to play a key role at the 1968 GOP national convention.

As the national spotlight increasingly focuses on him, they think Rhodes will abandon his first-term image as a "prudent spender" and switch to a second-term role as a governor who appears to meet resolutely modern problems.

For this reason, there is a growing impression that California Gov. Reagan may be copying the "old" Rhodes at a time when the "new" Rhodes is mothballing his former image.

California, according to this view, thus may be treated to a rerun rather than a gala performance.

marquis childs ★ Book War Brewing ★

CHILDS

The battle of the books is part of an undercover war that has foreign ministries around the world waiting with dread for the next revelation to find its way into print. Book publishers have rarely, if ever before, made such a shattering impact on the news.

The first and foremost instance is that of Svetlana Alliluyeva, Stalin's daughter, whose memoirs to appear in October have already brought a price of up to $3,000,000 for world rights. She has said that she does not intend the book to be a salvo in the cold war but rather as a personal narrative of her alienation from Soviet society and Communist dogma and her discovery of religion and another way of life.

One of the very few persons to see the manuscript puts a different interpretation on it. It is the intimate, detailed life of the secluded elite at the top of the Soviet hierarchy. In dress, manners, privilege, luxury, their lives were completely set apart from the mass of the Russian people.

One who has seen the manuscript put it this way. Imagine that all property in the United States has been nationalized under a Communist regime. The top officials running the country from New York are assigned to small apartments in public housing. But they take advantage of their power to go out to Long Island and appropriate the estates of the former wealthy capitalists.

These are the equivalent of the dachas in the wooded area near Moscow where members of the Supreme Presidium and others in the power structure spent their weekends. As Svetlana paints the picture, they saw only each other, enjoying luxuries in their style of living reminiscent of the czarist period.

In the West the concern is not over books by defectors but by those once in high office who tell all in first-person accounts. Secretary of State Dean Rusk is reported indignant at some recent disclosures and concern over others still to come. He has raised a question as to whether these tell-all books may not violate the security oath taken by top officials and presumably still binding even though the individual no longer holds office.

The forthcoming account raising the most uneasiness is "To Move a Nation" by Roger Hilsman, who was director of the Bureau of Research and Intelligence in the State Department from 1961-63 and then, in the year following, assistant secretary for Far Eastern Affairs. Hilsman, now professor of government at Columbia University, has several times blasted administration policy in Vietnam. He was commanding officer of an OSS guerrilla group in Asia in World War II.

Some grumbling has been heard in the State Department over William Attwood's "The Reds and the Blacks," a first-person account of his ambassadorship to Guinea and Kenya.

While it was not a book but a Saturday Evening Post article, the revelations of Thomas W. Braden about his role in the Central Intelligence Agency in handing out CIA subsidies caused a small earthquake in Washington. His former colleagues in the agency do not try to conceal their rage at Braden's confession, titled "I'm Glad the CIA Is Immoral." They say Soviet propaganda is playing this up around the world as proof from authority that the agency was using every possible front for its subversion.

It is a bull market in the tell-all field, with publishers on the prowl for more of the same. The battle of the books promises to get hotter and hotter.

william s. white ★ Absent Without Leave ★

WHITE

This is a kind of commencement address that will not be made on any college campus in the month of June, but there is no great harm in trying a wistful dry run with it.

Young ladies and gentlemen of the Class of '67:

It is sanctified custom on occasions such as this to point out that you are the special hope of a world which is in a rightful mess because we, "the older generation," have made it so.

The first proposition is quite true. The second is not true; and your speaker has no intention of bowing to this encrusted cliche no matter how many have bowed to it before.

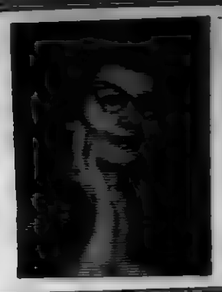
For it is not something called "the older generation" that has brought mankind to its present pass. Most of the older generation, in fact, have motives as good as your own, and some of them have made very considerable sacrifices, not always excluding the last sacrifice of death, to defend those ideals of justice, compassion and peace to which you yourselves are devoted.

The great point is that every adult generation has its minority of foolish, or grasping, or bloody-minded men. It is these alone, as in every generation before, who have created the bad conditions so evident in this as in all previous worlds.

There is an elementary reality which the theologians call original sin and which the nonreligious call simple human evil which no amount of rhetoric about the inevitable progress of man will ever alter.

These men and these movements will not go away if the majority merely thinks splendidly progressive thoughts and relies exclusively upon the notion that local evil is due entirely to poverty and that international aggression springs solely from "lack of understanding." These men and these movements must be actively fought; and fought sometimes not with slogans but with honest power, and sometimes even if personal death might lie at the end.

For though old-fashioned words like "duty" and "honor" and "patriotism" may seem corny and square — and sometimes in some mouths they are indeed both — they are also expressions of profound truth gained from the timeless experience of mankind.



Thus, permit a special word exclusively to the male graduates here. You are justly in horror of war and your campus demonstrations "for peace" have been in accord with both law and American tradition — so long as they have been in the spirit of honest dissent and not to hide mere teen-age sedition and self-serving purposes. But just as you have the right of dissent, you have the inescapable duty to protect this ancient right from those who alone would destroy it, the aggressors of this world.

There is no right not accompanied by obligation; and this is the true meaning of adulthood.

Thus, when some of you seek to avoid the military draft, you are defining your rights as unlimited and your duty as nonexistent. The kind of "intellectualism" which urged this course is in the deepest sense anti-thought. And it is a monstrously selfish and self-petting attitude which is the very opposite to those qualities of compassion which you proclaim.

Do you really want only the ragged and the underprivileged boys who never saw college to do your fighting for you? Do you want to reach middle age remembering that when the time of trial and test came for your generation, you were spiritually hiding under your bed at Mama's house, absent without leave from this, your generation?

WBNS Honors Top Scholars At 'In The Know' Banquet

WBNS-TV Public Affairs Director Tom Gleba set the tone for the evening when he asked, "Does anyone have any questions?"

The occasion was the first awards dinner to honor participants in the Channel 10 program "In The Know." Thirty-two area schools were each represented by four team members and an advisor.

"In The Know" is designed to permit outstanding high school students to via for scholarships and school recognition in a quiz setting.

John Haldi, WBNS vice-president of programming, announced that the success of the program had convinced Channel 10 to renew it next year, beginning Thursday, Sept. 14.

First place winners were Marcie Kaplan, Dan Goldberg, Sam Webster and Kim Barken of Bexley High School. The school received the Mrs. A. B. (Dolly) Cohen Scholarship to Ohio State University.

"Name Droppers," a locally-produced panel show, is replacing "In The Know" for the summer beginning Thursday at 5:55 p.m., live and in color.

NEW NAMES

A list of eight guidelines has been compiled to aid Kansas school officials in the naming of new districts. The state is currently under a massive consolidation program. Among the suggestions: the name should be easy to pronounce, should relate to geography or local characteristics and should not be the name of an old district now out of existence.

Funny Girl Opens

Shari Lewis, Molly Picon and Julius LaRosa will get the Kenley Players season off to a roaring start Tuesday in the hit musical, "Funny Girl."

Miss Lewis, who made her niche in show business with her puppet "Lamb Chop," leaves the little lamb at home this time as she takes over the Barbra Streisand role in the musical based on the life of Fanny Brice.

Molly Picon, queen of both the Broadway and Yiddish stage, plays Fanny's mother and Julius LaRosa reveals acting talent as he portrays the villain in the script.

Highlights of the show include the now-classic "People Who Need People" and "Don't Rain on My Parade." Performances begin at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday and 7:30 p.m. on Sunday, with matinees on Saturday and Sunday at 2:45 p.m.

Cedar Point Offers Fun And Excitement

Cedar Point, the multi-million dollar amusement center on Lake Erie just east of Sandusky, played host to members of the press, radio and television from throughout Ohio and Michigan Sunday.

Cedar Point's owners have taken what had been a run-down park and resort area, poured millions of dollars into redeveloping it and come up with a hit — a sparkling clean, well-run amusement park and beach area.

In addition to the usual amusement park rides, Cedar Point goes one step further with some of the most unusual rides ever seen in Ohio. The Swiss Air Ride is one of only two in the state (the other is at Cincinnati's Coney Island).

But the crowning jewel in the Cedar Point crown is the huge Space Spiral, which takes visitors on a slowly revolving ride up a tower that affords a spectacular view of the park, Lake Erie and Sandusky Bay.

Two Disneyland-type rides also put Cedar Point in a class above the average amusement park. The Cedar Point and Lake Erie Railroad trip and the Western Cruise on an authentic stern-wheeler take you into the imaginary world of the Old West, complete with Indian attacks and wild animals along the way.

Basically, Cedar Point's amusement area is for the kiddies. But there's something about the lake breeze and the sounds of fun that can make most adults kiddies again for a few hours.

The beach area is among the best on Lake Erie and features a long, sandy beach for swimming or just basking in the sun.

The park is also equipped to handle overnight guests at the newly-remodeled Hotel Breakers. And among other features is a Wax Museum, featuring models of famous entertainers and world figures. It is highlighted by a real-looking Phyllis Diller standing in a kitchen complete with spilled ketchup and an overflowing sink.

DANCE PARTY QUEEN PICKED

Majority Tops Back Porch At The Bistro's

Six talented and creative youths came to Columbus Monday as "The Back Porch Majority" opened a two-week engagement at the newly opened Back Porch addition to the Bistro on Olentangy River Road.

Folk singing is their calling card. As a group they present a professional performance not too common these days for a group with an average age of 24. To acquire this type of performance usually takes many years.

There was a lot of toe tapping and applauding as such numbers as "Buy For Me, The Rain," "Bag, I'm In" and "Follow Me" came through the microphones.

Ken Vassey is the leader of the group wtih Alan Hindman, Dennis Johnston, Richard Jensen, Benita Freeman and Karen Brian lending their talents to a sound similar to that of the New Christy Minstrels.

For those of you who do not "dig" folk singing, this group has admirably added to its act comedy routines and impersonations.

The impersonations are done by Dennis Johnston. Such names as Clark Gable, Marlon Brando, Walter Brennan, Cary Grant and John Wayne were the hit of the evening as befitting their reputations. Mr. Johnston captured the audience and was definitely the star of the evening. His exactness and timing were perfect during the routines.

The Bistro has accomplished a 2-0 record for entertainment hits. This hit group will entertain many in the next 10 evenings, and I hope you're one.

As for the Back Porch, it is nice to sit outside and enjoy the evening breeze with the lively atmosphere floating through the clear air — no smoke filled room or feeling of stuffiness. It is a real and rare treat.

Community Theater Buffs Will Convene Saturday

Eleven community theater groups are expected to participate Saturday in the regional conference of the Ohio Community Theater Association at the Christopher Inn.

Keynoting the conference will be Harold Eisenstein president of OCTA and director of cultural arts at the Jewish Center.

Following the keynote speech will be two concurrent workshops, directed by Dr. Charles Dodrill, associate professor of speech and theater at Otterbein College and set design by Jerry Emery, staff designer for Stadium Theater and University Theater.

The highlight of the conference begins at 7:30 p.m. when the 11 groups will present 15-minute excerpts from the past season productions. The winner or first place theater group will represent this area in the State Conference "Inspiration OCTA" to be held later this year.

Judges for this excerpt contest will be Sallie Jones Sexton, producer of Playhouse On The Green; Ev Witham, OCTA State Chairman for "Inspiration OCTA" and Dr. Stan Schutz, department of speech at Muskingum College.

Host theater group for this year's conference is Welsh Hills Players of Newark. Other groups participating are: Players Club, Stadium Theater, Gallery Players, Curtain Players, Little Theater Off Broadway, Village Little Theater, Columbus Junior Theater of The Arts, Otterbein College, Mr. Vernon Players and Prairie Players.

Harold Eisenstein, president of the Ohio Community Theater Association, discusses his keynote speech for the upcoming OCTA regional meeting with Carolyn Lane, regional representative for the community theater group. Eisenstein is director of cultural arts at the Jewish Center.

Local 'Beauty' Calls Israel Home And Paltiel' Master

Pilot Dogs, Inc., isn't one to look a gift dog in the teeth—especially if it is a Labrador Retriever.

But when Beauty was donated to the organization which furnishes guide dogs for the blind, her teeth were a dead giveaway.

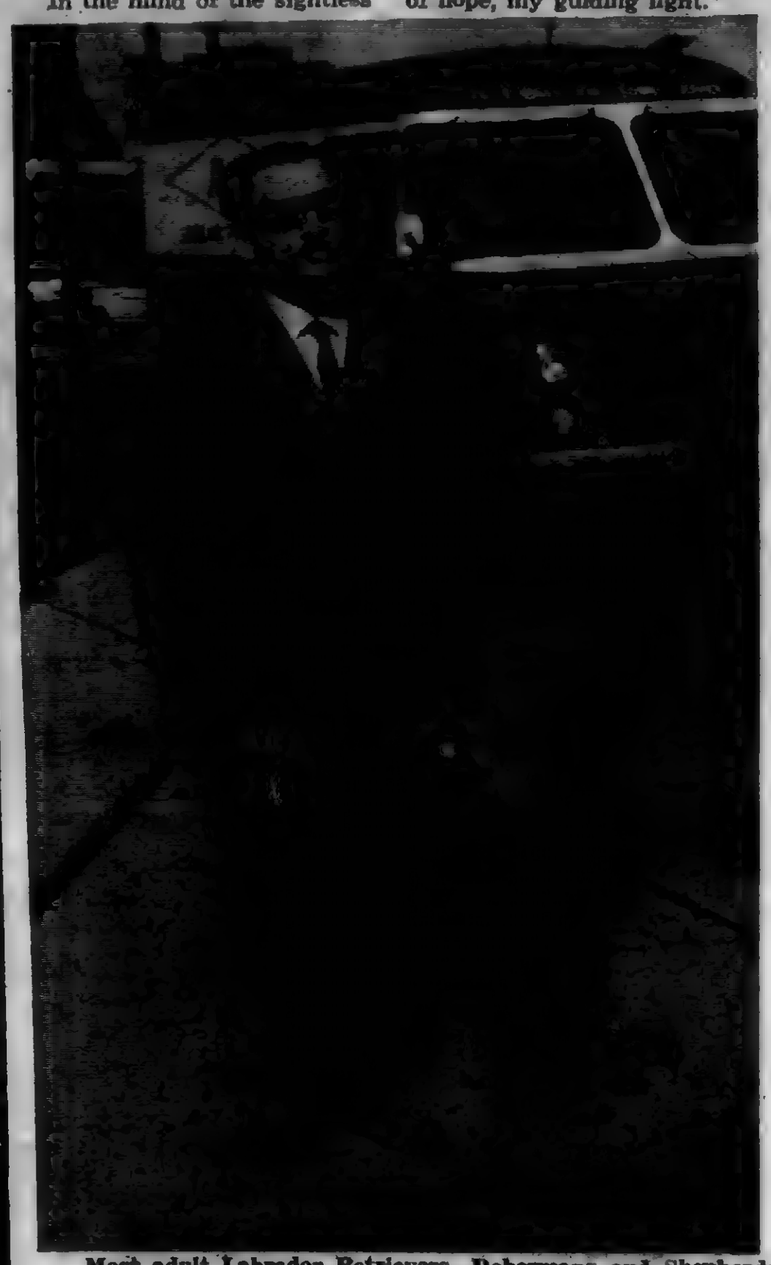
THEY WERE baby teeth.

Since you can't send a puppy to do the job of a man-sized dog, she was banished to a foster home for half a year to live with the Leslie Crumpler family at 199 Woodlawn until she was nine months old and ready to put away her playful and irresponsible ways.

Last Christmas, another look was taken at the youngster and she returned to the Pilot Dog Kennels to learn the decorum that keeps a "pro" dog on the streets and off the grass, the dignity that would make her welcome in a restaurant or crowded bus and the specific know-how that would allow her to become some man's life line.

THESE WERE all tough lessons for the youngster.

In the meantime halfway around the world was a man who had been exposed to some of the toughest lessons in the world—those of war.



A Polish soldier early in World War II Paltiel Molczadski, was eventually drafted into the Russian army and later spent four years in a Ural Mountain labor camp.

THEN IT WAS back into the Russian army where he was blinded, to be sent home to find his family exterminated by the Germans and buried in mass graves with 40,000 other Jews.

In the mind of the sightless man was one bright vision—that of America. Unable to obtain citizenship he settled in Tel Aviv where his mastery of seven languages made his employers overlook his blindness.

But blindness is something a man who experiences it cannot overlook and eventually he came to America to find Beauty. He then returned to Tel Aviv with the sharp eyes and devotion of Beauty to lead him through the darkness he's known for so many years.

ACCORDING TO Walter Doran, director of training for Pilot Dogs, Inc., Molczadski said of Beauty before they left for Israel, "Beauty is my star of hope, my guiding light."

Most adult Labrador Retrievers, Dobermans and Shepherds are remarkable dogs—they can learn to be the eyes of the blind. The story of Paltiel Molczadski and Beauty pictured earlier this year at a West Side intersection is an unusual one in that they are now together in Tel Aviv. But to everyone leaving Pilot Dogs Inc. with his dog it is a new world he is facing—leaving behind the one of helplessness.

Mike's Gone, So Timmy Is Unhappy

A little boy, not yet a year and one-half old, met his first real sorrow this week.

His best friend ran away.

Little Timmy Tomlinson who lives at 889 S. Chesterfield, is confident his pal Mike, a tiny white wire haired terrier, will be back any minute, and runs to the door a hundred times a day to let him in.

But Timmy's Mother and Dad aren't so sure Mike can find his way home from the hasty exodus he took one night this week.

If anyone has seen him, a very little boy can be made very happy if someone will call either of his grandmothers, Mrs. Gutman, 443-9834, or Mrs. Tomlinson, 231-7213, during the day or his house at night, 231-2061.

GARDEN NOTES

Joyce Loughman, Editor

When polls are conducted to find the most popular flower, the rose wins without any real contest. The artists, poets and songwriters who through the ages have glorified the rose have now been joined by the florists, nurserymen and plain dirt gardeners.

But here in Columbus the rose has been given acres of land in which to show off its beauty and to be a source of pleasure to everyone. Any day of the week during the summer months, but especially on Sunday, you are sure to see hundreds of people, young and old alike just walking and enjoying the largest municipal rose gardens in the world — Columbus' own Park of Roses.

A Walt Disney movie with its artist's paintbrush sweeping over a New England scene producing all of the lovely fall colors is conservative in comparison to the wealth of color displayed by the blossoms of roses in June, from the deep, dark red of Oklahoma to the splendid rich yellow of King's Ransom. Warm colors of the desert are merged in Mojave and the soft pastel ivory with the hint of delicate pink of Garden Party are just a beginning in the rainbow spectrum of roses.

Entrance to the park is at 4015 N. High-st at Whetstone Park. Wide gravel walks and larg egrassy areas surround the 35,000 bushes and nestled in the distance is the beautiful building which is the home of the American Rose Society and houses the largest lending library of books on rose culture in the world.

Of particular interest is the test garden. Here, under the watchful eyes of the American Rose Society, are plants bearing numbers instead of names, growing under test conditions. New roses from all over are tested and must meet rigid standards set up by the ARS. Some you will never see in your local nursery — or perhaps another "Pease" will lift its regal head and become the reigning queen.

The weather in Ohio is fickle at best . . . wind, rain, snow, sleet, hot sun. What better place to test the newest plants developed by the world's leading rose breeders?

Each of us enjoys finding something that we remember from grandmother's garden and rose fanciers are no different. A lot of enjoyment is found among the older varieties. And, for a real thrill take plenty of time to wander down the paths which are overhung with climbers — Blaze, Paul's Scarlet and so many more.

Civitan Clubs of Columbus are again sponsoring the programs that have been enjoyed in the past. This Sunday, June 11 at 3 p.m. the Maiden of Roses and her court will be presented to the public and the first in the series of weekly concerts, with the Columbus Capital Chorus, will start next Sunday, June 18, at 7:30 p.m.

Reading Club At Shepard

The Shepard Branch Library at 2185 E. Fifth-av, began registering young readers for the Vacation Reading Club.

As each child reads the specified number of books, he attains successive plateaux. A party will be held for those who have completed 36 books by the end of summer.

The Vacation Reading Club is a program of the city branch libraries which has enjoyed the support of parents and teachers for many summers past.

Gregory, Smith Take CMS Race Features

A standing-room-only crowd of over 8000 (the largest in the history of Columbus Motor Speedway) jammed its way into every bleacher and grandstand seat and every available standing spot Sunday night.

It was the Southside raceway's Memorial Day Championship program—rained out the week before—and a jubilant bunch of drivers took home $5000 in prize money (instead of the $2500 guarantee) for the eight-event program.

BOTH THE late-model and sportsman championship features were outstanding exhibitions of driving skill with only one stop in each event.

The late-model feature of 35 laps was a nip-and-tuck battle between Don Gregory and Dick Dunlevy that saw Gregory getting the checkered flag just a half-car-length ahead of Dunlevy for his initial win of the year on the Williams road third-mile blacktop oval.

Dayton's Norm Smith took the lead on the eighth lap of the 25-lap sportsman championship main-event and went on to victory, but he was challenged right down to the end by Dick Dunlevy (also of Dayton) and Joe King of Columbus, who trailed in that order.

THIS COMING Sunday night more than sixty cars and drivers are expected for the late-model and sportsman races of eight-events with two big features.

Time trials will begin at 7 p.m. and the first race will follow just one hour later.

There were no winners in the Speedway's free game of "Total," so there will be $300 in cash for the fan or fans who can pick the first five (in order) in Sunday's sportsman feature.

Insignia Entries Due This Week!

Local grade and high school artists face the "stretch run" this week with only seven days remaining to enter the Columbus Checker-Spectator Newspaper-sponsored search for a new hockey insignia.

Bill Kelly, top dog of the "Hockey Hounds" (Checkers special promotional squad), reports that more than 150 entries have been received for the contest.

AMONG SCHOOLS entering the insignia contest have been Etna Elementary in Whitehall and Fifth Avenue and Douglas schools in Columbus.

Remember, there's still time to submit your design or sketch before the deadline — Thursday, June 15.

All those submitting entries will receive a free pass to a '67-'68 home Checker game. And the winner will receive two passes for all Checker home games plus a red blazer jacket.

IF YOU ARE an elementary or high school student in Franklin County, you can enter the contest to find the Checkers a new insignia for their uniforms.

All you must do is submit your design on 8½ by 11 in. paper or a reasonable facsimile with the entry blank you see below.

Time is running short for you to enter the insignia contest. Remember the deadline — Thursday, June 15!

DON'T TRUST LUCK

We have over five and a half million registered motor vehicles in Ohio. There are millions of Ohioans who have never been involved in an accident. These drivers are to be commended for their driving skill . . . and their luck! Too many Ohio citizens have been killed because of some other driver's carelessness. The Highway

Whitehall Reserve Unit Turns Old Truck Into Hospital

That glistening white truck standing outside the Whitehall Memorial U.S. Army Reserve Center on Country Club Road started out as a typical olive drab do-everything Army truck but it's now one of the most sophisticated portable mobile X-ray units in the state.

The truck is the handiwork of the men of the 2291st U.S. Army Hospital (Reserve) and is saving the Army $53,000 a year in medical examination costs.

The unit, commanded by Brig. Gen. William W. Davis, took an old Army vehicle, gave it a new coat of paint and stuffed its insides with thousands of dollars worth of complex medical equipment. Men of the unit, directed by Executive Assistant Maj. Earl F. Fox, saved $700 alone by installing the X-ray equipment by themselves.

The truck is towed to various areas throughout Ohio and will average giving more than 13,000 physical examinations to Reservists, National Guardsmen and ROTC students each year.

Fifteen doctors and 25 enlisted men staff the truck on the road. Inside is equipment to give full physical examinations, from X-rays to eye examinations to blood tests.

The portable X-ray equipment, which makes it unnecessary for the Army to contract with local X-ray labs, provides most of the savings. Without the equipment, tests often run as high as $10 each.

So successful has the portable hospital been, in fact, that Maj. Fox and his men are working on a second old green trailer to turn it into another spotless, soundproofed X-ray room on wheels.

Ways and Means chairmen are Mrs. John Beckman, Mrs. Thomas McGuire, Mrs. Vaughn Ewing, Mrs. Robert Nieman, Mrs. Glenn Sharp and Mrs. Leonard Hritzo.

CLUB HOLDS BANQUET

The Suburban Women's Club held its installation of officers at its annual Rose Banquet at the Kahiki Restaurant on June 7 at 7 p.m. Mrs. Rod Swank, president of district seven of the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs, installed the officers for the 1967-68 season. New officers are Mrs. Donald Lott, president; Mrs. Herbert Williams, vice-president; Mrs. Ronald Bezouska, recording secretary; Mrs. Jack Queen, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Donald Partyka, treasurer.

Keglers' Korner

By NORMA KIRKENDALL

The fifth annual Tournament of the Americas will be rolled July 25-30 at Cloverleaf Lanes in Miami, Fla., with bowlers from 25 Western Hemisphere nations. WIBC and ABC both will have contestants.

The Lazarus Carpet Baggers finished in top spot in their league with Jack Bailey's high game of 233 and Fred Zeltman's high series of 626. This was the second round.

Some interesting facts about bowling centers:

Air Conditioning—96 percent of all bowling centers and virtually all of the larger centers covered in the study have some air conditioning. The average (median) cost for the air conditioner unit is $14,000.

Loud-Speaker Systems—The great majority (97 percent) of the centers have a loud-speaker system. The average (median) investment for a loud-speaker system is about $600. The cost is about $1,300 for the larger centers.

Snack Bars — Sixty - nine percent of all the bowling centers and 76 percent of the larger centers have snack bars. These can accommodate approximately 23 customers at one time on the average (median), and serve a wide variety of food and drink from hamburgers and franks to soft drinks, milk, tea, coffee, beer and various pies and cakes.

Utilities — The monthly expenses by bowling centers for telephone, gas and electricity are substantial, especially by the large centers.

Among all centers the estimated median expenditure for telephone service is about $68 per month, gas $87 per month, and for electricity, $467 per month.

In the larger centers, over one-third spend more than $100 per month on telephone service, and over four out of 10 spend more than $100 per month on gas and over one-quarter spend more than $900 per month on electricity.

Firearms for the citizenry fall into three general categories—collector's items, sporting arms and protection weapons. The last classification seems to represent the largest amount.

It is not known (and I hope it never will be known) just how many houses in the block have protection weapons stuffed under the mattresses.

PAUGH

AS LONG AS the hoddy types who prey on the population do not know if the householder has a gun at hand, they must assume all are armed.

In this way, even those who wouldn't have a gun in the house benefit from the care of other homes.

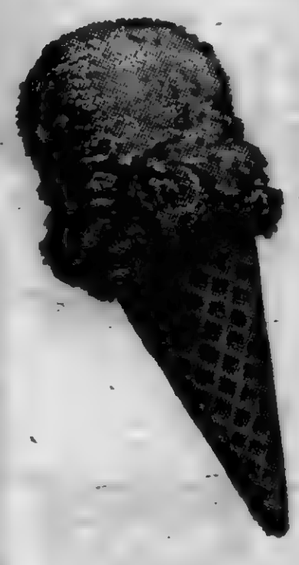
I have long admired the stamina of the National Rifle Association for its efforts to protect the secrecy of gun ownership. Once all gun owners are listed by Federal, State or local governments, the underworld will find a way to copy those lists.

In an editorial in the May issue of American Rifleman magazine — the voice of the NRA — I found a case of faulty judgment.

In that editorial (which went out to 700,000 members across the country) was the suggestion that citizens arm themselves and form groups in readiness to help the local police during riots.

On the surface, this sounds like a good idea — it could bolster the law enforcement people when they needed it most — if it worked. The glaring flaw in the plan is control and identification.

TO A POLICEMAN, faced in the streets by a howling, rock-throwing mob, all mobs look alike. If vigilantes were to roam the streets with loaded guns, they would look just like the rioters to those police.



Defense of your property is well within your rights but to surge out into the night, looking for riots, without the proper training or uniforms and out of touch with those who are paid to keep the peace is utterly foolish.

The fifth annual Tournament of the Americas will be rolled July 25-30 at Cloverleaf Lanes in Miami, Fla., with bowlers from 25 Western Hemisphere nations. WIBC and ABC both will have contestants.

The Lazarus Carpet Baggers finished in top spot in their league with Jack Bailey's high game of 233 and Fred Zeltman's high series of 626. This was the second round.

Some interesting facts about bowling centers:

Air Conditioning—96 percent of all bowling centers and virtually all of the larger centers covered in the study have some air conditioning. The average (median) cost for the air conditioner unit is $14,000.

Loud-Speaker Systems—The great majority (97 percent) of the centers have a loud-speaker system. The average (median) investment for a loudspeaker system is about $600. The cost is about $1,300 for the larger centers.

Snack Bars — Sixty - nine percent of all the bowling centers and 76 percent of the larger centers have snack bars. These can accommodate approximately 23 customers at one time on the average (median), and serve a wide variety of food and drink from hamburgers and franks to soft drinks, milk, tea, coffee, beer and various pies and cakes.

Utilities — The monthly expenses by bowling centers for telephone, gas and electricity are substantial, especially by the large centers.

Among all centers the estimated median expenditure for telephone service is about $68 per month, gas $87 per month, and for electricity, $467 per month.

In the larger centers, over one-third spend more than $100 per month on telephone service, and over four out of 10 spend more than $100 per month on gas and over one-quarter spend more than $900 per month on electricity.

Firearms for the citizenry fall into three general categories—collector's items, sporting arms and protection weapons. The last classification seems to represent the largest amount.

It is not known (and I hope it never will be known) just how many houses in the block have protection weapons stuffed under the mattresses.

PAUGH

AS LONG AS the hoddy types who prey on the population do not know if the householder has a gun at hand, they must assume all are armed.

In this way, even those who wouldn't have a gun in the house benefit from the care of other homes.

I have long admired the stamina of the National Rifle Association for its efforts to protect the secrecy of gun ownership. Once all gun owners are listed by Federal, State or local governments, the underworld will find a way to copy these lists.

In an editorial in the May issue of American Rifleman magazine — the voice of the NRA — I found a case of faulty judgment.

In that editorial (which went out to 700,000 members across the country) was the suggestion that citizens arm themselves and form groups in readiness to help the local police during riots.

On the surface, this sounds like a good idea — it could bolster the law enforcement people when they needed it most — if it worked. The glaring flaw in the plan is control and identification.

TO A POLICEMAN, faced in the streets by a howling, rock-throwing mob, all mobs look alike. If vigilantes were to roam the streets with loaded guns, they would look just like the rioters to those police.

Defense of your property is well within your rights but to surge out into the night, looking for riots, without the proper training or uniforms and out of touch with those who are paid to keep the peace is utterly foolish.

urday and Sunday.

Ashley's Scott Fields opened League play Friday with a two hit show against visiting Onized as the three hit evening of Billy Schurch and the two hits of Lin Dildine led Ashley to a 10-0 win.

Fields fanned 16 and walked three in tossing the first shutout of the season.

Spartan Hairston singled home the winning run in the bottom half of the eighth, scoring catcher Dave Feyh, who led off the inning with a walk.

marked the 44th anniversary of a very important event.

On that date in 1922, the largest big mouth bass ever to be taken on sporting tackle was landed in Georgia. It weighed a whopping 22 pounds and hasn't had its record threatened since.

Ten years ago, reports of big bass started coming out of Cuba (some up around the 20-lb. mark) and it seemed a cinch to see that old record passed.

Communists seem not to keep track of such unimportant things as big fish and we'll probably never know if the Georgia bass has been outmoded.

IF YOU'RE still undecided as to a place to go for your summer vacation, don't forget, Ohio has a wonderful array of housekeeping cabins. These are not too expensive but they are well located and easy to get to from your home.

The only problem is that you must get your reservations well in advance of the time you want the cabin.

Several good locations I have tried are: Pike Lake, Burr Oak, Atwood Lake and Hueston Woods. For further details, drop a note to 1500 Dublin-rd, Columbus 43212.

THE OLE' SIGHT SEARCH, BASEBALL-STYLE

You've seen it frequently on the basketball court and occasionally on the gridiron. Here's how the search party for a dislodged contact lens appears to the impatient baseball fan as Whetstone players and both umpires comb the infield for sight aid of Brave pitcher George Rutan last week during championship game with West. Rutan, (standing, at upper right of picture) mirrors pessimistic confidence in the search as he watches Brave pitcher Bruce Powell warm up in the wings. Whetstone lost on two runs, eight hits and no less. (Staff photo by Jack Wittenmeier).

Seven Area Highs Cop Schoolboy Crowns

By BOB WHITMAN
Spectator Staff Writer

The school bell tolled the end of the study season with seven area high sporting baseball pennants.

The City League had winners — East and West — with the Cowboys winning a second title in three years while the speedy Tigers ended a 14-year famine. Jackie Moore, now Walnut Ridge's head cage boss, coached the last Tiger diamond goody in 1953.

Paul Pennell labels this East team a "surprise" as Paul figured on possibly a .500 season.

"Our pitching was strong and hitting was consistent," summer up five year veteran Pennell on his first diamond titlist.

Erkie. Byrd, a 9-0 league winger for East, paced the Tiger hitting parade with a .377 mark, followed by Garnet Davis and Ed Ratleff, both at .288 Ratleff doubled as a second hurler and finished with a 6-2 mark.

Gloveman Bob Humphries kept the tight infield together with third sacker Roger Neighbors being tabbed by Paul as a "pleasant surprise."

Koblentz' West Cowboys got their title share on the last game of the season with a tight 11 inning win over State semi-finalist Whetstone, 3-2.

Gary Clark went the route to garner the win for the Cowboys' second crown in recent years.

In the Mid-Eight Elmer Houdshalt came back to haunt the loop mentors with his ninth title in 10 years.

Unlike Paul's pessimism, Elmer figured on this Greyhound edition to be a strong contender. Outfielder-deluxe Larry Kerschner (.438 hitter, 8-0 record) spearheaded the team with solid backing from team's 21-6 overall mark.

Franklin County Leaguers salute Academy as John Toffey's troops fielded a 10-2 mark to win the crown outright.

The Central Catholic Loop Tom Monroe (.400), Mike Parrett (.365) and Mike Carr (6-2 log with a 0.42 era).

"We ran well and hit well," summed up Elmer on his split its title between Ready and DeSales with Central District Titlist Hartley and Watterson following.

New Classes Announced For Bexley Parade

Two special categories for Bexley school children have been added to the competition in the annual Independence Day parade sponsored by the Bexley Celebrations Association.

BCA President Al Wing said special awards would be given for best float built by any student group and for the best hand-pulled miniature float not more than 10 feet long.

Bicycle races for Bexley youngsters will be held in three classes to supplement the larger program of adult bike races. A new bike will be the first prize in each of the three races and a contest for decorated bicycles will be held before the morning parade.

Two new BCA trophies will also be offered in the watercolor and oil classes of the Bexley Area Art Guild annual sidewalk exhibition, to be held at 2450 E. Main-st.

Western Electric Holds Employees' Art Show

Western Electric's second employees' Arts and Crafts Show, which includes over 100 works of art, is being shown now through June 30 at the Columbus Works, 6200 E. Broad-st.

According to Patrick B. Lyons, Works assistant general manager and chairman of the Cultural Affairs Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, the judging of the exhibits will take place on June 18 at a reception of the employee-artists, their families, Works officials and members of the Cultural Affairs Committee.

The judges for the show are Miss Helen Sandfort, art director of the Columbus Department of Education; Hans Rietenbach, Central High School Art Department; Mrs. Betty Buckner, East High School Art Department and William Spratley, Walnut Ridge High School Art Department.

The entries which were submitted by 35 employees, consist of watercolors, sculpture, ceramics, weaving, photographs, crewelwork, ink sketches, three-dimensional miniature room, leather craft and jewelry.

They will be on display in the Works East Cafeteria.

Schools Form Gallon Clubs

The Columbus Public School System has formed a Gallon Club for teachers and other employees who have donated a gallon or more of blood.

During a meeting of the Association of Class Room Teachers, Alfred L. Baron, Executive Director of the Franklin County Chapter of the American Red Cross, presented special Red Cross certificates to the new members.

Also included in the newly-formed Gallon Club are those schools where staff donations had totaled a gallon of blood. Approximately 800 pints or 100 gallons of blood had been collected from the staffs of the Columbus schools. Of the 160 schools in the Columbus area, thirty-one received recognition. Responsible for this Recognition Ceremony was Clearbrook Cadet Principal Harold Rickman who received his Four Gallon Certificate.

Among those participating included representatives of Eastmoor Senior High School, Eastmoor Junior High School, Johnson Park Junior High School, Walnut Ridge Junior-Senior High School, Sherwood Junior High School, Willis Park Elementary School, Woodcrest Elementary School and Shepard Elementary School.

Rates, Prices Not Dropping, CBR President Tells Buyers

By DON FREEMAN
Real Estate Editor

A word to prospective home buyers:

Don't wait for interest rates to come down or for housing to "become cheaper." They won't.

Larry Chambers, vice-president of the Columbus Board of Realtors, makes the prediction, saying anyone who believes it "will get better is only kidding himself."

And as for so-called "high rates," Chambers adds: "Everything else has gone up. There's no reason why the cost of money shouldn't. Money has been, in fact, the cheapest thing on the market." moreover, he says, housing labor costs will rise with union contract wage increases negotiated this spring.

With the buying season already begun with a rousing start, Chambers is optimistic for a good season — if the mortgage money holds up. And no one knows whether it will.

The board's best barometer of sales — the multiple listing service — continues to record increases over every previous month as it has since 1954.

And it's still a buyer's market, as it has been for several years. The high number of single dwellings available, both new and used, the increasing competition of apartment housing and the constant turnover has put thousands of properties at the disposal of home buyers.

Little Things Count

"It's the little things of life that count — particularly when you are selling a home," according to Bob Kent, chairman of the Realtor Promotion Committee of the Columbus Board of Realtors.

This is true especially if you are selling an older home, or one that has been "lived in" intensively. When mortgage money is spread thin, when it is a buyer's market, then the little things that need repair, or that need cleaning or painting, can cost the seller hundreds of dollars, perhaps thousands.

KENT CITED a recent National Association of Real Estate Boards study of sales obstacles in real estate, and has come up with a number of "do's" and "don'ts" for families selling homes.

Sometimes a single screw, costing a penny, can stop the sale of a home. When a realtor takes a prospective buyer to a home and the front door rattles in the prospect's hand, he might well reject the home. One screw might have repaired the loose knob.

If the door is stuck, or is difficult to open, a prospect is likely to have a similar negative reaction. Minor sanding or planing, or the replacement of a hinge screw, can fix a reluctant door.

PERHAPS THE salesman flips a light switch, meaning to dramatize a handsome living room. Nothing happens. Yet a new switch costs less than a dollar.

A dirty oven has a lot of meaning for the average woman prospect. She might gauge the entire home on the basis of a dirty oven, and grease stains on the wall back of the stove. A cleaning job or a coat of paint corrects such conditions.

One of the major obstacles to sales is a lack of elementary good housekeeping, the NAREB found. Accumulated dirt or "wall-to-wall dirty clothes" often turn a prospect away from a home in disgust, even though he may give the realtor another reason for spurning it.

WATTERSON'S TIM WAGNER

NUMBER ONE 'SPOILER'

By JACK WITTENMEIER
Spectator Sports Editor

The 1966 season must have been somewhat of a letdown for Watterson halfback Tim Wagner—until Nov. 11.

Wagner had broken into the Eagles' star-studded starting backfield line-up as a sophomore and had been the perennial Central Catholic League champion's number one threat as a junior.

THINGS LOOKED extremely bright both for Tim and Watterson as the '66 campaign opened with South.

The Eagles steamrolled to a 38-0 victory, followed with a 44-0 shutout of North and then outscored tough Lancaster, 38-20, with Wagner contributing two touchdowns.

Then, in the Eagles' fourth victory of what was destined to be an unbeaten campaign (28-0 over West) Tim suffered a dislocated shoulder.

HAMPERED by the injury and employed frequently as a blocking back and decoy for the high-powered slants of Eagle fullback Joe Schultheis, Wagner's TD productivity went down—along with the senior halfback's weight.

Starting the season at 177 pounds, Tim dropped down to near the 160 mark as the '66 campaign neared its conclusion.

Despite the weight loss, Tim continued to clear the way for Eagle backs, causing head coach Dick Walker to comment after one game, "Tim does as good a job as a blocking back as any we've had at Watterson in a long, long time."

CONSIDERING the source of the comment and Wagner's predecessors on the Eagle gridiron, the compliment wasn't hollow.

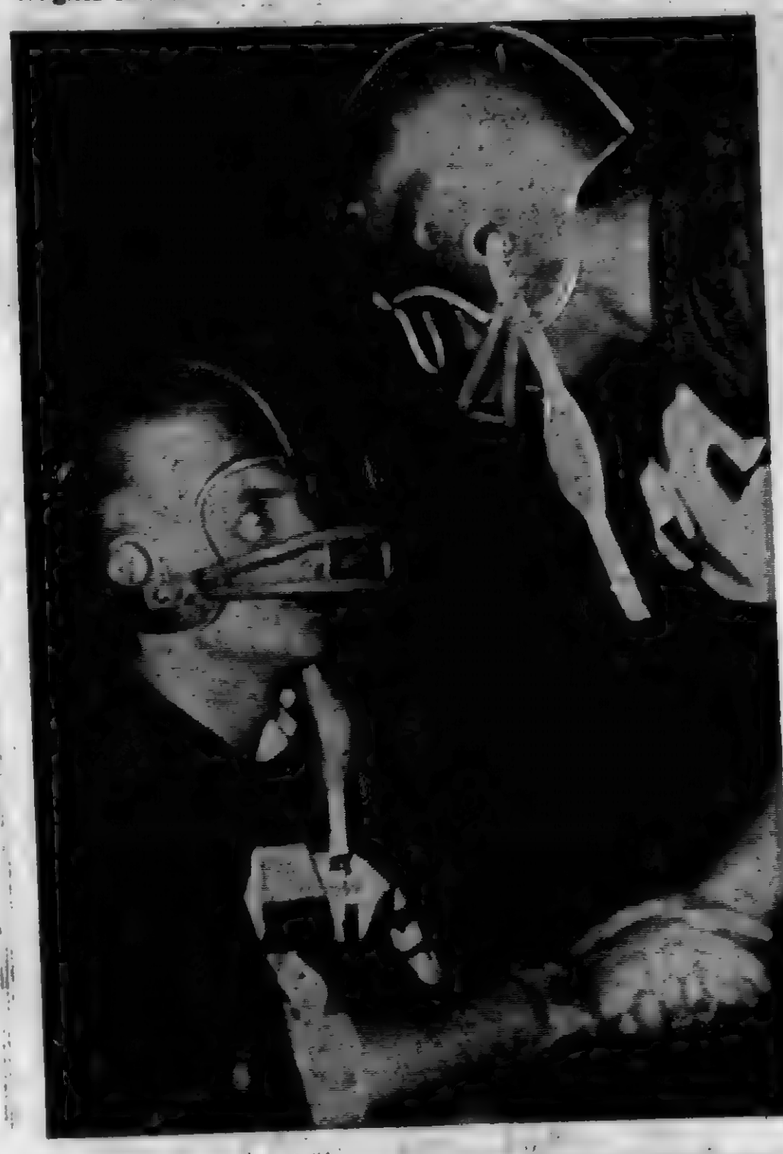
Laying low the opposition's big defensive ends became a Wagner specialty. "I remember one game," recalls new Watterson head coach(then assistant) Ron Shay, "when Tim's job was to take care of a 220-lb linebacker.

"When Tim hit him, you could see him (the linebacker) leave his feet.

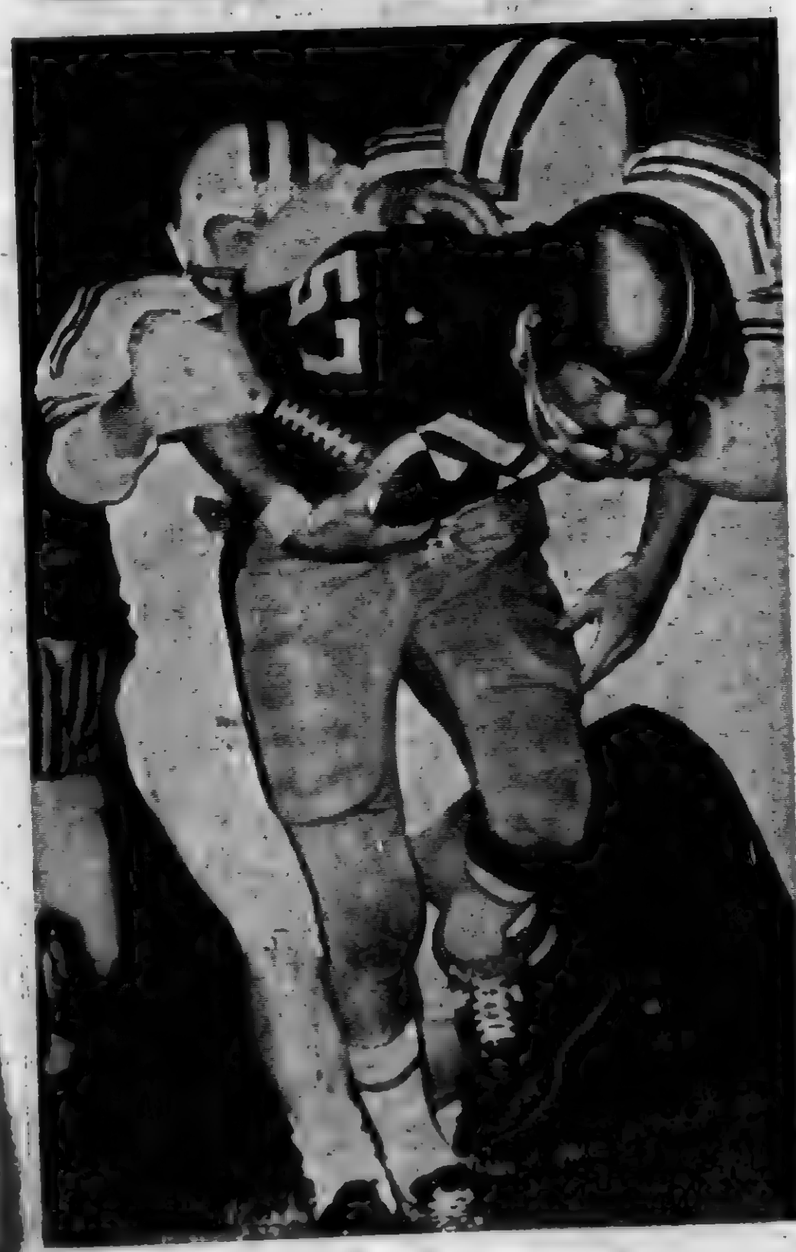
"HE'S JUST a real gutty type of a football player with tremendous desire," Shay continued. "In our final league game with Hartley, Tim wanted to go back in on defense.

"He kept begging us to get back in the game and we kept saying no. The next time I looked up, there he was in the game, intercepting a pass."

"Tim's greatest asset as a runner," says Shay, "is his ability to sense where the hole is going to open up." That plus the speed to get to the opening quickly, paid off handsomely in the Watterson offense for three seasons.

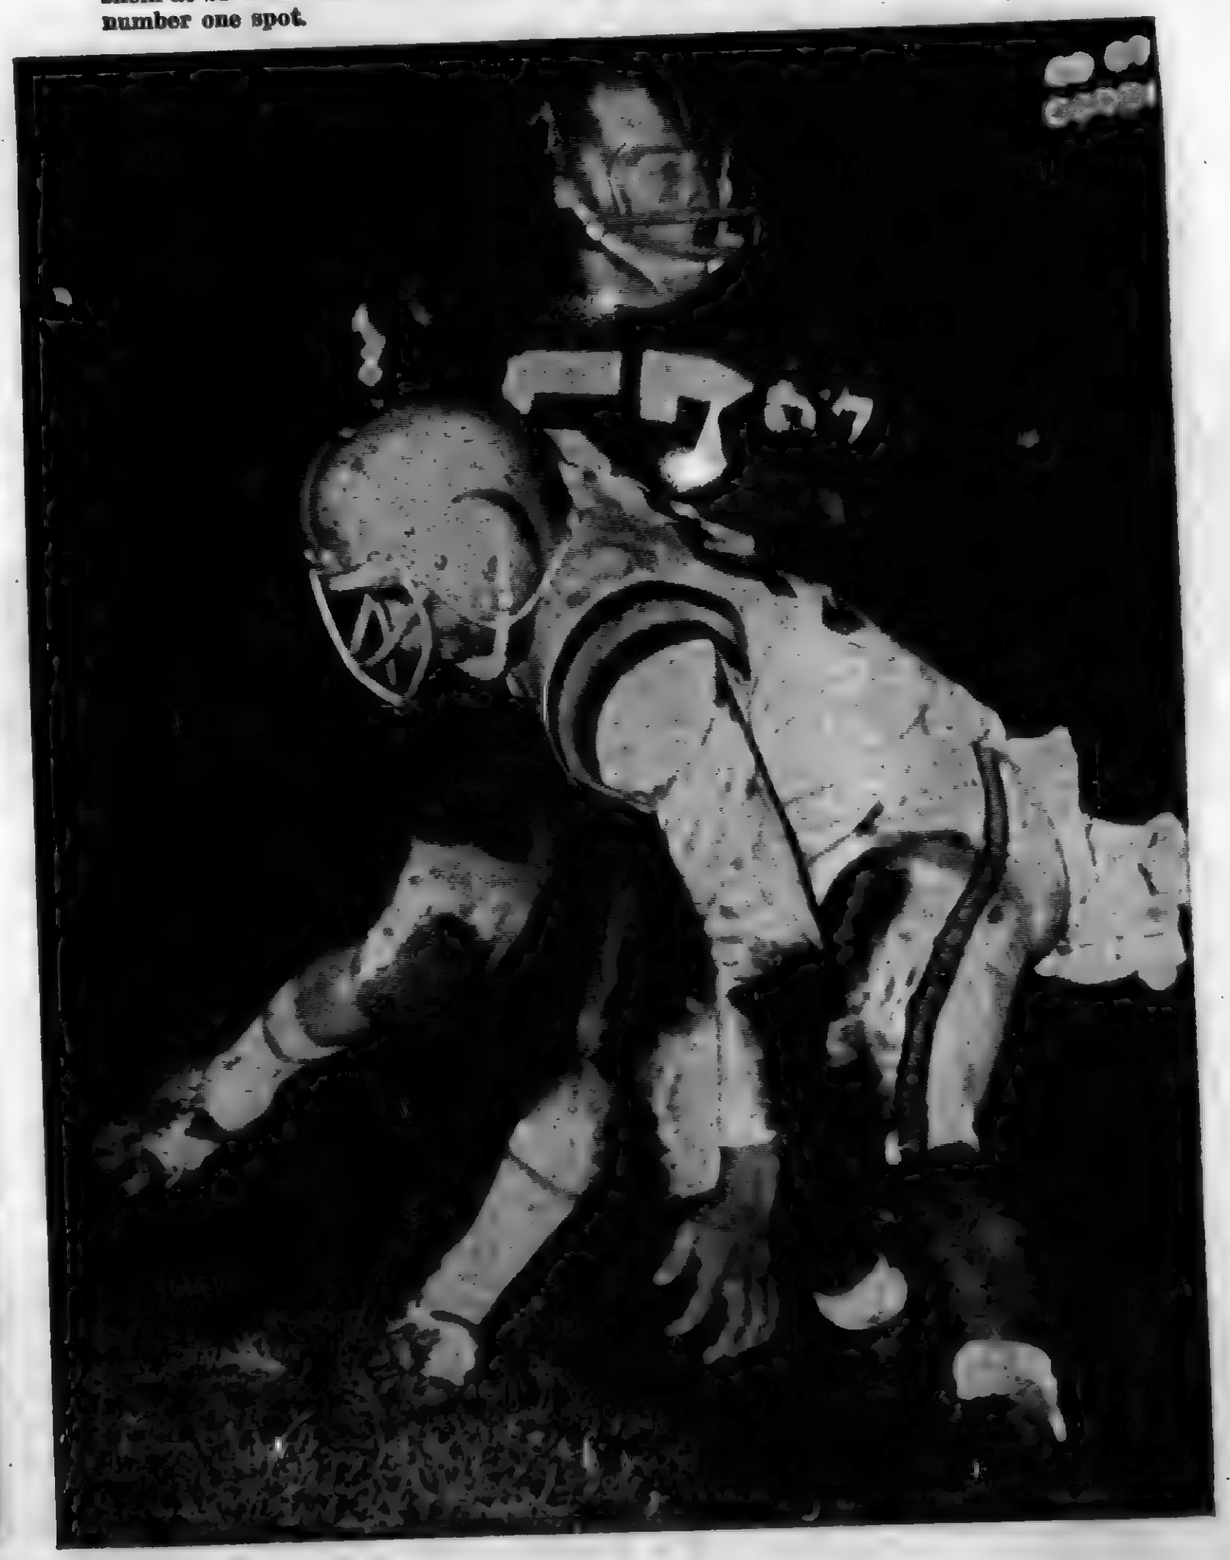


WAGNER'S quick side-step or change of pace in the open field added to the explosiveness of the Watterson attack.



"Oddly enough," Shay remarked, "Tim's ability to change direction and break a tackle or two might have cost him some longer runs as pursuing tacklers caught back up with him."

Nov. 11 arrived with coach Dick Walker's claim that Wagner was the "most underrated and overlooked back in the state" falling on deaf ears.



BUT BY THE time that Arm-

Whether digging for an extra yard with opposing tacklers hanging on (below, at left) or displaying a Wagner specialty — the quick, deceptive cut (below, at right), Watterson's senior halfback was a key, if unheralded, cog in awesome Eagle scoring machine which rolled up 377 points in 10 unbeaten outings last fall. Tim reserved his biggest clap of thunder for his schoolboy swan song (above at left, taking a breather after long touchdown run) by piling up 261 yards and two TDs in 17 carries as Watterson ended Upper Arlington's win skein at 28 with solid 32-0 victory — the win vaulting Eagles into wire service's number one spot.

REYNOLDSBURG'S GARY SHADE

PORTRAIT OF A SLUGGER

With level swing and marked determination, Shade (above) leans into offering and delivers home run in final high school game vs. Westerville. Home plate welcoming committees (below) were commonplace at Reynoldsburg during Gary's diamond career, especially during recent campaign as senior slugger contributed frequent clutch hits in Raiders' sparkling 16-3 won-loss log.

An occasional tight pitch from an opposing moundsman failed to influence Shade's lofty batting average which soared above the .400 mark, helping the Reynoldsburg senior to a spot on the '67 All-Ohio diamond squad.

By JACK WITTENMEIER
Spectator Sports Editor

"I've never seen anyone who makes the 'big play' more often than he does."

Those words — spoken of Reynoldsburg slugger-pitcher Gary Shade this spring — came not from Raider coach Dan Brown but from veteran Franklin Heights mentor Ed Lewis.

LEWIS, not the type to cast bouquets liberally, didn't have much cause to salute the Reynoldsburg senior. Certainly not after the miserly three hits Shade doled out to Ed's Falcons during 3-2 and 3-1 setbacks in the Metropolitan League this past season.

And neither Lewis nor Brown had to "sell" Gary Shade to Central District baseball coaches who gladly granted the Raider slugger one of four spots on the All-Ohio squad last month.

After all, Gary possessed some pretty impressive diamond credentials of his own — a career batting average of .415 with 48 RBI's in 51 games plus a 19-3 pitching log which included a stingy 1.11 ERA.

"BASEBALL comes instinctively to Gary," says Reynoldsburg coach Dan Brown. "He's been with the game since he was old enough to swing a bat." That seems natural enough with dad Ray Shade a semi-pro player and older brother Craig (now playing at Ohio U.) showing the way.

Many an umpire over the past three years discovered quickly that Gary had learned his rule book lessons well also as they mentally scrambled for a seldom-applied verdict.

"Gary's greatest asset," according to coach Brown, "is his ability to think on his feet"—often a rare attribute for schoolboys in the complicated game of baseball.

"THERE'S JUST so many ways he can beat you," Brown continues, "pitching, batting or running the bases."

Brown recalls one instance this spring in a wild 16-14 win over Westerville when Shade stole home. "By rights, he should have been out by 15 feet but he made a perfect slide and caught the edge of the plate with his heel," Dan relates.

"He's a team leader who always knows what's going on when others don't. He brought a lot of other kids (teammates) along with him this spring."

GARY'S versatility received a firm test this season as Reynoldsburg found itself short of experienced personnel. "I think third base is the only position he hasn't played in three years on the varsity," Brown says.

A switch hitter, Shade batted mostly from the left side this spring since high school southpaws are few and far between.

His ability from either side of the plate drew credence, however, in a game with Teays Valley which saw Gary whack two doubles from the left side and a sizzling triple when a southpaw took the mound.

ANOTHER TRADEMARK for the 6-0, 170-lb. Raider slugger this season has been his ability to hit in the clutch. "In 19 games I think I could count on one hand the number of times Gary didn't contribute the key performance," Brown remarks.

To back up Brown's mathematics, consider these games:

- tripled home only run he needed in no-hit win over Bexley.
- pitched one-hitter, doubled in tying run in key 3-2 win over Franklin Heights.
- flung two-hitter, tripled home winning run vs. Pleasant View.
- relief stint and last-inning, three-run homer sinks Westerville.
- fans 12, singles with two outs and scores winning run in

HILLIARD'S PETE MILLER

. . . ENROUTE TO HIS GOAL

By JACK WITTENMEIER
Spectator Sports Editor

The air mileage (as the discus flies) between Hilliard, O., and Sacramento, Calif., is roughly 1795 miles.

For Wildcat senior Pete Miller—who will traverse that distance next week to compete in a national track meet — the California capital must seem a lot closer today than it did some five years ago.

THAT'S WHEN Pete made his somewhat inauspicious debut as a discus flinger.

The occasion was a track tryout for Junior High boys in Hilliard. Pete picked up the discus and whirled the plate-like object over 100 feet on his first attempt.

The only problem was one of direction, the disc flying off over a fence and narrowly missing the windshield of a passing auto.

THE INAUGURAL effort caused Junior High track coach Jim Butts to comment, "If he can throw that far the wrong way, we should be able to teach him to do a lot better the right way."

Both teacher Butts and his young pupil did just that, Pete working up to 122 feet (in the right direction) within the year.

Miller's progression since that time has been both steady and phenomenal, due largely to three factors—good coaching, hard work and establishment of a goal.

BUTTS BEGAN the classroom for Pete's high school tutor, Chuck Zody, developed technique and form. It's understandable then why Miller has accepted an athletic scholarship to Miami University where Zody now coaches.

The hard work has entailed a rigid weight-lifting program to supply the necessary shoulder and upper-arm development and 100 throws per day of the three pound, nine ounce disc.

"Pete is the type of fellow who has what I call that 'plus attitude'," says present Wildcat cinder coach Godfrey Wright. "I outlined a program for him at the start of the season and he simply went out and followed it to the T."

MILLER, WHO wears out six pairs of track shoes a year practicing his specialty, has three physical assets which complement his ability to hurl the discus at such lengths, according to Wright.

"He's very strong (played football and wrestled besides weight-lifting), has a natural quickness and the whip-action of his arm is outstanding," says Wright.

The 5-11, 195-lb. senior has progressed up the distance ladder since the start of the '67 season from 170 feet (at Brookhaven) to 182 feet (at Arlington) to an amazing 199 feet 10½ inches (at the recent Regional Meet on Worthington's Nelson Field).

THAT LATTER effort, still pending as a national record (exceeds the standing national mark of 195' 4" set in 1962 by Los Angeles' Bob Stoker), brought Pete within a bare 1½ inches of the 200 foot goal he set for himself as a sophomore.

"That's the kind of guy Pete is," Wright says. "He just sets his goal and then goes out to achieve it. He continually amazes me."

Miller completed his regular high school competition this spring with six field records—at Arlington, Worthington, Gahanna, Brookhaven, Springfield South and Hilliard.

HE WAS bettered only twice this spring, once at Mansfield Relays and at the State Meet—both times by Geneva's Mark Delevic.

Up until this spring, Pete was not exclusively a discus man. He had competed in the 220, 880 relay, thrown the shot put over 50 feet, and broad jumped over 21 feet.

"This spring we figured it would help Pete to concentrate on one event so he wouldn't be rushed," Wright explains. The results of that decision have proven fruitful.

AS FOR THAT 200 foot goal, Pete gets two more chances to realize it as a high school athlete.

The first chance comes Saturday at the Ohio Classic in Toledo and the second June 17 in Sacramento at the "Golden West" meet.

The latter event sends invitations to the top eight high school athletes in the nation in their particular event.

IT DOESN'T take much figuring to see why Pete Miller will be there to answer the roll call.

LINDEN'S ED YOUNG

THE CAGE-IEST PANTHER

By BOB WHITMAN
Spectator Sports Writer

It was already three golden years for Ed Young of Linden-McKinley, standing at the foul line, hardly perspiring, calmly taking warm-up shots before the second half of the Class AA State Championship contest.

The team in the maroon and white which he captained and starred for was on its way to a commanding win for the school's first-ever cage crown, and Young in his usual spectacular style was playing another fine, all-around game, the type of play that earned him a first team berth on the prestigeous all-Ohio squad.

Linden was in the Ohio high school State titlist confrontation possibly because Ed Young was one of the most unselfish ball players in the state.

"We talked to him before the season about his value to the team this season," Young's expert mentor Vince Chickerella said, "he knew that if he sparked the team with an unselfish performance we could have a good year."

That meant, Vince explained, Young might have to pass up leading scoring honors in the City League and in the Greater Franklin County area.

"He could have been the leading scorer of every game we played and paced the City and area with ease," Vince continued, "but it wouldn't have advanced the team effort, and he would have been a key scorer on a mediocre team rather than a consistent contributor on a truly winning team."

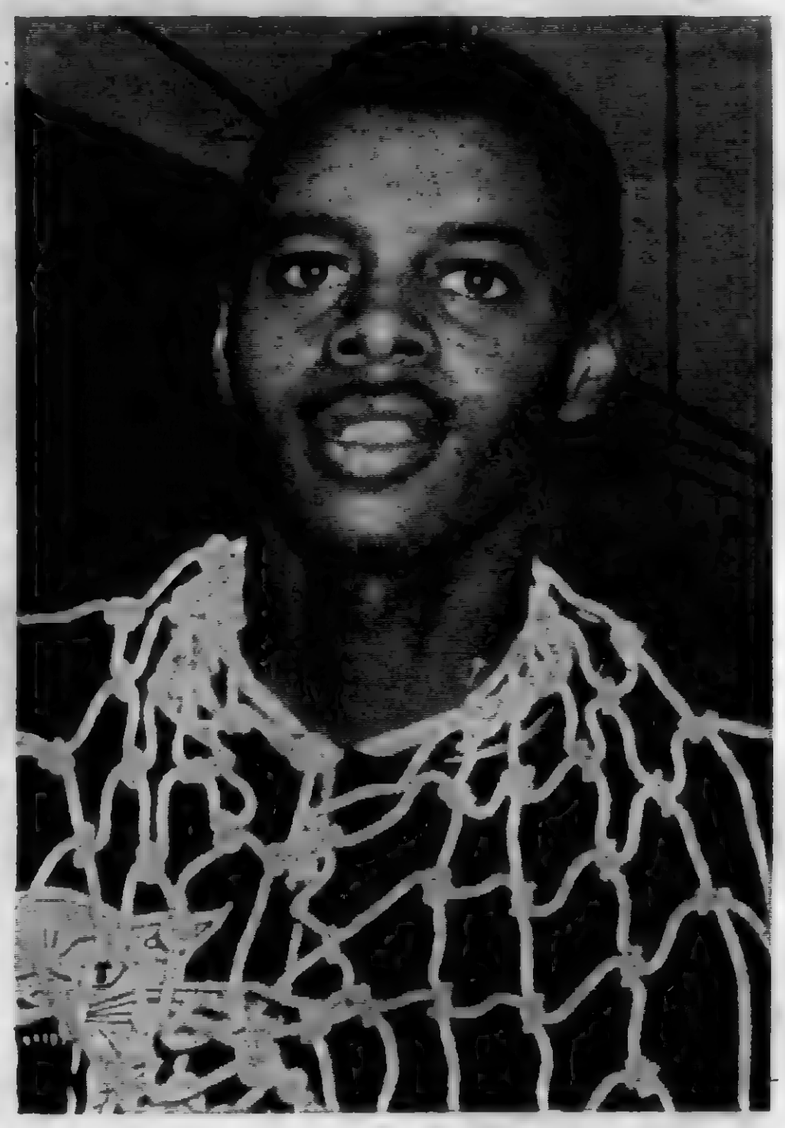
Young accepted his responsibility.

And for it his overall statistics read like a page from the existing records volumes in some university file.

He had 57 thefts, 115 rebounds, scored 423 points for the season including tournaments and had a Linden record of 39 direct assists. He did all this while maintaining a 47 percent three year shooting mark, boosting his three year point total to an awesome 1060 points.

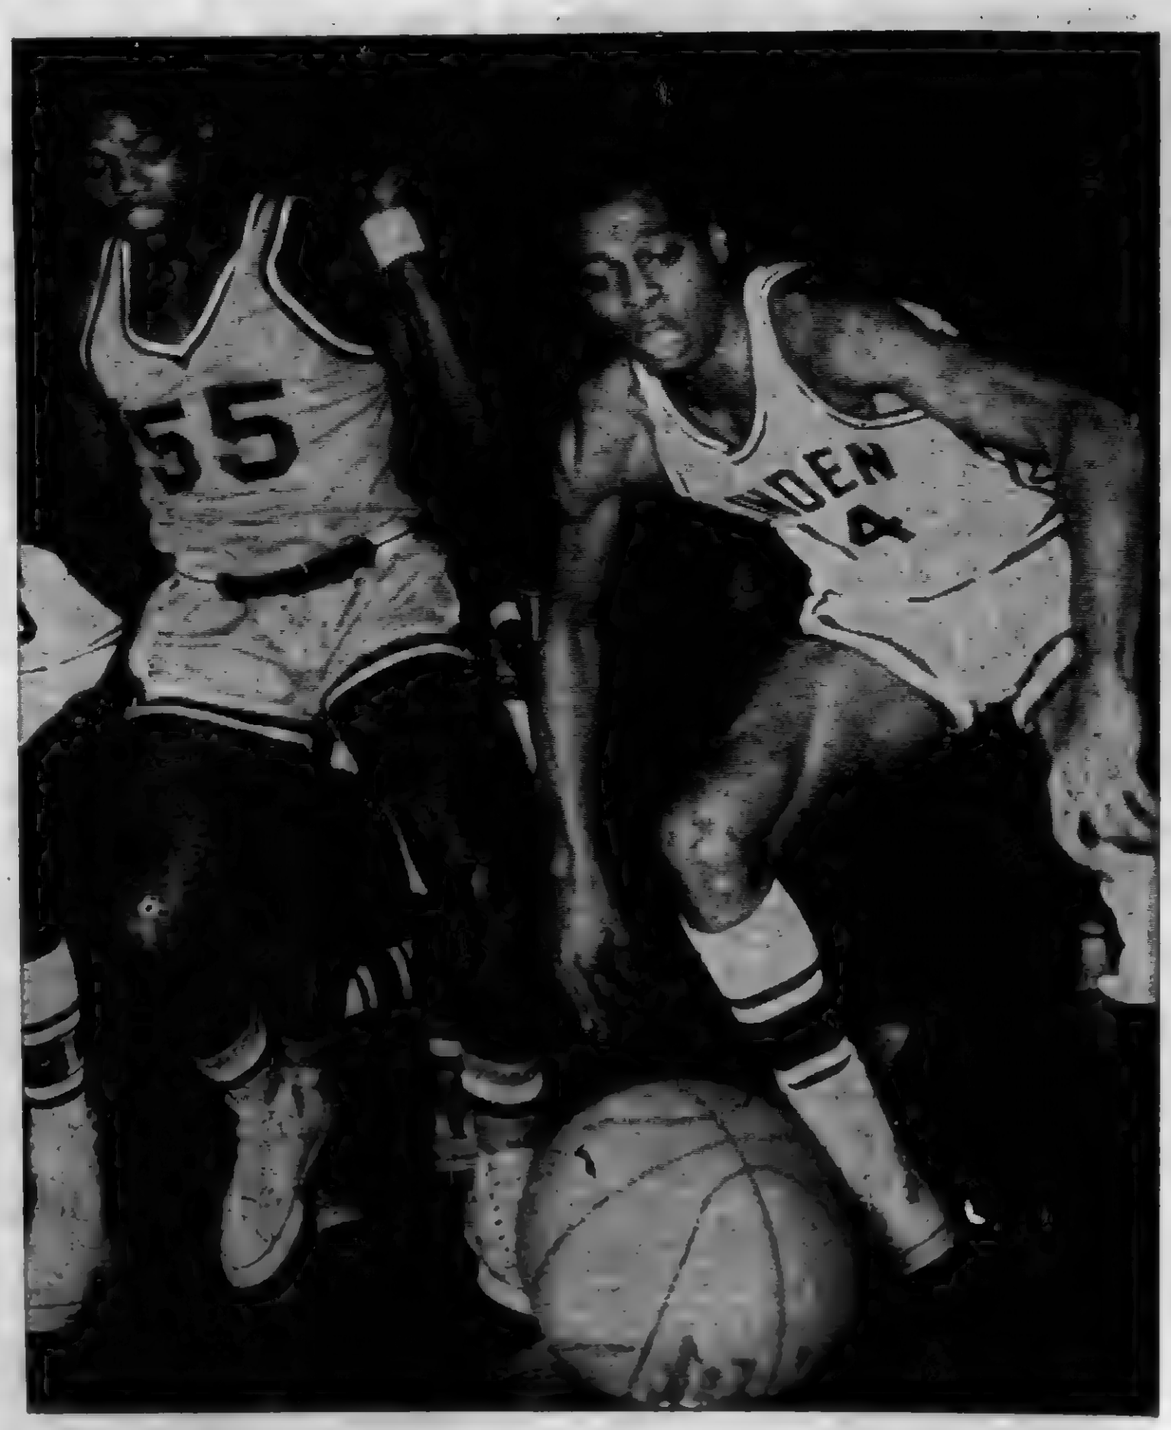
But Ed Young does more than just bounce a basketball.

"He is one of the rare cases where the whole school is on his side," Chickerella said, "they follow him and admire him."



"Eddie is also a fine floor leader and a fine boy . . . attitude-wise and everything else," Vince said.

The coach who guided him and Linden's fortunes for the last 11 years labeled his superstar as one of the finest basketball players in Columbus in many years.



"He has got to be one of the most complete because he can beat you in so many ways."

Florida State is the next stop for Young where so many challenges await him.

But if he shows the stuff of the last three years, he will zip through Gatorland with the same ease that he and his Linden Panthers dismantled dangerous East Tech one cool March evening, last season.

Draped with spoils of victory (at left) after revenge-soothing tourney victory over State title favorite East, Young heads for the locker room. Shadowed by his ability to put the ball through the basket this past season was the Linden cager's deft defensive touch on the hardwood. Below, Young prepares to snap up a loose basketball after batting same away from Cleveland East Tech player during State Tourney finals. Panthers' dogging defensive tactics wilted unbeaten Scarabs, 88-56.

Wagner—

istice Day had ended, Walker —and Wagner—had amassed an army of believers.

In his final high school game, the Eagle halfback displayed one of the finest single exhibitions of football ever seen in Central Ohio.

When the dust had settled on Watterson's 32-0 victory over top-state rated Upper Arlington, Wagner had piled up 261 yards in 17 carries, two TDs on runs of 67 and 37 yards and a big assist on a third score, via a 16-yd. pass reception.

WAGNER'S performance was only one part of a brilliant lesson in flawless execution and teamwork displayed by the entire Eagle squad but the evening still belonged to the Watterson halfback.

So much so, in fact, that UA coach Marv Moorhead singled out Wagner with the cryptic comment, "he really cut us up."

But Moorehead wasn't the only coach who took a longing look at Wagner that evening.

A CAREFUL student of the Watterson-UA game films was OSU grid boss Woody Hayes, who lost no time wooing Wagner before and after the Buckeye mentor's guest speech at the Eagles' State Championship banquet on the OSU campus.

Woody's persistence in keeping the Scarlet and Gray uppermost in Tim's mind (including "Happy New Year" telegram) paid off as Wagner accepted an OSU "grant-in-aid" early this year.

There are those who'll tell you Tim Wagner is too light to make it in the Big Ten. But then there were those who said the same of another gutty small-fry a few years back.

YOU MIGHT remember his name. They nicknamed him "Hopalong."

Shade—

1-0 tourney win over Marion-Franklin.

- one-hit, 12K effort downs Teays Valley, 1-0, and clinches Metro pennant.
- last inning home run beats Gahanna, 7-6.
- pitches four-hitter, fans 13, doubles in winning run in 7-5 win over Teays Valley.
- two-hitter downs Franklin Heights, 3-1.

GARY'S three-year varsity stint at Reynoldsburg exhibits his consistency.

As a sophomore: .465 BA, 11 RBIs, 2-1 pitching record, .875 ERA (Reynoldsburg wins FCL pennant); as a junior: .355 BA, 15 RBIs, 8-0 pitching record, 1.66 ERA (Reynoldsburg wins FCL pennant, finishes second in Metro race); as a senior: .440 BA, 22 RBIs, 9-1 pitching record, 0.71 ERA, fanned 96, walked 25 in 69 innings (Reynoldsburg wins Metro pennant).

Shade, who went four-for-five during the West's only victory in the recent All-Ohio series, is presently weighing baseball scholarship offers from Ohio State and Ohio University.

BALL NETS $5,500

Net proceeds from the Candy Cane Ball, the largest fund-raising project of the Women's Service Board of Grant Hospital, totaled $5,500 this year. Presenting a check to Grant Hospital administrator Dr. Warren G. Harding II is Mrs. Donald Fisher (left), chairman of the ball, and Mrs. Russell Welch, president of the Women's Service Board. The money will be added to the hospital's endowment fund.

A Tropic band will begin to play for the 36th annual Wing Council Birthday Ball at 9:30 p.m. Saturday, June 17 at Valley Dale.

Although gaily colored Hawaiian gowns of any length for the woman and a native shirt for the man will mark any couple as "in," conventional attire is optional.

Mrs. R. J. Rowe is serving as chairman of the ball and Mrs. William Forder is ticket chairman. The $3.50 per couple tickets may be obtained by calling Mrs. Forder at 488-9596.

MALE HELP WANTED

Unusual Opportunity . . .

to join top management team of a dynamic, progressive Ohio-based company in the communications field.

We have an immediate opening for the right man to direct a 12-member display advertising staff of one of the nation's largest group of suburban newspapers.

If you have a proven record in sales and administration and are accustomed to high earnings, this could be the opportunity of a lifetime. The right man can virtually write his own ticket with a company going places in the newspaper, radio, television and CATV industries.

Don't waste your time or ours unless you are now in the $15,000 to $18,000 a year bracket and qualified to make more—much more. If you are not now in that earnings category but have a proven record that can bear rigid investigation, we will be glad to consider your application.

Send complete details in confidence in first letter. No phone calls, please.

New Signs In Plans For Port Columbus

Big, new "freeway-type" signs will soon be leading the way to Port Columbus International Airport under a program announced by Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner.

Large "Airport Next Exit" signs will be installed at the Fifth Avenue exit to Interstate 71 and the James Road exit to Interstate 70, leading motorists on the quickest route to the airport.

In addition, 35 new signs will be installed on E. Fifth Avenue and James and Stelzer Roads in the immediate vicinity of the airport to eliminate what the mayor called "the problem some motorists have locating the airport."

A SPECTATOR Want Ad can be the difference between FOR SALE and A SALE. There is just no better salesman around than a Want Ad properly worded. Call today for a friendly Ad Taker and see how quickly "FOR SALE" becomes "SALE."

Outdoors Beckons For Summer

Today most Americans step-ped outdoors.

No one will argue that. After all, going to work, walking to the store, running next door to borrow a cup of flour all involve outdoor activity.

Stepping into the great outdoors, however, is an animal of another hue. Call it semantics if you like, but the "great" outdoors is that area of enjoyment which takes you out of the routine, regimented and even too-convenient way of life. This is the outdoors manifest in woods, water and fresh air.

MILLIONS of Americans are becoming closer to the great outdoors. Attribute part of the interest to economies. This affluent society has more disposable income to devote to off-time activities.

Attribute a lion's share of the popularity of the great outdoors to the fellows who have designed products geared to recreation and to the far sighted government officials and interested laymen who work hard to maintain large and small hunks of land and water for public use.

Outdoor activities run all the way from a back yard barbecue to skin diving in the Bahamas, and most of the basic activities are interlocking. Although boating in itself is a fulfilling recreation, many boaters use their craft to get to ideal picnic-camping areas. Likewise, many campers purchase their equipment to give them a temporary home near the water's edge to increase their boating fun.

FLYING AIRPLANES or driving four wheel drive "go anywhere" vehicles — both growing recreations — enable outdoor devotees to cover huge distances quickly or get to remote locations easily for fishing, camping, boating and carefree relaxation.

Camping equipment manufacturers have discovered the formula for producing merchandise that offers a "back to earth" feeling while maintaining enough conveniences and portability to appeal to the ladies as well as to the less than rugged outdoorsmen.

Boating equipment is dependable and easy to maintain. Spin casting has taken the embarrassing and annoying backlash out of fishing. Plastic containers, insulated chests and jugs and fool-proof portable gas stoves take the cook from the kitchen without taking the kitchen from the cook.

SO YOU WANT to fly? A five dollar bill will put you in the driver's seat to get acquainted. Land vehicles from truck-camper units and roomy super-station wagons to small four-wheel drive bugs, combine all the toughness you expect with comfort and economy you might not expect.

The giant clothing industry has become outdoor conscious, too, sending to market apparel for all activities which is durable and fashionable. Features such as nylon zippers to combat corrosion and permanent water proofing keep the woods and water buffs smiling.

Find a camp ground and chances are the service industries will have ice machines, laundromats and soft-drink dispensers in the area. Need a new spark plug for the outboard or a guide to local attractions, you'll find why the term "filling station" is antique and "service station" is the name.

NOT ALL recreational land is government owned. In addition to the state and national forests, parks and campgrounds, many companies and individuals turn over their private lands for public use; some free, others for nominal charge. Many timber and paper companies, for example, even publish maps for people who wish to camp, hike or picnic on their premises.

"There is no longer a 'trend' toward outdoor recreation," one manufacturer of equipment asserts. "It is now a stampede."

"People are becoming more sophisticated about equipment, too," he adds. "Most families who start in an outdoor activity with budget or minimum equipment soon move up to higher quality gear with better accessories and conveniences."

Enjoyment of the great outdoors has become as American as you-know-what kind of pie.

Pick Your Spot With Care When Going Camping

Stop traveling early enough to enjoy the surroundings and also so you will have enough light to see where you're setting up camp. Pick high ground whenever possible. Stay out of gulleys and valleys. Look out for tall trees with leafless and dead limbs.

Stay clear of tall grass and heavy brush. These can be fire hazards during a dry season and a breeding ground for insects during a wet season.

Winds will usually blow off a lake and travel up toward higher ground during the daytime. At night winds move toward the water. This may be helpful in calculating your best campfire or cooking arrangement.

In cool weather it is best to locate your camper, if possible, to catch the last rays of the warming sun in the evening. By closing all the flaps you, in effect, trap the heat inside for a more comfortable night.

The Bistro's new "Back Porch" features brightly striped tent canopies and that "outdoor feeling" at the Olentangy River Road landmark.

The Bistro Opens New 'Back Porch'

The Bistro, purchased in late May, 1966, celebrated its first anniversary under the new owners with the opening of the new patio on Monday, June 5. The new addition is appropriately named "Back Porch."

Sam Harachis, co-owner and Columbusite, also owns and operates the State-Fourth Restaurant. Pete Paras, co-owner and general manager, came to Columbus from the famous Nick & Arthur's on Miami Beach's exciting 79th Street Strip.

As for the "Back Porch" design, the tent canopies will be striped in green, white and brown. The accent colors will be the sparkling white tables and bright orange director chairs.

To launch the "Back Porch," the folk singing group, "The Back Porch Majority" began a two-week engagement on June 5.

In July, a Jack Widner Anniversary Party is planned at the Olentangy River-rd club. The Jack Widner Trio has been featured at the Bistro for two years. This swinging jazz trio is composed of Jack Widner on the piano, Bill Bailey on drums and Clarence Williams on bass.

In August, a New Year's Eve Party is in the offering. Last year, over 800 persons "brought in" the New Year on Friday, Aug. 19.

In addition, the Bistro will feature live entertainment on its new Patio and music for dancing and listening Monday through Saturday beginning with the June 5 opening. In case of inclement weather, the action will move indoors.

City's Campers Begin Migration

By JANE WOLLEMAN
Spectator Staff Writer

The perennial weekend stampede out of the city has begun and will be repeated each week as long as the fair weather lasts.

Frantic fathers come down from their air conditioned business towers and harried housewives leave their automated, hygenic kitchens and head for the Ohio wilderness. By nightfall they will be happily breaking their backs over a camp-stove and struggling to make up cots in their tent or trailer.

Sociologists have attributed this nomadic mania to everything from the American male's need to demonstrate his masculinity by reverting to a hunter-type to the simple need to escape the pressures of the asphalt jungle. Whatever the cause of the camping craze, Columbus adherents are ideally located to make the most of their summer weekends.

The average camping nut can leave his job and depart the city on any of several freeways, family and baggage in tow, and arrive at one of the state's 33 camping areas before dark. Pymatuning, at a distance of 200 miles, is the furthest of the Ohio State camping areas from Columbus. Most of the state campgrounds are located within a 100-mile radius of the city.

With daylight saving time the state-wide rule this year, campers will be able to travel to and from campgrounds during the daylight hours and will therefore have two full days of camping.

Ohio's Department of Natural Resources operates a wide variety of campgrounds which have something to offer to everyone. For the big-boat-and-deep-water enthusiast there is the East Harbor campground at Port Clinton where all of Lake Erie is at his disposal. Grand-Lake St. Mary's and Indian Lake also have large campgrounds.

If, however, you have the true naturalist's disdain of motors and prefer to paddle your own canoe then Mohican State Park is the place for you. Canoe liveries along the shore of the Mohican River in the Loudonville area offer guided trips along the storied stream.

The Bear Creek Camp Ground at Roosevelt-Shawnee State Park near Portsmouth offers a completely new facility for Ohio this year: a horseman's campground. Equestrians may camp there and be assured of water and tethers for their mounts. Bridle paths have been marked in the adjacent state forest.

In addition to the state's camping facilities Ohio has more than 70 privately-owned camp grounds, and one federal camp ground. The latter is located at Lake Vesuvius in the Wayne National Forest near Ironton. At all federal parks and most private ones campers may take along the family pet. Ohio parks do not permit pets.

The Automobile Club has a complete listing of all state, federal and privately owned camp grounds in Ohio in their Eastern United States camping guide. Information on state parks may be obtained from the Department of Natural Resources.

40 Million Fishermen Not Wrong

More than 40 million people went fishing in North America last year and there were few—if any—disappointed anglers in that body of people who now take part in America's fastest-growing outdoor sport.

Fishing has become one of the most enjoyable family activities, involving mom, pop and the kids and it provides both relaxation and thrills whether it takes place in the old mill stream back of the barn, on that rippling trout stream up in the hills, on the icy lake in the north woods or in the salt waters that splash against our coastlines.

RAPID transportation, simple, inexpensive and easy-to-use equipment have combined with increasing leisure time to attract growing numbers of Americans to the wholesome and exciting fun of fishing.

Most fishing locations offer so much in the way of scenery and fresh air that actually catching fish is only part of the happy experience. Still, nothing beats the thrill that a youngster gets when he lands his first fish — even if it's a tiny sunfish. And dad often tells for the umpteenth time gets glassy-eyed when he reabout the big trout that got away despite his superior fishing skills.

Fishing need not be expensive. Most Americans are within an hour's drive of a lake, stream, river or pond that can provide angling enjoyment and fish for the frying pan.

FIRST RATE American-made rod-and-reel outfits can be bought for less than 10 dollars. Another few dollars will provide the novice or the expert with enough lures, weights, line, hooks, sinkers, bobbers and other essentials to make any fishing venture productive and enjoyable.

Family camping trips are often planned to include plenty of fishing for everyone, and excellent accommodations are available just about everywhere that people go to fish. Major resorts usually offer boat rentals and live bait for sale if the family is on a long trip and prefers not to transport its own boat.

Fish have a way of smiling on experts and novices alike. Sometimes people with the least experience and simplest fishing tackle catch the most and biggest fish.

Good fishing tackle, however, and some understanding of fishing techniques are bound to increase angling pleasure. Most fishermen find that selecting the right tackle and planning the trip is part of the fun of fishing.

EXPERIMENTATION with various types of tackle is the best guide to what is right for any individual.

For most beginners, a good glass casting rod and a closed-face spin-casting reel are excellent learning tools. These can be used for spin-casting, spinning, trolling and still fishing. Even youngsters become proficient in a short while because most spin cast reels are backlash proof.

Open face spinning reels require somewhat more practice in order to assure success but are favored by many fishermen. Though youngsters might at first do better with the shorter rod, spincasting rods should normally be at least five feet in length to assure proper balance between rod and reel.

MANY FISHERMEN prefer the more traditional "bait-casting" reels, where the line is controlled directly by the fisherman's thumb on the spool — rather than with a push button. Here, again, a little practice makes an accurate and sucessful fisherman out of a novice.

Fly casting is preferred by many fishermen, who take pride in landing big fish with comparatively light tackle. Patience and practice can make this one of the most enjoyable types of fishing because the skill of the fisherman plays such an important role. Fly rods are longer and lighter than conventional casting or spinning rods to permit quick and gentle manipulation of the light fly lures.

Despite the ancient fisherman's alibi that "you should have been here yesterday" or "the fish are biting on the other side of the lake," it is possible to catch fish on almost every excursion. Of course, if fishermen caught fish with every cast, the great sport would lose much of its intrigue and challenge.

SOFT DRINK POLL

Chicago (NFS) — Cola is the most popular soft drink flavor in the U.S., according to the J. Hungerford Smith Co., Inc., subsidiary of United Fruit Company, Producer of syrups, flavorings, and toppings for the food service trade.

After cola, which accounts for over 50 per cent of the market, other flavors are, in order: lemon-lime, orange, root beer, ginger ale, grape, and strawberry.

PLAYGROUNDS PROVIDE PANACEA

Harried Moms--Get Fast Relief

By NANCY LOGUE
Spectator Staff Writer

Mothers' troubles and trade in tranquilizers will be considerably lessened this summer when Columbus tots race home from school June 8 to begin their much-longed-for three-month vacation.

No one has invented a new type of child guaranteed to stay out of mischief but the Columbus Recreation Department has planned a summer full of activity — at least enough to keep even the most ambitious of Huck Finns too busy to do their devious deeds.

Ninety-eight playgrounds will be open for business beginning June 14 through August 24 from 12:30 to 9 p.m. with nearly 250 qualified adults to supervise activity.

Each supervisor is encouraged to use his own experiences in planning his playground's happenings, according to Jerry Fedderson of the Columbus Recreation Department. In addition, the Recreation Department has planned a schedule of special events that would delight even the most difficult delinquent.

There will be Junior Jet League Baseball games, a bicycle rodeo, pet shows, clown contests and a great variety of other events for the children's enjoyment.

In addition to these activities that will take place at the individual playgrounds, a day camp will be offered for boys and girls, 8-12.

The children will be transported to the camp each day of a four day session. A bus will leave the playground at 8:30 a.m. and return at 5 p.m. A fee of $2 will be charged.

Children may obtain a day camp registration form at the playground and are urged to submit the application and fee early since only a limited number will be chosen. They will be selected on a first come - first serve basis.

The day camp schedule for each playground is as follows: June 19, 20, 21, 22—Chicago, Dana, Glenwood, Hanntz, Sullivant Gardens, Sunshine and West Mound; June 23, 26, 27, 28—Arlington Park, Audubon, Glen Echo, Hay, Joan, Kenlawn, Linden and Pontiac; June 29, 30, July 3, 5—Beatty, Felton, Garfield, Krumm, Maryland, Pilgrim, Poindexter, St. Dominics and Shepard.

July 6, 7, 10, 11 — Barnett, Berwick, Courtright, Fairmoor, James Road, Pinecrest and Scottwood; July 12, 13, 14, 17 —American Legion, Brevoort, Clinton, Cranbrook, Clermont, Indian Springs, Kenwood, Marburn and Whetstone; July 18, 19, 20, 21 — Alum Crest, Barack, Heinzerling, Scioto Trail, Smith, Southeast Lions, Stockbridge and Watkins.

July 24, 25, 26, 27 — Blenz, Burroughs, Eakin, Georgian Heights, Holton, Lindbergh, West Broad, and Westgate; July 28, 31, August 1, 2 — Beaumont, Cooke, Devonshire, Maize, Northridge, Salem, Sharon and Woodward; August 3, 4, 7, 8 — Brentnell, Dunberry, Gladstone, Hamilton, Lexington, Mills, Second, Second Avenue School and Windsor-Terrace.

August 9, 10, 11, 14 — Goodale, Indianola, Kingswood, Medary, Ninth, Sixth, Thompson, Tuttle, and Weinland; August 15, 16, 17, 18 — Deshler, Karnes, Leawood, Maybury, Olde Orchard, Schiller, Willis Park and Woodcrest; August 21, 22, 23, 24 — Blackburn, Douglas, Fairwood, Franklin, Fulton, Livingston, Ohio and Pelegrove.

The special events planned by the recreation department are as follows:

June

June 14, Playgrounds Opening Day Programs and Flag Day; June 15, Junior Jet League Baseball Meetings; June 22, Pet Shows at each playground — 7 p.m.; June 26, Horseshoe Tournament at each playground; June 28, Sectional Horseshoe Tournament; June 29, Finals Horseshoe Tournament.

Travel Trailers Take To Road

This year, more than ever before, highway travelers will see vacationing families rolling along with streamlined, colorful little two-wheeled trailers attached to their automobiles.

At the end of the day any one of these outfits is likely to be parked beside a scenic lake, a cold, clear trout stream, or in the sand at the ocean's edge. And a few minutes after the towing vehicle has rolled to a halt, the camper trailer will unfold into a tent on wheels —one of the most popular of all recreational vehicles in the modern campground.

THESE COMPACT half-trailer, half-tent vehicles, owe their success to many features. On the highway they ride so low the driver can see over them in his rear view mirror. They are easy to tow and handle. Storage space beside them makes it easy to keep the car clean.

And in the campground, the tent-trailer blossoms into a virtual Pandora's box of surprises. Typically, supporting legs drop down to brace the trailer, and sliding out from either side come large drawers containing beds already made up. Then lightweight aluminum bows lift into place and a colorful canvas top balloons out over a shelter that may be 20 feet wide. Here is comfortable living for an entire family, even on a rainy day. This whole job of setting up camp is often completed in less than 15 minutes after a family arrives at the campground.

SOME OF THE newer camper trailers are provided with a crank. Give it a dozen turns and drawers slide out by themselves, and the top opens into position. One manufacturer has gone a step further this year, and for the first time, replaced the crank with a fractional horsepower motor. Press a button and you make camp. The next morning press the button again, and your camp shelter folds into place.

Depending upon his needs and the limits of his pocketbook, a camper can choose from a wide selection of camper trailers. Prices run from about $600 to about $1600. Such trailers are usually good for at least 10 years of vacation camping.

The more costly models are often equipped with wall to wall carpeting, complete kitchen units, built-in ice box, and a dinette with cushioned benches beside a big picture window. Zip-in plastic windows let campers look out but protect them from rain and wind. The beds come equipped with thick foam mattresses. Privacy curtains divide the interior into individual bedrooms.

BECAUSE campground operators still have trouble figuring out out whether to class these plush little vehicles among the trailers or park them with the tents, their owners often take their choice. In many western states, if there is no campground near, they can pull off almost anywhere on government land. Because they have everything they need, they can set up camp wherever the setting sun catches them.

Campers graduating Into camper trailers must wire tail lights and directional signals to the car system. The trailer hitch should be a rugged one, and the type that attaches to the frame of the towing vehicle is far superior to a bumper hitch. A safety chain is essential, and a legal requirement in many states.

Those who want to try a camper trailer without the initial investment can rent one from agencies offering camper trailers complete with hitches, licenses and insurance. Rental fees usually run about $45 a week, and some agencies will even apply this toward the purchase price of a trailer later.

CAMPERS TODAY are towing folding trailers anywhere. They go just for the weekend, or they go farther from home and see more of America than ever before.

Two Columbus, Ohio, families figured out a plan whereby both could take a cross-country camping trip in spite of the fact that neither family had time enough for the trip both ways. One family owned a new station wagon, the neighboring family a new camper trailer. The first family vacationed to the west coast with car and trailer, later the second family flew out to meet them. Family number one flew home, while family number two came home the leisurely and scenic way, living in the camper trailer.

Don't Remove That Ohio Boat License

Paul Sarosny, Chief of the Division of Watercraft, Department of Natural Resources in Columbus, has announced that any person obtaining a boat registration will again be issued a 1x1-7/8 inch self-adhesive boat validation tag.

This red and white tag is to be fastened to the extreme upper left-hand corner of the 1965 Ohio boat plate and covering the 1966 validation tag.

The use of this tag, in 1966, states Sarosny, resulted in considerable saving of money to the people of Ohio as well as being effective from a law enforcement standpoint.

Every boater is again cautioned not to remove or destroy the 1965 boat plate which is already affixed to his boat.

SALT

A cubic foot of fresh water weighs about 62 pounds, and of salt water about 64 pounds. This difference is enough however, so that a cubic yard of ocean water contains about 47 pounds of salt. So — take care of your brightwork by washing it down.

Amateur Golf Outlook Brightening

By WALTER TAYLOR
Spectator Staff Writer

Hackers, duffers and low-handicappers alike can don their golfing togs this summer and have a little better selection among public golf courses in the Columbus Area.

And the outlook may grow even brighter in the next couple of years.

TWO WEEKS AGO, the Metropolitan Park Board opened the third public course in Franklin County, Stoney Creek — a 6748-yard, par-72 layout on State Route 256. The only other public courses in the area are Columbus-owned Raymond Memorial and Airport courses.

In addition, a fourth course may be in the offing. Melvin Dodge, director of the Columbus Recreation Department, says that if a city bond issuance is approved by voters this November, another municipal course will open within the next few years.

Dodge said the MPB decision to purchase the once-private Stoney Creek paved the way for the city Rec Department to purchase land and develop another course — prpbably southeast of the city.

HE SAID THE city probably could have acquired Stoney Creek, but such action would have wiped out existing golf allowances. He said his department had urged the Park Board to buy the course thus opening the way for a fourth links.

Any new course in Columbus will have a long row to hoe to match the success of the Airport course. Since its opening in July of last year, 26,278 rounds of golf have been completed on the relatively short (6370-yard, par 71), fast-playing 18 holes.

These figures average between 40-50 more rounds per day than Raymond Memorial, once the only public course.

RAYMOND, BUILT in 1956, saw 47,155 golfers (not including members) tour its 18 holes last year. But considering that it opened two months earlier and closed two months later than the Airport course, it's beginning to be obvious to Dodge and other Recreation Department chiefs that some of the things that were supposed to condemn the Airport course before it even opened have, instead, contributed largely to its success.

Dodge said critics of the city's choice of locations for a second course a few years ago cited the small area (124 acres) and the noise of the airplanes passing overhead as definite disadvantages.

"Not so," says Dodge. "It turns out that people bring their kids with them so they can watch the planes landing and taking off." He said the shortness of the course, coupled with the scarcity of large trees and the absence of vast stretches of rough, have speeded up play, something Dodge claims most golfers prefer.

THE DIRECTOR said that because water hazards play a big part in the Airport layout, an even faster clip can be maintained. "When a golfer loses a ball in the rough, he may spend five or ten minutes searching for it," Dodge says. "If he loses it in the water, he drops another ball and keeps playing."

But Recreation Department figures show that there must still be some golfers who don't mind spending five or six hours touring a golf course.

Raymond Memorial showed a profit of over $21,000 last year This, coupled with the Airport's smaller yet still substantial profit made golf the only self-sustaining facet of the Recreation Department's vast undertakings.

ALTHOUGH golfing showed a small decline in number of rounds played last year (Dodge attributed this to bad weather early in the golfing season), an upswing is expected this year.

Dodge says more televised coverage of the professionals on the PGA tour and the fact that one of the best pros, Jack Nicklaus, is from Columbus, have contributed to the ever-increasing number of amateur duffers in Columbus.

"Let's face it," says Dodge, "the average guy can stand in Jet Stadium all day and never hit a baseball over the fence, but put him on the golf course. He has a pretty good chance of getting a couple of 'pars' and maybe even a 'birdie' or two. He knows even the pros can't top that."

SPORTING

Wit 'N' Wisdom

By JACK WITTENMEIER
Spectator Sports Editor

Some of you have already experienced the feeling. For others, it is yet to come.

The feeling of which we speak is that which must have overwhelmed Ponce de Leon when his search for the fabled Fountain of Youth dried up for want of stamina.

FOR THIS reporter it took 29 years, eight months and a suicidal awakening from semi-athletic retirement to discover that all of us, in general, and myself, in particular, just "ain't what we used to be."

We, like so many other of the Gray Mares, had been lulled into the mistaken belief that youth springs eternal by those lush fairways and greens for the past four or five years.

And all those statistics about golfers being "athletic loafers" were just a lot of rot concocted by some doctor who probably shoots in the low 200s.

SURE, we're in good shape (well, maybe a few pounds overweight) we said when the invitation to join the legions of the slo-pitch ranks was extended a few months back.

And when a similar circuit was organized in our little hunk of Suburbia, we asked—with youthful exuberance—why not?

After all, the legs are in great shape (well, maybe a little shaky now and then after a hard day).

WHAT WE didn't stop to remember is that golf is for walkers, strollers, sitters and, on occasion, swingers. Softball, on the other hand, involves running, running faster and then running some more.

In our innocence, we also overlooked the fact that swinging a golf club exerts considerably less pressure on the arm than does the throw-in from left field to home plate.

It didn't take long for our trusty typewriter to remind us the finger-bone-is-connected-to-the-wrist-bone-to-the-arm-bone-and-eventually-to-the-sore-shoulder-bone.

THE ONE team, sponsored by a local pub, isn't too tough to take since major emphasis seems largely based on the post-game "refreshment" period where we have managed to excel splendidly since our collegiate days.

But the Suburban nine demands a mixture of "old college try," "win it for The Gipper" and "do a few pushups until the doctor arrives" attitude.

This accompanied by our suddenly discovered physical infirmity, has cast us into a situation somewhat akin to the man tiptoeing toward the wrong end of the proverbial pirates' plank.

FORTUNATELY somewhere back in our youth we were indoctrinated with the "never say die" attitude which has somehow managed to keep us plodding along on sore legs, sore arm and sore batting average.

Charlie Brown has an expression for it—Good Grief!

HERE'S NEW TWIST ON OUTDOOR COOKING

Back yard barbecuing is considered dad's domain. Perhaps this is a carry-over from hunting and fishing excursions where men take over the cooking — and love to tell their wives how delicious their meals are.

As king of the barbecue, dad specializes in everything from charcoaled hamburgers to spit-roasted chickens and grilled shrimp, lobster or steak. Once in a while, he manages corn-on-the-cob charcoaled in the husk, but the other picnic foods are in mom's bailiwick.

Also within the wife's jurisdiction is that big decision of planning the menu. For a fresh approach to the problem, heed the research findings of a recent survey conducted by an independent organization for The Seven-Up Company.

Though husbands are hesitant to tell their wives, most men would welcome more variety in their meals, according to the 7-Up food and beverage report. Men who eat their noon meals away from home report that they try casseroles, salads and meats with different kinds of seasonings in restaurants.

It seems that men do like to brag about their wives' cooking abilities, though. For your next outdoor cooking expedition or back yard "happening," select a new cut of meat or marinade or basting sauce for the chef to prepare. Try lamb shish kebob, grilled canned ham steaks or lamb chops.

Instead of the usual baked potato, wrap cooked rice seasoned with herbs and butter in foil packets and heat in the coals or on the grill. Great with steak or burgers.

Cold cuts make good grilling items, too. Fold thin slices in fourths and thread on skewers. Serve on toasted buns with ketchup. Thick slices of bologna, grilled and baked with barbecue sauce, make excellent sandwich fare. (Make a few slits around the edge of each slice to prevent the meat from curling.)

For a new basting sauce for chicken or turkey, melt the contents of a can of cranberry sauce in a small pan on the grill. Thin sauce by stirring in a little 7-Up. Brush over chicken during last few minutes of cooking.

Happiness is catching a lunker bass and the happy angler displaying his catch is one of forty million Americans who have experienced the fun of fishing. He happens to be an expert, Bill Cullerton, advisor and field testing chief for Johnson Reels, Inc., and the fishing pro on the Johnson Sea-Horse Sports Advisory Board. Cullerton, who has fished popular fresh and salt water locations all over the country, took this bass near Cypress Gardens, Fla.

Packing For Trip? Experience Helps

By CHARLIE WATERMAN

Most common question when you break camp, or pack up to leave home in the first place is: "What'll I put this in?"

If you suggest a cardboard box, chances are you'll be sorry. A lot of things go on a camping trip and some of them don't mix well.

It's wise to put a little thought and money into containers. They'll prevent that garbage dump look so many camps acquire.

For years I packed a gasoline lantern in a cardboard box and hoped for the best. Then I finally bought a fiber case made for the lantern. It fits perfectly and there is a spring inside to hold the lantern rigid. It was a little expensive, but if I'd had it for the past 30 years it would long since have paid for itself.

WHEN CAMPING, my wife and I used to spend a lot of time figuring what to do with canned goods and cooking utensils.

We found construction plans for a movable cupboard that would accommodate all of that stuff and some more too.

One of our big triumphs is the use of plastic food containers with sealing lids.

My wife had been using some of them in camp before I even noticed. I'd seen all of those lidded plastic containers, but I didn't know you could tip them over without starting a leak.

"They won't leak if you put the lid on right," my wife said, tossing a container filled with water at me. I caught it in panic, but not a drop came out.

No one is recommending playing touch football with one of these bowls, but they will suffer surprising abuse. Primarily they are food containers and, as such, they will do a fine job when they must be transported over rough country, avoiding all sorts of travel mess.

The fact they are waterproof from the outside in, as well as from the inside out, makes them useful for a lot of things the manufacturers never intended.

Now our first aid and medicine cabinet is simply one of the larger plastic "buckets" with everything from aspirin to snake bite kit carefully packed inside.

The plastic containers are fine for temporary camera cases when you and your equipment are apt to get a soaking, and for transporting exposed or unexposed film they are hard to beat.

Other uses include storage of matches, flashbulbs, ammunition, binoculars, soap and even dry clothing.

We have found soft zipper bags better than suitcases for our hunting and fishing clothing.

We use big cloth bags that open the long way, making it easy to get to something at the bottom without digging out the whole works.

Hard, fiber foot-locker type luggage is handy in smaller size. They offer added protection to breakables. Leather requires extra care on camping trips.

The most satisfactory tackle boxes we have found are made of plastics, aluminum and wood, and two small ones seem to work better than one large one.

If the bedding gets wet or lost, the whole trip goes sour. Most modern campers like to use sleeping bags. Some of the best bags are made of down and can be worked into surprisingly small packages. I use an outer bag of waterproof cloth, often packing it with the drawstring end down just in case some rain hits it.

Touring Gives Key To Outdoors

One of the most popular of all American leisure time activities is touring. Yet few people stop to think of touring as the open sesame to all of the myriad forms of enjoying the great outdoors.

Generally, touring by motor car is considered just an escape from the old familiar scenes—a way to keep moving through an endless panorama of new and stimulating sights pleasing to the eye.

Yet today's concept of touring has broadened vastly.

IN THE first place touring, perforce, takes you and your family, too, out into refreshing open space under a beneficent sun.

Second, because touring is planned for some specifically alloted period of leisure time —usually the annual vacation —all the work-a-day tensions may be left behind once you're in the driver's seat — and from there on, the great outdoors is yours.

Plan right and you'll start out relaxed. You'll be fancy free to go in any direction over routes of your own choice, at your own pace; to stop when you feel like it; to turn off the thruway any time you wish to explore whatever along the way strikes you as interesting.

TOURING MAKES it possible for you to give added purposefulness to your driving — sheer fun, if that's what you want; participation in a great variety of sports such as fishing, swimming, boating, golf —and even learning in a most palatable form, especially if you're taking the kids along.

Making the natural scenic wonders in one or more of the national parks a tour objective is most rewarding for the whole family. Choosing to show the children the nation's capital or the state's capital can be an exciting and instructive adventure for all. Planning on sampling the fishing in the lakes and streams in the area through which your tour goes is something many women now enjoy along with their men folk. Choosing some glamourous summer resort where all modern sports are available as the objective of your tour might be a special treat for the wife.

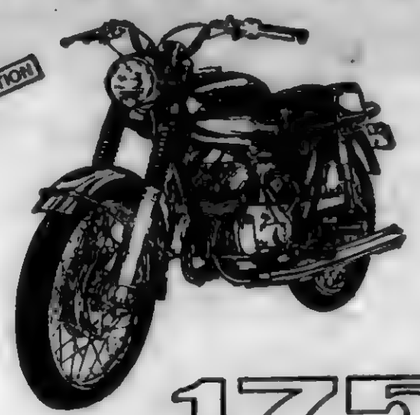
And if it's all the way back to rugged nature that you want to get — touring is the high road to camping, with facilities to your liking the boast of every state in the nation.

YES, THE HIGHWAYS and byways for touring lead inevitably to the unlimited opportunities for recreation in the great outdoors. More than 50 per cent of the population — that's more than 100 million people — average 500 miles of touring a year in search of rewarding pleasure outdoors; 25 per cent average a thousand miles af driving.

Grandest part of all about touring to enjoy the great outdoors is that you are the captain of your own ship.

If you're going to use the family car, be sure it's fully serviced before you start.

On the other hand, you may wish to explore the great new modern family of recreational vehicles built and thoroughly tested to meet the most rugged demands of back to nature travel and also to provide the comfort of the sedan.



YOU MAY WANT to inspect the motorized campers and the new trailers which provide on wheels just about every convenience you have at home while they free you completely from dependence on hotels, motels and even restaurants.

And as for planning where to go, how to get there and back, how to find the accommodations you may want, there is an abundance of literature. Notable are the new Mobil Oil Guide books, counterparts in America of the famous Michelin guides of France.

And all along the way, wherever there are service stations bearing this insignia, up to the minute highway information and maps will be yours for the asking.

Many Piloting Own Planes To Nation's Playgrounds

Highways to the Great Outdoors aren't all on the ground. Thousands of highways in the sky connect the country's weekend or vacation playgrounds.

These highways are being traveled more and more by thousands of people who have discovered the fun and convenience of do-it-yourself flying.

How does it work? First, using your home town as the focal point on a map, draw a circle with a radius of 750 miles. Then imagine yourself making a fun-filled trip in a private airplane to any point within this 1500-mile-diameter circle.

south to New Orleans, east to Washington, D.C., north to Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., and west to Denver.

In a 150-mile-per-hour single engine airplane, it will take you five hours or less to reach any point within the circle. You may choose deep sea fishing in the Gulf of Mexico, quail hunting in Wyoming, or any of hundreds of other pastimes for a "long" weekend.

For a week or two-week vacation, you may expand the circle to include virtually any place in North America, regardless of where you live.

Things to Consider

All this, of course, depends on your having access to an airplane—a private airplane. If you haven't been exposed already to private flying, the whole idea probably sounds beyond your wildest dreams.

But consider for a moment the following:

- there are some 90,000 airplanes in the U.S. classified as "general aviation," that is, civilian airplanes flown for business or pleasure. According to the Federal Aviation Agency, more than half of these are listed as "personal" aircraft, as distinguished from those flown for business or commercial purposes.
- approximately 450,000 persons in the U.S. hold current civilian pilot's licenses. Some of them probably live in your neighborhood.
- learning to fly is fast becoming an "in" thing to do among people of all ages and in all walks of life. During 1966, more than 120,000 persons in the U.S. received student pilot's licenses and started learning to fly.

Less Time on Road

Last year, these airplanes and pilots flew an estimated 500,000,000 miles strictly in the pursuit of pleasure. They operated from more than 9,600 airports and countless airstrips throughout the country.

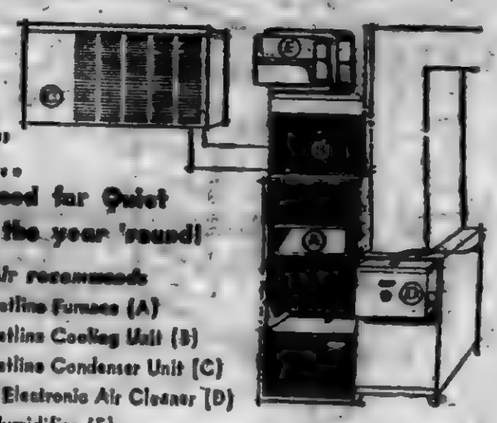
Through use of private airplanes, pilots and their families spent much less time "on the road" than they would have in automobiles, arrived at their playgrounds relaxed and refreshed, and enjoyed the convenience of go-when-you-want-to travel.

No, they didn't all own their own airplanes. Although many thousands do own a "family" airplane, many more take advantage of rental or club plans.

Airplanes may be rented at virtually any airport. The cost, of course, will vary according to the size and speed of the airplane. A typical four-place airplane with speeds of 125-160 mph will rent for $16-24 per hour. Although convenience is the main selling point virtually any airport. The cost, will usually compare favorably with the total cost per mile traveled in a rental car. When costs are divided among two or more people making the trip, they are surprisingly reasonable.

Flying Clubs

Many pilots belong to thousands of flying clubs which operate on a non-profit basis. The most obvious advantage of these clubs is that they permit the cost of airplane ownership to be spread over a broad base and at the same time give partners regular access to their own aircraft.



Another popular plan is for two or more families to get together informally on the purchase of an aircraft, sharing the costs as well as the flying time.

Public Lands Offer Wealth Of Fun

Fishing, riding, hunting, walking, boating, driving, skiing, anyone? Opportunities for these and many other outdoor recreation activities are available throughout the nation.

The National Park Service administers more than 230 areas of outstanding natural, historical and recreation significance on more than 26 million acres. These include 33 national parks, seashores and lakeshores, 143 historical parks and 12 designated federal recreation areas.

Camping, boating, nature study and other facilities are available in many of these areas.

The National Forest Service maintains 154 forests covering 181 million acres that include walking trails, overlooks, camping and picnicking areas, and visitor information centers. There are 312 national wildlife refuges in the country, covering some 28½ million acres. About 170 of these are open to the public for fishing, hunting and other outdoor recreation.

Fishing and other water recreation are available on 235 of the 350 U.S. Army Corps of Engineers Federal Reservoirs, and some 25 major TVA lakes in seven Southern states.

In the West, millions each year enjoy sightseeing, swimming, boating, fishing, waterskiing, hunting and camping at more than 210 Bureau of Reclamation project areas which cover some 3.5 million acres of land and some 1.7 million acres of water surface in 17 Western states, Alaska and Hawaii.

Some 4,450 sites on the Bureau of Land Management's 457 million acres, mostly in 11 Western States and Alaska, also are open to the public for outdoor recreation.

Many of these outdoor recreation opportunities are available to the public free of charge. In some instances Federal Recreation Area Entrance and/or user fees are charged.

For further information, write to the Washington Office of the agency which manages the land in areas that interest you.

In addition to federal public recreation lands, many outstanding outdoor recreation opportunities are available through State Visitor and Tourist Bureaus. Write them c/o the State Capitol.

WHY BOTHER WITH ONE-ROOM AIR CONDITIONERS WHEN-

WHOLE-HOUSE GAS AIR CONDITIONING COSTS $14.00 A MONTH TO OWN!

Probably the reason some people are still going for those roaring wind-tunnels called window air conditioners is that they haven't heard how little it costs to own whole-house Gas air conditioning.

Hear it now: Fourteen dollars a month— or less—not only buys a powerful three-ton capacity Gas central air conditioning system, but installs it, too. And there's no down payment.

Does the low price surprise you? It shouldn't, when you consider that a compact Gas air conditioner attaches to your present Gas furnace, converting it instantly into a matched heating-cooling team. Gas air conditioning is the quietest, longest-lived and most trouble-free of any central home-cooling system. And economical Gas can cool your whole house, every room, for a fraction of the cost of keeping a flock of noisy one-room air conditioners in electricity.

Send in the no-obligation coupon today, and enjoy summer with cool, healthful air in every room in your home.

Recreation Vehicles New Rage

Not too long ago, the outdoorsman who craved a vehicle for busting sand dunes or creeping along the banks of a marshy stream had to build such a unit himself.

And if the fruit of his labor had all the visual appeal of a home-made tank — well, it could take him where he wanted to go — off the road and into the backwoods. One of the problems was the builder usually spent more time under his vehicle than he did in it.

TODAY, THE SITUATION has changed dramatically. Anglers, hunters and campers not only can buy units specifically built and tested for more demanding duty, they can actually afford to be fussy about some of the smallest details.

Rear wheel or all-wheel drive; two-door or four-door cabs; bucket or bench-type seats; standard, automatic, or five-speed transmission; high-altitude carburetion equipment for mountain driving or increased-capacity cooling for the desert — these are only a few of the options. With an array of choices like this sportsmen can order the exact units they want and need directly from the factory.

Serves Other Purposes

A wide variety of models is available ranging from the spunky "go anywhere" compacts through heavy-duty station wagons, to long-bodied pickups designed to carry camper bodies.

If you can own two cars (that is, if you are what is known as an actual or potential two-car family) and if you genuinely love the outdoors, there isn't the semblance of a problem about affording one.

Remember, your recreational vehicle doesn't have to sit in the garage between trips to the wide open spaces. It can also do everything you would normally ask of a second car. All of these units can be equipped with "civilized" options to equal the conventional car in terms of comfort and convenience.

As just one example, the International Travelall station wagon has power steering, power brakes, automatic transmission, air conditioning, tinted glass, and a stereo tape player as optional items.

One of these family recreational vehicles will do yeoman service during the week on trips to the shopping center, to the women's club luncheon, hauling the kids to their music lessons, and a thousand other things.

Yet these same units can take you and your family, in comfort into beautiful, breath-taking country—places you could not reach by any other means.

Maybe you have a neighbor who drives a Campermobile or a Scout. As you watch him pull out of the driveway each weekend, headed for the beach, desert, or high-country — you say to yourself, "Old Charlie's not superhuman. He has the same number of wives and children as I do, and he doesn't have a rich aunt or secret oil well. We're the same age, have the same income and have the same handicap on the golf course. Then why should Charlie have the market cornered when it comes to adventure?"

Why indeed?

These days, many Americans are asking themselves the same question. Perhaps they're tired of adventure neatly wrapped and dispensed from television sets. Many are turning to the outdoors as the primary source of recreation for their leisure hours. To them, a recreational vehicle is their entertainment. Maybe they passed up a color TV set and some similar luxuries on their way to purchasing their unit.

In the great outdoors, they're finding their own adventure, and watching their own spectaculars. And while traveling or camping far from the vestages of civilization takes more effort than switching a channel, the rewards of cooking over your own camp fire and breathing unpolluted air can be infinitely greater than watching Errol Flynn finally get the best of Basil Rathbone.

To many people, the thrill of outdoor living—far away from the cities and highways —is the only type of "family togetherness" that really makes sense.

Swim Pools Now For Everyone

Swimming pools for the home are no longer considered an item strictly for high income groups and warm weather states.

More than 50,000 in-ground residential pools have been sold in each of the past three years. And, according to the American Gas Association, Inc. (A.G.R.), the big splash is likely to continue now that normal swimming seasons can be doubled with effective pool heating systems.

In addition to permitting swimming in the spring and fall, a pool heater can come to the rescue during occasional summer cold spells. The heaters function daily by providing an initial rise in temperature, then automatically maintaining it at a healthy, comfortable level.

The new development in pool equipment also adds a new dimension to the economies of owning a "backyard beach."

Longer swim seasons are drastically reducing the average monthly costs for owning and maintaining a pool making the investment more realistic for outdoor enthusiasts. A.G.A. reports that the cost of a gas pool heating system represents only about 10% of the total pool installation cost.

Statistics from cities representing a cross section of the country indicate that the normal swim season has been extended to an average of three months in such widely scattered locales as New York, Salt Lake City, Minneapolis, Kansas City, Albuquerque and Nashville.

A private swimming pool enhances the value of the property.

HEAT CAN HURT

Heat prostration or heat exhaustion are caused by prolonged heat and humidity, fatigue and excessive loss of body salts and water through perspiration. Buffered salt tablets should be taken to replace lost body salt and to prevent ills caused by excessive heat.

Tow Trailers Safely, Get Feel Of It

Before you set out on any long trips, try out and get the feel of your trailer.

In starting out with your trailer, before pulling from the curb, be sure you have traffic clearance. Become familiar with your span of vision in side mirrors. Apply power slowly, evenly. Avoid over-acceleration getting under way.

Safe stops depend on road surface, speed, tire condition, brakes, weather, etc. Pump the brakes lightly to avoid full-pedal action that may tend to lock brakes. If you "keep your distance," you will have little trouble stopping safely.

When turning, rear wheels do not quite follow the path of the front wheels on a vehicle. With a trailer, allow for additional clearance by driving slightly beyond the turning point before making the turn. Also slow down well before reaching any turn.

With a little practice, you will find it fairly simple to back a trailer in a straight line. In reversing, the back of the trailer moves to the opposite side from the back of the tow vehicle. It calls for a combination of timing and making small corrections as they become necessary.

A simple method to control direction: Place your right hand on the bottom of the steering wheel. To move the back of the trailer left, move your hand left (steering wheel moves clockwise). To back right, move your hand right (steering wheel moves counterclockwise).

With a trailer, remember you are taking up a longer stretch of road space. So allow for more distance when you want to pass. You will need more room in front of the vehicle you are passing, and you will be maneuvering slower than with a car alone.

When following other vehicles, keep as much space ahead of you as the total length of your car and trailer combined for each 10 mph of speed.

America's Future Lies Outdoors

By STEWART L. UDALL
Secretary of the Interior

In my six years as Secretary of the Interior, I have come more and more to the inescapable conclusion that the strength and safety of this nation are as much dependent upon our people's physical development and health as upon our armory of weapons.

This being true, what is America today? In our free society, how have we fared in developing and preserving in our race that element of physical stamina and vigor so essential to our freedom?

A national survey a few years ago found that, at best, one-fourth of our 40 million school children could not pass even a simple screening test of physical performance — a test requiring the barest minimum acceptance levels of strength, flexibility and agility.

Clearly this should be a cause for concern in all of us. Such concern is only magnified when we look beyond school age to the increasingly high rate of young men rejected by the Army for physical reasons —three of every seven called!

With these figures in mind, it becomes increasingly clear that we can't argue too much with the claim that America has become too soft. We need to stress physical fitness to school children and adults alike. Providing more recreation areas and facilities is one of the answers to the problem.

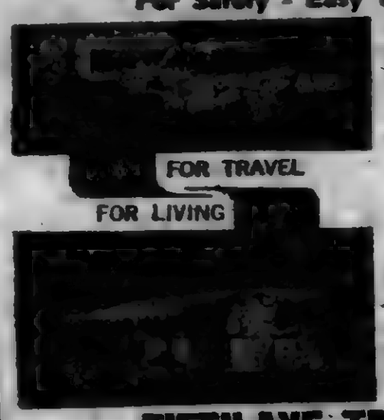
But providing such areas has proven difficult. We have missed many an opportunity. Much of the land we need most already is built over or has soared fantastically in price. But now, for the first time, we are winning the battle of conservation to help Americans keep physically fit.

In 1966, the states, cities and counties of the Northeast acquired nearly 350,000 acres of public recreation land. The Pacific southwest acquired another 140,000 acres. Those two areas — our most densely populated sectors — acquired more than half the 925,000 acres in local and state public recreation areas set aside last year.

The federal government acquired some 735,000 acres of public land and water areas last year — more than half east of the Mississippi River. Again, the bulk of the new public recreation areas are where most of our people live. Local and state governments acquired more recreation land than the Federal Government. This was as it should be.

We are a people in need of relief from the day-to-day tensions compounded of the varied stresses which derive from metropolitan congestion. We are demanding and getting some relief. Concurrent with the big move to America's cities has been the big surge to the outdoors. Our latest figures show a continued rise in the number of visitors to national recreation areas in our forests, parks, wildlife refuges, seashores and reservoirs areas.

We cannot rest, however, until our national heritage is secure.



In the words of President Johnson, "Clearly, the time for action is at hand. The problems are made by man and can be solved by enlightened man. We will not yield to carelessness or greed in our determination to preserve, unspoiled and unsullied for future generations of Americans, this natural inheritance which we received as our national birthright."

ROCKENBAUGH READY FOR BOOM

The M. W. Rockenbaugh Boat Company is bracing for the expected increase in boat sales this year. Rockenbaugh, which started with three boats and a service station in 1958, has expanded to seven acres and the largest inventory in Central Ohio. Evelyn, Rocky and their daughter Ann oversee operations at 3260 Valleyview dr. Bill Blackford heads the parts department and Steve Flavel is in charge of the service department. On hand to help you with your selection are salesmen Tom Shields, Ron Fannin, Chase Bubis and Warren Clay.

Relative Ease Makes Water Skiing Popular

"The only thing difficult about water skiing," one fan points out, "is giving someone else a turn. You just hate to quit!"

Water skiing's popularity can be attributed to the relative simplicity of mastering the sport along with the overall interest in boating.

Chuck Stearns, ski expert on the honorary Johnson Sea-Horse Sports Advisory Board who operates a water ski training school at Desert Shores, Calif., says, "It's rare when one of my beginning students does not successfully get up on the skis on the first attempt. Learning to ski is easy, and it is the extension of skiing skills into single ski (slalom) jumping and tricks that becomes the challenge."

Students at Stearns' school begin with dryland instruction. They are told to "keep the head and back erect, the arms straight and let the outboard do the work of bringing you up on top of the water."

During this phase of instruction, the student, feet in the ski binders, is being given the "feel" of the boat by Stearns who tugs on the tow rope as he talks, to simulate boat pull.

Next it's to the water, and Stearns skis alongside his students on their maiden voyages to remind them of the what-to-do's and to offer a helping, lifting hand.

Most of Stearns' students, however, are not beginners but accomplished skiers who come to learn the fine points of competition-type skiing from the master.

Typical family outboard runabouts, from 14 to 20 feet, are the most common skiing rigs. Skiing engines are usually considered to be those about 30 horsepower up. Tournament skiers use "twin rigs" like Stearns' rig, a 17-foot fiberglass boat powered by two Johnson 100 hp. engines.

SAFE WAY TO TOUR

It is wise, when touring, to stop frequently to fill the tank. Seasoned tourists make it a point to do so whenever the gauge reaches the half-full mark. These stops can serve other purposes, such as offering a chance to stretch one's legs and an opportunity to give the kids—if any—a break.

Locks Provide Muskingum Haven

By JOYCE LOUGHMAN
Spectator Staff Writer

It is often said of most rivers that, everywhere the mainstream flows, the boats are sure to go. But this has not always been true on the Muskingum; it is a long river but a shallow one.

So boats have to be helped along by locks and dams that provide a depth that is consistently navigable. The locks and dams on this long rver were started in 1837, and by 1910 they were 11 — from Marietta to Ellis Dam, north of Zanesville. Commercial traffic became heavy but by 1915 commercial navigation started leaving and the Army Corps of Engineers turned the administration of the system over to the State of Ohio in 1958.

A renovating project for pleasure craft was begun and the work is now nearing completion, under the guidance of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources with money provided by the Waterway Safety Fund. The treasury of the Waterway Safety Fund has been built up from boat and motor license registration fees and one-half of one percent of all gasoline tax collection.

For the power-boaters, the Muskingum will become almost 93 miles of navigable water. Flowing through the scenic Muskingum Valley, which would be a tourist attraction without a single lock on the river, this waterway meanders, ever so gently, from its headwaters near the Tuscarawas River to its mouth at Marietta, emptying into the mighty Ohio. Along its banks the department is constructing parking lots and launching ramps so that the boater who does not want all of the Muskingum can pick any part he likes.

Locks are numbered starting with No. 11 at Ellis and No. 1 at Marietta. The removal of Dam No. 1 is scheduled for 1968.

In a typical lock and dam facility, the dam holds the water back to form a navigable pool. At one side, the dam abuts the river bank, at the other side are lock chambers — operated manually on the Muskingum— which raise and lower boats as they go up or downstream. A Muskingum lock can accommodate 15 pleasure boats at a time, and a boat can be docked through in about 20 minutes.

Locks 11, 10, 8, 5, 4, 3 are in operation. Locks 9 and 2 are closed for repairs during 1967. When all work has been completed, even the larger pleasure cruisers should be able to navigate the length of the river. There is a minimum channel depth of four feet — enough for yachts up to 30 feet long.

The locks on the Muskingum are among some of the oldest on any waterway in the country. The blocks that make up the lock walls are of native sandstone measuring 18 to 24 inches thick. Massive timbers form the gates, which operate with winches and cables.

Towns along the way have already started benefiting from the "newest" Ohio waterway. Marine stores, gas docks, repair services have sprung up along the banks and at McConnelsville and Malta, where the main street borders the river, a boater can go ashore for an ice-cream cone, a supermarket, a restaurant or even a bank. Motels and summer cottages are becoming numerous. Good bass catches have been reported, occasional muskie and excellent catfishing, particularly near the warm-water outlets at the power plants near Philo and Beverly.

History abounds along the Muskingum. Starting at Zanesville, one sees the only Y bridge in the world. Steamboat Bend, where the blasts of the packets used to echo on foggy nights, is marked by a crossroads service station and a general store just north of Marietta. In Marietta, too, an old river packet, the William J. Snyder, is tied up and open to tourists. Other Marietta sights are the Campus Martius Museum and mound builder evidences.

The boater with a yen for an extended cruise will be able to start at Zanesville and wind his way down the Muskingum into the Ohio, on down the Mississippi and into the Gulf of Mexico.

Two youngsters were walking home from Sunday school after having been taught a lesson about the devil. One of the boys said to the other. "What do you think about all that devil stuff?"

The other thoughtfully replied, "Well, you know how Santa Claus turned out. It's probably just dad."

Zoning Variances Passed By Council

Bexley City Council passed three zoning variances and replatted six lots between Sheridan and College Avenues into three at its Tuesday night meeting.

Council granted permission to Robert M. Knightstep, 544 Noe-Bixby-rd, to build a garage on Delmar Drive for detailing out the final work such as body work and spot painting on automobiles.

The garage, to be built on the south side of Delmar Drive just west of Stanwood, will cost around $15,000 and be designed by Eiselt and Eiselt Architects.

Council specified that the garage is to have no signs and no outside storage of automobiles. Also, no commercial repair work, customer work nor selling is to be done on the premises.

Council also stipulated that permission must be requested again if the building were leased, sold or used for any other purpose other than as a private garage.

Other zoning variances pertaining to the lengthening of a driveway at 2703 E. Broad-st from 12.6 to 16 feet. Council also granted G. J. Smith, 1045 Remington-av, permission to enclose his side porch, at the corner of Remington and Livingston Avenues, with glass.

Since there were only five members of council present, no ordinances could be passed but zoning variances, which require only a majority vote of those present, could be granted.

Special Meeting Set On Park Controversy

By NANCY LOGUE
Spectator Staff Writer

The fate of the Orton L. Davis Park area will be announced tonight at a special 8 p.m. meeting of Whitehall's Parks and Recreation Commission to be held in the city's Municipal Building.

Trouble over the park was raised at the regular meeting of the commission held May 25 when a delegation from Fairway Oaks Homeowners Association presented a petition with 65 signatures protesting the establishment of a picnic area "so near to the homes."

They listed five reasons for their protests, which are: the picnic area provides a potential lurking place for an individual to hide and observe the homes for the purpose of attack or burglary; the location of the area in relation to the homes represents a fire hazard and a health hazard; it deprives the residents of their right to privacy and that it will bring down their own property value.

They proposed that the picnic area and shelter house be located across to the south side of Etna Road or some other place where the area would not prove a hazard.

On June 1, the commission held a special meeting to hear from Whitehall residents who opposed the petition of the Fairway Oaks Association.

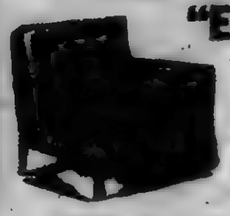
The general feeling expressed by the citizens was that City Park plans were formulated before the subdivision was built; that those who built in the area should have been aware that they would be living next to a park, and that if they wanted privacy they should fence in their property.

Mayor Paul J. Haytcher said that he did not favor any plan that would infringe on orderly and full development of the park area but that any future park planning should be undertaken with great care to cause as little inconvenience to neighboring property owners as possible.

PARENTS PREPARE FOR BEXLEY PARTY

No one is certain who will have had the most fun — the graduates or the parents — when the Bexley High School all-night-graduation-party ends early tomorrow morning. These are just a few of the parents who worked and played Monday as they transformed the Jeffrey Mansion into a rather mod "Camelot." On the left Mrs. Irvin Barkan places some last minute touches on the manikin queen. Some fathers are pictured as they work on the 30 foot dragon that will greet the graduates as they walk over the drawbridge.

APPRECIATION AWARD GIVEN



Dr. Robert C. Kirk, 30 N. Columbia-av (second from left), president of the Central Ohio Heart Association, is being presented with a ceramic plaque in appreciation of his services by Dr. C. Joseph Cross, who will assume the presidency July 1. Looking on are Mrs. Betty Wilson, executive director of the Association, and Dr. Robert L. Van Citters of Seattle, Wash., the speaker at the annual meeting.

Let's Act Now

Last November Columbus voters generously approved a bond issue for construction of a new county jail — no doubt a public reaction to rioting at the present facility last year.

The measure was hurried to the ballot supposedly as an official indication that county commissioners were swift to recognize public needs. That presumption was then and still is questionable, as was the wisdom of the jail bond issue at the time.

However the voters of Franklin County have indicated that they want their elected officials to build a new jail and since the commissioners were in such a hurry then it adds nothing to their original zeal to see the project languishing now because of the commissioners' apparent inability to simply pick a site.

The confidence of voters cannot help but be shaken when they see such indecision on the heels of what was once presented as an emergency.

Meeting Responsibilities

Republicans in the state legislature, and their friends in the press, are making a big bit of the fact that Democrats are not unanimously embracing current tax proposals of an administration-appointed tax study commission.

If memory serves correctly, during the tax struggles of the legislature in 1959, Republicans in the then Democratic-controlled legislature were of little help.

Republicans, of course, voted for all the popular expenditure, but against the unpopular tax increases.

Democrats would be political fools now if they did not let the Republican majority carry the tax ball. It was a Democratic governor in 1959 who sent the tax bills to the legislature, without resorting to the tired ruse of letting a bipartisan "commission" take the rap.

If this legislature is willing to meet its responsibilities to the operation of state programs —and they are sadly wanting—then let a responsible governor come forward and show some of that much-touted, but vastly over-rated leadership we read about so often.

Thanks To You

Next week is "Thanks To You" week.

Actually, most of you are saying "thank you" to yourselves. You are if you're among the two out of three Franklin County residents who benefited last year from the United Appeal drive.

A total of $4,784,040 was raised in the 1966 campaign to benefit 69 health, welfare and recreation agencies. UA officials indicate that two-thirds of the population of the county directly benefitted from the campaign.

To highlight "Thanks To You" week, UA and United Community Council will hold a personnel institute June 22 to inform personnel directors of the services available in helping their employes solve problems. Many local firms will receive personalized reports on their employes' contributions.

The Spectator firmly believes that only through United Appeal can so many varied services be served and thus serve the people of Franklin County.

So we take this opportunity to add our voice of praise to those who aided the UA campaign last year.

"Thanks To You."

"Israel Is Winning——NOW We Must DO Something!"

Never On Sunday

By ROBERT BURDOCK
Editor and Publisher

BURDOCK

A lot of pious hypocrites are quietly working behind the scenes in an effort to help those braver souls who are openly trying to get the state legislature to approve some sort of a plan to allow the Sunday sale of liquor — at least in the bigger Ohio cities which thrive on conventions.

In this regard, at least, the re-apportioned legislature has not shaken off the huskings of the unlamented cornstalk brigade. Liquor is still treated by Ohio politicians like it was "Demon Rum." Most of them will drink it, of course, seven days a week. But vote for it? Heavens!

One of Ohio's former governors was the undisputed boilermaker champion of the campaign trail. Another had a wine cellar that was the envy of every sipper who ever visited the executive mansion. Still another had his favorite brew on tap in the basement. But none of them would touch the Sunday liquor bill openly with a ten-foot swizzle stick.

Prohibition aptly demonstrated that people who drink will find a way. It recalls the tale of the cub reporter who somewhat shocked and abashed described to his city editor several of the scenes he had witnessed on a summer evening in the park, hoping the newspaper would crusade against such dalliance.

"You can preach against it from the pulpit," the hard-eyed editor explained. "You can editorialize, temporize and write laws against it. But you'll never make it unpopular with the masses."

Not even on Sunday.

$50,000 Rest Rooms

To The Editor:

The following article appeared in a Columbus newspaper in May, 1967:

"STATE PLANS MODERN ROADSIDE OUTHOUSES . . . The Ohio Department of Highways is going to give rest areas a 20th century touch beginning early next year. The first of the $50,000 heated comfort stations, complete with indoor plumbing, is scheduled to be ready to travelers along Rt. 23 in Wyandot County. Long range plans call for similar buildings for all of Ohio's major roadside parks along primary and interstate highways, Highway Director P. E. Masheter said. Masheter said the state has 275 roadside rests, and each is used by an estimated 2500 travelers daily. The cost of the modern toilets will be about $50,000 each, he said.

"Opening soon after the Rt. 23 station will be buildings in the rest areas along I-75 in Auglaize and Miami Counties. Another pair of buildings will be placed under construction this summer along I-71 in Fayette County."

Several days after the above article appeared, the following appeared:

"MORE SALES TAX WOULD AID SCHOOLS. Possibilities of extending the tax to dry cleaning, laundry and parking, lowering the penny tax to sales starting at nine or 11 cents, instead of 31 cents as now; lowering the bracket for two cents, which now starts at 41 cents; and for three cents which starts at 71 cents and goes to $1.06. Another possibility was two cents more added to the five-cent per pack on cigarets. One of these possible sources that might get particular mention is a state income tax, it was reported. This could be a 'feeler' for public reaction."

It is my personal opinion that if the state can afford $50,000 restrooms for the roadside parks, the people should not be taxed more for schools. $50,000 is a lot for a home, let alone a restroom. For myself and most people I know, they would not even feel at home in a $50,000 home nor a $50,000 restroom.

If the schools need money, I feel that here is a source. Don't you think that much less money could build practical restrooms to serve the purpose of travelers in Ohio?

Voice your opinion to your representative, your senator, or your local newspaper, or anyone who will listen. As long as we condone this spending of our tax money, taxes will get higher and higher. Only the taxpayer can stop it, if you are interested enough.

GOLDWATER

Traveling the length and breadth of this land, visiting with college groups, meeting with Republican organizations, just talking with people in every section I sense more and more the hoax of government handouts and the dangers of mega-government are being exposed.

But the process is slow, maybe too slow to save the nation from the horrible experiment with socialism that so many have had to pass through.

The process certainly was well under way prior to the 1964 election, and 27 million Americans responded, despite the monstrously misleading issue of nuclear holocaust that had been raised to obscure the central domestic confrontation between regimentation and libertarianism, between socialism and capitalism.

Many businessmen who flocked to support the administration are taking a hard second look at what their support has brought. Rather than a big Partner government, they have got a government that is strictly Big Brother—regulating, strangling, and depressing enterprise, initiative and creativity.

Professional people also are taking a second look. Red tape is wrapping itself around every laboratory, law office or what-have-you.

Taxpayers everywhere feel the knife of unrestrained federal spending slicing their lives and plans to shreds. They see their towns and cities becoming mere extensions of Washington bureaucracy, taking control of local affairs farther and farther away from them.

The attitude of many is that sure, there's a need for more federal programs, but it has gone much too far. And the feeling is absolutely correct. Let us hope that it also is growing fast enough to do some real good.

In the midst of all this, the Republican Party faces a particular challenge — and also a danger.

Challenge for the GOP lies simply in whether it can stick to its guns in terms of resisting the growth of this federal monkey that is fastening itself on our backs.

Danger for the GOP lies in the siren song of the left wing with its advice that Republicans "go modern" and try to outdo, not undo, the administration's plans for endless spending.

Recently the issue came squarely to the fore with the overwhelming majority of House Republicans voting to sharply cut back the Great Society's grandoise plans for rent subsidies and for extending federal spending directly into municipal areas.

A predictable attack against the Republicans, spearheaded by the White House, painted the party as heartless and against the poor. The truth is that Republicans who vote against boondoggling also want to support such measures as tax relief regulations which would enable people to help themselves.

The House Republicans were following the rational course of asking if the proposed programs had been producing and whether they had been needed (answer: no).

Crucial now is whether Senate Republicans will follow suit.

The Republican Party must not became a carbon copy of the Great Society, a party of what could be called "businesslike socialism." It must continue to stand for the freeing of individual initiative and creativity. That way lies the real victory over all the ills that afflict men.

marquis childs ★ The Gathering Storm ★

CHILDS

In the gathering storm the concerns of American politics — who happens to be up, who happens to be down — seem small potatoes. Nevertheless, the shadow of the threat of a larger war in the Mideast and Southeast Asia colors the picture of politics at home as well as abroad.

Even before the confrontation precipitated by President Gamal Abdel Nasser the split in the Republican party over foreign policy was widened. The two Republican leaders in Congress, Everett McKinley Dirksen in the Senate and Gerald Ford in the House put out the hardest of hard lines. They attacked in violently emotional language President Johnson's concept of building bridges with the Communist nations of Eastern Europe through removing trade barriers.

For moderate Republicans this was notice that the Congressional leadership supported the strategy of Richard M. Nixon. In his drive for the Presidential nomination Nixon is out-hawking the Administration hawks.

The broadside fired by the Ev and Jerry team may not have been aimed at the moderates but it was an embarrassment to the approach they had planned. They had shaped their strategy around the proposed $50 million Export-Import Bank loan for the purchase of machine tools in this country for the Italian Fiat auto plant to be built in the Soviet Union. The Ex-Im loan would be part of Fiat's $800 million deal to enlarge Russia's passenger car capacity from the present dribble to a modest output.

With Sen. Thurston Morton of Kentucky taking the lead, the aim was to get approval of the loan by the Banking and Currency Committee. If it appeared necessary for Congressional action the moderates were ready to accept Sen. John Tower's amendment stating that no credits should be extended to Communist countries unless such loans were declared by the President to be in the national interest.

Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois, a moderate who has risen rapidly on the national horizon, had in late February gone to Detroit to make a strong speech for Gov. George Romney at the Michigan State Republican Convention. In that speech in the heart of motordom he had given his blessing to the Fiat-Soviet deal as follows:

"The recent decision of the Italian automobile firm Fiat to build a plant in the Soviet Union says much about the progress in other nations . . . I see the new Fiat plant in Russia as symbolic of a new era in East-West trade. I welcome the increased Soviet concentration on consumer production and especially automobile production."

This was the same line taken by every agency of government from State and Defense through the CIA—anything that diverted production in the Soviet Union from military hardware to consumer goods was in the national interest. On this basis both Democrats and Republicans on a House Banking and Currency subcommittee reported no objection to the Fiat loan. The bank had pointed out that if the machine tools were not bought here under the loan they could be purchased in Europe.

Nixon may win the nomination with an all-out hawkish strategy. The moderates concede this in private. But they doubt, given a continuing war situation in Vietnam, that he could defeat LBJ by calling for more and more and more. A wartime President carrying the burden of responsibility and appealing for patriotic support of American forces engaged in conflict has a very great advantage.

This is the dilemma of the opposition party on both sides of the war-and-peace issue, in a grave time like the present merely to oppose is not enough. And an alternative course is hard to come by as each week the casualty lists grow longer and the emotional tensions in the country take a deeper hold.

william s. white ★ The Old Guard ★

WHITE

When an infantry division has been long blooded in combat, it develops not only a calm, throwaway expertness but also a very nearly indescribable kind of calm —weary yet infinitely tough, wary yet quite unafraid.

However beaten up it may have become, the high command still sends for it when the going is really tough and the objective absolutely vital. For elite divisions there is no rest, and though they groan when the signal comes to go forward again, they go forward all the same with a certain knockout air. And they would not really want to be relieved by Johnny-come-lately outfits.

So it is with this government's small and endlessly blooded foreign-crisis task forces, a diplomatic combat division in miniature which by this time has seen it all, all over the world.

The old man, the C.O., President Johnson, has worked so long with his senior officers — Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara, special Presidential assistant Walt Rostow—that they all begin to look a little alike and their various regional accents to merge into one.

Rusk is the executive officer in this outfit. McNamara is operations officer — G-3 in military lingo. Rostow is intelligence officer, or G-2.

All three are strictly professional at their job. There is not enough partisan political motivation among them to be traceable by chemical analysis.

For these three men, in short, foreign affairs have long since become a way of life and foreign crisis the coin of daily living. For six years they have gone through so much—so many suspenseful nights, so many quiet, bitter head-scratching sessions over the inflowing intelligence reports —that now they take the whole thing in stride.

By now they are pretty much like men working in a bank or on the railroad. Drama, to them, is a word in the dictionary.

And now there is also the crisis in the Middle East. And what is the atmosphere now?

Only more of the same, only more of the bank and of the railroad, for Rusk, for McNamara, for Rostow, and for all those officers who serve below them.

Take everything you may wish to take away from them and at the end these things, at least, must still be said of them by even the most dedicated of their critics. They have got iron guts. They have got devotion. And, most of all, they have got the special savvy that can come only from doing the old job for weeks, for months, for years.

Wrong these three may have been, and may be again. But no great power bearing so many burdens in so many places has ever been served by better soldiers with more hardy know-how and less bellyaching for the attentions of the medic and the chaplain.

Shari's Slightly Sensational In Kenley's 'Funny Girl'

Winsome Shari Lewis is currently proving her acting talents as Fanny Brice in Kenley Players' season opener, "Funny Girl."

Miss Lewis presents a fresh look at Fanny Brice as she mimics through difficult and often times strenuous scenes.

She brought the house down as she contorted and fanned her body as a result of gulping her drink during her first dinner engagement with suave "Nick Arnstein," Julius La Rosa.

Her charm and antics as the memorable Miss Brice are spiced with a voice usage that is unbelievable from one so delicately female.

The debonaire gambler, who later becomes Fannie's husband, as portrayed by Julius La Rosa was a steady acting job, but overshadowed by his singing. Well done.

Really walking off with the show was Molly Picon as Fanny's mother. A real trouper, she gave her all to dance routines that would make anyone half her age shudder. She's a definite hit.

Others among the cast presenting outstanding performances were Rudy Tronto as "Eddie Ryan," the "neighborhood friend" as Fanny would say; Hildegarde Halliday as the prying poker playing friend of Fanny's mother and Snub Taylor as a dancer of perfection. Watch for him.

A combination of many minute details make for a desirable play. With a musical there are at least twice as many.

With a play of this magnificance the direction by Leslie Cutler, is an awe inspiring factor as the audience was presented an original version of "Funny Girl."

Dance numbers such as "Who Taught Her Everything" and "Rat-Tat-Tat-Tat" will long be remembered. These were staged by Ron Tassone.

As a part of the picture the set designs for the many scene changes were exquisite. What beautiful color schemes in the restaurant and during "His Love Makes Me Beautiful" scenes.

Costumes were elegant with Miss Lewis' wardrobe topping the list. Yellows, oranges and whites throughout the play helped to create the mood of Fanny Brice.

"Funny Girl" is currently at Veterans Memorial Auditorium, home of Kenley Players in Columbus. Tickets are available at the box office during the day for the Thursday through Sunday performances. For an unusual insight of Fanny Brice through musical comedy the curtain goes up at 8:30 p.m.

Players Club Wins OCTA Play Contest

As a result of some pretty slick competition during the "Inspiration OCTA" held this past Saturday, Players Club of Franklin Avenue will represent Central Region at the Annual Ohio Community Theater Association Conference in September.

Players Club's excerpt was from "The Physicists" which was directed by managing director Jerald Ness. Robert Rathbun as the really not so insance physicist deservedly received the top acting performance by a male actor.

Second place was awarded to Gallery Players for their excerpt of "Awake And Sing" under the direction of Harold Eisenstein. Edye Mendelson was tapped as leading female performer for her portrayal of the domineering mother in this play.

Third place winner was "The Hostage" which was presented by Stadium Theater, under the direction of John R. Morrow.

Other highlights of the conference were Harold Eisenstein, president of OCTA, as the keynote speaker presenting many thought provoking questions for all groups to answer in their goal of stability in the community. Dr. Charles Dodrill of Otterbein presenting a lively, knowledgeable and what will no doubt be a long talked about subject — improvisations as a tool to understanding characterizations.

'Barefoot' A Rollicking Smash

Perfection at Playhouse on The Green resulted in a sheer blast of entertainment as season opener "Barefoot In The Park" was presented on no less than a perfect night — no rain.

Funny no, hilarious yes. Situations well staged, topping of lines, facial expressions, top acting and terrific directing by Ted Tiller kept the pace of laughter running wild.

Flawless acting on the part of each member resulted in a delightful peek at a newly-wed couple's first two weeks together in what was a love nest designed for bears.

Deirdre Owen, who is back for her second season, portrays the devoted mother of the female half of this married couple. Miss Owen is so deliberate and professional with comedy that this is her show. Just a look from her will develop a grin.

Bruce Blaine, telephone repair man, comes on stage gasping for air after his horrifying trip of six flights of stairs, to steal away from the couple every laugh line.

Corie, the fun loving wife, is portrayed by stunning Sharon Vaughn. Long will her seductive dance be remembered as she tries to no avail to drive her lawyer husband from his office work.

Peter Harris as Victor Velasco, the Blue Beard of 48th-Street, was delightful as his title—absolutely charming.

Ian Sullivan as the husband has a very highly developed flair for comedy and is a very fine acting artist as he proves during his drunk scene. Very well handled . . . just the right amount of build and fall.

There is nothing left to the imagination as clothes go off and on, lines are not omitted and best of all this professional cast enjoyed its roles through fulfillment as is obvious at curtain call.

This play will be running through Saturday, June 24. The snow and wind starts at 8:30 p.m.

Virginia Graham Comes To Kenley

Virginia Graham, star of "Virginia Graham's Girl Talk," seen on Channel 10 each Mondy through Friday at 1-1:30 p.m. comes to Columbus Tuesday, June 20 as a star in the Kenley Players production of Neil Simon's hit comedy, "Barefoot in the Park."

Miss Graham will play the part of Mrs. Bratter, a role created on the stage and in the motion picture version of "Barefoot In The Park" by Mildred Natwick. Co-starring will be George Maharis as her harassed son-in-law and Jessica Walters as her battling daughter.

LTOB To Present 'Born Yesterday'

"Born Yesterday," a three act play relating the change of events as the unsophisticated Billie Dawn becomes chic, is the offering to fans of community theater by Little Theater Off Broadway.

Basically, this group produces comedies but this play is a delightful change of pace. Patrons will no doubt be grateful for this switch in routine.

There is only one very polished attribute that LTOB develops and that is Gene Walsh. He has the play on his shoulders from beginning to end. Vocally though, he becomes tiresome as line after line is delivered.

Lack of direction, inexperienced actors and primarily the consistent tanglement of blocking leads to little if any understanding of the characterizations resulting in little to remember after the performace.

Jim Dippel, director, did accomplish a stirring mental picture, but left an unpainted picture.

Perfection in set design is a definite feather in LTOB's cap. Performances are Friday and Saturday, June 16 and 17, at 8:30 p.m. in Brookpark Junior High School's auditorium in Grove City.

Six Get Degrees From Muskingum

Five Columbus residents and a Worthington resident received bachelor degrees from Muskingum College in New Concord, Ohio, at commencement exercises Sunday.

They are:

Third Grader's Letter Gives Hope To Soldiers In Vietnam

MARK ROBBINS
By KATHY REDMOND
Spectator Staff Writer

In the midst of draft card burners and anti-Vietnam War demonstrations are hundreds of school children across the nation asking how they can support American soldiers in Vietnam.

Most of their support is in the form of letters addressed to "Dear Serviceman."

Recently Mrs. Thomas L. Kraeger, third grade teacher at Windermere School, Columbus' north end, wrote to Chaplain Fred L. Wollerman, Staff Chaplain, Nha Trang Subarea, 1st LOG Command asking what her class could do to support the men there.

After consulting the Red Cross at 8th Field Hospital, Chaplain Wollerman suggested that Mrs. Kraeger's class write letters to the hospital patients and send shower shoes for them.

The letters arrived and the "thongs" are on the way.

The chaplain received one letter, written by Mark Robbins, son of Mr. Avery H. Robbins of Columbus, and Mrs. Anne Robbins, 2156 Naylandrd, which he considered "very special." He mimeographed the letter and sent a copy to each of the patients.

Mark's letter appears in full below.

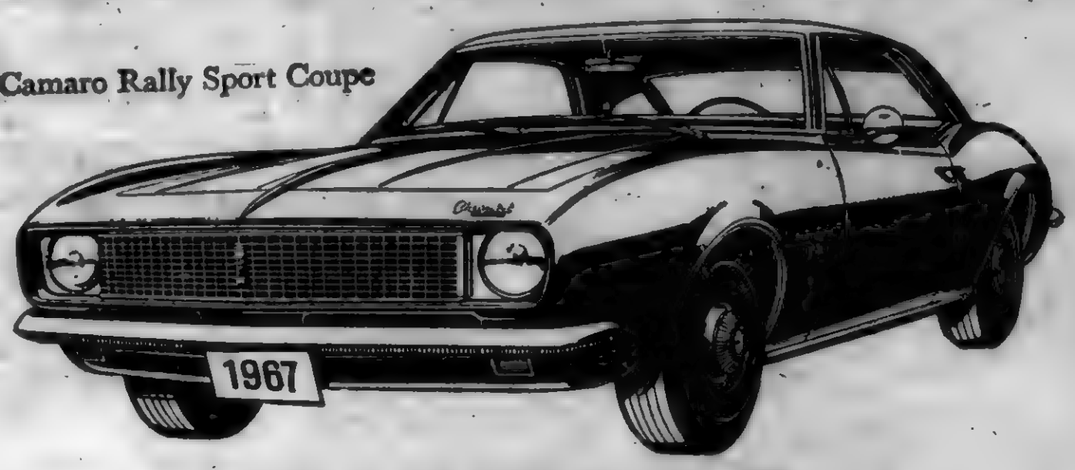
MONEY TALKS

Money talks . . . for most people. So think for a moment about the staggering amount automobile accidents cost you . . . even though you may never have had an accident, you pay for them indirectly. Your dollars contribute to the hundreds of millions spend on accidents each year. Now think for a moment about the cost in human lives! In 1966, 2601 died in Ohio.

Dear serviceman:

I appreciate your help. In America there has been many strikes. I am just one of millions who give you my blessing but I hope mine will mean something to you. I would like to congratulate you for your help. I know how much you want to come back home but we will all have to know the fact that God is always with us. And if you're out on the battlefield or on a base or in the hospital, to me you are the heroes of our country. Over here the light is bright and flowers are blooming. But just remember if things are pretty dim you have something good to come home for. And keep up the good work.

Sincerely Mark Robbins
Third Grade



In a reply to Mark's letter, Chaplain Wollerman said:

"As you know, there are many today in America loudly protesting our fighting this war. They are entitled to their opinions, for that is our American way. What they don't realize is that they encourage the enemy and hurt our own troops' morale.

"But a fine letter like yours does so much good. I'm sure that every man who reads it will be encouraged. It will be especially helpful to me in the hospital."

Chaplain Wollerman, the husband of Spectator staff writer Jane Wollerman, formerly served a congregation of which Mrs. Kraeger is a member. He distributed the letters from other members of the class to patients at the hospital.

Daylight Savings Time—long remembered from my childhood in Connecticut — how wonderful it would be to have it again!

If I ever utter those words again I only hope that someone washes my mouth out with soap. Oh, it's fine, great and all that but when do you stop? I had completely forgotten that I was a child when long, light evenings were so much fun. No lawn to mow. No roses to be mulched and sprayed. No weeds to be pulled.

This last Saturday evening after I had reached the point of no return, I sat down on the patio and commented about how light it still was and what time is it? About nine o'clock? Ten minutes of 10? You must be kidding!

Such a beautiful weekend we had. All of my parakeets are outside now in their big flight and enjoying every minute of it. And the parrot and cockatiel spent Sunday in the yard. Capitol Seed on Olentangy specializes in birdseed mixtures that are really clean and free of dust.

Visited Straders the other day. Didn't see Ruth or Jim but they have some grand salespeople. Added Sweet William to my collection of miscellany and stopped at Oakland Nursery last Saturday and found myself with Flaming Peace and Bob Hope. Ruth is holding a Pink Masterpiece and Golden Masterpiece for me which will give me all four of the Masterpiece roses. Flaming Peace is really magnificent, huge deep pink blossoms backed with white. I have all of my "Peace" roses together now. Chicago Peace with its pink-yellow-copper combination, Pink Peace with its lovely soft rose and of course Peace, the yellow pink rose of roses. Now with Flaming Peace added it is a joy just to look.

Hope a lot of you visited the Park of Roses last Sunday. And, don't forget that next Sunday is the first concert of the season. It starts at 7:30 and features the Columbus Capitol Chorus.

Story Tellers To Convene June 19-22 At Neil House

More than 100 story tellers from Dallas, Texas, to Saginaw, Mich., are expected to attend the Central District of the National Story League Convention which will open Monday at the Neil House.

Registration, a reception for officers and story telling will be held Monday.

On Tuesday the convention will travel to Hide-a-way Hills for a luncheon and story telling.

A banquet will be held Wednesday. Dr. Margaret Koste, assistant professor of education at Ohio State University, will be the guest speaker. She will speak on "Books and Children."

EXAMPLE HELPS

The Columbus Auto Club points out that you don't have to be traffic officers, or even members of a special safety organization, to do your part in preventing traffic accidents. One thing everyone can do is to set a good example of careful obedience to traffic laws whenever and wherever you drive.

A workshop, dealing with aids in story telling will be held Wednesday from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. The workshop is open to the public.

The convention will close on Thursday with a brunch and story telling.

The Lotus, Lula K. Phillips and Charter Story Leagues in Columbus and the Forest Rose League in Lancaster will be the hostesses.

(Editor's Note. This is the first in a series of articles written for the Ohio Education Association by four of the state's leading political reporters.)

By ROBERT T. ENDICOTT
Chief, Columbus Bureau
The Dayton Daily News

Illinois Gov. Otto Kerner stood just off the main lobby of the Greenbrier Hotel at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., on a snowy day in December, 1966, and waited for a telephone call from his Springfield office.

He wanted to confirm one of the biggest industrial-education-economic coups for a Midwestern state in the last decade. The announcement had come a few minutes earlier as a sidelight to a special meeting of the National Governors' Conference.

The coup: Illinois had captured the Atomic Energy Commission's $300 million atom smasher.

Kerner showed reserved satisfaction over the news.

"I'm not counting anything until it's built," he said. "But it does mean a lot to Illinois . . . more jobs, millions in payrolls, and the other fringe benefits of a project of this size."

He emphasized payrolls, unofficially estimated at $2 million a year.

"You must remember that this will not be an ordinary factory with typical pay scale." the governor told reporters. "These will be highly paid scientists and technicians."

Kerner realized what many other Midwestern governors, and educators, also knew: The AEC had named Illinois because of the state's pool of highly trained scientists, good school systems and appealing cultural and living conditions.

One Washington official pointed to the human resources aspect during early appeals by states to win the project.

"We are not only looking for a site . . . there are plenty of those," he said. "We are also looking for an area that can supply the trained men and attract their families . . . that means good schools for their children and recreational facilities."

Ohio and other states missed the AEC boat because they didn't measure up to the qualifications, especially trained workers and school systems.

Kerner was sure of one more thing about the smasher: Illinois would reap new dollars from these workers . . . tax dollars and retail dollars.

Grocers would sell more food. Department stores would cash in on new furniture and clothing customers. Car dealers saw a bigger market for sales.

The higher salaries also meant bigger allowances for children. And that plays a role in the economy.

Ohio economics experts say teenagers now spend $15 billion a year on clothes, records, radios and cars.

Teen-age girls spend $4 billion a year on clothes and at least $500,000 on shoes. Another $500,000 goes for beauty aids.

Kerner and the other governors had sensed this rippling effect in the economy for the state that won the smasher.

The ripples would be felt all the way from the power company that supplies the extra electricity to the milkman who delivered the pound of butter at 5 a.m.

The entire economic picture would be helped because of the flood of highly educated men bringing home fat paychecks.

This final analysis shows the importance of education to local and state economies — the higher the educational level in the communities the better off economically the area is.

The relationship of education to earning power is plain. The more you learn, the more you can earn. And taken one step further—the more earned the more spent for goods and services.

The atom smasher and its effect on Illinois is a concrete example of one other important aspect of today's changing world. It signals a growing change in the business make-up of America. This change—and its demand for trained workers at higher pay—affects Ohio more than many other states.

A study by Columbus' Battelle Memorial Institute shows Ohio and the nation entering an era where brains rule the labor market. No longer king is the brawn that fired the steel furnaces, built the automobiles or pushed the plow in yesterday's economic eras of manufacturing and agriculture.

Brothers Lashes Out At Convention Call

Merrill D. Brothers, Columbus attorney and unsuccessful candidate for the Ohio Senate, today called on Ohio voters to contact their representatives in Columbus "and urge them to stop any effort to place Ohio on record to call for a constitutional convention."

A resolution now before the General Assembly would urge a constitutional convention for the purpose of setting aside the "one man-one vote" decision.

"The one-man, one-vote decision of the court simply demands that the intentions of the framers of the constitution be carried out, and that each voting citizen have an equal share in the conduct of the government," said Brothers, who ran for the Senate in the new 16th District last year.

"The decison of the court is sound," he said, "and any proposal to change the concept of one man-one vote should be opposed as against the best interest of all of us."

call it the Human Resources era:

"Unlike the agriculture and manufacturing eras, when workers were primarily concerned with transforming natural resources into useful products for their fellowman, workers of the postmanufacturning era—The Human Resources Era—will obtain their employment because of intellectual attainments."

The Ohio Board of Regents estimates by 1975 professional jobs will be 15 per cent of the labor force while farm jobs will decline to four per cent and manufacturing will hold even at 13 per cent.

In a final projection the increase by 1975 in brain occupations—professionals, managers, clerical, sales — will leap to 49 per cent of the labor market compared to 18 per cent in 1900.

Brown jobs—factory, farm, laborer, services — will slip from 84 per cent of the labor market in 1900 to 52 per cent in 1975.

Predictions by Battelle of the trend in these categories through 1975 call for the brain jobs — those demanding good elementary, secondary and higher education training — will show even bigger increases. Jobs demanding professional and technical training will jump by 112 per cent while openings for craftsmen and factory foremen will go up only five per cent.

The Battelle Report describes the Human Resources Era as:

• Increased economic activity because of the population growth. The U.S. population is expected to jump from 195 million in 1965 to 223 million by 1975. The population bulge will have an increased proportion of persons in the young adult age group.

• By 1975 white collar occupations — professional, technical, managers, clerks and sales workers — will take 55 per cent of the jobs in the U.S. (The report's estimate is six per cent higher than the Ohio Board of Regents' prediction.) The number hired as operatives will decline as a result of the automation of routine operations.

• The Gross National Product (GNP)—the total value of all goods and services produced—will go up to $950 billion by 1975. This implies that from 1965 to 1975, the yearly growth rate of the GNP will be 42 per cent, higher than the long term growth of 2 8 percent measured between 1929 and 1964.

• Income available to the average family will increase. By 1975, 30 per cent of the households will have yearly paychecks of over $10,000. This is compared to 5.1 per cent earning the figure in 1950 and 6.8 per cent in 1960.

• As the Human Resources Era evolves in the mid-1970's, manufacturing is expected to reverse the long-term pattern of gaining increasing proportion of total employment. Battelle's projections indicate that manufacturing employment will decline from 27 per cent of total employment in 1960 to 23 per cent in 1975.

As a final illustration, white collar workers are expected to outnumber blue collar workers two-to-one, a complete reversal of the statistics of several years ago.

What does education have to do with this change in labor trends, GNP, salaries, and the Human Resources Era?

Economists think it has played—and will play—a big role in making these changes come true.

Dr. Robert L. Darcy, director of the Center for Economic Education at Ohio University, quoting an economics study, said education contributed to 23 percent of the growth rate in the spendable national income from 1929-1957.

Darcy projected the rate to the present and came up with this figure: Education accounted for about $10 billion of the $42 billion increase in the national income for 1965.

Where does Ohio stand in these trends of GNP, education and the new Human Resources Era?

The Battelle researchers indicate the state has a lot of catching up to do.

The figures show Ohio is slower catching up to the new era than the other states in offering jobs in the professional, technical field — the growing area of future business. Ohio still clings to its top heavy manufacturing base.

Economists predict that if the Ohio trends continue, job opportunities will decline substantially in the state while going up in the rest of the nation. The state will be outstripped by its neighbors in the race to keep up with the changing business-economic forces.

Signals already are up.

Ohio ranks 23rd in the nation in education attainment by its residents. Fifty per cent of the people in the state have nearly 11 years of schooling, and only 10 per cent have college degrees.

Part of the blame has been on the attitude of state and local governments to provide more money to schools.

Figures from the Center on Economic Education show Ohio ranks 45th in the nation in general spending on education per $1,000 of personal income. The state ranked 39th in 1962, a drop of six places in four years.

Ohio ranks 46th in per capita pupil support.

At the same time, the state stands fifth in the nation in personal income.

Public officials, educators and economists argue the value of spending the millions on education compared to the results.

A University of Chicago professor researching the question has computed the return on public spending for education compared with increased sales and tax payments reaped by merchants and local and state treasuries.

Dr. Theodore Schultz showed the return on an elementary education ranges from 35 per cent to 50 per cent. High school educated persons return 16 per cent to 28 per cent on the cost of secondary programs. And college graduates returned about 10 to 12 per cent.

Businessmen are convinced of the benefits of education vs. income, and spending.

"There's no doubt in my mind," said Blaine Ebert, vice president for personnel at Columbus' big Lazarus department store, "The man who has an education can get his foot in the door today where a man with only experience and no degree has little chance."

And on spending by the high-paid worker:

"It's a known fact that the savings level does not go up appreciably when a man jumps in salary. It means he is merely spending more of what he earns."

As for the growing trend toward the Human Resources Era, Dr. Martin Essex, State Superintendent of Public Instruction summed up the picture:

"There's no market for brawn anymore."

Civic Club Meeting Last For Summer

By ISA BARRETT

The Reynoldsburg Civic Club was entertained by Mrs. Barbara Lawson on Tuesday, at the home of her mother, Mrs. Lee Lockhart, who lives near Westerville. A casserole lunch was served after which Mrs. Evan Williams, vice president, conducted the meeting.

The club voted $50 to aid a local worthy boy with his college expenses. It was reported that Bverly Shade, our American Field Service girl, will leave in two weeks for Peru. Mrs. Louise Rowe, a former president of the club now living in Illinois, was present. Miss Elaine Bush, daughter of Mrs. Louise Platter, was a guest. About 30 women were present.

New officers were installed by Mrs. H. K. Steckel in a very impressive manner. Officers installed were: president, Rosalee Whittington; vice president, Evelyn Williams; recording secretary, Louise Platter; corresponding secretary, Carolyn Sabin; treasurer, Mrs. Freda Feucht. Mrs. Stickel presented each officer an African violet. The club then adjourned until September.

Mrs. Phyllis Pugh and Mrs. Betty Burkey entertained a few friends of Miss Ethan Berry on Wednesday afternoon, June 7, at the Pugh home on Graham-rd. Guests were Mrs. Mary Durant, Mrs. Beulah Gamenfelter, Mrs. Alice Stockdale, Miss Rachel Graham, Mrs. Eleanor Stockdale, Mrs. Isa Barrett, and the guest of honor Miss Berry.

Mrs. Robert Naayers, Sr., is a patient in Doctors Hospital. She has been in surgery but is in satisfactory condition.

Elbert Webber, who has spent most of the past year in Mt. Carmel Hospital, was returned there last week for more foot surgery..

Mrs. David Campbell is in Grant Hospital.

The First United Presbyterian Church observed its sesquicentennial last week. Speakers at the various Sunday meetings were Dr. J. Paul Graham of Salem, Ohio; Rev. Paul R. Spierling, Rev. H. Glenn Stephens, a former pastor, and Rev. Rowland White, moderator of Columbus Presbytery.

Among former members present were Dr. and Mrs. John Hibbs of Wooster, Ohio; Miss Betty Hibbs, Rev. and Mrs. H. Glenn Stephens, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Graham of Waverly, Ohio; Mrs. Gordon Evans of Cleveland, Ohio, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Karnes.

Mr. and Mrs. Wendall Tolbert had house guests, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Cox of Richmond, Va., from Wednesday until Friday last week. Mrs. Cox is a former schoolmate of Mrs. Tolbert at Wooster, Ohio.

On Friday, Mr. and Mrs. Tolbert and Mr. and Mrs. Cox went to Wooster for the 40th reunion of their graduating class. Thirty-eight percent of their class was present. The regular alumni met Saturday on the campus, and the class of 1927 met at "Gay Acres" for its reunion. The Tolberts returned home Sunday evening.

Cap Trustees Approve Plans For Schaaf Hall Addition

A 262-man dormitory addition will be added to Capital University's Schaaf Hall on College Avenue.

The Capital Board of Trustees authorized the addition last week along with accepting preliminary design for a major library building.

The addition will provide an additional 50,000 square feet of air conditioned residential space and will be opened in time for the 1968-69 school year. Total cost will be $1.3 million.

The new library will be built near E. Main Street between Lehmann Hall and the Science Building. It will enclose 84,000 square feet, accommodate 840 students at a time and provide space for 30,000 volumes.

Before the library can be built, however, the $1 million Learning Center will have to be completed and historic Recitation Hall will be razed. This is scheduled for about 1970.

The Columbus Academy property, purchased by the Board last year, was discussed. Recommendations were approved for a lighted varsity football stadium, a hockey field, tennis courts, a softball diamond and archery range.

In other action, the board:

- Authorized renovation and improvement of 40-year-old Ackermann Hall, which houses 85 women.
- Heard a progress report on the Central Cooling Station, which will serve the entire campus when completed.
- Approved a course of study for 1967-68 which includes courses for both under-achievers and superior students.
- Made plans for an Oct. 14-15 meeting of the Capital University Association, a group consisting of more than 100 representatives of the Ohio, Michigan and Eastern districts of the American Lutheran Church.

North, East Summer Loops In Full Swing

By BOB WHITMAN
Spectator Staff Writer

Preparation for next baseball season's title runs got under way with the start of the summer Leagues last week.

"This league is for boys who will be eligible to play on the school team next spring," said Whetstone coach Paul Eckelberry.

"This is the time to experiment for next year," Paul added.

IT WAS just last summer that Eckelberry worked out a winning combination which took the Whetstone fortunes to the semi-final round of the Ohio High School State Baseball Tournament.

Eckelberry's Braves amassed a 15-0 summer loop record and loom as a large threat in the North Summer High School League this year with only two boys missing from the starting lineup, which brought Whetstone within two games of the State Championship.

BUT A chance to duplicate last summer's impressive record has already been scotched by Arlington on opening night as the Golden Bears tripped Whetstone, 8-7, in the first of two games. The Braves stepped back in the win circle quickly with a 10-0 nightcap victory.

The Braves host Worthington Tuesday and Watterson Wednesday of next week following a Monday bye because Brookhaven dropped out of the league.

In other North Summer League action:

MONDAY: North at Arlington, Watterson at Worthington, and DeSales at Grandview.

TUESDAY: Arlington at Watterson, North at Grandview.

WEDNESDAY: Arlington at Grandview, DeSales at Worthington.

Over on the east side of town two divisions are going strong with the same purpose to mold a winning contender for next season.

In the east, the co-champion of the Central District, Bishop Hartley, is working but without the ease of Whetstone. Veteran Jack Ryan has to put together a good portion of his Regional Runner-up battlers.

Gone from his fine 21-6 season is an entire infield and a pitching staff. So the man of 30 summers will have one of his mightier chores.

Eastmoor visits Hartley Thursday and the Hawks venture to Northland Friday and come back to match Catholic League newcomer Wehrle Tuesday.

Other loop action:

TONIGHT: East at Gahanna, Northland at Reynoldsburg, Wehrle at Walnut Ridge.

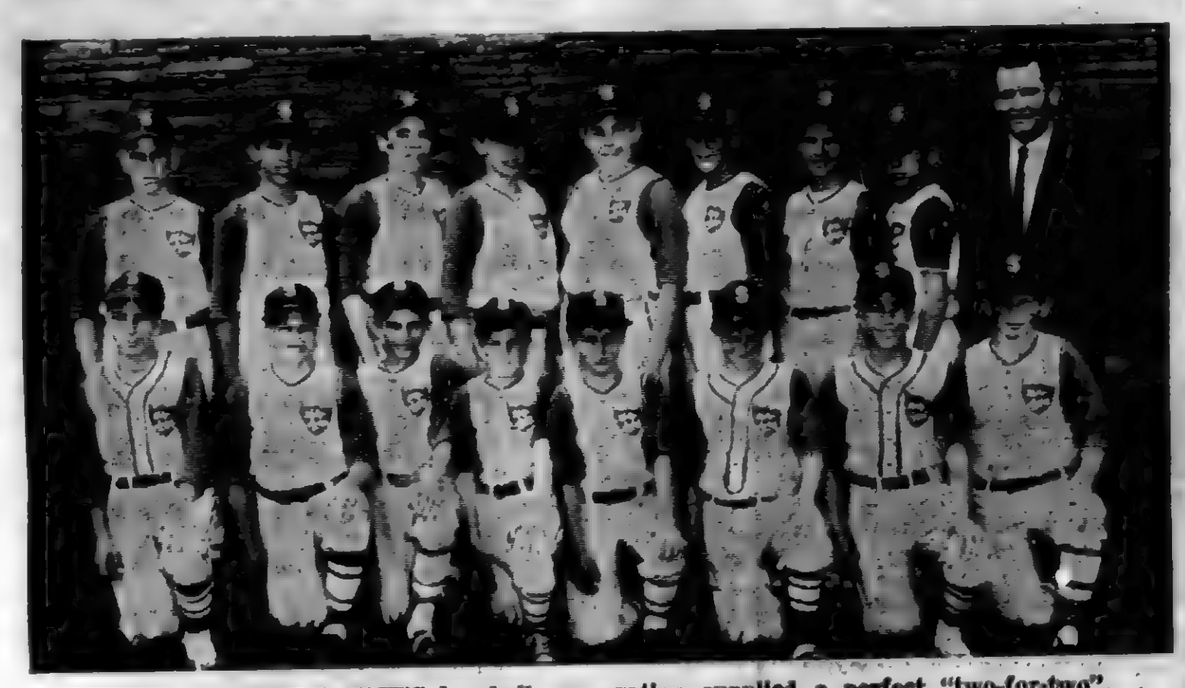
FRIDAY: Gahanna at Wehrle, Reynoldsburg at Eastmoor, Walnut Ridge at East.

TUESDAY: Northland at Gahanna, East at Reynoldsburg, and Eastmoor at Walnut Ridge.

All action starts at 5:30.

American Legion league play also started last week with action slated for Wednesday nights and Sunday afternoon. The season will run from June 11 to July 12 with the district tournament starting on July 17.

Grove City's Paschal Post 98 is the defending State Champion.

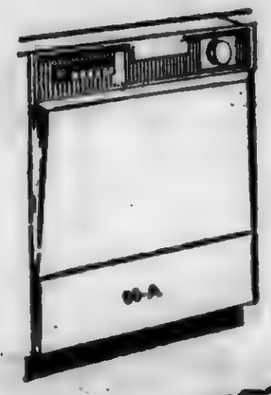


Locke Named C-W Football Coach

Michael Locke was named 1967 grid coach at Canal Winchester High School Monday by Carl Miller, superintendent of Canal Winchester schools.

The 28-year-old Locke is a graduate of Bluffton and a native of Franklin, O.

For the past four seasons, Locke has served as assistant coach at North Union High School.



He is married and has two children ages four and five.

HOLY SPIRIT'S baseball aggregation supplied a perfect "two-for-two" effort on the diamond this spring with both varsity and reserves turning in championship efforts. Above are members of Jim Cameron's varsity club whose 8-1 mark tied Christ the King for the title in the Hartley Division of the Rambler League. Kneeling (from left) are: Pat Martino, Brian Hughes, Mike Jenkins, Matt Sherman, Dave Heinmiller, Mike Toomey, Joe Martino, and Stan Lopinsky. Standing: Mike Devlin, Paul Jenkins, John Federer, Tom Krebs, Glen Blanton, Rob Trojack, Mike Richardson, Steve Aprile and coach Jim Cameron. Coach Tom Krieger's reserve crew (picture below) turned in a 6-0 mark. Kneeling (from left) are: Jim Stal, Butch Diltz, Jim Boller, Pat Werther, Craig May and Jim Ryan. Standing: coach Krieger, Allen Justice, Dan Carroll, Bob Erney, Jim Erney and Phil Aprile.

'67 Holy Spirit Nines Enjoy Banner Season

The 1967 Holy Spirit baseball team shared the title in the Hartley Division of the Rambler League this spring for the third time in five years.

This year Holy Spirit tied for the crown with Christ the King, each having 8-1 records.

IN THE only meeting between the co-champs, Holy Spirit downed C.K. by a 4-3 score. St. Ladislas upset H.S. in the last game of the year 5-2 to set up the co-championship.

The red and white starting nine banged the ball at a .313 clip to set a school offensive record. Mario Aloise was the individual pace-setter with a .586 B.A. and 22 runs batted in.

Mike Devlin, Steve Aprile, Mike Jenkins, Tom Krebs, Paul Jenkins, Dave Heinmiller, and Stan Lopinsky all hit the ball at over .300.

THE '67 team also set team records in league scoring (110 runs) and stolen bases with 138. Other offensive leaders were Rob Trojack in doubles, and Paul Jenkins in home runs.

The Holy Spirit mound corps consisted of Mike Devlin Mike Jenkins, Brian Hughes, Matt Sherman and Paul Jenkins.

Devlin had two no-hit games to his credit and at one time during the season went a total of 21 innings without allowing the opposition a hit.

GOOD PITCHING, coupled with excellent team fielding, allowed only 17 runs in the league play and produced four shutouts.

Of this year's team, 17 players will be back in 1968, including five starters and three pitchers. All of the returnees gained valuable playing experience on Holy Spirit's first reserve squad.

The undefeated reserves were coached by Tom Krieger, who led them to a 6-0 record. Matt Sherman and Mike Toomey handled most of the pitching chores, while Jim Boller, Dan Carroll, Butch Diltz, Craig May and Pat Werther provided the needed batting punch.

THEIR TEAM record of 6-0 also included one game with no errors and one game allowing no hits by the opposition.

Last Monday the Holy Spirit Athletic Association held its annual treat for the two champions—a picnic at Goldcliff in Circleville where they enjoyed themselves roller skating and swimming and also received awards given to them.

VA Home Loans Expire July 25

By DON FREEMAN
Real Estate Editor

The VA mortgage has yielded some of the limelight to FHA and a broader conventional financing market these days, but it alone pioneered a better way of life through improved housing for thousands of GIs in the post war years.

Freeman

Since the start of the program in Franklin County, for instance, 25,233 loans have been guaranteed by the Veterans Administration totaling $272,463,399.

And on July 25th, the VA program will have reached a significant phase — it will mark the end of VA benefits for World War II veterans.

Columbus officials are not anticipating much of a last-minute rush for applications because most of the veterans have reached the stages in life where they have either already taken advantage of the VA benefits or they no longer need the monetary assist.

But there is one clear message they do want to get across: July 25 is the deadline for home-loan rights to World War II veterans.

To qualify as a World War II veteran, you must have been on active duty between Sept. 16, 1940, and July 26, 1947. You must have served at least 90 days unless discharged sooner because of some disability resulting from your service.

Anyone dishonorably discharged is not eligible.

The general rule is that VA eligibility lasts for 10 years from the day you were discharged plus an additional year for each three months of active duty in World War II.

Say you served two years in World War II and were discharged June 15, 1945. Your VA entitlement expired June 15, 1963, which is 10 years plus 8 years from the date of your discharge.

But say you served four years. Under the formula, you might think you would be eligible until June 15, 1971, which is 10 years plus 16 from June 15, 1945.

You're wrong. Congress has set a cutoff date of this coming July 25 for all World War II veterans, including those who otherwise would be eligible past that date.

Some veterans or their widows may still be eligible until July 25, even though their eligibility appears to have expired under the formula. These include:

—Veterans discharged for service-connected disabilities.

—Widows of veterans who died from service-connected disabilities. The widow, however, must not be remarried.

—Widows of veterans who were discharged because of a service-connected disability but died later of some other cause. Again, the remarriage rule applies.

—Veterans who have already used a VA mortgage but who have their eligibility restored. These include veterans who, through no fault of their own, were forced to sell their homes, for reasons of health, employment, condemnation proceedings or "other compelling reasons."

Veterans whose homes have been taken for government use or destroyed by natural causes may also have their eligibility restored.

CHEMICAL HAIR STRAIGHTENERS

Hair that is too curly is really no problem at all today. There are new and positively marvelous chemical hairstraighteners available. Unlike the old types we used to know, these do not dry the hair and cause breakage. They leave the hair softer and more resilient than ever before. They are excellent if your hair is just a wee bit too curly to suit your taste.

THE BOLD SPIRIT!

The bold spirit in fashion is for a definite fashion type. Not everyone is suited to it. Just those who are independent enough to want to be first with what is refreshingly new, but apt to end up influencing a lot of hairstyles and clothes a lot of people will wear. Any fine salon, like ours, will dress your hair anyway you want us to. But we are in 7th heaven when you allow us to use our magic to create some wonderful fashion miracle.

LIVE DANGEROUSLY!

1968 will be here before you know it. Don't follow the leader this year — be an individual. Salons like ours are set up to do this for you. Most salons hesitate to give advice for fear of offending you, dear patron. We try very hard to please you. We may shrink when you bring us a picture of a hairstyle which we know will not be becoming to you, but we know that you have accustomed yourself to believing your magazine editors who do not know you at all, rather than us who know you so well. We'd like to advise you when the color hair you select is not right for you. This year, we'd like you to work with us as experts. Let's work as a team. We promise not to let you down. A team composed of you and all the artists in your favorite salon.

Western Holds Contest

A safety poster contest for the children of Western Electric and Bell Telephone Laboratories employes is being conducted through June 23.

On - or -off- the - job safety posters will be made in order "to extend the concept of safety consciousness into the home," according to Richard K. Lowe, contest chairman.

"We devote a great deal of effort to create employe awareness to both on and off the job safety but we feel the responsibility to join with school and other local safety officials to carry this awareness into the family," Lowe said.

"We believe that the best place to develop safety consciousness is in the home and especially among young people who will carry these impressions with them throughout their lives," he added.

There will be three divisions for judging entries—5th, 6th and 7th graders; 8th and 9th graders and 10, 11th and 12th graders. The winner in each division will receive a $25 United States Savings Bond. while the four runners-up in each group will be awarded ribbons. Results will be announced at a reception for contestants and their parents to be held at the Columbus Works, 6200 E. Broad-st, June 25.

The three winning posters will be produced and used in a plant-wide safety program.

Cowboys, Devils, Scots Gain Two All-City Berths Each

Loop co-champion West, Marion-Franklin and Walnut Ridge shared domination of the 1967 All-City baseball squad last week with two members each on the first team.

The Cowboys, who tied East for the crown, picked up spots via senior batterymates — catcher Ted Decker and pitcher Jeff Clark.

M-F'S SENIOR first sacker Dana Zartman and junior hurler Eddie Reeves gained first-team berths as did Walnut Ridge second baseman Ron Fish (senior) and shortstop Roger McElroy (junior).

Rounding out the starting lineup are North's Jeff Purdy (senior third baseman), Whetstone's Bud Jenkins (senior outfielder), Linden's Don Schlaechter (junior outfielder) and Brookhaven's Bill Kale (senior outfielder).

SECOND TEAM

CATCHER—Garnett Davis (East); pitchers—Myron Williams (North) and Edkie Byrd (East); infielders—Greg Cartier (Eastmoor), Steve Tharp (West), Charles Armstrong (Brookhaven) and Rich Clouse (Whetstone); outfielders — Doug Sickmeier (West), Joe Smith East) and Rick Caruso (North).

HONORABLE MENTION

rolled up a 33-11 overall mark including a 25-4 record in loop play.

THE CHRIST the King dynasty began in 1954 under the direction of Bill Gleich, who piloted seven Christ the King contenders, six of whom won titles. Gleich amassed an impressive 80-15 record with a 49-6 league mark.

High period in Christ the King under Gleich was a run of four title-winners from 1957 to 1960.

IN BETWEEN Teeters and Gleich was Bob Capauno, who guided the CTK fortunes from 1960 to 1965 for a 76-23 mark including three title teams.

Shrewd mathematics or any other measuring guide points to Christ the King's prominence on the diamond.

Few if any schools have come along to match a seemingly matchless mark of 189-49 and 11 titles in 14 seasons.

That's why the green hat is a symbol of distinction.

Little Bucks' Tom Ellifritz Army-Bound

Veteran Little Buckeye guard coach Tom Ellifritz will be available to the perennial Little League grid champions only on a part-time basis this coming season, Little Buck Athletic Director Tom Krieger announced this week.

Ellifritz, who has been with the Little Buckeyes for five years, departed Monday for his six-month sojourn with the U.S. Army.

Ellifritz will rejoin the gridders during his leave time when the Little Bucks begin tryouts and practices Aug. 18.

He hopes to return before the team's annual Bowl Game campaign starts in late November.

Color Grade School Diamond Loop Green For 11th Time

By BOB WHITMAN
Spectator Staff Writer

It didn't happen until the last game of the season but Christ the King, the New York Yankees of grade school diamond society, captured its 11th baseball crown in 14 years.

A dab of luck entered into the picture this season as St. Ladislas tripped Holy Spirit, 5-2 to give the Cougars a title share after Holy Spirit upset Christ the King's perennial champions, 4-3 earlier in the season.

CHRIST THE KING followed on its winning ways after its lone league defeat with a commanding 9-1 win over St. Ladislas, who harbored no grudge and assured the Cougars a slice of the Hartley Division title.

Leading the power parade of the 14th Christ the King edition were stout sluggers Jim Wile, a talented .488 hitting centerfielder, surprise - package Steve Leslie, who rapped out a .324 mark and catcher Blaine Reynolds with a .383 stick and a team leading 26 RBI total.

LESLIE'S BEST contributions came from his strong pitching help as he ripped off a pair of no-hitters en route to a 5-1 pitching mark.

Leslie was heaven-sent to Cougar coach Walter Teeters, who came into the season searching for a back-up man for lone returning hurler Ricky Passero. Passero, a .340 hitter, finished the season with a 4-4 mark.

CAPTAIN GERRY Weisgerber kept the infield sturdy at shortstop and along with Passero gave Christ the King a potent double play combination. Weisgarber batted .333.

RETURNING FOR next season will be starters Mike Roesch, Jim Chellis, Jim Saas, part-time starter Ron Whitman and Larry Woerner, Jim Clark, Tom Van Eman, Terry Ellifrizt and Jimm Kellams.

Teeters just completed his third year at the Christ the King helm and annexed his second impressive championship to the list of Christ the King accomplishments.

Teeters, who has manned the '65, '66 and '67 Cougars, has

Fishin' Facts

In many cases, fishermen have become overly dependent on the use of snap connectors and swivels. While they simplify and speed plug-changing chores, they may hamper action on certain lures.

Effectiveness of many surface plugs and jigs depends on action imparted by the angler. A dangling swivel can dampen the effect of a sharp rod twitch, and even a short wire leader can cause the same lackadaisical response.

THE FISHING experts recommend tying leaders directly to eyes of surface plugs or splicing in a length of extra heavy monofilament when dealing with toothy fish.

For trolling or casting diving plugs that rely on continuous pull for action, swivels and snaps are always advisable.

When selecting a plug or spoon for the day's first cast, carefully check the water and sky. If the water's clear, pick a dull color and finish; for murky conditions, choose bright finishes and vivid colors.

THE SAME applies when considering which way to go when the sky is blue or overcast. Just remember: go the opposite way . . . most of the time.

Many plug casting problems encountered with modern fiberglass fishing rods involve sticking ferrules. Never twist rod sections to free balky ferrules.

Head Start Passes From Infancy;

Two years ago "Head Start" came to Franklin County.

A program to ready children for kindergarten, it was greeted hesitantly.

THE MORE conservative immediately distrusted it — after all, wasn't a federally subsidized project for four-year-olds getting awfully close to the "cradle to the grave" concept?

Some parents weren't too flattered with the idea the home wasn't adequately preparing their children for schools, and others looked upon it, at best, as free baby-sitting.

Teachers and school administrators frankly didn't know what to expect.

BUT TODAY Head Start is acknowledged as the fair-haired program of the War on Poverty.

About 3,000 children are now "graduates" and while local administrators are yet unable to give complete statistical evaluation, parents' reaction is summed up by a mother who wrote to Sister Elizabeth Clair, director of the Diocesan Head Start program.

"It's a blessing from heaven," she stated, describing her daughter as a child who in Head Start had learned to become independent and more observant of the world around her, had learned to share, respect her own belongings and those of others and to work and play with other children.

THE HANDICAPS some of the Head Start students have had to overcome to be able to meet their contemporaries on even footing differ widely.

It is difficult for a middle or upper class family to realize a five-year-old may not be toilet-trained, another may have never seen an orange, a third doesn't know the difference between red and green and the longest sentence others hear at home is, "Shut up!"

Also, the health problems that have been covered range from the fairly common one of the need for dental care to the more upsetting ones of head lice and scalp ringworm to shockingly unattended problems of congenital deformities, heart and kidney disease and hernia.

IT WAS learned that only 20 per cent of the children have completed the immunization series for polio, smallpox, tetanus, diphtheria and typhoid that are required by law.

This summer a report from the OSU Evaluation Center being prepared at the request of Miss Dorothy Diehl, director of Head Start and related programs in Columbus Public Schools, will be completed.

Howard Merriman, who is in charge of the evaluation, explained that an attempt to measure the success of Head Start (in the area of health, muscular coordination, emotional adjustment, and general learning as evidenced by attention span and interest in art) is difficult.

THIS, HE STATES, is because few norms have been established in the past for the pre-school child.

However, other studies have indicated that these children have made up some of the lag.

Sister Elizabeth Clair is even more positive in her evaluation. She claims that with the exception of those children who will always be "slow learners" picture tests show that the students are advancing from one to one-and a half years within nine months.

MISS DIEHL refuses to attach too much importance to the charge that a regression is noted in children within a year after Head Start.

She believes it is impossible to test the long range benefits of the program which can mark the beginning of attitudes and traits that will be carried through a lifetime.

A fringe benefit of Head Start that is not generally known is the work being done with the families of the children enrolled.

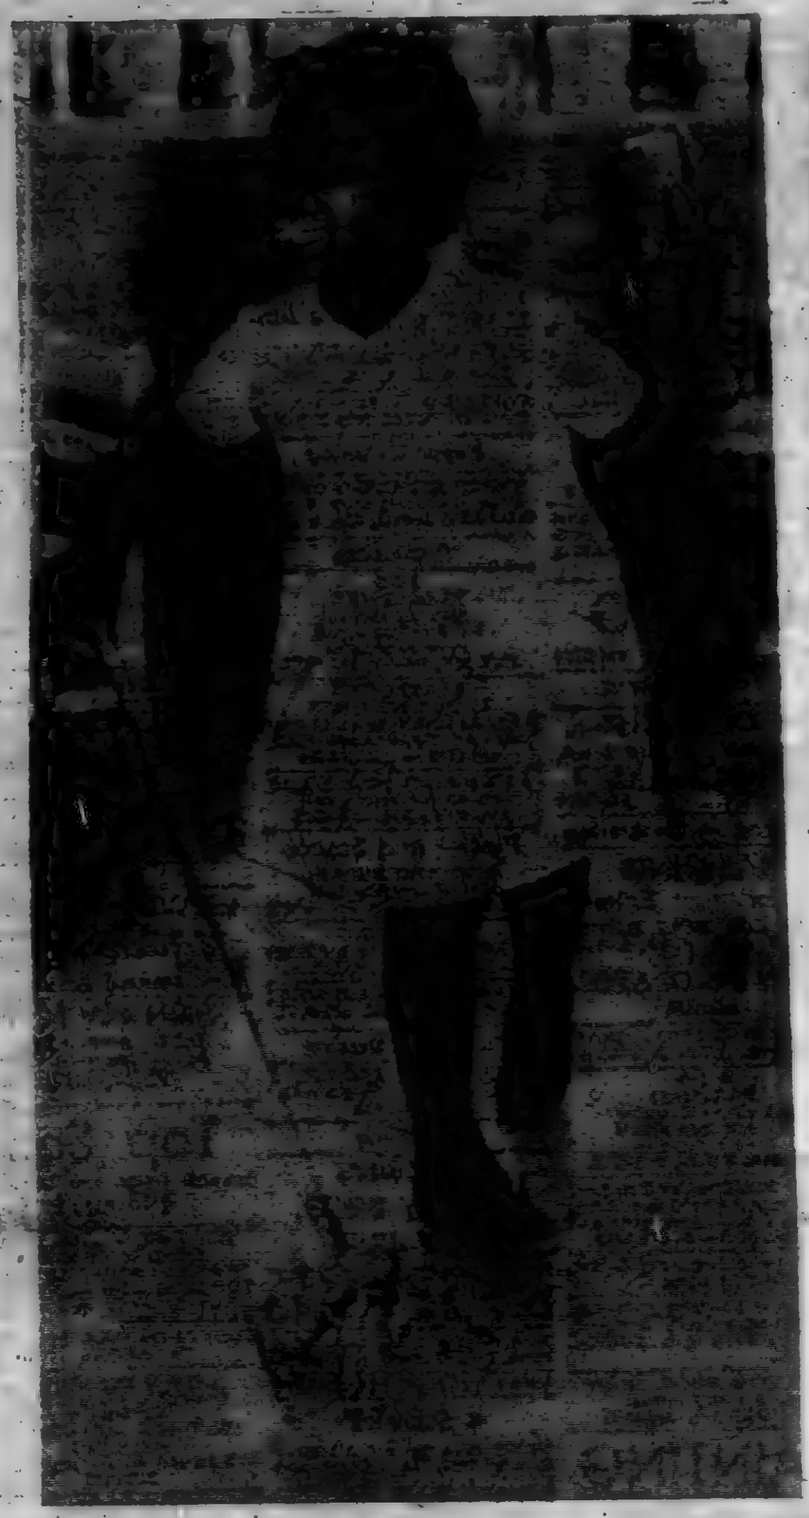
CLOTHING has been provided, job-training has been secured, psychological testing offered and mothers' clubs formed.

The one point made by everyone involved in Head Start is that it is not based on a kindergarten concept.

Rather, it is a program designed, in the words of Mrs. Lyndon Johnson, as a "hand extended in the darkness" to the little ones living in the world of "underprivilege."

Band time is a happy time at the Urbancrest Elementary School where the South-Western School District offers Head Start to children from the neighborhood and Franklin Village.

The hot lunch served at Head Start not only answers a nutritional need but introduces many children for the first time to food other than that which "comes between two slices of bread."



Color barriers and parental prejudices are forgotten when two little girls have pictures to draw, games to play and puzzles to work together.

A result of playing with other children for the first time in his life delighted teachers recently when one young man stood up before a PTA meeting and recited a verse he had learned. When entering Head Start he had been so withdrawn that he had not spoken a word for the first few weeks.

Has It Met Its Original Promise?

What little girl doesn't like to play house? As this child merrily sweeps along, teachers are observing other children in the ever-sized doll house where they go through the motions of housekeeping and child care. Significantly, perhaps, some of the dolls are treated with tender, loving care, and others rejected.

Making an attractive tableau as they exercise to music, these children bring home the point that rural poverty is different than that found in the inner city. At the Urbancrest Center the children are exceptionally well-dressed reflecting the talents of non-working mothers who enjoy making a frock from a remnant.

Story And Photos By Jane Robinson

Although the doll house in which the little girls spend so much of their time (it appears to be "no man's land" with the boys avoidin git like poison) is a source of pleasure to most of the "little women," there is one danger which teachers watch. The very shy can use it as a shell into which they can crawl, avoiding the friendly voice of the teacher, the laughter of more boisterous playmates, the shared learning experiences—all the social experiences which can make or break a Head Start program.

This youngster dismounted his bicycle long enough to try his hand at the blackboard. Still a little confused on the difference between a circle and a square, he is being taught the attitudes which can help him from becoming a square peg in a round hole when he enters kindergarten next year.

MALE HELP WANTED

Unusual Opportunity . . .

to join top management team of a dynamic, progressive Ohio-based company in the communications field.

We have an immediate opening for the right man to direct a 12-member display advertising staff of one of the nation's largest group of suburban newspapers.

If you have a proven record in sales and administration and are accustomed to high earnings, this could be the opportunity of a lifetime. The right man can virtually write his own ticket with a company going places in the newspaper, radio, television and CATV industries.

Don't waste your time or ours unless you are now in the $15,000 to $18,000 a year bracket and qualified to make more—much more. If you are not now in that earnings category but have a proven record that can bear rigid investigation, we will be glad to consider your application.

Send complete details in confidence in first letter. No phone calls, please.

The Club Doctor

By Muriel Miles

DEAR CLUB DOCTOR: I need a woman's advice. My question: Don't most women attend club meetings more for the socializing aspect than for any other?

Wouldn't they, for example, be more interested in seeing demonstration on make up than a program directly related to the purpose of the organization?

BUSINESSMAN

DEAR BUSINESSMAN: Prefer a demonstration on make up? Sir, without the aid of a pencil you have raised a multitude of eyebrows.

The complexion varies from group to group. There are some that apply their socializing so heavily that they clog up their purpose. Usually they complain of attendance acne.

But there are many more with a deft touch at blending enjoyment with dedication. They would never allow eyeshadow to overshadow the important problems in their community. Their programs, like cosmetics, have a good foundation.

DEAR CLUB DOCTOR: How can I get more discussion going at our meetings? I always ask if anyone has any questions. No one ever has, not at the meeting. Then as soon as it's over a few people invariably come up to me to discuss some action that was taken. I finally asked why they didn't bring up their ideas AT the meeting. But I received only lame excuses.

PUZZLED PRESIDENT

DEAR PUZZLED: It's the impersonal query that's making them leery. Some are embarrassed to try. "Maybe I'll make a fool of myself." "How should I word the question?" "Will it mark me a moron if I ask? Everyone else seems to understand."

Fire a few direct questions and you'll break the sound barrier. Like "Lulubelle, what do you think about this?"

Picnic Area Plans Get Go-Ahead

By NANCY LOGUE
Spectator Staff Writer

Whitehall's Parks and Recreation Commission announced its decision to continue with plans for the proposed picnic area in the northwest corner of Orton Davis Memorial Park at a special meeting held last Thursday night.

The commission told members of the Fairway Oaks Home Association, a group that had protested the establishment of the area so close to their homes, that the picnic area is required in order to fulfill the Commission's responsibility to the residents of Whitehall.

"With proper care, it (the picnic area) will not become a hazard or nuisance. If at any time we are unable to control the situation, proper steps will be taken," said John A. Bishop, chairman of the Whitehall Parks and Recreation Commission.

Sixty-five members of the home association signed a petition that protested the establishment of the area because: the area provides a potential lurking place for an individual to hide and observe the homes for the purpose of attack or burglary; the location of the area in relation to the homes represents a fire hazard and a health hazard; it deprives the residents of their right to privacy and that it will bring down their own property value.

Red Goods Ordinance Prompts Disharmony

The constitutionality of Whitehall's ordinance restricting the sale of Communist goods struck a note of discord between Mayor Paul J. Haytcher and councilman Raymond E. Shipley at Tuesday's otherwise harmonious council meeting.

The disharmony occurred when Shipley requested that the ordinance be enforced at a local drug store where balloons and balls, made in Czechoslovakia, were being sold.

The ordinance requires merchants who wish to sell items made in Communist countries to get a license which costs $50 and to place a sign in a front window which reads that Communist goods are sold inside.

Haytcher replied that he advised council when the ordinance was passed several years ago that it was unconstitutional and that other ordinances of this type have not held up in courts of other cities.

"I am more than willing to enforce laws which are constitutional," Haytcher said.

Shipley replied that Haytcher should enforce the laws that Whitehall now has and not to worry about the constitutionality of them and that it was Haytcher's duty as the mayor to have this one enforced.

"I haven't seen it. You have. It is your responsibility as a councilman and a citizen to file an affidavit," Haytcher replied.

In other council action an ordinance was adopted that authorized the creation of a new waterflow, to alleviate the flooding problems now on East Main Street, by the Director of Public Service and Columbus.

Another ordinance was adopted that authorized the Director of Public Service to accept a deed of easement from Alexander and Rose Ella Watson

New features galore will be brightening The Spectator in the coming weeks.

Next week, The Spectator launches its "Tell Me, Sergeant," column, a question and answer feature for the thousands of military dependents in the Columbus area.

Army and Air Force officials have promised full cooperation to help you solve that problem that's been nagging you.

In the classified pages this week, you'll find the first in a series of weekly listings of area auctions, designed to help you find that item you've been searching for in vain.

Three good reasons why The Spectator is your best family newspaper buy—all week long.

TYPIST GETS AWARD

Mrs. Emily Bush, 1111 Geneva-av, displays a Department of the Army certificate citing her for outstanding sustained performance as a clerk-typist in the 20th U. S. Army Corps Information Office at Ft. Hayes. Mrs. Bush, a federal service employee, has been at Ft. Hayes for six years.

Parham Elected To Chairmanship

L. M. Parhman, superintendent-agent, Columbus Union Depot Co., has been elected chairman of the Railroad Community Service Committee of the Columbus area.

C. G. Gephart, division sales manager of the Baltimore and Ohio, was elected vice chairman. J. M. Reynolds, district freight and passenger representative, Pennsylvania Railroad, was elected secretary.

Plans—

The Commission issued a statement which said that removal of the picnic area would not eliminate the possibility of a potential lurking place but that security lights would be installed and the posted closing time enforced.

With regard to the fire hazard, the members of the commission decided that the grills were safe but during a drought period, they would be removed to insure the safety of the homes.

"It is the responsibility of the Parks and Recreation Commission to keep the picnic area clean and free of trash, garbage and broken glass. If we are unable to control the health and safety hazards the picnic area will be removed," the statement read.

It also said that the right of privacy is each person's responsibility and that removal of the picnic area will not assure privacy of the homeowners.

Finally, it read that there is a chance that it could hurt the resale of the homes but that this was only speculation and removal of the area would not necessarily eliminate this possibility.

Following the announcement of the decision, L. D. Buynak, spokesman for the Fairway Oaks Association Internal Committee, said, "We want to express our appreciation to the Parks and Recreation Commission in particular, and to all the other members of Whitehall's city government who considered the issues set down in our petition and did so with objectivity and a clear lack of emotion. We know yours was a difficult task and we respect you for your efforts."

Tax Bill Unfair

The Ohio Municipal League is somewhat like the United Nations in that the smallest member city casts the same vote as the largest one.

As a result, all of the small cities have ganged up on the large cities and the little ones want the big ones to share their city income taxes with the suburbs. The bill is already moving through the legislature.

The re-apportioned state legislature is also akin to the Ohio Municipal League in that more of its members are from small cities and suburbs rather than big cities.

Irreparable harm can come to the state's major urban areas should the legislation become law.

The income tax that suburbanites pay to the urban centers is little enough for the services the center city makes available. If, as the current legislation proposes, the big cities must return 25 per cent to the place of residence of the taxpayer, the lost funds must be made up from other sources.

Studies show that the greater the percentage of population of a metropolitan area that resides outside of the center city the higher the tax burden center city residents must bear.

Dayton, for instance, with a per capita tax burden of $88.52, ranks as the most heavily taxed of the state's six largest cities. More than 67 per cent of the people in the Dayton metropolitan area live outside the center city.

Columbus, on the other hand, enjoys the lowest per capita tax burden, $41.49. Here, only 38.9 percent of the population resides outside the center city.

The evidence is irrefutable that the core city bears an ever increasing burden of costs for services made available to the suburbanites who work there.

It ill behooves any responsible legislator to support legislation which would sap revenue from the state's already beleagured major urban centers. They need help, not hindrance.

House Bill 290 deserves no more legislative consideration.

Bad Bills

The Rhodes administration has been busily loosing trial balloons in an effort to probe the lines of least resistance to a tax putsch.

This is an open invitation to legislators, businessmen, lobbyists and taxpayers to gang up on two of the proposals:

1. A proposed one percent tax on the gross receipts of business.

2. Legislation which would allow counties to levy up to five percent tax on utilities.

The first proposal, a gross receipts tax, is a sneaky tax. It is hidden from the consumer, paid by the retailer, but passed onto the consumer. It allows the state to gain added revenue, but escape the onus of higher taxes. On some businesses, such a tax would be ruinous.

The proposed county tax on utility bills is another sneak play. It could lead to chaos. It would be levied, primarily, in the large counties where it would hit the person on relief, the pensioner, as well as the wage earner. Utilities are not luxuries, they are the barest of essentials.

The state administration has other sources and means by which to get the job of government done.

All it needs is the guts to do the job—and do it right.

"Here, Tom —— This Worked For A Fellow Back In '52"

No New Taxes?

By ROBERT BURDOCK
Editor and Publisher

Everyone who knows Jim Rhodes knows the governor is a man of his word.

It's just that sometimes it is difficult to ascertain what the word is.

For instance, during his first term the governor endeared himself to the taxpayers by his insistence that there would be "no new taxes." And there were none—during his first term. Now look out.

During his second term, the governor took a forthright stand against a state income tax, vowing there would be no such creature while he reigned.

BURDOCK

But there are a couple of bills eeling their way through the state legislature which indicates the governor was grossly misunderstood again.

One of the bills would permit counties to levy a half percent income tax for general purposes and the other would allow school districts to levy a one percent income tax for education. Both have Rhodes' blessing.

This way everyone in the state would get a chance to pay at least one income tax, possibly two or three, but the governor would still have his vigorous stand. The difference between a statewide income tax and one in each of the 88 counties may be a little difficult for most taxpayers to understand, however that will not be the governor's problem.

It would, of course, be a lot cheaper for the state to levy a single income tax and provide the counties and the school districts the lagging state funds they need rather than allowing each of them to raise their own. Naturally, 88 new income tax collectors are more in step with "jobs and progress."

Finance Director Richard Krabach calls the proposal a "bold new concept" to take the tax burden off property owners. He might have added it is also a "bold new concept" to take the political heat off the governor and the state and put it on the local tax collectors.

Krabach might be interested in seeing a very recent survey by the Spectator Newspapers which revealed that 10 out of 10 property owners also have incomes.

Proud Parents

To The Editor:

This is a note of appreciation to a very large number of very good and faithful friends and neighbors.

My wife and I are proud and thankful knowing there are so many true friends, warm in heart and thoughtful in mind.

Our son, although he is quite able to plead his own cause, was asked to participate in the annual Golden West National Track and Field Meet being held in Sacramento, Calif., June 17.

These good people have taken on themselves the responsibility of paying Pete's way and financing his stay in California.

His friends and classmates in school, the Downtowners Club of Hilliard, neighbors and members of the Hilliard Heights Softball Team all gave, and gave gladly.

These friends will long remain in our memories because of their thoughtfulness and generosity.

Regardless of the outcome of this competition, we and Pete know that this community of friends is behind him and they in turn know that he will do his best for them.

We are proud parents of a fine athlete, a son who has always given of his energy and ability to others. We want all those who read this to know that we are humble and much closer to God through the efforts of all of us.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Miller

(Editor's Note: Hilliard's Pete Miller was chosen two weeks ago as The Spectator's outstanding high school track and field man for 1967.)

Agrees With Paugh

To The Editor:

Read Richard L. Paugh's article in The Spectator dated June 15 and fully agree. I think every car that comes out of Detroit should have fishing poles as standard equipment.

I think every child, boy or girl, should be taught the proper use of guns and above all the fun plus peace of mind a person can get from a river bank or a boat with a fish pole in his hand.

I think the whole trouble is that Mom and Dad are too busy making money or playing whoop-de-do to care about the kids.

marquis childs ★ Picking Up The Pieces ★

CHILDS

Beyond the first phase of picking up the pieces and trying to restore some semblance of order in the Middle East is the achievement of peaceful coexistence between the Arabs and the Israelis. This will not come about if the ostrichism of the past prevails once again when the dust of the latest conflict has settled.

The big maritime users were content with the arrangement under which President Nasser denied transit of the Suez Canal to Israeli ships. After all, it was a technicality. There weren't many such ships in any event. As is now clear, that was an invitation to Nasser's reckless next step in blockading the Gulf of Aqaba. Such a barrier must no be allowed to stand in the future.

What usefulness the United Nations still has is one of the imponderables. If a U.N. presence can be re-established on both sides of key Arab-Israeli borders, with the sanction not merely of the narrow bilateral agreement of the U.N. force in the Gaza Strip, it can serve a useful purpose.

But peace and stability will not be restored if the presence of more than 1,300,000 Palestinian refugees who have been cooped up in squalid camps for nearly 20 years is ignored. This has been a festering wound steadily poisoning the whole area. It is now aggravated by the fact that many of the camps containing perhaps a majority of refugees are in that part of Jordan and the Gaza Strip occupied by Israel.

The rights and wrongs of these helpless people, whose numbers increase each year by about 30,000 have been threshed over innumerable times. The Arab states have consistently refused to consider any settlement short of a return of the refugees to their homeland in Palestine, which is now in the state of Israel.

While Israel has made some concessions, it has never really been more than gestures.

The U.N. has been forced to try under the most painful circumstances to carry the burden. It has been a thankless task, with a succession of administrators of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees taking abuse from every side and forced to pass the cup among the solvent nations of the West just to keep the ever-growing population of the camps alive.

Obviously, this dole system cannot go on. Half of the refugees are children under 18. And despite the best efforts of the U.N. education and technical training are minimal.

What is called for, in the view of observers who know the problem well, is an over-all resettlement and relocation project taking in the whole Mideast. That can be done only with big-power support and with the full cooperation of all countries involved. But short of this the open wound will not be closed.

Merely stating these terms is to make plain how far down the road any such solution is in the continuing turmoil. The most intense feelings have been inflamed. Not only in the Arab states but in much of the underdeveloped world the conviction will persist that whatever the technicalities about the Gulf of Aqaba, the Israelis were the aggressors and their aggression was crowned with success with no intervention by the U.N. or the United States. Such passions among impoverished and discontented people die hard.

william s. white ★ Change Of Tactics ★

WHITE

The Senate's Democratic doves are in an exercise which their critics would term an outright retreat and their supporters no doubt would call an orderly movement backward to prepared positions.

They are no longer speaking, even in private, of running against President Johnson or the war policy and are no longer accentuating the negative.

Instead, they are coming down hard on the positive. They are pointing out that senatorial seats are essential jobs and the business only of the states. In substance they are walking softly on Vietnam while thumping the drum on other, and domestic, issues.

The chairman of the Senate Democratic Campaign Committee, Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine, is helping them off the hook. He is underlining the valid point, so far as it goes, that a Senator has a right to run only as "an individual"; and he has prophesied that very few will "beat their breasts" against the Administration.

One of the more articulate of the doves, Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota, has not only adopted precisely this tactic but has also gone so far as to say that he will run as "President Johnson's ballot mate."

Another, Sen. Frank Church of Idaho, has long since moved closer to the Administration after having some weeks ago worked up a manifesto for himself and other doves which for the first time told the North Vietnamese Communists that they must not suppose that dissent here was equivalent to any proposal that America cut and run from South Vietnam.

Speaking generally, the doves are finding themselves in an increasingly sticky situation. Every poll tells about the same story. The public—and everyone in Washington, too, for that matter — is sick at heart at the seemingly endless nature of the struggle but still is not about to support or even to tolerate any softening of the determined American military stance against the Communist invaders.

Too, the one section of the public upon which once the doves had placed their hopes, the college community, is not itself in a dovish cast of mind, notwithstanding all "demonstrations." A recent Gallop Poll found campus hawks outnumbering campus doves by 49 percent to 35 percent.

It is the old mixture, under the ivy as elsewhere. The shrieking (sic) wheel gets the grease; the shouters get the headlines. But when all is said and done, the collegians, along with the rest of the country, know that the American commitment to the tortured people of South Vietnam cannot be abandoned simply because the going is hard and frustrating.

But an even harder psychological blow has been struck to the cause of the doves in Israel's manful and unapologetic use of straight-out military power to halt Nasser Egypt's aggression in the Middle East. The policy of stand-up-and-fight, when in honor there is no alternative, has been proved and richly honored in the Middle East — and, significantly, by none more than by that liberal American group with which the Vietnam doves prefer to identify.

barry goldwater ★ Victory On A Silver Platter ★

GOLDWATER

The Soviet Union is winning an undeserved victory in the Middle East crisis.

She is winning this victory on a silver platter, handed to her by this administration and by everyone in this country who persists in feeling that "building bridges" to communism outweighs every and all Communist terror, aggression, subversion and outright combat.

At the outset of the Middle East crisis, if only for a moment, there was almost a united revulsion in this country at the obvious fact that the Soviets—through support of such Arab socialist leaders as Gamal Abdel Nasser—had been the guiding hand in the opening of hostilities in the area.

It was almost universally conceded that without Soviet support Nasser could not have and would not have dared go ahead with his blockade of the Gulf of Aqaba, the first round of the crisis.

There was in this golden moment one of the foremost opportunities we ever have had—perhaps ever will have—to expose the Soviet Union fully and finally as the world's Number One troublemaker and the world's only great power which regularly supports violence and lights the flames of war for its own political advantage.

Instead of pressing the case against Soviet aggression, or their support of it, the path of American diplomacy quickly turned to enlisting Soviet support for a cease-fire which, in turn, meant a turnabout soft-pedalling of the Soviet role in starting the war in the first place.

Actually, there is ample reason to believe that the Soviets would have turned deaf ears to our pleas for cooperation except for one telling event — the smashing, quick success of Israeli arms under the leadership of that most remarkable leader and soldier Moshe Dayan.

With the Arab thrust initially blunted, the Soviets, being realistic, looked for gains from the shambles. They were there to be had simply by supporting a cease-fire.

Just how far the Soviet Union is prepared to go in seeking peace depends absolutely upon how hopeless they feel the military cause to be.

Sadly, but in a way understandably, there are many who rush to help them in this. The most sincere of these people, obviously, are doing it on the basis of preferring peace in the Middle East at any price. I happen to feel that they are shortsighted—just as shortsighted as was Neville Chamberlain when he tried to buy peace at any price at Munich. He bought war.

We will just buy delayed trouble, also, unless peace in the Middle East is protected against a repetition of this Communist-backed conflict.

To reward the Soviets with the image of peacemaker in this current situation or to say that their co-operation is "the one bright spot" in the crisis is the same as honoring a criminal who, after blackjacking one victim, says that he will refrain from blackjacking anyone else if you confer upon him the Good Citizenship of the Year award.

The Soviet Union has proved once again to be a bad world citizen in supporting the onset of the Middle East crisis. They should not be eulogized for halting it in the face of military disaster to their side.

'Hostage' Next Stadium Show

Once again Ohio State University's football stadium becomes the setting for Stadium Theater's 18th season of theater.

"Hostage" is the opener which is offered to the public through a conglomeration of characters relating Brendan Behan's curiously unclassified three act play.

What consistent story there is concerns a young British soldier being held as a hostage by the above mentioned Dublinite characters for the safety of an Irish soldier.

Many patrons will delight in the "ditties" typical of Ireland. Others will assuredly be pleased with the audience participation.

Gaudy and simple, sloppy and neat are descriptive of the many costumes adding more flavor to 16 indiyidual unique and never to be forgotten characters.

Acting by both main and supporting roles is quite a challenge. This is met by all, but the true performances as of dress rehearsal on Monday evening belong to adept Robert Spanabel, Barry Witham, Carl Falb, Stephen Conrad and Robert Reed, Lynn Morrow, Meridee Schwartz and Katherine Burkman.

The set, which is a boardinghouse, is so in character with the play and portrayals that a tour should be made to observe the many, many details.

Doing a dialect in fine provided that the audience is given the opportunity to perceive.

This and projection may cause trouble, but not enough to hinder a well presented production in all other areas.

Show time is 8:30 p.m., Thursday, Friday and Saturday at Gate 10.

Tourists Are Treated To Schiller Concert

When the hubbub of Tour Day in German Village ends early Sunday evening, there is still a treat in store for Village guests.

That is offered by the second of the outdoor summer concerts presented at Schiller Park.

FREE TO the public, the program presented by the Columbus Federation of Musicians Concert Band in cooperation with the Columbus Recreation Department will begin at 8 p.m.

Tom Dale, instrumental music teacher at North High School, who is guest conductor, will spotlight youth, who, he believes will be among tomorrow's professionals.

These young musicians all from North High, are Judy Safstrom, flute; Ann Sweety, oboe; Carl Chevallard, baritone horn; and Steve Kirby, tuba.

A FEATURED soloist will be the conductor's son, Tom Dale, Jr., who will play a trombone solo, "Fancy Free" by Clay Smith.

Among the 40 professionals performing are two recent North High graduates, Will Burkey and Fred Tippett.

Included on the program are "Hail to the Fleet," Richard Maltby; Scenes from "The Louvre," Norman Dello Joio; "Fandango," Frank Perkins; "Chorale and Alleluia," Howard Hanson; "Theme for Tomorrow," Fred Kepner.

"THE DRAGOONS of Villars," L. Aime Maillart; "Star Dust," arranged by Sammy Nestico; "Bolero Espano," Ernesto Lacuon; "The World Is Waiting for the Sunrise," Harry Alford, and "Qui Vive Concert March" Richard Fote.

In an area where lots were originally platted with the frugality of another generation the tiny courtyards and gardens are a study in magnificence on a small scale. None is lovelier than that of Mrs. Ruth McCarty at Stimmel and City Park with its glistening ivy, flowering shrubs and hybrid roses.

Wilkommen To G-V

Sunday is the day that annually makes sure German Village stays on the map.

It is the eighth annniversary of the Haus Und Garten Tour that originally put it there with thousands of visitors coming to the area of historical restoration and carrying the word back of what they saw to every state in the nation.

Tour hours have seen set this year from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m. and tickets are available at $2 in the German Village Society office, 624 S. Third.

A NEW WRINKLE has been added to accommodate the thousands of visitors who come to German Village to "case" the area without attempting to actually enter the homes "on tour." Sightseeing buses complete with guides to describe points of interest will be routed through the village on 45 minute tours. Although fare on air-conditioned shuttle buses which serve to take visitors from house to house is included in the price of tickets the "excursion bus" fare will be 50 cents extra.

John Sefrott, as special events chairman, is in charge of the tour, and has announced that 10 private homes will be open as well as five gardens.

The residences are those of Miss Clara Pierce, 170 Jackson; Gerald Ness and Raymond Peterson, Jr., 142 E. Beck (owned by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schmidt.

Mr. and Mrs. Doral Griggs, 565 Grant-av Mr. and Mrs. John Champlin, 606 Rader-al (owned by Robert and Sam Shamansky and Tom Mainoine).

MR. AND MRS. Harold Duryee, 536 Lazelle-st (owned by Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Goodsell); Mr. and Mrs. Wade Smith of 80 E. Columbus-st (owned by Fred Holdridge); Mr. and Mrs. Wilbern Kerr, 532 City Park; The Rev. and Mrs. David Dunning, 850 S. Pearl-st; Mr. and Mrs. John Boyd, 712 S. Sixth-st (owned by Mrs. Marcella Robertson, and Mr. and Mrs. George Hammond, 824 City Park.

LOCAL CAFES and restaurants will also remain open to accommodate tourists in both indoor and outdoor dining areas.

Which Is Which?

The difference between the German Village Society and the German Village Commission is often misunderstood.

The Society is a private, non-profit organization dedicated to the historical restoration of the area.

The Commission is a body appointed by the Mayor to enforce the German Village ordinance, a statute defining Village boundaries and area zoning.

Artists Set Up Tour Displays

One of the many spots in the village where the talent of artist Ivan Pusecker may be seen is in the murals painted in the German Village Society office. A man of versatility Pusecker's portraits, landscapes and still lifes are easily spotted wherever seen.

The Lindenhof, a restaurant where fine cuisine is offered in luxurious surroundings is now in German Village since last year. Bill Scheurer, German Village commissioner, one of the owners of the building (management is leased), points out the century old Linden tree which shades one patio and the balcony. Eleven feet three inches in girth three feet above the ground it is believed to have been brought from the "old country" by one of the early German immigrants who settled the area.

Twenty-three artists will exhibit their work throughout German Village during the Haus Und Garten Tour Sunday.

According to Byron K. Kohn, artist committee chairman for the event, a special attraction this year is a "Wet Painting" contest open to both pros and amateurs — in fact to anyone using any medium as long as the subject is German Village.

THESE WORKS which must be painted during tour day will be judged at Beck Square at 6 p.m. by Professor Richard Phipps of the Fine Arts Department of Capital University. The first, second and third prizes offered are in the amounts of $25, $15 and $10.

Another special event is the exhibition of arts and crafts at the Third Street School by the Senior Citizens.

Following are listed the participating artists and the location in which their works will be exhibited. (Many will be painting on tour day).

BYRON K. KOHN, 532 City Park-av; Louise Lamboley, 170 Jackson-st; Bill Arter, 141 E. Beck-st; Howard Trump, 565 S. Grant-st; Sara Carr, 606 Rader-al; Edward Tracy, 533 Lazelle-st; Hans Rellenbach, 712 S. Sixth-st; Leland S. McClelland and Ned Moore, 824 City Park-av.

Don Dodrill, 150 E. Kossuth-st; Ivan Pusecker, Pusecker Studio, 219 E. Beck-st; Wesley Rothert, 546 City Park-av; David Riegel and William Ollila, 119 E. Willow-st; Pam Webster, and George Snyder, 80 E. Columbus-st.

Nolan Pennell, 835 City Park; Marvin C. Ross, 850 S. Pearl-st; Clark Crawford, 636 S. Fifth-st; Leonard Schwart, Julian Barnett and Peggy Barnett, 820 S. Pearl-st, and Bob Brucken, 515 S. Lazelle-st.

KOHN HAS announced that German Village art will also be displayed at the Downtown Summer Festival of Arts July 26-30 and at the German Village OKTOBERFEST (Fall Festival) the weekend of October 7.

Newsies' 10-Mile Slated For June 25

Columbus' own Charity Newsies will take their annual plunge into the world of professional motorcycle racing June 25 when they sponsor the 10-mile national dirt track championship race at the Ohio State Fairgrounds

This is the 25th year for the Newsies' event which helps purchase clothing for needy Franklin County youngsters.

It has been sanctioned as a national championship event since its 10th anniversary 15 years ago.

Out to become the only four-time winners in the event will be Bart Markel of Flint, Mich., who won the title in 1962, 1964 and last year. Three riders have won the event three times. Everett Brashear won in 1953, 1955 and 1956 while Carroll Resweber won in 1957, 1960 and 1961.

First Ohio rider to win the Newsies' race title was Dick Klamfoth, who took the 10-mile title on the Fairgrounds oval in 1958. Klamfoth repeated his victory the following year.

Other Ohioans to win the race were George Roeder of Monroeville in 1965, Ronnie Rall of Mansfield in 1963 and Paul Goldsmith in 1954. Goldsmith has since gone on to become an outstanding race car driver.

The motorcycle race is one of only two money-making projects sponsored by Charity Newsies each year. In the winter, they conduct their famed newspaper sale.

All funds collected by the Newsies are used to stock the Newsies charity store on S. High Street, where needy youngsters are outfitted completely with new clothing and shoes.

Robert Brown (88) leads Lennie Waldo (52) and Bill Corbin (61) into a turn at last year's Charity Newsies National Championship 10-mile dirt track race at the Ohio State Fairgrounds.

110-Mile Changed

Poor track conditions at Des Moines, Iowa, have forced the relocation of the Aug. 6 American Motorcycle Association 110-mile National to Indianapolis Raceway, Indianapolis, Ind.

The change was announced by Floyd Clymer, promoter of the event.

Thin Sportsmen's Schedule Headed By Race, Scrambles

With the 10-mile national championship race scheduled for Columbus this weekend, the area sportsmen's events tail off for a week.

There are no sportsmen's races scheduled for the immediate Columbus area for the weekend but several meets are on tap in the state and in neighboring states.

The Dayton Motorcycle Club will get the weekend schedule going Sunday with a Formula C Race Meet at the club at 90 Vermont-av, Dayton. The club's telephone number is CR. 5-5317.

Three scrambles are within riding distance for Columbus cyclists.

The Valley Riders of Logansport, Ind., will hold a scramble on Sunday. Their address is 2319 Usher-st and the telephone number is 7625.

The Wild Cat Motorcycle Club of 5908 Boonville Highway, Evansville, Ind., will also stage a scramble Sunday. Their phone number is 476-0366.

Youngstown's Pirate Motor Cycle Club will hold a scramble Sunday on Ohio Route 170 near East Palestine. The club may be reached at 519 Market-st, Youngstown, or by calling area code 216, 744-1325.

At Bryan, Ohio, the Williams County Ramblers Motorcycle Club is staging a poker run on Sunday. The club's address is 121 N. Myers, Bryan, and its telephone number is area code 419, 636-7626.

Nixon On Top Of Standings

Gary Nixon of Baltimore, Md., used a first-place finish in last Sunday's 100-mile AMA National Championship race at Loudon, N.H., to increase his point standing lead over Mert Lawwill of San Francisco.

Nixon leads all AMA drivers with 200 points, while Lawwill, who finished fourth at Louden, is second with 156. Tied for third with 132 points apiece are Buddy Elmore of El Paso, Tex., and George Roeder of Monroeville, Ohio.

Rounding out the top 10 are Dick Hammer of Lakewood, Calif.; Chris Draayer of Salt Lake City; Dick Mann of Richmond, Calif.; Fred Nix of Milwaukee, Wis., and Calvin Rayborn of San Diego, Calif.

Roeder, tops among Ohio drivers, finished 10th in the Louden 100-mile race. He was the only Ohioan to place in the top 20.

United Appeal Says 'Thanks To You'

Thanks to You!

Appreciation for direct services from United Appeal agencies last year will be expressed throughout Franklin County during the 11th annual "Thanks-to-You" Week, June 18-24.

"Thanks-to-You" Week is set aside each year for official thanks to the public by the 69 UA agencies and the Franklin County people who benefit from their services. The slogan for the observance is "Two out of three—that's you and me!"

According to reports for 1966 from the UA agencies who received support from the annual United Appeal campaign, more than 550,000 persons — or two out of three — benefitted directly through health, welfare and recreational services and activities.

Official thanks on behalf of the more than half a million persons who received direct services is being given during "Thanks-to-You" Week by Diane Miller, age six, and her sister, Julie, aged four, daughters of Mrs. Sharon Miller, 410 Stewart-av. The girls are visitors each day at the South Side Day Care Center, 255 Reeb-av, where they receive supervised care and a planned program of play and classes, while their mother works to keep her family together. The South Side Day Care Center is one of six United Appeal day care centers for children of working mothers.

One of the features of "Thanks-to-You" Week will be a Personnel Directors Institute, co-sponsored by United Appeal and United Community Council, June 22 at the American Red Cross, 995 E. Broad-st. Examples of employee problems will be presented by personnel directors and solutions will be offered by panelists from United Appeal agencies.

Area chairmen for the drive who made the announcement were Mrs. John Klages, 2630 Sherwood-rd, East; Mrs. Richard Brentlinger, 330 Tucker-dr, Worthington; Mrs. James Feibel, 6025 Whitman-rd, Reynoldsburg; Mrs. Timothy Lucas, 1282 Wilson-av, South; Mrs. Bruce Tanner, 13 N. Westmoor-av, West and Mrs. Robert Moore, Darby Dan Farm, west, southwest and far west.

Red Cross To Send Ditty Bags To Soldiers

With more than 3,000 persons to shop for, the Franklin County Chapter of the American Red Cross has already begun its Christmas shopping.

The Red Cross set up the project "Red Cross Shop Early —Vietnam 1967" to furnish each able-bodied U. S. serviceman in Vietnam with a Christmas ditty bag.

The Franklin County Chapter has agreed to furnish 3,050 of the 525,000 bags needed. Civic organizations and businesses are providing various materials to fill the bags.

This is the first time since World War II that the chapter has participated in such an activity. Dave Cheses, chairman of the board for the City Janitorial Service Co., Inc., is chairman of the project. Cheses served as chairman of a similar committee during World War II.

Tom Wightman, manager of Lazarus Northland, is chairman of supplies, and Chet Long is advisor.

Wilcox-Roach Opens New Offices

By DON FREEMAN
Real Estate Editor

Wilcox-Roach, 5410 W. Broad-st, is opening two new offices at Lake Choctaw near Springfield, north of Route 40, and in Grove City at 3520 N. Broadway.

Freeman

James L. Wilcox, a partner, said the firm hopes to someday service all of the area west of the rivers and currently has sights set on offices in Hilliard and Dublin.

Now eight years old, the firm also builds Kingsbury Homes on O'Possum Run Road. Robert H. Phillips is new sales manager for the firm. Other partners include Robert A. Wilcox and B. J. Roach.

The firm currently has seven salesmen. Jim Wilcox was recently appointed as a member of the Regional Planning Commission.

A New Venture For Imes

Harry F. Imes, 15 years in the business on the West Side, has plunged into a new venture with his sons—a Florida Division through the Deltona Corp.

His firm, located at 3540 Sullivant, sells sites and homes and commercial establishments for Marco Island, Deltona and Spring Hill. Deltona has completed 11 other communities in the Land-of-the-Sun and the current three are well on their way.

Imes is franchised for Central Ohio covering Franklin, Delaware, Pickaway, Union, Fairfield, Licking and Madison counties.

Imes' 1500 square feet of office space offers rooms for map and film presentation to prospects. After a purchase, inspection trips are provided on a money-back basis if not satisfied.

Helping him are his sons Ron and Richard. Ron and his father recently returned from Spring Hill where a ribbon cutting ceremony was held for Spring Hill. Some 15,000 people were on hand to witness the start and visit the new 1968 model homes. Spring Hill is located on the West coast of Florida, 40 miles north of Tampa. Harry and Ron also spent several days on the fabulous Marco Island, another pre-planned community that Imes represents.

Mrs. Imes is still holding down the fort at 1983 Sullivant to continue their local real estate business.

The Last Call

Tonight is the Big Night for the Columbus Chapter of the Women's Council for NAREB and its benefit card party at the Jewish Center, College Avenue, beginning at 8 o'clock. The public is invited. Proceeds will benefit Project Concern, a medical aid program in South Vietnam.

WATCH SIGNS

The Columbus Auto Club reminds drivers that traffic signs are there for a purpose. It's a sign of good judgment when you obey all traffic signs.

Dr. Cross Elected President Of Ohio Heart Association

Dr. C. Joseph Cross, 2669 Charing-rd, has been elected president of the Central Ohio Heart Association.

Other officers elected are Dr. Neil C. Andrews, president-elect; Everett D. Reese, board chairman; Dr. Charles F. Wooley, vice president; Thomas Heisey, secretary; M. R. Hausman, treasurer, and John E. Myers, assistant treasurer.

Officers of the Scientific Council, medical branch of the COHA, for the coming year are Dr. Charles V. Meckstroth, chairman; Dr. Alan Sheline, vice chairman; Dr. James Carson, secretary, and Dr. Charles F. Wooley, immediate past chairman.

Trustees elected to the association are Cable Gibson, Tahlman Krumm, John A. Myers, John Alspach, John Wolfe, Dr. Ralph D. Lach and Dr. Thomas E. Clark.

Dr. James V. Warren, chairman of the Department of Medicine at Ohio State University and a past president of the American Heart Association, was made an honorary trustee.

DON'T TAILGATE

Bumper-to-bumper driving, says the Columbus Auto Club, is a dangerous highway traffic hazard. A sudden stop on the highway can mean a disastrous pile-up of cars if they are traveling too close together. Always leave enough distance between you and the car ahead for a safe stop.

ON THE REAL ESTATE SCENE

Wilcox-Roach Opens New Offices

By DON FREEMAN
Real Estate Editor

Wilcox-Roach, 5410 W. Broad-st, is opening two new offices at Lake Choctaw near Springfield, north of Route 40, and in Grove City at 3520 N. Broadway.

Freeman

James L. Wilcox, a partner, said the firm hopes to someday service all of the area west of the rivers and currently has sights set on offices in Hilliard and Dublin.

Now eight years old, the firm also builds Kingsbury Homes on O'Possum Run Road. Robert H. Phillips is new sales manager for the firm. Other partners include Robert A. Wilcox and B. J. Roach.

The firm currently has seven salesmen. Jim Wilcox was recently appointed as a member of the Regional Planning Commission.

A New Venture For Imes

Harry F. Imes, 15 years in the business on the West Side, has plunged into a new venture with his sons—a Florida Division through the Deltona Corp.

His firm, located at 3540 Sullivant, sells sites and homes and commercial establishments for Marco Island, Deltona and Spring Hill. Deltona has completed 11 other communities in the Land-of-the-Sun and the current three are well on their way.

Imes is franchised for Central Ohio covering Franklin, Delaware, Pickaway, Union, Fairfield, Licking and Madison counties.

Imes' 1500 square feet of office space offers rooms for map and film presentation to prospects. After a purchase, inspection trips are provided on a money-back basis if not satisfied.

Helping him are his sons Ron and Richard. Ron and his father recently returned from Spring Hill where a ribbon cutting ceremony was held for Spring Hill. Some 15,000 people were on hand to witness the start and visit the new 1968 model homes. Spring Hill is located on the West coast of Florida, 40 miles north of Tampa. Harry and Ron also spent several days on the fabulous Marco Island, another pre-planned community that Imes represents.

Mrs. Imes is still holding down the fort at 1983 Sullivant to continue their local real estate business.

The Last Call

Tonight is the Big Night for the Columbus Chapter of the Women's Council for NAREB and its benefit card party at the Jewish Center, College Avenue, beginning at 8 o'clock. The public is invited. Proceeds will benefit Project Concern, a medical aid program in South Vietnam.

WATCH SIGNS

The Columbus Auto Club reminds drivers that traffic signs are there for a purpose. It's a sign of good judgment when you obey all traffic signs.

Dr. Cross Elected President Of Ohio Heart Association

Dr. C. Joseph Cross, 2669 Charing-rd, has been elected president of the Central Ohio Heart Association.

Other officers elected are Dr. Neil C. Andrews, president-elect; Everett D. Reese, board chairman; Dr. Charles F. Wooley, vice president; Thomas Heisey, secretary; M. R. Hausman, treasurer, and John E. Myers, assistant treasurer.

Officers of the Scientific Council, medical branch of the COHA, for the coming year are Dr. Charles V. Meckstroth, chairman; Dr. Alan Sheline, vice chairman; Dr. James Carson, secretary, and Dr. Charles F. Wooley, immediate past chairman.

Trustees elected to the association are Cable Gibson, Tahlman Krumm, John A. Myers, John Alspach, John Wolfe, Dr. Ralph D. Lach and Dr. Thomas E. Clark.

Dr. James V. Warren, chairman of the Department of Medicine at Ohio State University and a past president of the American Heart Association, was made an honorary trustee.

DON'T TAILGATE

Bumper-to-bumper driving, says the Columbus Auto Club, is a dangerous highway traffic hazard. A sudden stop on the highway can mean a disastrous pile-up of cars if they are traveling too close together. Always leave enough distance between you and the car ahead for a safe stop.

REDI To Seek Members At Fair

Reynoldsburg Economic Development (REDI), has made plans to conduct a membership campaign at the upcoming Tomato Fair. A booth will be set up at the fair to distribute literature on the Ohio Department of Development and possibly REDI. Memberships will be sold at $5 per year.

REDI met on May 31 and discussed the possibility of a speakers bureau to publicize the organization.

Ronald Keske, president of REDI, said the group is trying to attract industry to the city. He reported an average increase of one-half to one mill per year in real estate taxes is necessary to offset the average yearly rise in taxes of two mills.

Young Molk In 6th Place At National Spelling Contest

One of Ohio's top young spellers, Stephen Molk of Reynoldsburg, captured sixth place in the 40th Annual National Spelling Bee held in Washington, D. C. last week. Stephen, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ashley J. Molk, 7695 Dalglen-dr, was one of 73 contestants from throughout the U. S. and its territories.

Stephen conquered words like "onomatopoeia," "segue," and "susurration", until he faltered on "amblyopia," which he spelled with an "I" instead of a "y." He was turned down in the 17th round only minutes before the contest was over on Thursday afternoon. He was one of eight Ohioans in the "bee" and was the last Ohioan to be turned down.

For his sixth place, he received $100. The winner, Jennifer Reinke, 14, of Deshler, Neb., received $1000 and trips to New York City and Expo '67 in Montreal. All contestants were entertained in Washington with sight-seeing tours, a party and a banquet.

Mrs. Ashley Molk accompanied her son to Washington on Sunday, June 4. The two were joined by Mr. Molk and the other children of the family on Tuesday afternoon at the beginning of the contest. The family returned home on Saturday, June 9.

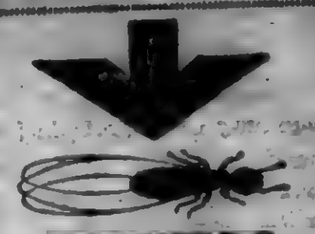
Guard Exercise Off; No Explanation

Lt. Col. John W. Spain, the executive officer of the SRF 3rd Brigade of the 37th Division, ONG, announced this week that the three week exercise in North Carolina in which the Brigade was to participate this summer has been cancelled.

Col. Spain said that no reason was given for the cancellation. The exercise would have been the largest field training exercise the Guard had participated in since 1951. Elements of the regular Army, Air Force and Marines were to have played war games in massive manuevers in the swamps near Kitty Hawk.

The 28th Division headquarters to whom the 3rd Brigade is assigned for purposes of mobilization could give no explanation for the change.



They did confirm the cancellation, however,

The exercise has previously been scheduled months ago, then cancelled. It was revived and a public announcement was made to the press four weeks ago.

The Brigade will be training at Camp A. P. Hill in Virginia and for only two weeks which is the usual schedule. They are scheduled to leave for training on August 12.

F-C Board Interviews

Three local superintendents have been "informally" interviewed for the position of county superintendent, according to Tom Quick, who is leaving the post July 17 to accept an assistant superintendency with the State Department of Education.

"Undoubtedly the job will go to one of the men, probably by the first of the week," Quick said, explaining that it is his opinion and that of the County Board of Education that a local superintendent, already familiar with the county system, is a "natural" to take over.

C. H. O'BRIEN of Hilliard is president of the county board which will offer the contract. Other boardmen are James Dugan of Gahanna, Ken Foley of Groveport, Bill Hockman of Canal Winchester and Fred Tussing of Reynoldsburg.

Discussing salary, Quick indicated it will be in the $16,500 range.

In a look ahead the retiring superintendent stated that although the title of "County Superintendent" may change throughout the state to that of "District Superintendent" or some similar name, he indicated that it was unlikely Franklin County would be greatly affected by the service area districts in the fire for Ohio.

ALTHOUGH 35 or less such districts are recommended for the 88 counties, Quick believes the student potential of the Franklin County Schools and its cities and exempted villages (even excluding the City of Columbus) is sufficient to ward off significant change in set up.

Looking forward to the responsibilities of his new position which will include that of district reorganization, Quick expressed his regrets at leaving the county system.

"It's been a wonderful experience," he stated, "with pleasant working relationship with local administrators and boards — and with the press."

Convention Planned

The Ohio Ladies' Auxiliary of the Jewish War Veterans of the United States will hold its convention June 30, July 1 and 2 at the Columbus Sheraton Motor Inn.

Local delegates from Capitol Ladies' Auxiliary, No. 122, are: Mrs. Sanford Fishman, Mrs. S. L. Trager, Mrs. Louis Grossman, Mrs. Sam Schlonsky, Mrs. Martin Kaufher, Mrs. Jack Franklin, Mrs. Morris Leesure, Mrs. Sam Goldman, Mrs. Morris Stetelman and Miss Lana Zeitman.

Registration will be held June 30 at 11 a.m. and a presentation at the Chillicothe V. A. Hospital will be held at 2 p.m. Friday night Sabbath service will be at 8 p.m. at the Sheraton, followed by an Oneg Shabbat social given by the Capitol Ladies' Auxiliary.

Out-of-town guests and visitors will be honored at an Early Bird party that will follow the social. Officers Drill is set for a 10:30 p.m. rehearsal.

The convention will formally open at 10 a.m. Saturday with Memorial services and Allied Guests presentations.

The President's luncheon will be held at noon and a joint leadership seminar is scheduled from 2 to 4 p.m. A cocktail party will be held at 6:30 p.m. and will be followed by a banquet and dance.

Sunday's program will begin with an 8:30 breakfast and a business meeting and election of officers will be held that morning.

Representative Robert Holmes of Franklin County must be reading my articles. Three months ago, I wrote with a heavy hand about the ineffectiveness of present methods of controlling water pollution in Ohio.

I described the ways by which the communities and industries around Ohio are beating the people out of their right to live in a clean state. I said then that the only real way to put a stop to the defiling of our streams and lakes was to form a separate Department of Water Control and give the Director equal status on the Governor's' Cabinet with other Departments.

PAUGH

I HELD then and still hold that it will take this much effort on the part of the State of Ohio to clean up our mired waters.

Furthermore, the Department of Water Control should have police powers to enforce the pollution laws. It should not be expected of Sheriff's Departments and Game Protectors to keep constant watch on the water quality of the thousands of miles of streams and lakes. Laws without enforcement methods are called 'Blue Laws' and this we do not need.

Two years ago, Ducks Unlimited — the saviors of North America's duck population — took Ohio's two best pollution abators. They hired Dale Whitesel, former Chief of Wildlife and Ben Anderson — Dale's Law Enforcement Chief. These two, in the two years they were around, did more to stop pollution in Ohio than anyone before or after them.

BEN WAS not afraid to put the violators in court, knowing Dale would back him up. Since Dale and Ben have gone from Ohio's outdoor scene, pollution investigations have dropped drastically, claims for dead fish have dropped and dollars collected have diminished. It took Ben a long time to 'get the ball rolling' on his investigations but he set a fine record. He gave Game Protectors the proper instructions on how to take water samples, what to do when dead fish are found and how to collect evidence that would stand up in court. Under the present Wildlife administration the word pollution is seldom heard.

The Game Protectors have forgotten all their earlier teachings and the total number of investigations could very well be turned in by an alert Boy Scout Troop. This is the type of service we reward by raising the fishing license fees and increasing the pay of these wildlife workers.

ANYONE CAN fill a chair but few can fill the boots of Dale Whitesel and Ben Anderson.

The Wildlife Management Institute in Washington, D. C., wrote me that the neighboring State of Kentucky — during the past eight trapping seasons — has restocked 56 counties with 2,578 whitetail deer from Mammoth Cave Park. A plan approved by the park and state wildlife authorities now aims at removing more deer from the park each year.

(I'm all for transplanting a few of their wildlife people right up Route 23 to Columbus. We could stand some of that thinking in our Division of Wildlife).

Reddy's Upset Paces Whitehall Adult Openers

Reddy's (Fire Dept.) fired the biggest opening salvo in Whitehall Adult Men's Slo-pitch League inaugurals Sunday by edging twice defending loop champion Darnell's, 16-15, in eight frames.

Pacing the winners were John Wolfe (four-for-five, including three-run homer), Jim Rocthwell, (three-for-five) and Bob Garnor (three-for-three).

WAYNE LUZKE sparkled defensively for Reddy's.

Dick Petty, Bill Darnell and John Jenkins (all three-for-four) highlighted the loser's hitting attack.

Jenkins' three-run homer in the bottom of the seventh knotted the score at 15-all.

THE EXTRA-BASE wallops of Jack Hysell (two homers), Jim Bope (three-for-three, including HR) and Don Hrabck (two doubles) showed the way as Norton Church of Christ blasted the Police Dept., 23-1.

Tom Trace's two safeties paced the losers.

In other openers, the Knights of Columbus blanked Holy Spirit, 23-0, and the Recreation Dept. won via forfeit over the Whitehall Churches.

Jets To Host Bucs Tonight

The Columbus Jets, trying to battle their way up the International League's ladder, return to friendly confines tonight — opening their sixth (and longest) home stand of the '67 season.

The parent Pittsburgh Pirates will supply opening competition for the locals in an exhibition game tonight at 7:30.

Buffalo arrives to fill the visitor's dugout on the NL entry's heels with single night games scheduled Friday and Saturday—a Sunday afternoon double-header concluding the Bisons' visit.

Toronto's Maple Leafs will supply the opposition with single night games Monday through Wednesday with Jacksonville opening a four-game set a week from tonight.

Insignia Contest Judges Study Entries Saturday

Officials of the Columbus Checkers and the "Hockey Hounds" will gather Saturday afternoon to select the top ten designs or sketches in the recent "Insignia Search" to find a new emblem for the local International Hockey League entry.

The insignia contest, co-sponsored by The Spectator Newspapers, will earn the winner two season passes to all '67-'68 Checker home games and a red blazer jacket.

"Hockey Hound" head Bill Kelly revealed this week that over 400 entries were submitted to the Checkers' special promotional club during the course of the contest.

All those who had submitted entries in the insignia search will receive a pass to one of next season's Checker home games.

Thompson Tabs Party Success

Reynoldsburg Recreation Director John Thompson reports the city's first teen Pool-Dance Party of the summer "very successful."

Thompson estimated the attendance at between 500 and 600 for the party at which "The Etiquettes" supplied the entertainment.

The recreation director, who once again stressed that the parties are for Reynoldsburg youth only, listed the next party date for Saturday, July 15 — adding that he is hopeful another one can be planned before that date.

Western Loop Opens; North, East Full Go

By BOB WHITMAN
Spectator Staff Writer

Summer League High School baseball action is zooming at full speed this week following the opening of the Western sections with Franklin Heights taking a double dip from Mid-Eight champion Grove City.

Ed Lewis' rebuilding season is beginning to pay off for the Falcons. Lewis has long maintained that his sophomore group of last season is potentially stronger than his District Champs of a year ago were when they were sophomores.

That and the fact that the no-hit pitcher Dan Landis will be around for another season makes the Demorest Road battlers even more potent.

North Summer League action is as follows:

THURSDAY: Arlington bye; DeSales at Whetstone, Grandview at Worthington, and Watterson at North.

MONDAY: Arlington at DeSales, North at Whetstone, Watterson at Grandview and Worthington bye.

WEDNESDAY: Worthington plays at Arlington, North at DeSales, Whetstone at Grandview and Watterson bye.

Eastside Summer League action is as follows:

THURSDAY: Gahanna at Eastmoor, Hartley at East, Reynoldsburg at Wehrle and Walnut Ridge at Northland.

FRIDAY: Hartley at Gahanna, Walnut Ridge at Reynoldsburg, Eastmoor at East and Wehrle at Northland.

TUESDAY: Reynoldsburg at Gahanna, Hartley at Walnut Ridge, East at Wehrle and Northland at Eastmoor.

Synchronized Swim Meet Sunday At UA

The Corlina Club will sponsor and host the State Synchronized Swimming Championships Sunday at Upper Arlington's high school natatorium.

The Carlina girls, the defending state champs, will be vying for the Edna Hines Memorial Trophy. Stunts will begin at 10 a.m. with routines getting under way at 1 p.m.

Fishin' Facts

In most parts of the country a mooching fisherman is a guy who helps himself to his partner's boat, bait and beer. In the northwest, everybody mooches — but only on the fish.

Mooching is merely a way to sink a bait down to the bottom and keep it there, claim the fishing experts. A sophisticated technique, mooching is about as subtle as whopping a mule in the head with a club to get its attention, but it works.

AS THE waters get warmer, the wisdom of bottom fishing becomes more apparent, and it holds true in both streams and lakes where sinking lures chalk up the best records. Sometimes, however, the best bait in a fish's opinion won't drop to the fish's level — and that's where mooching comes in.

Mooching incorporates a three-way swivel at the end of the line. One leader is secured to a weight, the other to the bait.

THE SINKER most commonly used in running water is of the pencil or thick lead-wire type — which can be easily freed from obstacles. It is tied with light leader material, the length determined by the depth to be fished.

Bait is attached to a longer leader and allowed to drift away from its "anchor" yet being held at the right depth.

BOAT FISHERMEN can adopt this technique with a form of "motor mooching." It becomes merely a matter of drifting either a bait or an artificial plug with the wind, or trolling slowly so the weight bumps bottom.

Some folks call this rig the fish-finder, but "mooching" is easier to recall. Remember, don't mooch on your buddy, mooch on the fish. It pays better dividends!

Ashley, Spartan Clash Looms In C-O League

After tossing six shutout innings last Saturday afternoon, Spartan A.C. hurler Billy Graves said he was "looking for Ashley."

That search will have to span at least two weeks for Graves of unbeaten Spartan as Ashley must get by Westerville (0-2) to make the clash of top importance.

As it stands at this point, Spartan will carry a (3-0) log into the June 30 fray under the lights at Radnor at 8 p.m. while 2-0 Ashley faces Westerville Friday.

Spartan A.C. has a bye this weekend.

In other Saturday Division Central Ohio Baseball League action McDorman Chevrolet (0-2) hosts Onized (1-2) on the Groveport High School diamond at 2. Ashley plays at home at 8 against Westerville.

In the Sunday Division, unbeaten Shade-Link continues its torrid pace hosting the Spartan Sunday entrant. In other play Westerville travels to Nelsonville's Crabtree Park to meet the Nelsonville Baseball Club and Washington C. H. hosts Dublin in Eyeman Park. All Sunday Division games begin at 2 and have a two hour and 45 minute curfew time.

Last weekend a stout pitching show and a torrid hitting spree highlighted action in the Saturday Division.

Onized Dave Beets was the man with the strong arm in blanking Westerville 7-0 on a two-hit, eight strike out performance.

Beets received offensive help from the power hitting of Bill Horn (2 of 5), Paul Jones (2 of 5), Ron Hennis (2 of 5), and Clarence Baseman (3 of 5).

Spartan stayed on the right path for a showdown performance with Ashley with an awesome 18 hit attack that outscored Groveport's McDorman Chevrolet, 11-3.

Jay Lawson (3 of 4) and Bill Jackson (2 of 2) were the key hitters of the offensive punch.

Onized tripped up the Southville Saints in a non-league game Sunday 5-0 as Tom Harbor, Jack Rogers and Dick Hill combined for the shutout.

Bill Grooms and Toni Schmidt were the top hitters as Grooms managed a two for three afternoon and Schmidt a two for four showing.

In the lone Sunday Division game reported Westerville measured Dublin 7-6 on a three-run, ninth inning.

Bill Armstrong, Ken Viers, Fred Shearer and Mike Polaski led the Westerville hitting parade with Polaski connecting for a home run.

Tim Pond and Jim Weaver both managed four hits for the losers.

Class Registration Continues For Capital's Summer School

Registration for Capital University's summer school will continue until 3:30 this Monday, the first day of classes.

Students in nurses training and the Conservatory of Music, other full-time Capital students, transient students from other colleges and universities, high school and elementary teachers from the Greater Columbus area and high school graduates in the Foundations for College Program will comprise the summer enrollment of the university.

In addition to the normal summer school activity, the national Science Summer Institute for junior and senior high school chemistry and general science teachers, and the art and drama institutes for high school and grade school students comprise other segments of Capital's on-campus program.

The Foundations for College Program offers high school graduates, who are unable to qualify for fall admission to Capital, a second chance. Some of the students who are successful in this program will be accepted for regular admission in the fall.

Last summer, out of 62 participating students, 30 were accepted for admission and 25 of these are eligible to return for the beginning of the 1967-68 term.

Gregory, King Pick Up Top Purses At CMS

A crowd of more than 4600 was on hand Sunday night at the Columbus Motor Speedway to see "Demon Don" Gregory and "Dynamite Dick" Dunlevy on a nip-and-tuck battle in the 25-lap late-model feature — Gregory emerging the victor when the event was halter after 22 laps because of a three-car crackup.

Dunlevy came in second, trailed by J'm Cushman, Ralph O'Day and Vern Schrock.

IT WAS a thrilling climax to a race that saw Dunlevy in front on the sixth lap, then lose the front spot to Gregory on the 11th.

In the sportsman 20-lap main event, Joe King took the lead on the 12th lap, then looked like he's lose it to Gregory on the 17th. But a spin put Gregory back on the tail and the best he could do was seventh, behind w'nner King, John Ogden, Fred Ward, Sonny Pencil, Bud Hedges and Chuck Metcalf, who preceded him in that order. The winner's purse contained $3,000, upped some $1500 from the guarantee.

Three fans collected $100 in cash by picking the first five cars (in order) in the game of "Total."

This Sunday evening, when the Souths'de raceway has an eight-event program of late-model and sportman cars, there will be another $100 in cash for the fan or fans who can correctly pick the first five finishers in the sportsman headliner.

SUNDAY'S trials start at 7 p.m. and the first r e goes at 8.

Were You A Member Of Old 91st?

A national reunion of all former members of the 91st Bomb Group will be held in Memphis July 25-27. The 91st was once stationed at Lockbourne as a strategic reconnaissance wing.

The reunion is a result of the efforts of a national organization headed by retired Maj. Gerald Stanley T. Wray.

All former members of the 91st residing in the Columbus area, whether interested in attending the reunion or not, are urged to contact Sgt. H. J. Hall at Castle AFB, Calif. Sergeant Hall can be reached through the Castle Information Office, Area Code 209, 723-1611.

VOCATIONAL EDUCATION

About 11.7 percent of Ohio's high school students were enrolled in vocational training in 1966. More than one-half of the total were girls taking home economics courses.

Eight Tough Number To Beat At Air Base

Golfers on the Lockbourne Golf Course links refuse to believe that seven is a lucky number; they prefer eight.

Since the base golf course opened last month, two players have zeroed in on the eighth hole with "holes-in-one." The first came on Memorial day by Jim Nims with Lt. Col. George Leaham following up last Tuesday.

The eighth hole is 150 yards long and carries a par three.

Lockbourne golfer John Adcox likes three — he aced the 144 yard three hole earlier in the year.

Women's Loop Opens

The Whitehall Women's Softball League will open play tonight at 6 p.m. on Norton Field. The gals will be preparing for a special exhibition game which will be part of Whitehall's July 4th celebration ceremonies.

INSTANT REPLAY

The instant television replay will be put to a new use at the University of Dayton this fall. Student teachers will be televised in the school classroom and then get a chance to see themselves perform through the use of video taping.

Annual Jaycee Golf Tourney Slated

The North Columbus Junior Chamber of Commerce is expecting another large entry for the 22nd Annual Jaycees' Junior Golf Tournament which will be held at the Blackhawk Golf Course, Galena, Ohio, on Jne 27-28.

Any boy or girl, 18 years or younger, can participate in this 36-hole tournament. There are two divisions: Junior 10 to 13 years old, and Senior 14 to 18 years old. Entry blanks are available at all playgrounds supervised by the Columbus Recreation Department and at all golf course pro shops. Entry blanks must be submitted by June 23.

A clinic will be held June 26 at 9 a.m. at Blackhawk Golf Course. At this time instruction will be given to all participants. There is no charge for this instruction.

Winners will go to the State Jaycee Golf Tournament to be held July 12, 13 and 14, at Oberlin, Ohio. The winner of the State Tournament will participate in the National Jaycee Golf Tournament.

Keglers' Korner

By NORMA KIRKENDALL

The ABC and WIBC is proud to represent the United States in the sixth World FIQ Tournament at Malmo, Sweden, in July with six members each from ranks of amateur and hobby bowlers scoring high in the Miami and Rochester tournaments.

In a nationwide special radio interview over the CBS network, Billy Golembiewski of Detroit, Mich., said that the sport with the best carry-over values for bowling is pitching horseshoes.

In fact, Bill G. (as he is more often called) indicated many of the best professional bowlers are former horseshoe champs, including himself. Why horseshoes? Billy indicated the timing, footwork and concentration necessary were very similar to those in bowling.

Billy is a former ABC Masters champ, but feels that his most thrilling bowling achievement was finishing second in the World's Invitational.

Steve Cruchon, popular editor of Detroit's Modern Bowler and Bruce Pluckhahn, ABC's genial public relations manager, co-authored a humorous book called PINS AND NEEDLERS. Drop a card to P. O. Box 23392, Columbus, Ohio 43223 and we'll tell you how to get a copy.

So your winter league is over — and now you're hitting balls instead of rolling them? It's a mistake, you know, to "quit" bowling for the summer. In these short months you'll lose several pins on your average. If you feel too busy outdoors to join a summer league, at least do some open bowling regularly to keep up your timing. Bowling is like any other skill — don't use it and you'll lose it.

Don't miss the boat this time!

DETERMINATION WON WAR

Diplomat Says Israel Will Survive

By KATHY REDMOND
Spectator Staff Writer

The Israeli people are determined to break from the midst of a circle of Arabian nations whose sole stated aim is to annihilate the State of Israel, an Israeli diplomat said Monday.

Chaim A. Solomon, director of the Government of Israel Investment Authority for the Mid-West, said in an interview, "The war in the Mid-East has proven Israel's determination. This determination was the major reason for the total defeat of the Arabs."

Solomon, who works in the Consul of Israel, Economic Affairs in Chicago, was here to speak to business leaders about the advantages of investing in Israel.

The basis of the whole Arab-Israeli conflict, according to Solomon, is the refusal of the Arabs to recognize the existence of the Jewish state. The problem will not be solved until the Arabian nations recognize us, he said.

Solomon sees a lasting peace as one worked out by the Arabs and Jews alone. "We don"t' believe anyone can do us a service in negotiations" because the Arabs broke the last armistice which was established by the U.N., he said. The Arabs have continually repeated this pattern: first they break the truce, then they start a war. After they lose the war they started they want to go back to the original armistice which didn't work in the first place.

Nor does Solomon expect the U.N. to come to any kind of a solution to the Mid-East crisis. "The U.N. functions properly only when Russia and the United States are in agreement," he said. "They certainly aren't in agreement in this case."

Despite Soviet Premier Alexi N. Kosygin's efforts to have the United Nations General Assembly condemn Israel as an "aggressor" and order her to withdraw to her 1949 borders, Solomon is confident that Israeli determination will once again win out, but they will have to be "tough" in negotiations.

This does not mean, however, that Israel will not compromise. "We did not go into war with the idea of conquering enemy territories," he said. "We went in to insure our existence."

Solomon said he agreed "heartily" with President Johnson's five-point peace plan, especially the point calling for progress in solving the refugee problem.

"The Arabs are keeping the refugee problem open and using it as a weapon against Israel," he said. The Arabs have asked us to negotiate on the refugee problem. We refuse to negotiate the refugee problem alone because that is neither the whole problem nor the basis of the conflict. The Arabs then say that they have tried to settle the problem, but that we refuse.

Solomon, who was in Israel the day United Arab Republic President Gamal Abdel Nasser demanded the withdrawal of U.N. peacekeeping force from the Gaza Strip, said the response of the Israelis was "immediate, tremendous."

"When you are surrounded by people whose sole purpose is to annihilate you, you react immediately whenever there is a change in the status quo," he said. "The people's willingness to assume risks involved was tremendous. This was because we knew there was no way out.

"When war broke out there was no limit to the Israelis' volunteering. There were more than 500 civilian casualties in Jerusalem alone but the people kept volunteering. The response to the Army Reserve call-up was 108 and 110 percent in some units. Women and children were performing services which, under normal conditions, only men would do."

With more than half of Israel's army consisting of reserves, "the moment we mobilize, our economy comes to a standstill," Solomon said. The men disappeared from the cities. Tel Aviv became a city of women, children and old people. There was an acute shortage of cash. No wages were paid, but you could buy on credit everywhere.

Everyday life continued, he said. "There was hardly any breakdown in electricity and telephone wires. Milk was still delivered and schools remained open. We even had one holiday commemorating the anniversary of a revolt against Roman invasion in ancient times. But all celebrations were cancelled and schools remained open."

Although the Jewish nation had hoped the United States would help lift UAR's blockade of the Gulf of Aqaba, Israel's only shipping route to Asian and African countries, the people are not bitter about "being left alone," he said. The experience of two other wars in the past two decades has made us realize that "when the chips are down, we can rely only on ourselves.

"You left us alone in the war; leave us alone in negotiations. The United States role is to keep the Russians out."

Solomon was born in 1921 in Transylvania - Roumania and immigrated to Palestine in 1938.

He was an officer in the underground (Haganah) from 1838 until the establishment of the Independent State of Israel.

He has held various top executive positions in the Bank of Israel and joint American-Israeli and British-Israeli industrial enterprises in Israel between 1949 and 1964. He holds a master's degree in law from Hebrew University.

GARDEN NOTES

Joyce Loughman, Editor

One of the nicest things about a trip through German Village is the shade afforded by the giant, old trees edging the streets. Trees that someone had the good sense to protect down through the years.

Have you ever noticed, as you drive through the new housing areas, how hot the homes look? Even the most expensive lack the element of homeliness when they have uprooted all of the trees that were on the property. And then the new homeowner spends a fortune and waits 10 years, at least, for the shade that he hopes will come from his investment.

German Villagers have also had the good sense to make the most attractive "pocket handkerchief" gardens that you will find anywhere. Tiny yards that are enclosed by brick walls or wrought iron fences are abloom with color. Color that has been planted in the ground or in tubs, pots and boxes. Even herb gardens to pick or sniff are found all through the Village.

As you walk down the tree shaded streets you will marvel at the window boxes that are filled with petunias, geraniums, alyssum and candytuft. Even tuberous begonias and cinerarias are a success.

Large metal saucers make unique planters for the yards along with simple shapes and subdued colors in the box containers. The severe line of a blank wall is often broken by dwarf or large cannas or elephant's-ear. Lamp posts have been dramatized by clematis planted in old milk cans and one post that I noticed particularly had clematis set in old gallon cans (with holes punched in the botton) and set into nail kegs filled with enough gravel to keep the rims level.

Potted geraniums and chrysanthemums (mostly cushion-types) line steps that are leading to small patios. And, where privacy is desired trellises for vines are anchored in low planted boxes. One ingenius gentleman decided to take the strain out of moving his container plantings. Under the largest boxes were sections of pipe which allowed him to roll the boxes around to different locations.

An elderly lady, with a twinkle in her eye, showed off her grandson's wagon. (He is now 21). She had confiscated it and has a large tub covered with hens and chickens riding atop. A charming couple, with an eye to the future, are building a small pool that will hold water lilies. House plants are brought outside also, and treated like works of art. Rex begonias, shefflera, philodendrons and fiddleleaf figs serve as striking focal points.

Take the German Village tour this coming Sunday, June 25. Ten homes will be open to the public from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. And, after you have visited the homes take a walk around the rest of the area.

The program is under the instruction of Suh Joung Ok. Suh earned his fourth degree black belt in judo while attending college in Korea. He will stress the importance of balance, falling techniques, physical fitness and basic judo skills.

The regular summer membership in the Boys' Branch is $10 and entitles the person to participate in summer term swimming lessons and physical fitness classes.

Special wrestling, weight-lifting and gymnastic classes are held for those who qualify. The all-around athletic conditioning is held for older boys and the top scorer in the test battery wins the summer all-around athlete trophy.

SONIC BOOMS EXPLAINED IN LAYMEN'S LANGUAGE

By A2C JON SULLIVAN

BOOM!!!!

Windows rattle, buildings shudder and the ground seems to roll.

You probably have heard the jet age's most controversial echo. It's known as the "sonic boom" and caused by an aircraft flying faster than sound.

BUT IF YOU'RE like most Americans, you probably don't know exactly what causes this sometimes startling crash. You probably don't know what it can . . . or cannot . . . do and how necessary it is.

To understand sonic booms, one must first look at the habits of sound. Sound is basically shock waves caused by movement. These shock waves may be compared to ripples created by a pebble dropped in a puddle. The bigger the pebble and the faster it hits the puddle, the larger the ripple. And the farther away from the point of impact, the less noticeable the ripples.

Sound is much like the ripples . . . that is, a series of pressure waves pulsating against the eardrum.

NOW, BY these standards, an explosion is more (noise-wise) than a strong pressure wave pushed by a sudden, strong release of energy. Today's airplanes, such as the supersonic McDonnell F-101 Voodoo flown by the 87th Fighter Intercepter Squadron at Lockbourne, give birth to shock waves such as these at the speed of sound, roughly 762 miles per hour.

These pressure waves build up around an aircraft flying at such high speeds and spread in all directions. If they were visible, they would resemble a shallow dish as they attach to the airplane at the exact speed of sound. Later, as the aircraft's speed increases, the waves sweep back at sharper angles until they form the cone shape of a wide funnel.

If the craft is close enough to the ground and the waves are strong enough, you'll hear a "boom."

IT IS THOUGHT by many that sonic booms are created only at the point where an aircraft exceeds the speed of sound.

False!

The aircraft drags this cone of sound along its path, carrying with it the loud noise which becomes audible as it slaps the ground.

The strength of a sonic boom which reaches the ground will vary depending upon the aircraft's altitude, size, weight and speed. It will also be affected by the temperature, wind, terrain and amount of moisture in the air.

Loud enough to wake an average sleeper or scare a baby, the sonic boom has shaken some of the nation's largest cities . . . Columbus included. And it will continue with no respect or consideration for the hour of the day.

BUT EXCEPT in rare cases, it will only assault your ear drums.

It won't stop an earthquake or topple the Lincoln-LeVeque tower. It could conceivably break a few windows, but not much more.

A sonic boom doesn't mean that the pilot is in a hurry to get back on the ground so as not to be late for supper. And it definitely doesn't mean that a "hot-rodder" is up there. The sonic boom is an announcement . . . an unavoidable one . . . proclaiming that aviation has reached a milestone and that our national defense is more secure.

Air Force pilots flying supersonic aircraft are carefully trained men who risk their lives daily to protect our country. They are on directed missions and not "stunting."

YOU CAN make your contribution to our nation's defense by understanding.

Education Problems Plague Poor

(Editor's Note: This is the second in a series of articles on the state of education in Ohio. Today's installment was written for the Ohio Education Association by Dave Hess, State House reporter for the Akron Beacon Journal).

By DAVE HESS
State House Reporter
Akron Beacon Journal

For 22 years Charlie and Nell Belt made a go of it, Charlie working regularly in the coal mine and Nell tending to their 10 children.

Then a machine took Charlie's job in the mine. For a while he was able to pick up casual employment in the strip mines around his home near Williamson, W. Va., but eventually even that kind of work petered out.

Charlie went on relief. But he wasn't satisfied. He was only 40, in good health, and he wanted to work. But the southern West Virginia economy was depressed. Besides, he knew only how to mine coal.

After several months of idleness, Charlie and Nell decided to pull up stakes and head for Ohio, where Charlie hoped to find a job. He had heard that "some factories were putting on workers." So, like thousands of Appalachians before and after, the Belt family emigrated to Ohio, the "promised land."

Today, 10 years later, Charlie Belt is still on relief. He held occasional jobs, paying as high as $1.25 an hour. But with 12 mouths to feed Charlie couldn't deliver. He had nothing to offer an employer except a strong back and a fourth grade education. Neither was adequate for the technological economy of Columbus, where Charlie had settled down.

Charlie doesn't know Ernest North of Cincinnati, although they have a lot in common. Ernest, 39, also dropped out of school after the fourth grade. He worked as a laborer for several years at a watch-strap company. Then he was hurt in an automobile accident. When he recovered he want back to claim his job, but the company had had to fill it. Ernest, reports the Hamilton County Welfare Department, "has had considerable difficulty finding employment primarily because of lack of sufficient education." Ernest has been out of work for six years.

The files of practically every county welfare department in the state are overflowing with Charlie Belts and Ernest Norths, byproducts of an advancing, technological society that consigns its undereducated and functional illiterates to the backwater of destitution.

"For every four employable persons in Ohio," estimates Franklin County Welfare Director Thomas Brittenham, "there's probably another man who has the physical capability of holding a steady job but can't, because of his educational limitations, keep a job that pays enough to support him, or his family."

Most welfare officials and educators are aware that educational shortcomings are not the only reasons for chronic unemployment and enforced idleness. Hamilton County Welfare Director Frederic Breyer points out that "physical incapacity, emotional instability, lack of motivation and other problems" contribute to a person's inability to get a job and hold it.

But Breyer and most other authorities agree that educational "underachievement" is a common thread running through virtually all cases involving a history of unemployment or underemployment. Furthermore, they say that the educational limitations of the family breadwinner tend to be transmitted, in cultural terms, to the children and then on to society as a whole, spawning a wide range of problems—juvenile delinquency, dropouts, indolence, crime and apathy—that fall into the laps of the welfare departments, schools, and police.

Lucas County Welfare Director William Ensign recounts a familiar story to illustrate this point:

"Aaron lives with his wife and 10 children in a three-room cinder block house near Toledo. He is 54, has an eighth grade education and has been known to our agency off-and-on since 1957. He now has a job earning $2.10 an hour or about $360 a month. The family occasionally receives supplemental assistance from the welfare department.

"The children range in age from six to 18, the oldest a high school dropout . . . The other children are officially enrolled in a school system which is considered to be one of the poorest in the state.

"I am painfully aware that their current deprived economic circumstances easily influence the children's attitude about education. From their present frame of reference it is hard to convince the children they would be better off staying in school than if they went out into the labor market.

"But they are continually embarrassed because they lack adequate clothing even to compete with other deprived children in the same area. Also, if it is possible to get used to going to school every day a little hungry, I would imagine they are all used to it now, but I have personal doubts if one ever gets accustomed to that . . .

"I suppose one of the biggest difficulties is that the house is small and the children have no place to study . . . The general scene is not conducive to educational achievement."

"Not conducive to educational achievement . . ." A familiar phrase to mose experts who seek the common factors in the environment of "underachievers." One such authority, James Grant, executive director of the Franklin County Child Welfare Board, says: "My general impression is that school problems are a frequent outgrowth of the child's home problems . . . . Often there's one-year or more retardation in educational attainment in low-income children, mainly due to frequent moving, absence of motivation and other cultural factors. Even though most of these kids have basic intelligence to perform, they've run into too many obstacles."

As the low-income youngsters fall farther and farther behind their classmates, the pressures rise to drop out of school. They develop a protective shell, expressed in an "I don't care" pose, to shield them from the shame of their own lack of achievement and from the taunts of their peers.

This malaise hits particularly hard among Negro children, who leave school at twice the rate of whites. In the large northern and western cities, for instance, one in five Negro youngsters, ages 16 and 17, are not enrolled in school, compared with one in eleven among white students. (The riot-plagued Hough area in Cleveland is a grim example: Nearly half of Hough's teenagers, according to one estimate, will drop out of school between now and 1970. Last year, the median years of school completed by Hough adults were 9.7, median family income was $4,050, and the unemployment rate among Hough's adult males was 13.4 per cent.)

"The simple fact is," says one high school counselor, "these kids are not happy in school. They leave to get away from social pressures which make them feel awkward, uncomfortable, unwanted." In other words, to save face in the short run, they ransom the remainder of their lives to economic uncertainty and sure deprivation.

Many economists and educators decry the measurement of educational attainment in earning power alone. The national Committe for Economic Development (CED), in a booklet entitled "Raising Low Incomes Through Improved Education," went out of its way last year to stress this point: "Increased individual earnings and national income, however, do not provide a sufficient measure of the payoff from education. As we have already emphasized, the welfare of individuals, the quality of life, depends not only on the size of their incomes but also on what they do with their incomes and other capacities, individually and collectively. We believe—and it is a basic premise of American democratic society—that education improves the quality of decisions and of life, making a contribution that is hardly made by any other kind of investment."

Elaborating on the same theme, Philip Sporn, utilities executive and CED member, declared:

"It is true that education has the characteristics of having economic value like a good investment. But the basic reason for getting an education goes deeper. It gives a person a more solid basis for self-respect, for making it possible for him to be a better person, family member and citizen. This is true whether the person is a truck driver, nuclear engineer or even a space scientist. It also makes it possible for him to get and keep a better job and it does not apply merely to the underprivileged. Some of the inadequately educated people are to be found among businessmen and professional people like doctors, engineers, scientists, lawyers and even legislators."

Sporn insists the "idea of education" should be implanted as a "way of life" in children, enabling them to think for themselves and, just as important, preparing them for change in a fast-moving world.

In this sense, education becomes more than a means to fill a two-car garage in the suburbs. For it has intrinsic as well as economic value, in that it fills the mind with the ability to reason and to adapt to change.

Nevertheless, as Sporn implies, both reason and flexibility are marketable items in today's economy. There is no substitute for the rational man who can solve problems. Nor is there solace for the untrained man who, as a result of educational impairment in early life, is incapable of learning new skills—particularly in a speeding economy that requires the average worker to undergo retraining perhaps as many as three times in his life.

VOCATIONAL EDUCATION

About 11.7 percent of Ohio's high school students were enrolled in vocational training in 1966. More than one-half of the total were girls taking home economics courses.

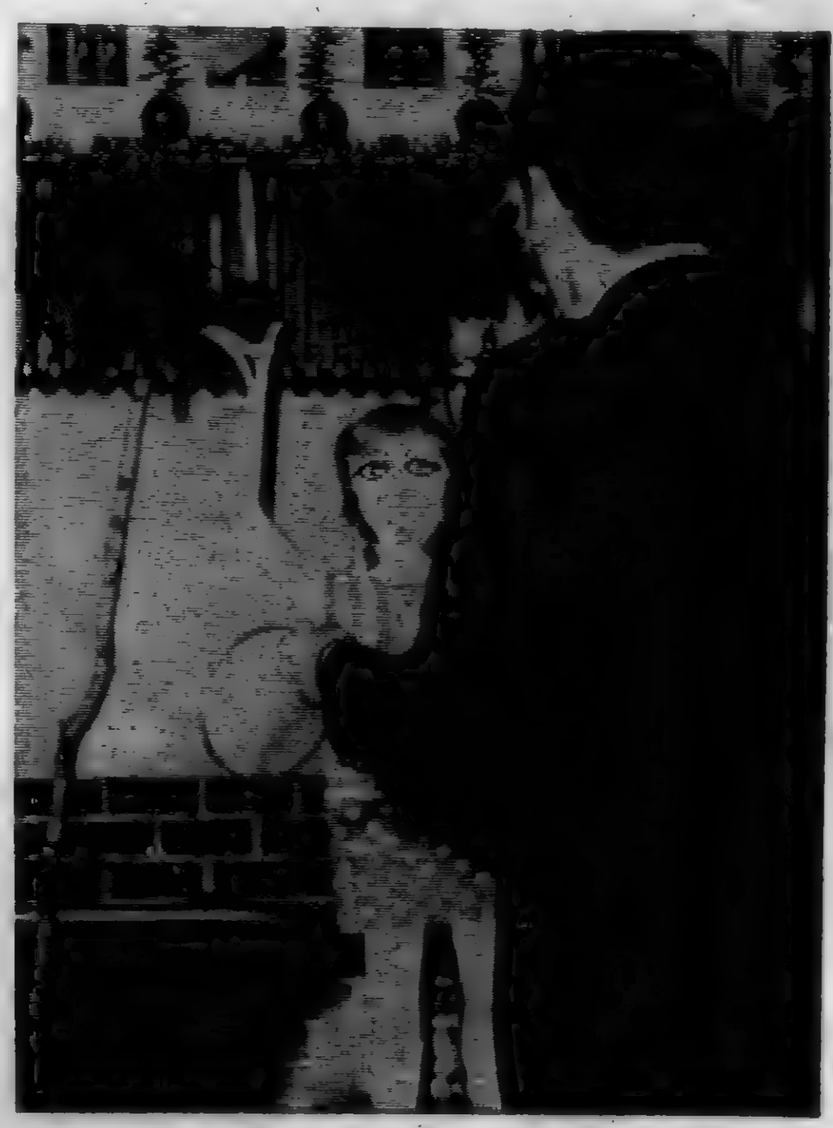
Bexley Grads' Party:

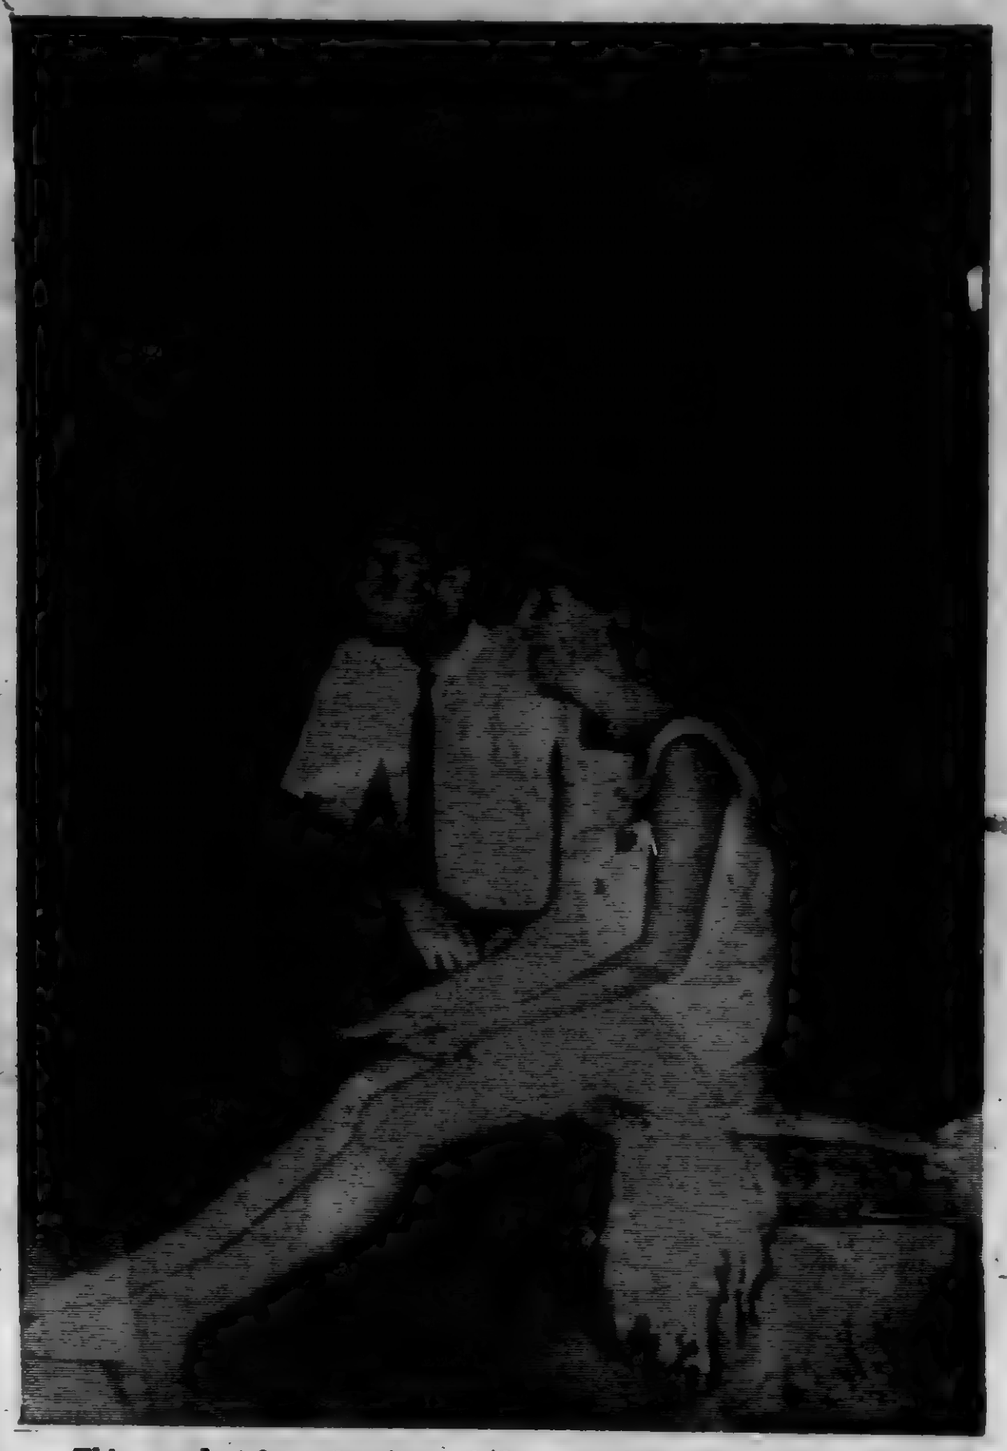
As the recent Bexley High School graduates entered the door to Jeffrey Mansion turned Camelot, one of the first decorations they saw was the modern-day King and Queen. The mansion was filled with decorations, students, parents and fun.



It was games galore for the Bexley grads down in the basement of the mansion. Parents made the games and also ran them as the students and their dates tried their luck and won the prizes.

Photos By Nancy Logue

No party is complete without food and the Bexley Mothers went out of their way to make certain this party was a success. The banquet table was full of goodies for the hungry graduates.



No mod and merry England would be complete without some reference to Twiggy and one of the most popular games with the Bexley graduates was called "Twiggy Patch."

Mod And Merrie

This young damsel receives her favorite "knight to remember." The flowers were made by the mothers and favors for the young maidens.

This couple takes advantage of the cool night air as they sit beneath the outdoor lanterns. The young lady seems to be resting her weary feet before reentering the castle for more dancing, food and fun.

It probably is not exctly what King had in mind when he uttered, "A horse . . . a horse . . . My kingdom for a horse." Nevertheless, it is mobile and the only thing any knight would need to impress his young lady. These colorful steeds decorated the entrance to the castle.

Bexley Plans For Big 4th

The Bexley Celebrations Association has announced plans for the city's Fourth of July celebration, to begin at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday with a parade.

The parade will start at the Maryland School, Maryland and Remington, proceed east on Maryland to Roosevelt Avenue, south on Roosevelt to Mound Street, west on Mound to Dawson, north on Dawson to Fair and east on Fair to Cassingham. It will break up at Bexley High School.

The judging of decorated bicycles will be held at the Maryland School grounds preceding the parade.

A program of games for youngsters through 13 years of age will be held at 11 a.m. at the Bexley High School field. Bicycle races will begin at 12:30 p.m. First three races will be for Bexley children only, while the last three are for riders from all over the county. These races are certified by the Amateur Bicycle League of America.

At 3 p.m., at the Montrose School grounds, a Little League ball game will be held between the Cochran Drug and Milo-Roc teams. A swimming meet will be held at 5 p.m. at the Bexley pool.

An evening program will be held at the Bexley field at 8:30 p.m. The Bexley High School band will perform. At this time there will be the award of parade trophies, trampoline exhibition and presentation of other awards to Bexley's outstanding families.

The days' activities will conclude with fireworks at the high school field.

Deadlines Changed

Because of the July 4th holiday, The Spectator's news and advertising deadlines will be changed for next week's edition only.

The editorial deadline will be noon Monday. This means that all news releases from outside sources should be in our hands no later that Saturday morning.

Display advertising deadline will also be noon on Monday. The deadline for classified advertising will be 5 p.m. on Monday.

All deadlines will return to normal for the issue of July 13.

Whitehall Readies For Largest Fourth Of July Celebration

Whitehall's Fourth of July celebration, to be held July 2, 3 and 4, promises to be the largest ever held in the city with everything from fireworks to amusement rides.

The center of activity for the event that promises something for everybody will be the City Park. A midway will be located there with amusement rides and consession stands.

A horse show and riding demonstration will be held Sunday along with an antique car show, a pageant on the history of the flag and a concert in the park.

One of the special events on Monday will be a battle of the bands with a trophy given to the top band of the area.

The Fourth of July Parade, which is said to be one of the largest ever seen in the city, will highlight Tuesday's activities. It will form at Town and Country and proceed east on Broad Street to Yearling Road. It will then go south on Yearling to Etna Road, east on Etna to Hamilton Road, south on Hamilton to Kae Avenue and then east on Kae to Rosemore Junior High School.

There will be free parking at the Great Eastern Shopping Center and a continuous shuttlebus service will be provided at no cost all three days.

The annual firemen's water battle competition will be held between the various fire companies in the area and an aerial rescue demonstration also will be shown.

An advance ticket sale for the amusement rides is now in progress and can be obtained by calling City Hall or any civic organization.

Floats will be judged at noon on Tuesday at Town and Country and decorated bicycles will be judged at 1 p.m. Prizes and trophies will be awarded later in the day.

Festivities will end Tuesday with fireworks beginning at 10 p.m.

SHAMPOOS ARE LEAVING THE BATHROOM

Shampooing is no longer a simple matter of putting soap or other detergent on your hair, raising it with water and rinsing the dirt and oil away. Now shampoos are expected to do much more. They do cleanse today as always, but they also help to condition and protect hair—particularly hair that has been color-treated. The lucky lady that has found the color that is exactly right for her doesn't want it to fade or change color because of ingredients that shampoos. That is why your shampoo is more than ever an important part of everywoman's beauty salon ritual. The selection of the right shampoo requires the professional training of your hairdresser. If you have been shampooing your own hair perhaps you should bring the bottle and come in to see us. We'll be glad to advise you as to whether or not it is the right one for you.

BEAUTY DEFINED

Some languages do better than English with their descriptive words. To discuss a face, hair, body, become grace, hair manners, beauty. These words spoken in the music of the language suggest a lively beauty filled with joyous activity. The very way they are spoken creates the music of the lasting quiet-heart. Vive in Francaise. In Spain we hear: mediterranean, exhilarating, exciting, charmante, romantic. These seem to suggest a totally different concept of a beautiful woman. In France we are enchanted with the wine genuine. In Spain words are used to express the noble carriage of a deeply quiet woman wearing over all a voluminous mantle of grace.

In Indonesia we observe the same strict national lines of popularity. Only in the United States and Canada do we find a degree of popularity for every type hairstyle. But here is where every type woman is to be found.

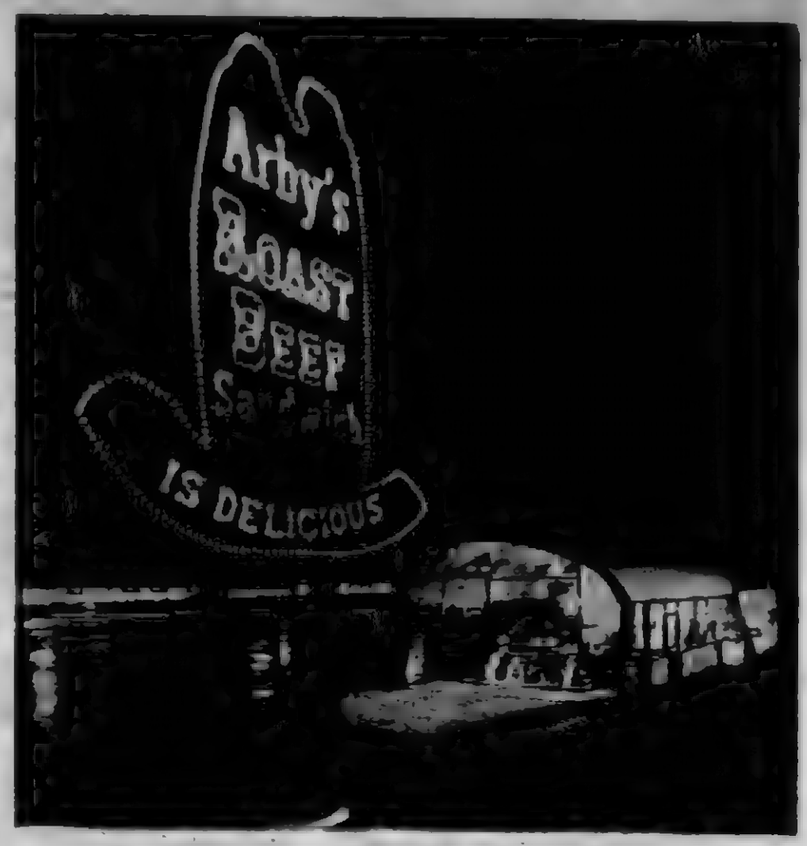
Reynoldsburg, Bexley To Host AFS Students



American Field Service Bus 68 will arrive at the Bexley Methodist Church on July 3 at 5:30 p.m. The 42 students aboard will be AFS members from 26 countries who have spent a year as members of American families and as students of local high schools in the Syracuse, New York, area.

The teenage visitors will spend three days in the Bexley and Reynoldsburg area and during their stay will participate in many teenage get-togethers, ride in the Fourth of July parade, and attend an international buffet to be held July 5 at Reynoldsburg High School. AFS'ers visiting Reynoldsburg will also participate in a talent show after the buffet supper.

The students of Bus 68, one of 76 buses, are en route to New York for a final meeting of the 3,107 AFS students from foreign countries prior to returning to their home countries. The end-of-the-year bus trip is designed to introduce students to communities and areas of the United States other than where they lived this past year.

An estimated 100,000 Americans will have the opportunity to meet the boys and girls from all over the world during their two-to-three day stops. An average of six stops is made by each bus.

The AFS committees handling all arrangements for the stop in the Bexley-Reynoldsburg area: Mrs. Edgar O'Neal general chairman, 1186 Carrousel-dr E., Reynoldsburg; Mrs. Robert Southard, Carroll, Ohio, Columbus Academy, Mrs. W. E. Hunt, 98 N. Drexel, Columbus School for Girls; Mrs. Tom Maston, 64 Bullitt Park Place, Bexley; Mrs. Edwin Wahlfeldt, Reynoldsburg, and Mrs. Donald Mallen, International Buffet, and Mrs. Don Hummer, Publicity, both of Reynoldsburg.

Shifting The Burden

Franklin County Commissioners Glenn L. Myers and Henry A. Koontz have taken a valid position in their opposition to Governor Rhodes' proposal to allow counties to levy local income utilities and automobile registration taxes.

Franklin County legislators would do well to line up with Commissioners Myers and Koontz and head off this proposal which is nothing other than an effort on Rhodes' part to escape the responsibilities of his office.

Rhodes has dumped the burden of increasing welfare payments onto the counties while he reserves for himself the more popular role of fund raiser for educational improvements.

Through his budget strategy, Rhodes contrived to pump existing funds into all areas except education, and then try to sell upcoming state tax increases as an "educational tax."

The counties can then take the onerous rap of increasing taxes for such unpopular programs as increased welfare.

As "governor of all the people," Rhodes has abandoned the responsibility of his office to political chicanery and any legislator or county commissioner who helps him play his game is just as guilty.

Now---New Taxes

One need not be a student of either government or history to recall who made famous the promissory phrase "No New Taxes!"

Governor Rhodes survived his first four year term and succeeded in winning a second one through a program of starving state services and creating a ballyhoo impression of austerity and efficiency in state government.

That the press of Ohio failed to keep the public informed as to Ohio's pending cash crisis is readily in evidence as the tax trial balloons go aloft.

The legislature is now ready to undertake what will probably be the single largest tax increase in the state's history with the cry of "No New Taxes" still echoing in its ears.

And it's not just the state taxes that are going up. Liquor prices will be hiked considerably July 3. Renewed efforts are under way by the administration to charge admission fees to state parks, State Fair price increases have been announced. License plates will be costlier and so will drivers' licenses. Cincinnati visitors will pay a local sales tax, in addition to the state sales tax, on hotel and motel rooms because Rhodes promised he would help build a stadium in that city.

When all the new taxes and fees get levied a lot of people are going to remember where they heard "No New Taxes!"

Stockpiling

The state announced in May that it will raise liquor prices July 3.

Since then there has been a sharp increase in state sales to tavern owners and individuals.

If your favorite bartender tells you that the increased prices he charges you immediately after July 3 are the result of the state price hike, you can remind him that he probably stockpiled at the lower prices and is pocketing the increase himself.

Something Smart

The Columbus Recreation Department has been unable to come up with someone willing to take the bike rental concession at Greenlawn Park Bike Trail.

So Recreation Director Mel Dodge is trying to work out an agreement with the police department to use unclaimed stolen bicycles and rent them at a modest fee—lower probably than would be possible under a private operator.

That smacks of something smart.

Very well, Mel, very well.

To The Pillory

By ROBERT BURDOCK
Editor and Publisher

BURDOCK

One of Ohio's more colorful legislators once observed on the floor of the Ohio Senate that the statute books were already cluttered up with too many laws.

At the risk of further clutter, maybe it's time for a law to protect the intelligence of the voters from the inane statements of their public officials. Revival of the pillory, if not the rack, is suggested.

A prime current offender is Willard P. Dudley, administrator of the Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation.

Dudley is quoted in the Ohio Republican News as saying recent riots in Ohio cities are "a direct result of shallow federal programs lacking in the concept of need to train people for specific jobs."

Dudley went on to say that intensified and long-range programs for training and retraining under the constant guidance of local school systems should be instituted rather than quick federal programs.

Dudley should be an authority on racial problems. He was recently cited by the federal government for allowing discrimination in the employment practices of his bureau.

Dudley's mendacious observations came right on the heels of those of his boss, Jim Rhodes, who blamed the rioting on "professional agitators, looters and hoodlums." Rhodes prescribed a regiment of national guardsmen to ease the symptoms but offered no diagnosis on the cause of the spreading disease.

One suspects the press agent on duty at the time wrote both statements.

To blame recent riots in the nation's big cities on the federal government is simply hiding one's head in the political sands. It's past time for state and city officials and the communities themselves to accept some of the responsibility for urban unrest instead of pointing the finger at Washington.

The federal government would not now be involved in these crash programs which Dudley deplores if the cities and states had done their jobs years ago.

To the pillory, Willard, for shame.

Thanks To You

To The Editor:

Wouldn't you be surprised if the postman delivered half a million notes to your desk today?

In a sense that is what I am doing when I address this letter to you, thanking you for your cooperation with United Appeal, both during the annual campaign, and on a year-round basis. I am choosing our mid-year "Thanks-to-You" Week, June 18-24, for this personal expression of appreciation.

Two out of three (that's you and me!) benefited directly from the services of 69 UA agencies last year. That's a total of more than 550,000 Columbus and Franklin County people, a remarkable record!

Again, thanks-to-you for your assistance in this vital community undertaking.

Slowpokes

To The Editor:

It's interesting to note that Columbus wants to increase the speed limit on the East Freeway out from Alum Creek Drive to 70 miles an hour, but why doesn't it do something about the other extreme—those drivers who insist on tying up the highway by going anywhere from 20-35 miles an hour.

I have seen numerous accidents on the freeway and nearly everyone of them has been caused by someone driving too slow and tying up traffic.

Columbus has a minimum speed ordinance. What with the new Freeway Patrol, don't you think something could be done about these slowpokes who are creating a dangerous traffic situation?

william s. white ★ Marshall Causes Anxiety ★

WHITE

All who value poise and objectivity in the Supreme Court—qualities already sadly and often absent from its decisions—must look with deep anxiety upon President Johnson's nomination of Thurgood Marshall to the high bench.

It is, of course, neither wise nor fair to impute as inevitabilities certain attitudes to Thurgood Marshall even before he has put on his black robes. Still, the probabilities of the future can only be rationally estimated by the past.

It is likely that Marshall's elevation will only aggravate an already profound imbalance by which an already disproportionate majority of liberal justices has for years been acting not as detached arbiters, but as lawmakers—not as interpreters of the Constitution, but as amenders of that Constitution to suit their own notions.

It is a stirring circumstance, to be sure, that Thurgood Marshall is the first Negro in history to reach the high court, but the point is not the color of Marshall's skin, but the cast of Marshall's mind, undoubtedly honest but also undeniably liberal, notably in civil rights.

Before Justice Tom Clark retired from the court to make room for this appointment, moderate and conservative and tradition-respecting opinion in this country was on its best days rarely represented by more than four justices out of nine. Clark himself was no conservative, as such. But he never automatically sided with those justices who have steadily been destroying legitimate states' rights and legitimate police powers to deal with both ordinary crime and racial disorders.

Now, there is grave reason to fear that the old 5-to-4 steamroller that has in effect made new law and judge-dictated amendments to the Constitution may rise to 6-to-3.

The basically tradition-minded justices—John Marshall Harlan, Porter Stewart and Byron White, with an occasional assist from the venerable Hugo Black—are likely now to be even more lonely and even more powerless to halt an often patently emotional spirit of unchecked reformism which is casting aside those standards of an even-handed justice, remote from the clamors of politics and the pressures of interest groups, which once distinguished the Supreme Court of the United States as the most lofty home of dispassionate justice in all the world.

No one argues, of course, that the court should be structured ideologically, with so many "liberals" confronting so many "conservatives" like some Congressional Committee divided between Democrats and Republicans. All the same, it is idle to pretend that the court has not long since plunged hip-deep into politics. This being the reality, there is every demand in simple fairness not to allow the "conservatives" to be totally overwhelmed.

Yes, Marshall has been nominated and Marshall will be confirmed by the Senate; thus, the outcome must depend upon him alone. He will have it in his power to drive civilized moderation and conservatism—not some mad "far right-wingism"—right out of the ultimate hall of justice. Or, by self restraint and sensitive regard for fair play, he can become a voice calmly insistent upon hearing both sides of every story.

GOLDWATER

Ambassador Arthur Goldberg's performance at the United Nations during the height of the Middle East crisis was lackluster at best, wishy-washy most of the time and downright inadequate at worst.

Time after time he watched the Soviet Union and its supporters use every technicality of U. N. procedure to help the Arab nations build up for their assault against Israel without mounting much more than politely diplomatic counterattacks against the Communist tactics.

Time after time he watched the Soviet delegation wave the bloody shirt of aggression without lodging much more than polite denials and without once flatly branding the Soviet Union as the power fully responsible for lighting the flames of war in the Middle East.

Time after time he watched the Soviet delegation use the forum of the Security Council as a cold war platform from which to launch attacks against the United States and Israel, and his replies were to proceed to another point. Even when the Soviet bloc's spokesmen compared the Israeli actions to Hitler's aggressions, our delegate could only reply by shifting the subject.

Throughout the debate the U.S. delegation permitted the United States and Israel to appear as totally on the defensive against a strong tide of world criticism.

Taking the offensive, the United States should have pounded away at the facts of Soviet complicity in the war. Our spokesman should have missed no opportunity to point out that the Soviet delegation's pious denunciations of aggression in the Middle East should be viewed against the actual record of Soviet aggression everywhere in the world.

There are those, of course, who will refer to Ambassador Goldberg's performance as statesmanlike rather than inadequate. Despite all of the politically expedient reasons for letting the Soviets get off without a rousing fight in the Security Council, in my opinion silence in such a clear-cut case may be called a diplomatic triumph by some, but will be remembered by even more as a failure of nerve, conscience and commitment.

Ambassador Goldberg's performance, must have been conditioned and molded by the policies of the administration, in which it is still standard operating procedure to either apologize for or overlook Soviet excesses in order that the Johnson-McNamara plans for ending the cold war by one-sided compromises may continue without interruption.

marquis childs ★ Gross Top Nit-Picker ★

CHILDS

WASHINGTON—In the nit-picking sweepstakes, Rep. H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, proved again the other day he is in a class by himself. As Congressional parlance has it, he was combing over the list of "specialists" sent by the State Department to various countries as examples of America's culture and intellect and came upon an item that sent him charging into action with his customary zeal. The State Department had spent $948 sending Chief Justice Earl Warren and his wife to four South American countries.

In fact, this was little more than the $16-per-day allowance for persons traveling for the government. With the dignity and at the same time the human warmth that is so much a part of his temperament, the Chief Justice talked with judges, legal groups and government officials in each country he visited. His press conferences were widely attended and he undertook to correct false impressions about problems of integration and the law in this country. Mrs. Warren talked to women's organizations about volunteer social work undertaken by American women. It was altogether the kind of success in furthering understanding and friendship that is the goal of the cultural affairs program.

If Gross has any rival, it is one with a great deal more power and authority — Rep. John J. Rooney of Brooklyn, N.Y., who uses not a fine-tooth comb, but a meat cleaver on the State Department. Rooney has been riding herd on the specialists' program.

Did a physicist sign a protest petition on Vietnam? Did a political scientist speak critically of Vietnam policy? The record of the hearings on the program shows Rooney belaboring Assistant Secretary Charles Frankel for permitting anyone with a dissenting view to be given a grant. Since intellectuals were overwhelmingly opposed to the war and to other aspects of the Johnson foreign policy this means a continuous wrangle.

"We have a country with many different opinions," Frankel said after Rooney had raised objections to certain individuals. "It is important that we present a variety of opinions if only to show that those who are going overseas, aren't being bought. I think we are all the more credible because, in picking people freely, 99 percent of our people do turn out to be very good spokesmen for the country. The one percent, in other words, adds to the credibility of the 99 percent."

Frankel is backing a proposed semi-government-semi-private council that would run the cultural affairs program after the pattern of the British council. This would take it out from under the surveillance of the nit-pickers and give it independence.

It would also end the opportunity for minor patronage that is one consequence of the Congressional game of cowboys and Indians. Secretary of State Dean Rusk's permanent injunction is: "Get along with Congress." This means appeasement of the Rooneys, a series of Munichs that tend to shackle the department.

Under-Secretary Nicholas Katzenbach was put in reportedly to thoroughly reorganize the lumbering elephantine bureaucracy that has grown up the past two decades, but a $500,000 request to start on the surgery was thrown out of the budget.

The disorganization, the lack of focus and direction, are all the more conspicuous in light of the dismal post-mortems on the Middle East war. And as of now there is no overhaul in sight.

Julie's 'Millie' Sparkles

Flappers, slapstick, music and dancing of the 1920 vintage is now available at Northland Cinema for reminiscing or to see what all the clamoring about those "roaring '20's" is all about. But better yet, you'll get a load of enjoyment via "Thoroughly Modern Millie."

Snipped curls, raised hemline, a strand of beads, a boy-like figure all add up to modern—and that's Millie—as modern as her imagination.

No one but Julie Andrews could have presented the thinking of a young girl during those early days of "coming out" of womanhood with vim, vigor and vitality. She's irresistible, she's bewitching as she cavorts through comedy routines, song and dance routines and best of all her flair for pantomime.

The plot is simple, only more of an advantage to viewer—this way every detailed touch of comedy slapstick cannot be overlooked. Young women seeking adventure seem to arrive via the same taxi at the same boarding house with eagerness to achieve a new way of life, typical of "small town girl going New York."

A squeaking laundry basket becomes a form of transportation for those "all-alone" girls to a new way of life—Oriental slavery. Cast as "Mrs. Meers" head of the boarding house Beatrice Lillie portrays a lovable spinster character as she wheels her laundry basket to Room 1210. Long will her smile and scene with the punch cups be remembered.

Carole Channing represents the flamboyant wealthy way of life, in turn seeking fun, the impossible through so many diversions that the audience is quickly put to the edge of the seat trying to figure out what she'll do next.

Miss Channing's wide-eyed excitement and frivolity make just one more delightful addition to this musical hit.

Mary Tyler Moore portrays the opposite of "Millie"—refined, sweet, innocent, soft and cuddly wrapped up in ribbons, bows and lace. For such a change in pace from television to movies Miss Moore accomplishes the transition quite wholeheartedly as she portrays a better than average slapstick version of the sweet and innocent.

James Fox as Millie's not-wanted boyfriend is a charmer. He'll no doubt capture all gallant models as he climbs buildings, masquerades and chases "Millie" who in the meantime has her goal set to marry her boss.

Costumes make for impressions . . . wonder if a style is on the way. What a pleasant way to spend an evening . . . "Thoroughly Modern Millie."

'Any Wednesday' A Treat

What do you serve guests after you've served champagne? You serve more . . . what else?

Playhouse On The Green uses this formula as it presents "Any Wednesday" which story-wise is a little deeper in plot than season opener, "Barefoot In The Park."

"Any Wednesday" has a cast of four, two males and two females. One couple married, one couple enjoying Wednesdays with tax deductions galore, two businessmen, a wife, a mistress, a couple falling in love, a couple getting a divorce add up to a delightfully askance view of "Wednesdays."

Miss Deirdre Owen's second season, second role is first-rate. There is no getting around it she—is the best "bit of luck" that POG has brought to the tent since Peter Harris. What beauty and grace as she delivers lines of comedy that from many actresses would go unnoticed.

Speaking of Mr. Harris, he presents his lines in character with such style and gesture the viewer immediately realizes that this is acting at its best.

The remainder of the cast, Jean Martinez and Bruce Blaine, justly present their characters, but seemed nervous during the opening minutes.

As a result, lines are tepid. Mr. Harris bolts to the rescue and from this came lightning in the pace of the show.

Mr. Blaine, with no criticism of his acting ability, was miscast for such a role as a dignified business head. He does not present the necessary physical appearance.

Miss Martinez wanders in delivery of lines at times but definitely charmed all as she presented a girl of 30 with sparkle in her eyes, pace in many scenes and a firm hold on the growing pains of "Ellen."

Ted Tiller, director, definitely is above criticism for the second show this season — his masterful touch with comedy is obvious. Laughter develops on practically every line and action is to his credit.

The set, which is a gaudy assemblance of color, is so befitting "Ellen's" character and the play that one should be early to grasp the set before the characters bounce on stage at 8:30 p.m.

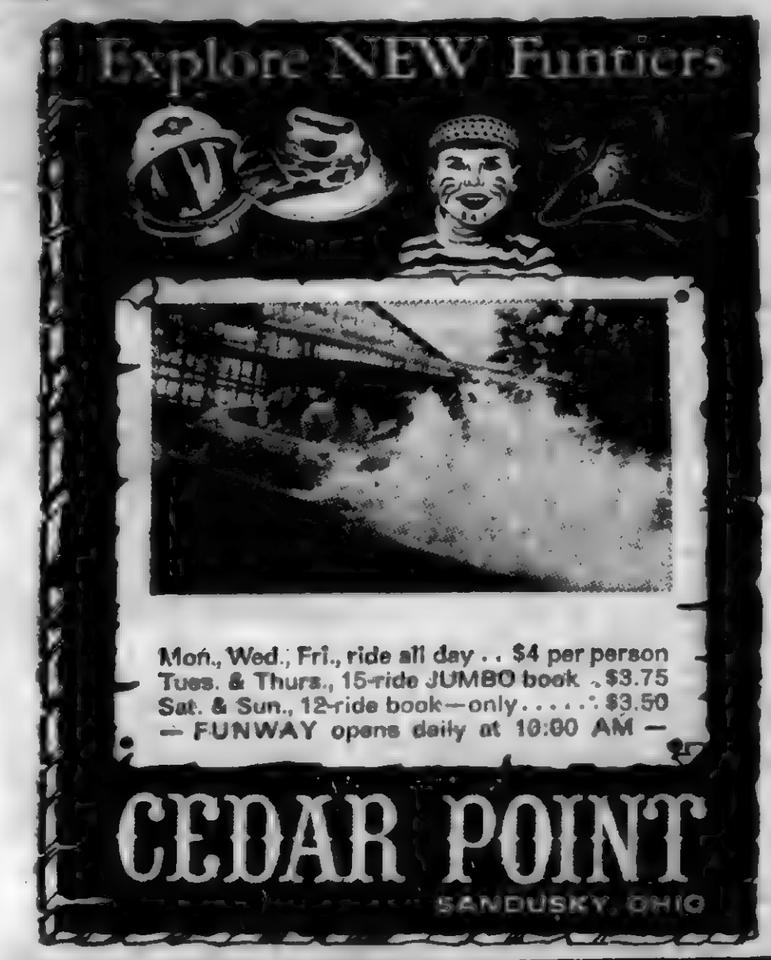
Otterbein's 'Fantasticks' A Beauty

By CLAUDIA ELKINS
Theater Editor

Deep in December, do you remember visions of womanhood and manhood as a 16-year-old child-like girl or a twentyish boy on the threshold of manhood . . . the first crush that seems for all the world like nothing anyone could possibly understand?



This glowingly warm picture comes very close to the heart as Otterbein Summer Theater presents season opener "Fantasticks." Officially, Tuesday evening "Fantasticks" opened in what was destined to be a bowling alley a little over a year ago. What a pleasing delight to the near capacity audience.

A boy and a girl in love, their fathers pretending dislike for each as they practice psychology, that you not say "No" to children, will long be remembered for the beautiful portrayals which presented as an end result compassion and the yearning to once again be youthfully gay.

Top honors go to Wayne Turney, the boy's father. It is terribly hard to choose from this point on as the remainder of the cast is so balanced in respect to acting plus singing. During the first act breathing problems with the difficult musical numbers develop, but are soon forgotten as acting and interpretations take over.

Gwendy Miles as the girl is girlish freshness from the overture to curtain call. Ron Nocks as the boy is superb, with golden hair and the professional ability slick as a mirror of reflection. Bob Stegmiller was simply a sight to behold, as he normally sits in the director's chair. He wisely practices what he preaches. He and Wayne Turney deservedly receive the longest spontaneous applause for their duet, song and dance routine, "Plant A Radish."

Secondly, the music will long be remembered, "deep in December." This rare beauty is showing through Saturday at Otterbein's Student Center. For directions phone 882-3601.

Whetstone, the defending North High School Summer League champion, is on the right path for a repeat with just two dates remaining.

The Braves of Paul Eckelberry have put six straight wins on the board following an opening night loss to Arlington, 8-7. And since that night, enemy batters have found Whetstone pitching puzzling.

THE STOUT Brave pitching brigade is headed by senior-to-be Bruce Powell and Dale Ross (junior) with some strong assistance from new 10th grader Dwight Reinstuttle.

Eckelberry labels Powell's ability to keep the ball low one of his best assets. "It is hard to do anything with a low ball," the veteran Whetstone tutor explained.

IN THE run production department, Paul listed Ric Clouse and catcher Jim Shields as team hitting leaders.

"We have been getting some help lately from Larry Davis and Terry Frisby," Paul added.

DAVIS IS a standout first-baseman for the State semi-finalists this past season while Frisby was an alternate outfielder.

The Braves currently own first place with a 6-1 record, followed by Watterson's 5-3 mark.

North League action this week:

TONIGHT: Arlington at North, Worthington at Watterson, and Grandview at DeSales.

WEDNESDAY: Watterson at Arlington, Grandview at North, and Whetstone at Worthington.

Highlight in the Eastside Summer League last week was Ron Quinn's no-hitter which fired Walnut Ridge over Reynoldsburg, 6-0. Quinn was in the perfect category for the league-leading Scotties until a last inning walk scotched the perfect game bid.

North Summer League standings (through June 26)

Team	W.	L.
Whetstone	6	1
Watterson	5	3
Arlington	4	2
North	5	4
Grandview	3	3
DeSales	1	5
Worthington	0	6

IN AMERICAN LEGION action: Worthington's Leasure Blackstone Post is the current leader with a 3-0 record, followed by Scioto Post 604's 3-2 log and always strong Camp Chase.

Scioto Post might be a year away from title aspirations but the spunky Ron Golden coached 604'ers are making a determined bid to upset the timetable.

A LITTLE inexperienced, Scioto has six hitters in the .300 plus club including Ron Counts' blitzing .579 mark on a 11 for 19 card.

Other top Scioto hitters are Larry McCabe, (.353), Mark Todd (.353), Denny Dotson (.350), Jim Moriarity (.316) and Barry Walton (.300).

DOTSON, an all-District selection from Mifflin and Counts, an Eastmoor vet lead the team in RBI's with seven apiece.

Handling Golden's pitching chores are Barry Walton (2-0), and John Wymer (1-0).

The overall 5-2 mark included wins over Grove City and Capital City and a pair from Cambridge's Legonnaires.

Team manager is Paul Wyman who coordinates this team with the younger Avery Pontiac crew.

MAGA-Sponsored Junior Golf Clinic Opens Tomorrow

The Mid-America Golf Association, in conjunction with the golf professionals of the Franklin County area, will sponsor a Junior Golf Clinic each Friday (2 till 3:30 p.m.) for eight weeks beginning tomorrow.

The clinic will be open to all youngsters — ages 10 to 14 and will be conducted at Raymond Memorial Golf Course, 3860 Trabue-rd.

THE INSTRUCTORS for the first three weeks will be: June 30 — Jim Lucius; July 7 — Larry Cassady; July 14 — Bob Bisciotti. Remaning instructors will be announced at a later date.

Any junior golfer who plans to attend should bring a golf club (if he has one). The MAGA will attempt to secure a club for use by those who cannot provide their own.

A committee, headed by Bob Morton, will provide free refreshments at each clinic.

CO-CHAIRMEN of the clinic are Howard "Hopalong" Cassady and Dr. John Jacobs.

The clinic is one of several events undertaken by MAGA this year. Earlier this month, the Association sponsored the $1000 Pro-Am event at Groveport C. C. and a high school tourney, won by Larry Cassady and Tim Reardon respectively.

MAGA's final summer event will be the Lady Carling Tourney for pro women golfers, Aug. 3-6 at Walnut Hills C. C.

WATCH THE KIDS

Now that the school vacation season is here, says the Columbus Automobile Club - AAA drivers should be alert for all-day activities near playgrounds and parks which normally were quiet during school hours. Drivers always should prepare themselves for the unpredictable actions of children, especially during the summer months.

The best way to observe a safe and sane Fourth is to be a safe and sane driver. So ring your bells for freedom, and ring yourself with a seat belt for safety, on this 191st anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

Mayor Asks Candidates To Volunteer Services

Whitehall Mayor Paul J. Haytcher has urged all candidates for the coming election to dispense with political booths at the Fourth of July celebration this year and instead volunteer their services to other organizations.

In a letter sent to all the candidates, Haytcher said that he felt that it would do more good for the parties, the candidates and the city to forego the booths and set up booths for organizations that are short-handed, assisting at the concessions and on committees responsible for the programs and act as guides instead.

"By accepting such an assignment, we would clearly demonstrate to the people of Whitehall that our best advertisement for public service is by the performance of public service," Haytcher said.

He also explained that there is a legal problem involved with the distribution of political material in city parks. The section of the Code of the City of Whitehall that pertains to this reads:

"No person shall distribute any circulars, or cards, or any other written or printed material, or post any notice, bill, poster, sign, wire, rod or card to any tree, shrub, fence, or any structure of any kind in any park or parkway."

Haytcher added that this would not preclude the candidates from letting the people know that they are running for office nor from participating in the parade.

The day after July 4th is July 5th. Will you be around to enjoy it? Wearing a seat belt on that July 4th pleasure drive will help assure your presence the day after.

TELL ME, SERGEANT

TELL ME SERGEANT: I have two questions: My husband is in Vietnam. Is it true he may have a choice of Army bases to be stationed at after he comes home? He would have six months left in service. Also, how long a furlough would he receive after his duty in Vietnam? Before he left he received three weeks, and before that, two weeks after basic training.

MRS. A. B., COLUMBUS

DEAR MRS. A. B.: Warrant Officer Evans in the Chief of Military Personnel Office at Ft. Hayes said that men returning from undesirable tours may name the Army area in which they wish to serve. Each area is composed of several posts and if there is a vacancy in his rank and military operational specialty, he will be assigned in the area of his choice. As to the amount of leave he has coming, he is entitled to 24 days on his return. In a two year enlistment, a man is entitled to 60 days leave. Your husband has used approximately 36 of those days and has 24 remaining. Good luck to both of you and thank you for your letter.

WEAR SEAT BELTS

Children should never be allowed to stand in the front of the car with their head close to the windshield. A sudden, unexpected stop could throw them into the windshield, killing them, or defacing them for life. Be sure they are seated, and provide them with a seat belt, suggests the Columbus Auto Club-AAA.

Mayor Asks City To Limit Water

As a result of recent local weather forcasts calling for temperatures in the mid-90's Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner has issued an appeal to Columbus residents to use water sparingly.

The mayor pointed out that there is no concern over water supply, but that a continued increase in total use would soon tax the city's water plant pumping capacity.

"If residents will take care not to use water wastefully during the hot, humid days ahead, we will be able to meet all demands without any restrictions, such as sprinkling bans" the mayor said.

Another problem brought on by the extended hot spell, the mayor reported, involved main line sewer odors that have been reported in some sections of the city.

Primary cause of such odors, the mayor indicated, is the evaporation of water that serves as a seal. City-wide flushing of these basins would unnecessarily tax water pumping facilities, but areas where the odor is particularly noticeable will be serviced if residents call the city's sewer maintenance yard, 443-5500.

Police To Establish Centers To Solve District Problems

Chief of Police Robert H. Baus announced that the police department will establish Neighborhood Information Centers in various parts of the city whenever residents of the area desire them.

The centers are being established to help solve police-community problems by bringing them out in the open, Baus said. We believe that the better acquainted our officers become with the people, the greater the opportunities are for us to provide better law enforcement.

The first of the centers opened June 21 at 771½ E. Long-st, in the office of the East Side Service Center of the Columbus Metropolitan Area Community Action Organization.

Any neighborhood organization that would like to have a police speaker attend a meeting or have the Police Neighborhood Information Center visit the area should contact the Police Public Information Bureau, 67 N. Front-st, 221-1166, extension 261 or 264.

Citizens Urged To Ring Bells To Celebrate Fourth Of July

State Treasurer John D. Herbert has urged all Ohioans to celebrate the Fourth of July by ringing bells at 2 p.m. the approximate time the Declaration of Independence was signed by the Continental Congress 191 years ago.

Herbert, appointed Ohio chairman of the "Bells for Freedom, Belts for Safety" campaign by Gov. James A. Rhodes, is coordinating the program with Warren G. Nelson, director of the Department of Highway Safety, and P. E. Masheter, highway director.

Herbert also urged Ohioans to display the flag July 4.

Nelson said the number of cars patrolling the highways will be increased in an effort to curtail traffic deaths and injuries. He also urged drivers and passengers to use seat belts.

Masheter will use highway department personnel in radio-equipped vehicles to patrol the interstate highway system to assist stranded motorists so the Highway Patrol can work full time at traffic enforcement.

Daniel Named Head Of County Schools

Fred M. Daniel, executive head of Franklin County's Scioto-Darby School District since 1956, will become Superintendent of Franklin County Schools on Aug. 1.

Daniel succeeds Thomas J. Quick in the $16,500 a year post. Quick announced his resignation earlier this month to accept a post with the State Department of Education. Daniel was signed to a three-year contract.

Daniel, 52, is a native of Belmont County and a gradate of New Concord public schools. He received his bachelor's degree from Muskingum College in 1936 and his master's from Kent State in 1950.

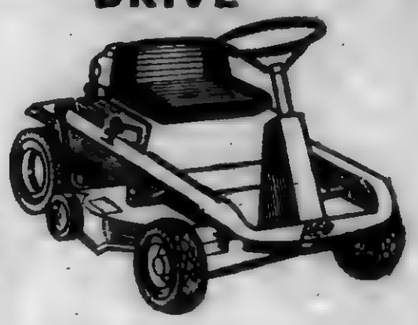
His teaching career began in 1936 in Hopedale, Ohio. He taught in the McComb and Middlefield, Ohio, school districts and worked for the War Department for a year at the Ravenna Arsenal before joining the Navy for a 30-month hitch that included tours in both ocean theaters.

He returned to teaching in 1946 in Chardon, becoming head of a local system in Lorain County the same year. He served the Eaton Township School as executive head until 1953 when it was consolidated, then served as administrative head of the Midview Consolidated School System and president of the Lorain County Teachers' Association until joining Scioto-Darby in 1956.

Since he joined the district in Hilliard, it has grown from 1,500 students to an anticipated enrollment of 4,485 this September. Staff has increased from 50 in 1956 to 200 last year.

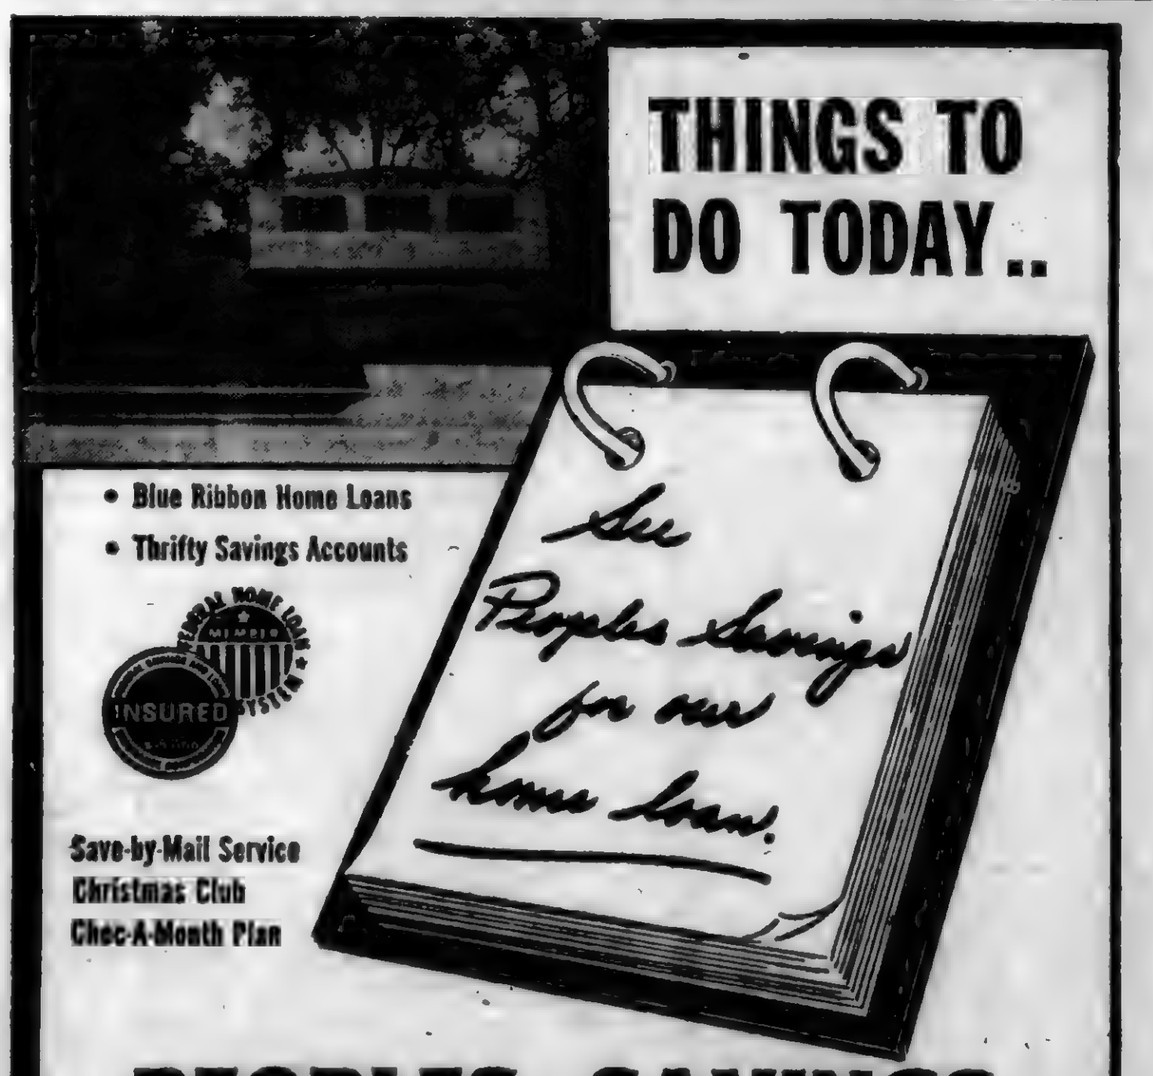
Daniel is a member of Hilliard Methodist Church and Hilliard Kiwanis, as well as Concord Lodge 688, F and AM and all area professional organizations.

He is a member of the State Planning Committee for Health Education representing the Ohio Association of School Administrators and was district chairman of the recent Seal of Ohio Girl Scout Council sustaining membership drive last month.



Daniel leaves the Scioto-Darby district in a continued state of growth. Seven buildings are now open and bids will soon be opened on a major high school expansion, an auditorium-cafeteria complex, a second junor high school and a sixth elementary building.

Daniel lists "early morning golf" as his avocation, "not as a skill but a pleasant way of getting a great deal of exercise."



He married the former Janie McCormac of New Concord in 1940 and is the father of three children. Frederick (Toby) is a teacher in the Columbus Public Schools, Robert is an auditor with the Borden Company and Deborah is a sixth-grade teacher at Hilliard Elementary School.

Freedom isn't a "sometime" thing—and seat belts shouldn't be either. Buckle up each time you get behind the wheel, and make sure the rest of the family has seat belts, too.

She received a $250 art scholarship from the Ohio Federation, one of three awarded in the state, and a Recognition Certificate from the Hallmark Company as its top entry.

Her entry, a copper etching with a turquoise patina, was on exhibit with other state winners at the General Federation of Women's Clubs National Convention at the San Francisco Hilton Hotel from June 4 through June 9.

Miss Woodburn is the daughter of Mrs. Ralph D. Woodburn, 1457 Barnett-rd, and has been accepted for fall semester at the Columbus College of Art and Design.

Bexley Youth Wins Insignia Contest

By JACK WITTENMEIER
Spectator Sports Editor

Dave Lambert, a 13-year-old Bexley Junior High student who "never won a contest in his life," has ended the Columbus Checkers' search for a new insignia for their 1967-68 uniforms.

Dave, son of Dr. and Mrs. Harold Lambert of 1001 Vernon-rd in Bexley, submitted the design selected best by a judges' panel from over 400 bers of the "Hockey Hounds" entries last Saturday.

JUDGES consisted of mem-(the Checkers special promotional unit), Jimmy Crum, WLW-C TV Sports Director and Jack Wittenmeier, Spectator Sports Editor.

The Spectator Newspapers and WLW-C TV co-sponsored the insignia search for the Checkers.

The Checkers new insignia consists of a crest, divided into four parts. The four quadrants include (1) a checkerboard (to symbolize the local IHL entry), (2) a stripe (to symbolize diplomacy), (3) a lion (to symbolize strength) and (4) a ship and cross (to symbolize the city of Columbus and honor).

CROSSED hockey sticks will rest atop the shield, the word "Columbus" will run along the top of the crest and the word "Checkers" will appear inside a scroll below the shield.

Colors for the new official insignia will be red, gold and black on a white background.

Dave admitted the bulk of his time working on the design came searching for the most appropriate symbols to fit into his crest.

"AFTER THAT, it took me about a half-hour to put the design on paper," the teenager said.

For his winning entry, Dave will receive a red blazer jacket (exactly like the one worn by the "Hockey Hounds") with his design on the breast pocket.

Dave also will receive two free season passes for all Checker home games next season. All those submitting entries for the contest will be guests of the Checkers for a home game next season.

THE SEARCH for a new Checker insignia was made necessary after a controversy was stirred up about the originial insignia and its resemblance to that used by the Columbus Police Dept.

The panel of judges admittedly found a big job on their hands selecting the winning entry. Checker officials are hopeful that they can display the entries at the Coliseum next season.

Other entries drawing top attention from the judges included the following: Wally R. Hoyer, 24 E. Kelso-rd (junior at North High who submitted two excellent designs), Becky Turbett, 119 N. Powell-av (sophomore at West High), Jeff Lucius, 1665 Shady Lane-rd (eighth grader at St. Phillips), Dennis Perry, 2231 McGuffey-rd (attends Linmoor Junior High), Michael MacKay, 50 S. Ardmore-rd (sophomore at Bexley High), Donald Diamond, 1434 Union (eighth grader at Starling Junior High), Charles Thorpe, 718 N. State-st, Marion, O. and Jeff Rohe, 52 Brevoort-rd.

THANKS FOR A BIG 'ASSIST'

Walnut Ridge pitcher Ron Quinn (right) has a ready handshake for shortstop Roger McElroy after the Scottie infielder saved Quinn's no-hitter vs. Reynoldsburg in East Summer League battle last weekend. Quinn, who will be a junior at W-R next fall, walked only one (with one out in last inning) and fanned seven in 6-0 win over Raiders. Ralph Robinson (center) provided the biggest offensive blow — a two-RBI triple. McElroy's "assist" came in the last frame with two outs, throwing runner out at first by one step after fielding ball which bounced off third baseman's glove. Win kept W-R atop East section at 5-0-1. Glass Quits West Track Post; Bill Huckaba Hired

Rufus Glass, head track coach at West High School for the past 25 years, has resigned his tutoring duties at the Powell-av school, The Spectator learned last week.

Glass' replacement will be Bill Huckaba, a former OSU distance standout who taught at Glenwood School this past school year.

HUCKABA, a native of Marion, O., who had assisted Glass on the Cowboy oval this past season, will also take over head cross country coaching duties.

West notched a pair of City League track championships under Glass' guidance — in 1946 and 1957 — besides garnering numerous cross country titles.

Glass tutored four state champions while at West—Austin Hutt (cross-country), Don Tidwell (hurdles), Dick Furry (high jump) and (this past spring) Chuck Starkey.

STARKEY, reportedly headed for Michigan State this fall, was state cross-country champion for three straight years and captured the state two-mile title last month.

Glass, who will remain at West as a biology teacher, actively coached for 38 years, also serving as head basketball and assistant football and basketball mentor during his quarter century tour of duty at the Powell-av school.

By JOYCE LOUGHMAN

Like religion, we cannot legislate safety . . . whether it is in the home, on the highway or on the water. Safety is an inherent knowledge of right and wrong, and the use of good common sense.

Each person behind the wheel of a car has, at one time or another, found himself in a hurry . . . in enough of a hurry that when a stop sign appears the "normal" reaction is to either simply slow down, make certain there are no petrolmen around or any oncoming traffic and then pull on through—but to come to a full stop?

POWER SQUADRON PRESENTS SIGN

Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner, center, receives the safe boat gassing rules sign presented by the Columbus Power Squadron for the city's Scioto River dock area. Others are, from left, George Tokar, head of the Park Police; Paul Sarossy of the Ohio Division of Watercraft; Clarence Houck, commander of the Columbus Power Squadron and Waldo Walker, squadron vice-commander. Similar signs are being presented to docking areas throughout Central Ohio.

After we have accomplished this little bit of derring-do we have pangs of conscience and for the next mile we keep looking in the rearview mirror to make certain that we were not seen. But to get by with such foolishness certainly does not make us any less guilty of breaking a law.

Boating laws say that we must have a life preserver that has been Coast Guard approved for each person aboard. Just because we are using a rowboat doesn't mean that a life is any less important or that an accident cannot happen.

The pilot of a boat with five passengers on board and only four life jackets is no less guilty of breaking a law than the pilot who doesn't think it important enough to carry even one.

The hue and cry is on that boating is for pleasure—recreation, and you can't put restrictions on "fun." Fine, but when they are standing beside your grave or that of one of your family where is the "fun?"

Reynoldsburg Church League Standings

An extra-inning error with two outs and some late hitting supplied St. Pius Two and Methodist One with the ingredients to stay deadlocked atop the Thursday Section of the Reynoldsburg Church League last week.

St. Pius pushed across an unearned tally in the ninth frame to decision Presbyterian, 9-8, while Methodist outslugged Brice-Asbury, 18-7, with no score and only one hit apiece recorded after four innings of the latter game.

In the other Thursday loop game, Eastminister Church of Christ slipped past Baptist, 9-8.

Gahanna Invitational Kicks Off Summer Swim Sked Saturday

The first major swimming meet of the season will be held Saturday as the Gahanna Sea Lions host their second annual Invitational Swim Meet.

The Buckeye Blue Dolphins from Lincoln Village, last year's champion with 780 points, and Whitehall's Swimland Club (runnersup with 500 points) head the field of 23 entries — almost doubling last summer's 12-team lineup.

OTHER competitors besides the host Sea Lions will include: Berwick Beach, Eastmoor-South, Bexley's Excelsior Club, Westerville's Glengary and Jaycee teams, Groveport-Madison, Hilltop Swim Club, Linden Beach, Mt. Air Swim Club, Sequoia Swim Club, Swim and Racket Club, Olympic Swim Club, Grove City's Twin Towers Club, Upper Arlington Swim Club, Worthington Swim Club, Newark Y Granville's Spring Valley County Club and entries from Circleville, Lancaster and Mt. Vernon.

The 80-event Invitational will begin at 9 a.m. and continue through the day, concluding around 5 p.m.

The sponsoring Sea Lion Boosters, who will serve food, coffee and cold drinks for a small charge, estimate over 400 youngsters will compete in the Invitational.

THERE WILL be bleachers for spectators. There will be no admission charge and free parking is available.

'Mac' Goddard will be the meet referee, Dick Micacchion and Bob Edmunds meet managers and Dick Gibbons will be in charge of arrangements.

The pool is located several blocks south of U.S. Route 62, west of Big Walnut Creek in Gahanna.

PIN NEWS

Keglers' Korner

By NORMA KIRKENDALL

Everything in this country continues to grow—people, industries, schools—and available land has become more in demand and more expensive.

This fact alone means much to the future of bowling because a single bowling lane can accommodate more players per square foot than any other participant sport.

Eg: football field, 56,000 sq. ft. for 22 players; tennis court requires 2,800 sq. ft. for two or four players! baseball field, 90,000 sq. ft. for 18 players; a basketball court, 4,500 sq. ft. for 10 players, and a golf course nearly 10,000,000 sq. ft. for about 48 players.

But a single bowling lane requires only 280 sq. ft. for five players. A 20 lane center needs only 5,600 sq. ft. for 100 players. And what's more, it's available for play at any hour or any season—and for any age.

Midland Mutual's "The Builder" for June carries an interesting page of their company's teams with a "border" of femine body English.

Sometimes it's hard to distinguish between a woman's bowling team and a ballet class. At least there's real grace in each—including Grace Greenlee—a whiz at scorekeeping.

THE NATIONAL Bowling Council again is stressing a "Bring a Friend" campaign. You couldn't do your friends a greater favor than to introduce them to the fun of league bowling.

Sanctioning under ABC and WIBC assures leagues of uniformity of rules, fine awards for special achievements and many additional services.

A. K. Round Ends With 3-Way Tie

Balance was the keynote as Round One ended with a three-way deadlock for first place in the Jewish Center's A.K. Softball circuit.

Acme Brake nabbed a share of first place as pitcher Leon Mark checked previous loop leader Friedman, Cummins and Stern, 8-3.

BACKING LEON with sound defense and good hitting were Jules Vogel, Preston Gurwin, Dr. Sandy Lester and Stuart Bloom.

Cinch "cinched" its share of first place with a turnabout 17-0 verdict over Key Olds (Cinch was blanked last week).

Backing up the pitching of Ike Cohen were Paul Sharfin, Gene Clayman, Ray Hoch, Norm Krause and Kenny Grinsfelder — each with three hits.

SOLOMON Insurance spoiled Martin's Market hopes of gaining a share of the round title with a 7-4 upset win.

College Corner

YESHIVA COLLEGE

David V. Seff, son of Dr. and Mrs. Irving Seff, 312 Ardmore-rd, has been selected to be included in "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges."

A senior at Yeshiva College, an undergraduate school of liberal arts and sciences for men of Yeshiva University, he is among 32 University undergraduates, who because of their high rating in both college and religious classes, were chosen to be included in the national publication.

FISHIN' FOR PRIZES

Getting the fish pond ready for the 86th annual St. Vincent's Orphans' Picnic are from left, Sister M. Celia, O.S.F., Todd, Kenny, Sister M. Helena, O.S.F., Megan and Christy. The picnic will be held July 4 at the orphanage grounds, East Main Street at Kelton Avenue, from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. There will be entertainment, refreshments and prizes.
